To Your Good Health

Woman Bothered By Constipation

By C. C. THOMPSON, MD

Dear Dr. Thompson: For almost four months now I have suffered from constipation. I have changed my habits several times, and at one point I lived on all-bran and rhubarb without any natural movements.

My doctor seems unconcerned and states that I have a good bowel habit. I have taken the laxative-forming tablets for a month without any improvement. Unless I take a laxative, sometimes for two days, I don't have a movement.

I have been sitting at a regular time each evening. No luck. What do you think might be wrong? What am I doing wrong? I am 35 years old and otherwise in perfect health. — Mrs. S. S.

I think you might have a rather complicated problem with series of problems—one building on the other. In the first place, food does not always cause constipation. But if you have at one time on a low-roughage diet because of hemorrhoids, that could easily have changed your bowel-movement timing sufficiently to give you the impression of being constipated. Any sudden change of diet can do this. And often it is the beginning of a bowel fixation.

Or if, for one reason or another, you have developed constipation, your apparent idea that a movement a day is essential for a healthy person (we don't) could have led to your straining at stool. This, in turn, could contribute to spasm of the anorectal problem.

I suggest these possibilities merely to get you thinking along the right lines.

If your hemorrhoidal problem is sever, then your strenuous efforts to rid yourself of it by the imagined constipation problem is only making matters things worse. So why not ask your doctor if he feels your hemorrhoids are serious enough to require treatment as radical as surgical removal?

If you don't do something to correct one or the other of your problems, you may be in for more-serious things, such as diverticulosis or diverticulitis of the gestive tract.

Worry, hemorrhoids and constipation can be a vicious circle, and you should break it quickly. I suggest you relax and at least allow nature to take its course once per day. If you do, it would be a good beginning toward getting your problems solved.

Meanwhile, you might try a glycerin suppository to initiate action.

Note to Miss D.P.—The set-change surgery you refer to is very expensive, I understand. It is being attempted with more frequency these days, but it is one you should not plan on if you are going unless you are emotionally stable. In fact, before you are adjudged a candidate, you would have to be examined by a glad specialist, a gynecologist, a urologist, as well as a psychologist or psychiatrist.

Dear Dr. Thompson: Which side of the heart is it best for a person to sleep on, right or left? I'm a 77-year-old man, and I would also like to know what would be a normal pulse for me?—N. L. B.

Right, left, back or front, it makes no difference as long as they are comfortable. It's estimated that the average person shifts his sleeping position at least one time in a night of sleep.

The normal pulse rate for a man your age ranges from 60 to 80.

Dear Dr. Thompson: Is there anything a person can do to gain weight in the face?—T. Y.

Not unless the person was willing to gain weight in other areas, which is wasteful, aware of it.

Dear Dr. Thompson: My doctor in New Jersey gave me Librium for menopause. Now I live in another state where they are not up to date on things and they don't want to believe in giving any for relief. Why.

I haven't had a good night's rest for so long because of hot flashes and frequent headaches. — Mrs. R. E. S.

My good colleagues in the second state would be surprised to learn that they are not "up to date on things." I have attended five medical meetings there, and I can assure you that they are quite up to date.

They know why your particular doctor does not want to prescribe hormone shots. He may fear that you will get into menopause. And he would not be the first gynecologist to decide that his patient is better off having the hormone supplement.

There may be good reasons in your case for such decisions. Finding out about them would be simple. Just ask him.

Prosecutes Himself

ALLIANCE, Neb. (AP) — Prosecuting is the main job of Paul Empson, county attorney, but what he was doing — pleading — prosecuting himself. Police ticketed Empson for speeding. Empson marched off to county court where he formally filed and signed the charges against himself. Empson then appeared in court and pleaded guilty to travelling 40 miles an hour in a 30-m.p.h. zone. Judge Paul Fair accepted the plea and fined Empson $10.

Do As French Do

NEW YORK (AP) — "When in New York, do as the French do." That's the word from Michael J. Lazar, city transportation administrator. Foreign diplomats and their staffs are notorious for not paying parking tickets but the parking violations bureau received a check for $280 from the French consulate. Lazar said France was "the first country in months to pay its parking tickets. There were 41,718 such tickets outstanding. A spokesman for the French consulate said the seven parking tickets it paid were all received by one driver who has been punished "ten seconds."

Some insurance plays aren't guaranteed to work. They are just there to ensure against some bad break.

South looks over dummy and declarer and sees the club ace, ruff a club, lead your last trump and make three. He knows that the man with four hearts also held five cards in one of the diamonds.

A slightly better play is to take out some heart-spade insurance. You start by playing two rounds of trumps. Then cash your king of hearts, lead a heart to dummy's ace and a third heart back toward your hand.

If both opponents follow, you can draw the last trump and claim your slam. This time East can ruff, but if he does you still wrap your slam up. He will have used his last trump. Later on you will discard a diamond from dummy on your queen of hearts and avoid a diamond loser.

Of course, if East doesn't ruff you get to ruff your fourth heart and make your slam that way.

Davis Names Judy LaMarsh To Probe Violent Films, TV

TORONTO (CP) — Premier William Davis Monday named former federal cabinet minister Judy LaMarsh to head an Ontario royal commission into the exploitation of violence in the communications industry.

Public hearings will be held in various locations in the province beginning in September.

"We believe there is the danger to the general society that the continuing and increasing exposure to young or impressionable minds of senseless and extreme violence may have a relationship to the manifestation of violence in the community," Mr. Davis told the legislature.

He said other members of the commission would be announced after consultation with the chairman.

Miss LaMarsh, 50, was once Canada's secretary of state, and in that post reported to Parliament on the CBC.

Recently, she has lived in Toronto, working as a law professor at Osgoode Hall and as a broadcaster.

Mr. Davis promised that later in this legislature session, Attorney-General John Clement would propose "certain measures" with respect to violence in the communications industry, particularly television and movies.

The premier said he is not impressed by the argument that the casual portrayal of violence does not or could not affect human behavior.

Obviously, television is deemed to influence human behavior, the premier said, and television advertising for a wide range of products is subject to regulation.

While this has been done, it seems little is being done to diminish or restrict the portrayal of violence, of casual brutality and killing, which logic suggests would also have some influence on the minds of impressionable viewers."

Mr. Davis said that one report indicated the average child may be exposed to as many as 18,000 television killings by the time the child reaches adolescence.

"It is difficult for me to believe that this would not encourage anti-social behavior, since the very fact that it is accepted by the society gives it sanction," said Mr. Davis.

The commission will have a broad scope and power to hold public hearings, conduct research and seek the participation of all who have an interest in this subject, the premier said.

It will be asked to submit a final report within 18 months.

NDP Leader Stephen Lewis said the announcement was "an election stunt."

"It isn't even a very credible stunt either," he added.

Liberal members of the legislature also were critical of the announcement, calling it "an election ploy."

Miss LaMarsh said she will assemble a commission staff to start work in May. She was offered the job in March, she said.

Miss LaMarsh, who declined a request to run as a Liberal candidate in the next provincial election, said she did not think the government appointment involved partisan politics on the premier's part.

"Perhaps he didn't want to tie up any of his Tory candidates in an election year," she said.

Breithaupt Asserts Budget Just Adds Fuel to Inflation

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government is "fuelling inflation, not fighting it" through its recent budget, Liberal finance critic James Breithaupt said Monday.

Launching the Liberal attack in the legislature on last Monday's budget, the finance critic said the province plans to increase spending by more than $1.5 billion this year despite its own acknowledgement that excessive government spending is a "root cause" of current inflation.

The Liberal critic said the budget provides for an admitted deficit of $1.7 billion.

"The treasurer has chosen to exercise his public trust by adding some $200 to the debt borne by every man, woman and child in Ontario," he said.

But he predicted the Davis government would pay at the polls "for this extravagance" before the year is out and a Liberal government would be chosen "to re-establish a sound financial program in Ontario."

Mr. Breithaupt said the April 7 budget was clearly an election budget with measures "designed to win—or perhaps to buy—votes rather than strengthen Ontario's economy."

Earlier, he told a news conference he believed Premier William Davis might call an election as early as next Monday

Economy Faces Test for 2 Years

OTTAWA (CP) — The next 12 to 24 months are a critical period for the economy, because during that time production costs must be brought under control, Finance Minister John Turner told the Commons finance committee Monday night.

If these costs can be neutralized—and supplemented by the proposed three-to four-year restraint program on wages, prices and rents—then real economic growth could resume. The prospect is for zero economic growth in 1975.

Last week, Mr. Turner told the federal-provincial first ministers meeting profits per unit of output fell 6.7 per cent in the final quarter last year. But unit labor costs jumped 17.3 per cent.

However, responding to a question fr Gordon Towers (PC—Red Deer)on Monday, he refused to predict a rate of inflation for 1975.

Within the next six weeks, if targets can be agreed upon for a restraint formula for business and labor for moderating inflation, the government's answer will become public, Mr. Turner said.

Mackasey to Continue Hiring Postal Help

OTTAWA (CP) — Postmaster-General Bryce Mackasey said Monday the post office will continue hiring casual labor to clean up a backlog of mail in Montreal despite protests from the Canadian Union of Postal Workers.

The latest dispute in the post office erupted during the weekend as postal officials brought in 150 casuals Saturday to help clear the backlog of 18 million pieces of mail.

The union, which opposes the use of casual labor, prevented the casual employees from working and more than 300 regular workers were suspended for one day Saturday with another 11 "suspended indefinitely." Another 320 were suspended Monday, Mr. Mackasey said.

Union spokesmen say post office officials are hoping to incite an illegal strike by the employees in an effort to defuse militancy among members later this year in bargaining.

The dispute arises as another post office union, the Letter Carriers' Union, reaches a legal strike deadline. The 16,000 letter carriers could have walked out Monday but they still are considering a conciliation report.

Toronto Jail Called Insult to Humanity

TORONTO (CP) — An Ontario Supreme Court grand jury has found the Toronto jail to be "an insult to humanity."

Jurors who toured the building said if the jail, formerly Don Jail, must be used the province "has a moral and humane obligation to renovate this archaic building."

The jury, reporting to Mr. Justice Thomas Callen, also said Monday it was appalled to find that anyone with a long history of mental illness can be released into society from a maximum security hospital with no training a skill, little formal education and with no further supervision, counselling or guidance.

Jurors recommended in future anyone released as "declassified" be required to attend a review board, composed of doctors and educators, empowered to require the patient to take training so he or she can function in society.

Ottawa's Teachers In Accord

OTTAWA (CP) — The Ottawa board of education's 1,800 striking high school teachers have reached agreement in principle on the board's contract proposals, a spokesman for the teachers said Monday.

The teachers agreed on "about 38 items," the spokesman said, but did not elaborate.

The proposals now are being worded in contract form and will be placed in an information package to be distributed to the teachers at a mass meeting today or Wednesday.

A ratification vote is expected to take place about 36 hours later, the spokesman said.

The strike, in its 29th working day, has kept 38,000 students out of classrooms at 36 city high schools.

Wants Supply Cut

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP) — Federal Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan urged beef producers Monday to reduce beef slaughter to prevent a dive in prices.

Ceiling Proposed

OTTAWA (CP) — Government House Leader Mitchell Sharp said Monday parliamentary salaries should not go up more than seven per cent a year following the immediate 23 1-3-per-cent pay increase proposed by the government.

New Powers Urged For Auditor-general

OTTAWA (CP) — The auditor-general needs broad new powers to expose inefficiency, waste and bungling in federal government spending, an independent, three-member commission said Monday.

The committee, appointed 18 months ago by Auditor-General J. J. Macdonell, said in a 163-page report that taxpayers are entitled to "value for money" and that the auditor-general is entitled to ensure they get it.

Committee chairman J. H. M. Wilson of Toronto told a news conference that the group's 47 recommendations go well beyond the controversial watchdog practices used by Maxwell Henderson, Mr. Macdonell's predecessor, in his frequent battles with the government.

The report, tabled in the Commons by Finance Minister John Turner, called for new legislation defining the freedoms and responsibilities of the auditor-general.

Deficit Likely

OTTAWA (CP) — The president of the Automotive Parts Manufacturers' Association predicts a 1975 loss on Canada-United States auto trade even higher than the record 1974 deficit of $1.3 billion unless the government acts to modify the auto pact agreement.

Patrick Lawlis said in an interview Monday the association met industry department officials recently to suggest that some mechanism be built into the 1965 Canada-U.S. trade agreement to protect each partner from excessive trading losses.

MEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — P.T. Barnum's famous stuffed elephant Jumbo and other rare circus memorabilia were destroyed Monday in a three-alarm fire at a Tufts University hall.

Charge Against Doctor Is Postponed for Year

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Criminal proceedings against Dr. John Cameron Macdonald, a Windsor radiologist charged with making false claims to the Ontario Hospital Services Insurance Plan (OHSIP), have been ordered set aside for one year by Attorney-General John Clement.

In a statement to the court today, William Parker, representing the attorney-general's office, said information supplied by the defence indicated that a "substantial body of medical opinion" felt that Dr. Macdonald's claims were not fraudulent.

Mr. Parker said the information, which has been found reliable by the Crown, also showed that other doctors in the province were, in effect, using the same methods of accounting and billing.

Economic Aid Sought

OTTAWA (CP) — Officers of the National Indian Brotherhood told a cabinet committee Monday that much-improved economic conditions are required to stamp out growing militancy among native people.

Led by brotherhood president George Manuel, the Indian delegation sought a number of economic measures, such as low interest rates and a firm commitment from the cabinet to bring Indian incomes to the level of non-Indians by 10 years.

The delegation also sought an impartial commission to consider outstanding land claims and Indian grievances.

The Premier Signs In

Mayor Robin Jeffrey brought the city's official guest book along with her Tuesday as Premier William Davis stopped off in Belleville during a tour of the Quinte-Kingston region. Before settling down to lunch and speechmaking — at the Four Seasons Hotel — the premier obliged the mayor by signing the city's register.

Ontario People Worry About Violence - - Davis

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Premier Davis is convinced Ontario citizens are concerned about violence.

It's one reason increased grants to local government (for your new large sums specifically allocated for local policing, he told a meeting of county workers at the Four Seasons Hotel Tuesday.

It's also the reason he appointed a Royal Commission on violence in the communications industry this week.

"We happen to believe we have something going for us in Ontario we don't want, to lose — and that's the whole concept of law and order, the respect that people hopefully have (for it), he said explaining the increased grants. "We can't allow to happen here what has happened elsewhere."

The commission on violence in communications — headed by former federal Liberal cabinet minister Judy LaMarch — had drawn "some cynics," he admitted.

But, the premier claimed, there also had been "very enthusiastic" response to the move.

"I have talked to enough parents in this province and enough interested people, to know in my own heart that people are concerned about the amount of violence in the communications industry today," he said.

The premier said he was suggesting there is enough statistical evidence to prove "a growing tolerance" of such problems. That's "positions of leadership have to make decisions about such issues.

"Sure we can pass laws; we can pass budgets. But I think there's a duty on government in today's environment to go a step further — and that is in some of the social issues."

Handicapped Aid Plan Leaves Man in Debt

TORONTO (CP) — John Henwood of Toronto says his two employers in a program to train handicapped people disappeared and never repaid a promissory note they gave him to cover a $5,000 loan he was persuaded to take out until he received his wages.

He said he was one of 14 people employed by Canadian Handicapped Assistance Programs (CHAP), which received a federal and provincial government grant in 1972 to teach handicapped people printing on the job.

Trainees were told the government would pay all wages during training. Mr. Henwood said he was told to take out the loan until money from the government was received.

Mr. Henwood, who broke his back in an industrial accident, said he had to wait his retirement house in Cobourg, Ont., to pay back $4,000 of the loan.

The Globe and Mail says $40,000 of federal and provincial money was given to CHAP in a joint government program called Training-in-Industry.

P. F. Lee, of the Ontario ministry of colleges and universities, said the ministry was responsible only for setting up the training program. Money went monthly to CHAP management for the portion of the wages government was supposed to pay, he said.

Bid to Arrange Parley On Oil Ends in Deadlock

PARIS (AP) — The proposal for a conference to regulate the international oil traffic collapsed today when a meeting to make preparations for the conference ended up in deadlock.

After nine days of exhausting negotiations, the 10 delegations representing oil exporters, industrialized countries and developing nations that import oil went home without setting a date for new talks.

Throughout negotiations, the two sides never budged from their opposing positions. Led by Algeria, the nations of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) demanded the proposed world energy conference link prices of raw materials sold by the under-developed nations to the industrial nations and not just oil. The industrial nations insisted that oil be the chief business of the future conference, with only secondary and peripheral discussion of other raw materials.

up its authority in the country.

PHNOM PENH (AP) — The Phnom Penh airport fell to the Khmer Rouge insurgents today.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Communist-led insurgents began shelling the centre of Phnom Penh today and launched a massive drive to take the airport, field reports said. The besieged government fought back on the ground and air forces.

In South Vietnam, field reports said government troops were forced into their first retreat in the crucial battle for Xuan Loc but continued to hold the ruins of the isolated provincial capital 40 miles east of Saigon.

Other field reports in South Vietnam said radio contact was lost with the provincial capital of Phan Rang, one of two remaining government coastal enclaves. This generally signals the fall of a town. North Vietnamese forces also captured the strategic crossroads of Dau Giay on Highway 1 almost 30 miles east of Saigon.

A high-ranking Cambodian officer said four regiments of the Communist-led insurgents were assembled for the attack on the airfield four miles west of Phnom Penh. One large insurgent force was reported trying to seize the main Cambodian air force T-28 fighter-bombers and gunship helicopters were reported strafing the rebels.

The Khmer Rouge insurgents moved their 105mm artillery to the southern outskirts of Phnom Penh and began shelling the central part of the city. Two people were reported killed and 30 wounded by the howitzer shells.

Radio contact was also reported lost in South Vietnam with the district capital of Kien Tuan 10 miles north of Xuan Loc, and government defenders were said to be fleeing.

Another battle was reported at Ban Trash, in the Mekong Delta 35 miles south of Saigon. The government said two of its

Mackasey Stays Firm On Firings

OTTAWA (CP) — As a dispute which has led to suspensions for hundreds of Montreal postal workers continued Tuesday, Postmaster-General Bryce Mackasey said he will not rehire, as a "peace offering" to the union, 16 employees recently fired.

By late Monday there were more than 700 one-day suspensions to Montreal members of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers (CUPW) as well as the 16 "indefinite suspensions" or firings. The dispute has erupted over use of casual workers.

A CUPW spokesman said members of the union "escorted" casual workers off post office premises in Montreal again Tuesday but no more suspensions were handed out. The union members have been trying for weeks to prevent use of casuals.

The union says the use of casual employees will erode job security, but the post office argues they must be employed to deal with peak loads of mail.

Mr. Mackasey said he would not make a peace offering to the union by rehiring the fired employees.

Most of the workers suspended were unwilling accomplices under pressure from a disruptive minority, he said.

The issue in the dispute in Montreal is who will run the post office, he told reporters.

"When this dispute started there was a backlog of mail in Montreal totalling 10 million pieces. It would take another week to four days to clear it up at present progress, Mr. Mackasey said.

Hercules Trip Delayed

OTTAWA (CP) — A scheduled flight of an armed forces Hercules to Saigon was postponed today to allow processing of more evacuees and to purchase Canadians they should leave South Vietnam.

The aircraft, one of two standing by in Hong Kong for more than a week, now is expected to fly to Saigon Friday.

A-37 jets were shot down and three men were lost, Canadian ground fighting were 28 Viet Cong and two government soldiers killed and 18 government men wounded.

Officials in Washington said the number of Americans in South Vietnam would be cut to about 1,200 in the next two weeks so those remaining could be evacuated quickly.

Other Groups Join Fighting in Beirut

BEIRUT (AP) — Youths with machine guns battled from rooftops and behind street barricades today and bombs blasted stores and homes as other groups joined the war between Lebanon's rightist Phalange party and Palestinian guerrillas.

Premier Rashid Solh announced that the Phalangists had delivered to the government two members of the party's private security force opening fire on a bus load of Palestinians on Sunday.

But explosions and the firing of sub-machine guns continued through the morning as several other leftist and rightist groups were reported joining in.

Many of the casualties were bystanders.

Secret Policeman Deposed

MOSCOW (AP) — Alexander Shelepin, former head of the Soviet secret police and the youngest member of the ruling Politburo, has been "relieved" of his post at his own request, Moscow radio said today. A trip he made to Britain last month was troubled by demonstrations.

Toads Close Highway

MUNICH (Reuter) — West German police closed an autobahn in Bavaria for about eight hours Tuesday, diverting hundreds of vehicles so that thousands of toads could cross safely to their spawning grounds.

Engineer Was Drinking

LONDON (Reuter) — The engineer of a subway train which crashed killing 41 persons here last February had been drinking before it happened, an inquest was told Tuesday. A forensic expert who examined the body of engineer Leslie Newson said the body contained the same alcohol level at which a motorist can be banned from driving.

Beer for Children Allowed

TORONTO (CP) — Parents who pour their children a glass of wine or beer will be able to do so legally under the Liquor Licence Act. At present the act provides for a fine of not more than $1,000 and a jail sentence of not more than six months for persons who supply alcoholic beverages to minors. But the new legislation will allow parents or guardians to give liquor to minors at home or in a tent and its immediate vicinity.

Three Die in Fire

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Three children died when fire swept through a home on the outskirts of this city today. The children, Elizabeth, 2, Jessica, 5, and Lisa, 14, died shortly after 4 a.m. when flames ripped through the 1½-storey frame home of their mother Helena Wickens.

More Firms Nationalized

LISBON (AP) — Portugal's leftist military government today announced the nationalization of more basic industries, a sweeping land reform program, a price freeze on basic foods and a work program to combat unemployment.

He Flew Armed

OTTAWA (CP) — A Conservative MP, Bill Clarke, carried four kitchen knives — one 14½ inches long — on two flights and was not questioned at two airport security checks, the Commons learned Tuesday. Clarke said he was moving some of his kitchen utensils to his Ottawa home from Vancouver.

Theives Use Bulldozer

INDEPENDENCE, Ky. (Reuter) — Thieves smashed into a bank with a stolen bull-dozer here and then used it to pull a truck bearing a safe empty handed. However, the bank was left with 140,000 worth of damage.

Man Can't Wed Nag

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Ron Howard rented a horse Tuesday, took it to the county clerk's office, and applied for a marriage licence. He said he wanted to wed the nag. He was protesting recent marriage licences issued to persons of the same sex. "If a boy can marry a boy and a girl can marry a girl, why can't an old cowboy marry his favorite mare?" Howard asked. Alas, there were reasons: They had no blood test and the horse, which was only eight years old, couldn't prove parental consent.

Ottawa Schools Likely to Open

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa high school teachers will get an average 16-per-cent salary raise over 20 months if they ratify a tentative agreement reached earlier this week, it was reported Tuesday.

Both board of education and teacher negotiators are expected to ratify the agreement, details of which have not been officially released.

Classes for 38,000 students are expected to resume Friday. The walkout by the 1,800 teachers began Feb. 27.

Attendance Counselling Service Is Withdrawn

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

The Hastings-Prince Edward County Separate School Board has been left without an attendance counselling service and board officials are wondering if the press is to blame.

Tuesday night separate school trustees learned the Family and Children's Services of Hastings County has withdrawn its services effective June 30. The letter from agency director Bruce Kerr declined to give reasons for the action.

At the board's March meeting Maynooth trustee Rev. L.P. Cassarelli raised serious questions about the efficiency of the Family and Children's Services in the area of attendance counselling. Father Cassarelli charged the agency with "dereliction of duty" in the case of a student who had only attended 11 days of school since Christmas.

The Intelligencer reported the details of the charge and some of the specific accusations by Father Cassarelli. The board decided to seek an explanation of the incident and review its existing arrangement with the agency.

Before the board could complete this study the agency withdrew its services without an explanation.

Also in March, the Hastings County Board of Education voted to discontinue its contract with the agency in favor of hiring its own attendance counsellor.

At Tuesday's meeting director of education Ed Neville said the agency may have withdrawn its services due to a misunderstanding of a "press report which may have given it the wrong slant." At Tuesday's meeting Father Cassarelli reaffirmed his original position and said he would not go back on his word.

He also asked the director of education why the Hastings Board of Education was treated, in his contract with the agency. Mr. Neville replied the separate school board's agreement with the agency is independent of the county board of education. The Hastings County Board of Education has only for a full-time counsellor in the area of the board.

During the discussion Mr. Neville said that the agency had been meeting its contract requirements and that the board was getting its dollar's worth from the service. The board was paying about $2,500 annually for the service.

The separate school board finally decided to write the agency seeking the reasons for its termination of its contract effective June 30. Mr. Neville said he would inquire if the agency has understood the board's intent in through the press report.

Best of Friends

Some time in its very early life, this Lesser Canada goose must have glimpsed a black dog and decided it was Mother. Now a permanent resident of George Woodhouse's bird sanctuary on Elmwood Drive, Clumper the goose is a constant companion of George's two Labrador Retrievers, Kelly and Buck. When the dogs run, the goose flies; otherwise they just amble around together. "The question is," George says, "How are they going to react when the hunting season opens?"

Proper Furnace Care Mean Fuel Savings

Springs is the best time to think about home heating. By doing something now, the home owner can cut next winter's fuel bills by up to 30 percent.

Randy Lowen, of Loewen's Heating and Air Conditioning, says with scarcity of natural fuels — particularly oil and gas — the home owner must become more conscious about furnace operation and proper maintenance.

"If you don't clean your furnace this summer, it will cost at least 25 percent and maybe 30 per cent more to heat your home next winter," said Mr. Loewen.

"When selecting your furnaces repairman for summer cleaning, if the fan motor is or motors, he hasn't checked everything," said Mr. Loewen.

The most important points on a furnace check list are motor, filters and drive belts. If any are working poorly, you are losing a lot of the efficiency of the system, he said.

Mr. Loewen, in the heating and air conditioning business for more than 30 years in Belleville, will be one of the participants at the spring home show in Ben Bleecker Auditorium April 17, 18 and 19, sponsored by the Quinte Home Builders Association.

Mr. Loewen said the centre points of his exhibit this year will be a heat pump — a piece of home equipment that got off to a low start several years ago but is being revitalized.

"Originally poor workmanship and low quality lead to problems with the heat pumps turning home owners away from the purchase," said Mr. Loewen.

"Since that time the industry has re-vamped the design and quality of the system," he said.

Mr. Loewen said the main point of the home show is to bring all members of the association into one building to become completely accessable to the homeowner.

"If there are questions about home improvement, the home show is the best place to ask them," he said.

Heating Hints

The Quinte Home Builders Association home show, opening Thursday in Ben Bleecker Auditorium, will provide the consumer the perfect opportunity to save on home improvement bills.

Randy Loewen says up to 30 per cent can be knocked off home heating bills if proper cleaning of the furnace is carried out each year.

Groups Plan Displays To Show Various Work

Dog Bylaw Debated

Sidney Township council Tuesday approved in principle a bylaw that will relieve the municipal dog catcher from chasing stray pooches.

If passed next Monday, the bylaw will permit the dog catcher to lay charges against the dog owner including cases where the dog cannot be caught.

"I'd like to know how he's going to prove who owns the dog running at large and if this sort of thing will stand up in court," queried one councillor.

The bylaw calls for fines of not less than $10 and not more than $50.

"Well, let's pass it and see how it works out," said Councillor Ernie Kells.

School Principal Wants More Authority Action

STOCKDALE — The Trenton Club, a conservation program involving tree planting and preservation, is on the road to recovery after a downward shoot three years, say Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority officials.

Plans for reviving the program, started six years ago by Stockdale Public School principle Glen Post, now are at the authority advisory board level.

Authority secretary Bill Lawson said Tuesday the authority hopes to see the public school program spread throughout its watershed.

He said his involvement was last noted in 1972 when it presented Trenton plus a badge of accomplishment 60 per cent financed by the authority, to a group of Stockdale students in Warkworth. Subsequently, a series of problems forced the authority to end its participation in the program.

Despite this, Mr. Post said Tuesday, his school has continued with the program. "Through the intervening years, students have planted between 7,000 and 8,000 trees annually.

Support from the authority, he said, has only gone as far as financial assistance and otherwise was minimal: "They work too slowly for me."

In reaction to Mr. Lawson's comments, Mr. Post said he didn't see spending the program throughout the watershed as "an immediate thing."

"There has to be a lot of work done before that can happen," he said. He criticized the authority for its lack of effort in educating the public, something he said is necessary before the program can earn widespread support and implementation.

Changes would have to be made in the make-up of Trenton Clubs and even then, the program would not work in all schools. It would still need support of school boards, he said.

Using Stockdale school as an example, he said interest in the club, an extra-mural activity, has declined this year. Membership from the student body has dropped by two dozen.

He said the club, formed as a local point for conservation awareness among grade 5-8 students, now provides leadership in projects. Its tenets have been taken over and now are taught by teachers in a formal in-class setting.

As club members, students must plant 200 trees a year; build a bird house or feeder and keep records of bird sightings; study soil types; take water samples, mostly of their parents wells; and complete a conservation-centred project from original research.

Groundwork Under Way For Student Exchange

TRENTON — Three days Rotary District 707 — including the Belleville and Trenton clubs — is involved in selecting students for exchange visits to foreign countries starting in September.

It is one of the services encouraged and supported by Rotary International.

Currently the Belleville club is processing applications from city high school students wanting to visit Finland. While in the next two or three weeks the Trenton club will embark applications for visits to either Belgium or Denmark, a spokesman for the exchange committee said.

Rotary District 707 comprises clubs from 54 centres. The chairman of the exchange committee is Jim Catto, of the Port Credit club.

Bill MacKay, Centennial Secondary School principal, and member of Belleville Rotary, is also on the committee.

This year, the district committee is considering exchanges with South Africa, Australia, Mexico, Finland, Belgium and Denmark.

Students who participate in the program are high school students between 15 and 18 years.

Once accepted, the applicants parents are expected to pay their sons' or daughters' transportation costs both ways as well as providing $200 for clothing and necessary expenses for the year the students are on exchange.

The Belleville and Trenton Rotary Clubs this year anticipate arranging exchange visits for two students from each centre.

Walls Go Up

Intercrete Construction workers bolt pre-painted steel outside walls on the girders that will house the Stearns and Foster Canada Ltd. plant on Douglas Rd. The Mississauga company expects to complete work on the $3.5-million plant in August after which the non-woven textile manufacturer will start production with 50 employees.

Health Unit Budget Among Ministry's Top Priorities

The provincial ministry of health has assured the Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit its budget request to alleviate a staff shortage will be the first one to be fulfilled in Ontario if money is available this year, says Clifford R. Cotton, health unit business administrator.

"The ministry recognizes it," comments Mr. Cotton. He notes the health unit is understaffed by four public health nurses and one supervisor at present and these have been asked for in the budget.

The counties board of health passed its overall budget last autumn and is currently awaiting provincial approval. The total is $907,250 of which $880,419 ( 75 per cent) will be provided by the ministry.

This leaves $235,940 to be raised by the health unit of which $28,795 will be derived from revenue and $198,145 will come from municipal levy.

Mr. Cotton points out, an overlevy from 1974 in the amount of $22,795 will be returned to the municipalities. He adds the 1975 allotment to each municipality will be about the same as last year barring any substantial population changes.

Former County Warden Dies

BLOOMFIELD — A former warden of Prince Edward and past reeve of Bloomfield village Arthur Moore, 78, died suddenly Monday following a heart attack.

Mr. Moore owned and operated Moore's Grocery in Bloomfield village for a number of years but retired in December, 1971.

He was chairman of the village church board, a past president of the Picton Rotary Club and past chairman of the Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital Board.

A prominent resident of Bloomfield, Mr. Moore was honored shortly after his retirement in 1974 at a community dinner sponsored by the village.

He is survived by his wife, Edith Nelson, daughters, Betty (Mrs. J. J. McGrath) Victoria, British Columbia and Jean (Mrs. Roger Strawbridge), Lake, Germany and a son Jack of Bloomfield.

Funeral services will be held Thursday April 17 from the Whitaker funeral home with Reverend Nathan Bowring and Reverend N. Truax officiating.

Prince Edward Lodge No. 18 A.F. and A.M. will hold a service Wednesday night.

Interment will be in Universalist Cemetery, Bloomfield.

Lt. - Gov. To Visit

TRENTON — Lt.—Gov. Pauline McGibbon will be the guest of honor during a dinner May 2 held by the women at CFB Trenton in conjunction with International Women's Year.

Prior to the actual mess dinner, a base spokesman said Tuesday, her arrival will be ushered in by a 50-woman honor guard, the first in the history of the Canadian armed forces.

The military guard of honor has been undergoing drills three morning a week for the past three weeks in preparation for the visit.

It is expected the 50-woman honor guard will attend various other functions during the year. Normally, honor guard duty is done by the men in the Canadian forces.

The base spokesman said the lieutenant governor will remain in Trenton only one day.

Provincial Leaders Open New Registry Office

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Ontario Premier William Davis made a brief stop in Picton Tuesday to attend the official opening of the new Prince Edward County Registry office.

The one-storey building adjacent to the old county court house and jail was constructed to replace inadequate facilities leased from the town.

Mr. Davis was joined for the opening ceremonies by James Snow, minister of government services, Sidney Handleman, minister of consumer and commercial relations, Clifford Walker, warden of Prince Edward, Picton mayor Donald King and James Taylor, MPP Prince Edward-Lennox who served as chairman.

A dedication prayer was offered by Reverend Robert Stewart of the Church of St. Mary Magdalene, Picton.

Mr. Snow said the ministry has been actively involved in the design and construction of the new registry office since the fall of 1973 and there has been close liaison with the ministry of consumer and commercial relations.

He said the registry office was constructed and furnished at a cost of $185,000.

Existing stone walls of the old court house were incorporated in the interior design of the building to preserve the historic look of the building.

Mr. Snow presented a ceremonial key to the registry office to Sidney Handleman.

"The two stone walls of this building are a great link to Picton's colorful past," commented Mr. Handleman.

He said it is believed these walls are part of the court house and jail built in 1821.

"The old land registry office this beautiful structure replaced was built in the mid 1870s on the uniform design for land registry offices created in 1868," he observed.

"The old structure served Picton and Prince Edward County well for almost a century, but the increasing demands on it in recent years made it quite inadequate," he said.

Mr. Handleman then turned over the key to county registrar John Graydon whom he said has served the province and the county longer than any other land registrar in Ontario. For more than 39 years he has held this job in Prince Edward.

A plaque marking the opening of the new building was unveiled by Premier Davis who expressed pleasure in attending the official opening ceremonies.

After the plaque was unveiled the public was invited to tour the new facilities and an invitation was extended to all to join the premier at a noon-hour reception at the Picton Golf and Country Club.

Student Trip Approved

BLOOMFIELD — The Prince Edward County Board of Education has endorsed an overnight bus trip by students from Pinecrest Memorial School, Bloomfield, to the Leslie M. Frost Natural Resources Centre at Dorset.

Support of the excursion was voiced after a presentation to trustees this week by school principal Dan Rainey, a Pinecrest teacher John Rigg, a parent, Mrs. Maureen Hall and a student.

Mr. Rainey said the excursion would be organized for June 13, 14 and 15 and is planned as an enrichment program for pupils who apply with their parents' permission. Cost of the trip is $30 per student.

Mrs. Hall told trustees her sons had taken a similar excursion to the Albion Hills conservation area and she supported the proposed trip to the Leslie Frost Centre.

Mark Stewart, a Pinecrest Grade 8 student said he had visited Albion Hills and considered the outing informative. He suggested the trip to Dorset would offer similar benefits to students.

Premier William Davis and Prince Edward County registrar John Graydon seal official opening of new county registry with a handshake. The premier had just unveiled a plaque marking new establishment at court house.

Motorbikes and Summer

With the approach of summer we may expect a sharp increase in motor-cycle traffic.

Great, say the kids . . . the lure of the open highway . . . the rush of the wind as the machine zips along the highway . . . the freedom of it all!

Unhappily, there is another side to it which Nigel Gibson has outlined in a poignant article in The Montreal Gazette.

We have all heard of the youngsters who lie in hospital wards, their minds irreparably harmed through use of drugs.

There is another category: those who have been so badly injured in motorcycle accidents that they will never function again of their own accord in the outside world. They are kept alive in hospital wards, but are no more than shadows of human beings who, if they are lucky, ultimately fall victim to pneumonia.

Of course the motorcycle retains its mystical and irresistible lure for the young male — and often his female companion as well. There may be those who recognize the machine's potential dangers and ride it with care and at a moderate speed. But what of those who don't?

Newman Gibson talked with medical men, ambulance drivers, and the families of bike devotees — like the one who died violently on his big, powerful machine in his 21st year last fall.

The ambulance men do their job as best they can, but, cynical and angry, they say: "These kids are crazy, sick, and they think they own the streets . . ." and one goes so far as to say: "If it was up to me, I'd leave them where they fall — as an example to others. How else are they going to learn?"

It's a hard line, but one which riders and those concerned with life and limb alike must take seriously. We don't have the figures for Ontario to hand, but Gibson says that 90 people were killed and 2,000 injured in bike accidents in Quebec in 1971. In 1973 the figures climbed to 170 killed and 5,440 injured — an increase of about 100 per cent in two years. Last year's figures are not available, but he says this summer "promises to be the bloodiest of them all."

Read again what the ambulance men say: "They've got it coming . . ." That from one who spends much of his summer picking young victims off the roads and rushing them to hospital.

And this from. Dr. Peter Cohen of the emergency department of Montreal's Royal Victoria Hospital: "The accident rate is fantastically high." Even if the victim survives he may be paralyzed for life or lie in a coma beyond hope of recovery.

But the fatal attraction of youth and bike remains. So does the lure of speed. Says one 24-year-old history student who lost both legs last fall: ". . . at least wiping out on a bike has some class. Better that than rotting to death with cancer."

Very soon now the bikes will be back on the road, if they are not there already. We recall a young man lying on North Front Street last year, after his bike was in collision with a car. Fortunately, he was not badly injured, but the season is upon us again, and the watchword of all in cars or on bikes should be to take due care.

Ford's Dilemma

President Ford has warned the Communist world, particularly the Soviet Union, to avoid "fishing in troubled waters," or rather not to regard detente as a license to do so.

Unhappily, Mr. Ford's brave words come after the event in Southeast Asia. When the president assumed office in the much-of co-operation with Congress, however desirable such a policy after the non-co-operation of Richard Nixon, it has within a short period of time reduced the United States to its present impotent state vis-a-vis the Communist onrush in Vietnam and Cambodia.

Mr. Ford's hands are tied — by an unsympathetic Congress which now holds the initiative in Washington. When Nixon was there, he called the tune, reacted firmly to the Communist menace. But Watergate intruded and his, combined with the clamor of the bleeding hearts everywhere — among the public and the media — led finally to the U.S. withdrawal, then to Nixon's downfall.

That's all over of course, and Nixon is gone, but some words of Fred Buzhardt, Nixon's lawyer until he was sidelined by a heart attack, compel attention. Speaking in Silton Head, S.C., last month he said public and media have set an unrealistic moral standard for government, resulting in "a lack of public confidence . . . that expectation of "superhumans" for public servants "defies human experience."

"Would you rather have a competent scoundrel or an honest boob in office?" asked Buzhardt.

Or as Churchill reportedly once said: "In war you don't have to be nice . . . you only have to be right."

A Different World

This will be an April to remember for a variety of reasons.

The weather as ever has played some tricks — from snow up in Vermont to lemons and Addington that had public school youngsters out skiing, to a temperature of ten below in California. Even the forecasters down east all excited.

There is the chaos of war and politics in Southeast Asia, while in Ottawa provincial and federal ministers have been talking about the price of oil.

But aren't there times when the world is too much with us, and it is much more interesting to think about those youngsters having fun on the slopes — thanks initially to a teacher called Rod Dawson who had arranged for the skis a couple of months ago (maybe he gots by the Farmer's Almanac), or about a wintergarden German-born Mrs. Oswald Schmidt has been cultivating in a prefabricated and modified greenhouse built onto her Napanee home.

According to The Napanee Beaver, Mrs. Schmidt as a girl had a large window with big windows used for blooms the year round. Unable to have it incorporated in the design of her new home, she finally accomplished her goal with an aluminum frame greenhouse that a St. Catharines firm has evolved for attachment to the home.

He didn't app eciate how cyclists his own cyclists was in view of the fact that his federal colleagues have taken the same approach, though on a smaller scale, to helping young couples get housing.

Stephen Lewis zeroed in on the removal of the sales tax on production machinery.

He classed this as "the most outrageous position in the entire budget."

In this statement he was following the trail which he and father David have blindly been on for years.

They have never been able to see the world of production in terms, classing them as "ripoffs" and gifts to the Tories' rich friends.

They have repeatedly shown a lack of respect, if not downright contempt, for the small businessmen of the province, the class which Canadians in uniform are required to guard and protect in our time.

He died as tragically as did thousands of Canadian fathers for him who were killed by unknown bullets in the wars the great wars we have fought. And in time he will be remembered mainly by his comrades in the family, forgotten by most of the rest of us.

Canadians heard a good deal more from their dead captains than we normally hear from the forces will permit from a junior officer, because he was interviewed on television in South Vietnam after he was released by the Viet Cong.

And what we heard, was the assessment of an unexpected event in a military life, from a cool and military professional.

He was not whimpering about the lack of funds for the armed forces, nor about the shabby'fix' between the Canadian public at large about them; nor about the fatuitous remarks still floating around from some old and arrogant veterans that our troops look like "movie storm-troopers" in their green uniforms.

It is very unpopular these days to say part of our heritage is emerging unfortunately in a feat of arms, the Canadian fighting man in the wars we have fought in this century, mainly for altruistic reasons.

If it is hard to understand all this in the sacrifice of Pte-rel Vimy Ridge, think of it in terms of yesterday's sacrifice of Capt. Ian Patton. As spring and the hope of life renewed comes to our land in 1975 as in 1917, a bereaved Canadian family has to ask, what was it all for?

And that familiarly-left sense of loss binds us all.

Vimy Ridge, VE-Day, Memories and a Fallen Peacekeeper

Who remembers, but the heavily dwindling ranks of the bravest of the brave, that this is the anniversary month of Vimy Ridge, the place entrenched in our history because young and purposeful Canada stormed and took it on April 9, 1917, 60 years ago? ago?

In the era of Vietnam, Middle Eastern war, terrorism, this century's unbroken record of man's inhumanity to man, why remember Vimy Ridge?

The reasons we should not are, perhaps, overwhelming. One might as well recall the Boer War, fought only 15 years before Vimy Ridge or even the War of 1812 as reminders of a Canadian heritage.

Yet the attack on Vimy Ridge, which erupted about 4,000 Canadian homes of long ago of sons and fathers, caricatured Canadian historian Arthur R. M. Lower to write that Canadian nationhood was born in the trenches of France and Flanders.

So what today passes for Canadian nationalism, mainly outbursts from the media against the ironclads of American corporations, has roots which they denigrate and which most of the rest of us forget.

Next month another anniversary now unbelievably 30 years behind us will come along, the anniversary of VJE (Victory In Europe) Day, when the long and equally hard struggle against NAZI Germany was won and an exhausted world anticipated a more or less perfect peace, of the kind denied to us in 1919 after the sacrifices of the first holocaust. These thoughts come to me as I write of the deaths and burial of brave Capt. Ian Patton.

He was killed by a Cypriot bullet and laid earlier and patiently endured brief imprisonment by the Viet Cong during his time on the no-man-duct control commission in Vietnam.

Capt. Patton received full military honors and with st-Vietnam after he was released by the Viet Cong.

And what we heard, was the assessment of an unexpected event in a military life, from a cool and military professional.

Opposition Picky on New Budget

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau
Thomson News Service

TORONTO — The reaction of the opposition parties to the budget has not been impressive.

In fact they have given the impression of running scared of it.

On budget night the Liberal and NDP financial critics, James Breithaupt and Stephen Lewis, gave a definite impression of being surprised and disappointed.

Disappointed that the government had been able to come up with such a strong program.

And their reaction was pic-yune.

One of Breithaupt's principal points was criticism of the $1-500 grants to first-time home buyers.

He classed it as "about as typical a vote catcher as you can get" and said that it would only result in a rise in housing prices as builders would add the grants to the cost of their homes.

He didn't app eciate how cyclists his own cyclists was in view of the fact that his federal colleagues have taken the same approach, though on a smaller scale, to helping young couples get housing.

Stephen Lewis zeroed in on the removal of the sales tax on production machinery.

Cooling the Strike Gambit May be a Difficult Task

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

A long-suffering Canadian public will support the proposal, now before the federal government, that Ottawa should take action against people who incite certain types of illegal strikes in the public service.

The welcome proposal has been made by Immigration man Jacob Finkelman of the Public Service Staff Relations Board.

No disrespect to Mr. Finkelman, but he was one of those who helped design the 1967 legislation that extended the right to strike to large sections of the civil service, despite the obvious risks that such strikes can cause.

Trying to correct the conditions that have led to that choice may prove to be something like trying to unscramble the omelette—but a start should be made somewhere.

And few people, outside the unions directly involved, would dispute Finkelman's basic observation that the public's tolerance has been pushed to the limit by illega strikes in essential services.

The 1967 legislation, brought in under Liberal Prime Minister Lester Pearson, had a double aim: To extend the right to strike to public servants, existing in essential services (even though they accepted such jobs knowing this power was forbidden in the national interest), but to have the safety and security of those essential services monitored by certain checks against illegal strikes in the event of a strike.

In a more perfect world, such a system might have worked. But what has actually happened?, it not in the bloody First World War or two mass assaults, but in the not-so-passive front line of peacekeeping which Canadians in uniform are required to guard and protect in our time.

He died as tragically as did thousands of Canadian fathers for him who were killed by unknown bullets in the wars the great wars we have fought. And in time he will be remembered mainly by his comrades in the family, forgotten by most of the rest of us.

OSSTF Contingency Fund

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

As President of the local Division of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation I must respond to the editorial published in The Intelligencer, Saturday April 12th, entitled "Polish Fund Poor Proposition."

In 1973 the Annual Assembly of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation approved a Provincial Contingency Fund whereby the OSSTF could borrow money in order to support Federation activities during troubled negotiations.

The aim of the campaign was to protect the economic position of members against further erosion by the rising cost of living.

That was two years ago. In Hastings, a large percentage of Federation members signed a note pledging their Special Contingency Fund so created was different if and when required (and contains no money, only notes against which money can be borrowed. To promise them and to actually give a bulk $600 to the Federation things. Every teacher repays debts incurred through use of the Special Contingency Fund up to a maximum of $10 per month for as many months as is required to completely pay off any debt borrowed. This amounts to $5 per pay $80. This is far short of $600. To suggest that teachers' debts for living will be paid for by taken seriously since they have signed their notes is to refer to false conclusions about the current economic status of teachers.

In 1975 the Annual Assembly has ordered the terms of reference of the Provisionary Notes. Money borrowed against the notes continues to be used to support Federation priorities of, "fringe benefits, support activities and salary" but can be used to secure for teachers legal collective bargaining", Thus, if faced with legislation restricting the bargaining rights of teachers the OSSTF can respond with the Special Contingency Fund Provisionary Notes.

However, to suggest that the Federation and its local executive sign these notes "in case of a political campaign in the coming election" is erroneous.

Further, the article created the impression that teachers are so concerned about salary and political activity that they are reluctant to support education. This is not the case. In the area of curriculum, the jointly sponsored Role of the Secondary Study group in its Interim report called for a return to core subjects. It is important to note that this report was unanimously supported on this issue by the delegates to the Annual Assembly. Don't tell me that the OSSTF "stops short of public pledging for Special" in changing the attitude of the industry of education. In any wise group the Federation will go prepared to the Ministry and not with an Interim Report but with a finished report and substantial knowledge the views of parents, students and educators. It can be emphasized, however, that communication with the Ministry of Education is not stifled, nor simply crisis-oriented but rather on regular basis via the Federation and individual teachers.

I can say group of teachers Federation members wish to protect their salaries and to defend those professional principles which they hold dearly. It is naive to suppose that those priorities can be defended or sought after without money. The fact that the Provisionary Notes were voluntarily signed by a very substantial majority of teachers indicates the readiness of teachers' concern.

April 16, 1955

Another refinery in Ohio mineral Industry of North Hastings was forecast recently with the announcement of a merger of Centre Lake and Quill Uranium Mines for the purpose of bringing the combined properties into production at a cost in excess of $6,000,000. Production at the two properties, which are located on the boundary of Hastings and Peterborough counties, about ten miles norwest of Bancroft, would be at the rate of 1,000 tons per day. It is believed that amalgamation will make it easier for the company to acquire the needed capital for extraction of milling and milling plants.

30 YEARS AGO

One Belleville ruling and a Foxboro trawler were aboard the Canadian frigate HMCS Matane when a torpedo from a German submarine ripped into her stern 250 miles being Newfoundland in the Gulf of St. Lawrence last autumn. Both naval seamen escaped injury in the resultant explosion. The Belleville seaman was AB James Lorimer and the Foxboro boy was AB Garth Sine. Both young men are now aboard the HMCS Waskesiu.

The Quinte District Druggist Association in a semi-annual session at the Hotel Quinte on Wednesday afternoon, unanimously supported a resolution sponsored by the Ontario College of Pharmacy Council, calling for increased legal status and raising of the high school educational program, for the future pharmacist. The resolution embodies a request for a four year course of study at the college and a months' apprentice work in a retail store to replace the present system of two years at college and two years apprenticeship.

Nicklaus' Fifth

Jack Nicklaus' fifth Masters victory puts him right up there again as probably the greatest golfer of his time — even allowing for Arnold Palmer, Gary Player and Johnny Miller.

Nicklaus first won it in 1963 and again in 1965 and 1966, followed by another win in 1972.

For those interested in golfing statistics, the Masters now shares with the British Open a five-time winner.

Australian Peter Thomson won the British Open three times in a row between 1954 and 1956, and again in 1958 and 1965.

Marmora Arena Beams Found Mainly Sound

MARMORA — The engineer who checked the trusses in the Marmora arena roof found that three beams need to be replaced, according to Gordon Bennett, chairman of the arena committee.

The engineer is working out a scheme by which they could be replaced at a reasonable cost, according to Mr. Bennett. He said it is a question of putting in temporary support and rebuilding the three trusses.

Any work would be subject to the approval of council, comprised for Marmora, Deloro and Marmora and Lake townships, since this body asked for the report in the first place.

Mr. Bennett noted all of the metal covering wood on the roof would be have to be replaced. All the roof wood was in question, but the engineer found that most of it had not been damaged by leaks, Mr. Bennett said.

One beam was seriously rotted at one end, the engineer reported, and two others were slightly damaged. He did not find any dry rot, Mr. Bennett said, and the three beams were damaged due to the roof leaking.

Separate Board Will Build School

The Hastings-Prince Edward County Separate School Board has given its okay to a new combined public and separate elementary school at Whitney, near the west entrance of Algonquin Park.

The combined school will house about 180 students and will also provide community facilities for this area. The new school, expected to be built next year, is subject to the ministry of education's approval as well as the co-operation of the township of Airy and the Madawaska Public School Board.

Director of Education Ed Neville said the school would accommodate the students from St. Martin's School, at Whitney, and St. Matthew's School, at Madawaska. Project, at enrolment figures estimate about 180 students could attend the school in the next few years.

The management committee, who recommended construction of a new school, estimates the school will contain a kindergarten classroom, one special education class and five classrooms. A site has not yet been chosen but the township of Airy will offer its assistance.

Missionary On Leave

MARMORA — Rev. Leo Forestell of Darjeeling, India, visited Marmora last Sunday as guest of his sister Frances and her husband Fred Forcith.

Father Forestell is home on a four-month furlough after spending 20 years in the mission field in India. During that time he made only one previous trip home, six years ago.

Father Forestell is headmaster of St. Robert Secondary School for Boys in Darjeeling. The school is a new one, completed last May after many months of hard work on the part of Father Forestell, students and many helpers.

At present Father Forestell is visiting in Toronto with his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Forestell and their daughters Carole and Julie, but he will be returning to Marmora on May 2 for a week and hopes to visit all his friends, and relatives at that time.

Early Opening

Bancroft's Historical Museum, not due for official opening until May, will get some early visitors from Toronto this year. Students from Albion College will tour the building next Saturday had workmen are busy taking down shutters and cleaning up the log building in preparation for the visit. Later, visitors will be able to view displays of pioneer clothing, tools, furniture and local crafts.

Museum Visitors Early

BANCROFT — Workmen are busy at the Bancroft Historical Museum this week, taking down the shutters and sprucing it up in preparation for the an coming tourist season in the North Hastings area.

According to village councillor, Rae Carswell, the official 1975 opening will not be until May, but a group of students from Albion College is from Toronto will tour the building on Saturday.

The Bancroft Museum was a centennial project by the local historical society and is a refurbished log house from 1863.

When this year's opening is completed visitors will be able to enjoy displays of clothing, tools, furniture and local artifacts that are on exhibit.

From Blades to Wheels

A sure sign of spring's arrival is the conversion of Bancroft's arena from ice to concrete. The roller skating season officially opened Monday and most of the arena's stock of 100 pairs of skates were out on rental. The arena is open for skating from 7 to 9:30 each Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Sunday nights throughout the summer. Most early-season skaters, like this one, spend some time getting well acquainted with the concrete.

Roller Skaters Take Over Bancroft Arena

BANCROFT — The whirr of roller skates and the occasional thump as someone hit the cement signalled the beginning of the roller skating season in Bancroft on Monday.

Sponsored by the North Hastings Arena Commission, the roller skating started in 1974, at the local arena and proved to be such a success that new skates have been ordered to increase the number of participants this year.

At the moment, 100 pairs of skates are owned by the arena commission and most of them were rented for the first big skate on Monday night.

Skating will be held from 7 p.m. to 9:30 each Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Sunday night throughout the summer.

The profits from the skating fun will go into the arena treasury.

"We've had such a good response that we may have to increase the number of skates again," said Bob Blatherwick of the commission.

If you're a roller derby addict, it's a good bargain at the local arena, for $1 you can rent skates and enjoy the two and a half hours of going around in circles.

And if you have your own skates (any kind are acceptable) then all that fun only costs fifty cents.

Faure Report Good, But Trustees Stress Three Rs

County educators are accepting the philosophical intention of the now-famous Faure Report entitled Learning To Be but they are more concerned about the bread and butter issues of education — the three Rs.

Faced with four major themes of the 1972 UNESCO commission's report Hastings Board of Education trustees this week supported them but with reserved caution as to how the themes would be implemented.

The themes embraced the concept that all children "must be guaranteed a basic education which is measured by the degree to which the physical, intellectual, emotional and ethical dimension of living have been integrated to produce a complete man," as well as the idea of life-long education.

Other themes included the concept that the learner be the master and creator of his own cultural progress as well as an emphasis on self-learning.

Many of the trustees expressed a concern over the quality of language skills now being received by students in the system. Trenton trustee Fraser Rose said he supported the themes but said the intellectual knowledge must include a degree of language skills.

Trustees later split into four discussion groups in an effort to formulate opinions on the report. Recently, Leeds and Grenville County Board of Education director Lloyd Dennis spoke to a group of county educators about the Faure Report.

The document, compiled by a team of seven international figures, deals with a crisis of the intellectually rich getting richer and the poor getting poorer and further outlines ways of diminishing this gap.

Hastings director of education Eric Runacres has termed the report a dynamic educational document destined to have board impact on learning approaches.

New Teachers' Contract May Affect Local Talks

Spokesmen from negotiating teams for the Hastings County Board of Education and the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation (OSSTF) are remaining cautious over principle to a contract settlement with its 1,800 striking teachers.

Director of education Eric Runacres said Tuesday the settlement "will naturally affect the local negotiations." Talks in the county are expected to start later this month. Details of Ottawa's settlement are not known.

"It establishes a marketplace as to what society will accept," said Mr Runacres. He also said the board will endeavour to be fair to the teachers as well as the ratepayers.

Jerry Daca, chief negotiator with the Hastings County OSSTF, declined to comment on the pending negotiations because "they have not yet agreed that any settlement in Ontario establishes a type of market for other boards.

Mr. Daca, a teacher at Trenton High School, said the salary settlement affects only a portion of the negotiations. He said teachers are also concerned about other areas such as student-teacher ratios, quality of education, and other educational issues.

Judge Appointed

BANCROFT — Russell Hawley, village reeve here, has been appointed judge-in-chief for Sciencescope '75. A panel of judges will also judge science fair exhibits and student hobby show exhibits for the event on May 3 at 10 a.m. Exhibitors are invited to be present so they can demonstrate and dialogue with the judges.

Gospel Singing Time

BANCROFT — A special television gospel singing time rally will be held May 3 at 7:45 p.m. in North Hastings High School. Singing groups will be The Maranes, Living Lights and Jubilaire. Tickets cost $1.50 at the door.

Spring Concert Set

BANCROFT — The annual spring concert entitled Concert in the Park will be held May 7 at 8 p.m. in North Hastings Senior Elementary School auditorium. Tickets cost $1 for adults, 50 cent for students and $2.50 for a family.

Sciencescope Ready

BANCROFT — Sciencescope '75 will take place from May 1-3 at Bancroft Arena. Admission will be $1 for adults and 50 cent for students. Children under 13 years of age will be admitted free. The event is sponsored by Bancroft Lions Club and schools in North Hastings. As well as the display of hobbies, crafts, handiworks and students' scientific experiments, an old-time fiddling session will be held.

Book Distributed

The Craven Foundation
AUTOMOBILE COLLECTION

The automobile in Canada is older than Confederation and from the outset has been a symbol of the good life for all people.

The Craven Foundation provides an effective instrument through which meaningful cars can be retained in Canada.

The collection already consists of 65 automobiles ranging in span of time from 1901 to 1935. Included in the collection is the 1931 Duesenberg, the car that was such a Great Favorite in Hollywood during the 20's and 30's . . . the 1913 Fiat 7 Passenger Tourer (one of only five in the world) . . . the 1930 Packard Boat-tail Speedster . . . and so many other models that will reflect an era of nostalgia and charm which is a living memory to so many Canadians.

Ann Landers

American Women Bad Housekeepers

Dear Ann Landers: I wish to respond to your statement regarding a woman's poor housekeeping. You said, "It's nobody's business if she has poor taste in the kitchen and a flea circus in her linen closet." Then, you added, "It's nobody's business but mine!" etc.

That is wrong. It is somebody's business. It's mine. I am a landlord and I own the house that you live in.

According to recent statistics, the average American family moves every three or four years. My husband and I own three rental homes and a small 18-unit apartment. The "pigs in the kitchen" are not allowed in our four-footed kind. American women are the greatest housekeepers in the world and if their husbands don't complain, they are just as bad.

The only way we landlords can protect ourselves is to call for a cleaning deposit. (The tenants always resent this and they say they are "immaculate.") The deposit doesn't even come close to covering the cost of repairing the damage done by unbelievably people.

I'd sign my name but we still have to do business in this town. So I'll just hold my nose and hope that somewhere there's a mother teaching her daughter the beauty of a clean home.—Signed

Dear S.P.: I was amazed at the number of landlords who wrote to say the same thing—and you do have a point. Your letter was the most graphic, and I thank you for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married for over 35 years. We have four lovely children and eight grandchildren.

Our sons and son-in-law all make three times as much money as my husband. They are well aware of our financial limitations, yet my husband calls the same stupid several times a year and it makes me furious.

We always send the children and grandchildren birthday gifts and Christmas presents. The cards are signed "Mom and Dad" or "Grandma and Grandpa." Yet I receive several letters during the year in which some mention is made of "Grandma's extra gift of cash"—or "the cheque Dad sent after your lovely present arrived." The children ask, "Why don't you do this?" I don't know what to tell them. Actually it bothers me, but I've been told not to repeatedly, but be ignored. Why? Why? Why?—Sinking Sally

Dear S.S.: The poor guy feels the need to sneak in an extra gift in an attempt to buy a little extra love. It's a pathetic compulsion and there's nothing you can do about it. So give up already and recognize his "sneakiness" for what it is—insecurity.

Dear Ann Landers: What would you do if a neighbor chopped down three trees in your back yard and used them for fence posts without asking your permission?

The man who did this owns 80 acres behind our property. We own two acres with a small wooded area which we cherish. When my husband and I discovered what he had done we were outraged. He couldn't understand why we were upset. His answer was, "After all, that's what neighbors are for."

What can we do about it? Nothing? Here we crazy-Connecticut servatiosists. —Dear Cee: You are not crazy and you can do plenty about it if you want to. Your neighbor broke the law. It's best to talk it out if possible, but if you want to sue him you have a good case.

Doris Clark

In the Groove— Or Is It a Rut?

Get out of that rut, young mother! With a little thought you can bring to your home a new kind of excitement.

The library can help you by keeping at hand the most important literature in the world. You can look to music and brush up on your own special instrument — in some of those spare hours.

You can organize a club consisting of other young mothers, getting one to take care of all the children one afternoon a week. You can get this kind of project rolling by making a few telephone calls.

If your particular rut is in the job, look with optimism for another. Or invest more of yourself in what you are doing now by learning more about it and working out more efficient techniques.

Do something to enlarge your horizons.

Dear Doris: I am being married this year to a wonderful guy whom I love deeply. Yet I am still haunted by an old flame. We were engaged to be married, but for no good reason he dumped me.

He is married now and has moved out of town, but I just can't seem to forget him. The other night I even dreamed about her. What am I to do?—Trying To Forget.

Dear Trying: Part of your mind still hasn't accepted the fact that that first romance is all over. You've got to tell it firmly that there's no sense in dwelling on this part of the past. You have a wonderful new life opening up ahead.

As your married life unfolds, you have it in your own two hands to make love grow which will automatically dump that "dream-boy" in the ditch. Dear Doris: I have confidence wearing contact lens (because of headaches) but apparently the lens have to float in the liquid which covers the eyeball, and I do not have sufficient "tear production" for them to float in without rubbing against the eyeball.

I just hate the thought of wearing glasses. They make me ugly.

Dreading The Thought. Dear Dreading: Considering some of the serious handicaps some people have to face, wearing glasses is minor. Believe it or not, glasses at their best may add something to your looks! The shape of the lenses as well as the shape and even the color and position of the frames, are designed to flatter different types of faces.

Even at their worst, glasses look better than squinted, swollen or bloodshot eyes and wrinkled forehead which eye-strain causes; not to mention the serious eye troubles that may result from foolish vanity.

Try to realize that you will soon forget you have them on. If you do not have them on you will be reaching for them to help you see better. And here's a tip — a sunvicion of brown eye shadow on your lids will create an illusion of eye socket depth.

Abortionist Begins Term:

Convicts Treat Jailed Morgentaler with Respect

OTTAWA (CP) — Abortionist Henry Morgentaler has been assigned an eight-by-12-foot cell with one chair, an uncurtained toilet and no hot water, mirror or table, says a relative who visited him in Montreal's Donnelani Jail.

"He was very depressed the first week . . . but his mood has improved a good deal. He's trying hard to adjust."

The 55-year-old Montreal physician began an 18-month sentence 24 weeks ago after the Supreme Court of Canada upheld a Quebec Court of Appeals decision convicting him of performing an illegal abortion.

He has admitted performing thousands of abortions during his medical career.

The relative, who asked not to be named, said Dr. Morgentaler finds prison dehumanizing. He was forced to substitute beige prison garb for his own clothes and was not allowed his personal chess set or radio.

Mail and books are censored, privacy is gone and the cell area where he is confined echoes with noise "from morning to night," the relative said.

"He asked for earplugs but he was not permitted to have them. They were returned to the family with other personal belongings."

Visitors are limited to a one hour weekly session and two outgoing telephone calls are allowed each week. But he has asked—and been permitted—to exceed the limit on occasion.

"The guards treat him well and so do the other prisoners. He seems to get along fine with them . . . and the meals are good."

His neighbors are "people in for assault, fraud, and break, enter and theft—that kind of thing," the relative said.

"They all know who he is, of course. And I sense, although I don't know, that his visitors are treated different from the others. People seem very warm toward him."

He greet visitors from the far side of a cubicle divided by a screen partition. Conversation takes place through a small hole in the screen.

"The most dehumanizing aspect is the regulation of prison life," the relative said.

In one instance, he was searched after being visited by a representative of the John Howard Society, an organization devoted to the rehabilitation of prisoners.

His personal chess set, which he brought to prison with him, was rejected because of "something magnetic about the chess pieces," the relative said. He was later furnished with a plastic set.

His personal radio was also rejected, because it was equipped with a cassette recorder. The relative complained that officials were opposed to the recording of prison sounds.

"He's since been given another one."

His diet, although nutritious, lacks adequate fresh fruit and vegetables and "he's thinking of asking for a vitamin supplement," the spokesman said.

A bottle of vitamin C pills, brought with him when he entered prison, was among articles returned.

Dr. Morgentaler and feminist Betty Friedan have been awarded jointly the American Humanist Association's Humanist-Of-The-Year prize.

The relative said the abortionist has asked for temporary prison leave to accept the award at a May 24 ceremony in St Louis, Mo.

Gets $10,000 Job

SEATTLE (AP) — Mrs. John Ehrlichman, whose husband has been unemployed since he quit his White House job in 1973, has taken a publicity funded $10,000-a-year job with the Seattle Symphony orchestra. Jennie Ehrlichman has been education program co-ordinator for the orchestra since March 1.

Supports Dog Shelter

BUCKLAND, Massachusetts — (Reuter) — Joseph Schneider, 70, has sold most of his 102-acre farm to support a shelter and find homes for thousands of stray dogs. He estimates he has placed at least 6,000 canine waifs in new homes during the last five years.

What if your pay cheque was late?

For many of us this would be a calamity. Your Intelligencer carrier is a young, independent businessman; he doesn't receive a pay cheque. His profit is the difference between the wholesale cost of his newspapers and the amount collected from his customers.

Most subscribers pay their carriers on the first call. But some people say "come back later" . . . and the carrier's profit is put off. It's like asking you to come back two or three times for your pay cheque.

Of course, you want to be paid promptly. All of us do. The boy or girl who delivers your Intelligencer will appreciate being paid promptly.

Round Out Menus with Ground Meat

Ground beef prices are at a low point and it makes sense to buy it now. Freeze it raw or cook it up and freeze entire meals for later.

Quick Savory Meat Loaf

two-thirds cup cornflake crumbs one egg
¼ cup milk
one tsp. salt
¼ tsp pepper
one tsp dry mustard
one tbsp. Worcestershire sauce one third cup finely chopped onion
1 ½ lb. ground beef.

Place crumbs in large bowl; add egg, milk and spices and seasonings. Beat well. Add meat; mix only until combined. Press meat evenly into a loaf pan. Bake at 350 for one hour. Serves eight.

You can vary this family dish by adding cheddar cheese cubes to the crumbs before mixing or by adding thawed drained frozen mixed vegetables. Other variations include adding herbs or your choice of tender-cooked chopped green pepper. For a zestier dish, stir in ½ cup horseradish before adding meat.

two lbs. ground beef
two-thirds cup fine bread crumbs salt and pepper to taste
two eggs slightly beaten
¼ cup milk
oil for frying
fondue sauces.

Very thoroughly combine beef, bread crumbs, seasonings, eggs and milk.

Shape portions of the mixture in 1½-inch balls. Press them firmly together so that they will hold together when dipped in the oil. Chill until required.

In a heavy pan in the kitchen, heat enough oil to submerge the meat when you transfer the oil to the fondue pot. Heat to about 200 degrees, hot enough to brown a bread cube in about 20 seconds. Pour into fondue pot and transfer very carefully to the dining table, and place over a canned heat, alcohol or table gas heater. Place pot and heating unit on a good-sized metal tray or give the table other protection in case the fat spatters. Regulate the heat so that the beef balls brown quickly on the outside, leaving them rare inside.

Give each guest a plate containing his serving of meat, and a fondue fork. Let each spoon his chosen sauces on the plate, and provide individual salads and hot bread. Each guest spears a meatball on his fork and cooks it in the oil, then dips the meat in sauce for eating. Recipe makes enough for about 6 servings.

Suitable Sauces: Bearnaise, sour-cream horseradish; mustard and horseradish; hot chili sauce; etc.

Slow Black Meal

one-third cup vegetable oil
8 ozs. pasta bows
one medium onion, chopped (or 1 tbsp. instant minced onion)
one tsp. salt
¼ tsp. black pepper
one can (28 oz.) tomatoes undrained
one lb. ground beef
one clove garlic, crushed
one can (10 oz.) condensed cream of tomato soup one cup commercial sour cream or yogurt two tbsp. finely-chopped green pepper
Paprika

Heat oil in heavy saucepan and in it stir the uncooked pasta about 10 minutes, until lightly browned. Add onion, salt, pepper and tomatoes and bring to boil, stirring occasionally.

Cover and simmer, stirring occasionally, until pasta is just tender, about 20 minutes.

Meanwhile, saute beef with garlic, stirring often, until meat loses its red color — about 10 minutes. Drain excess fat and add meat to tomato mixture, along with soup and sour cream. Stir carefully while bringing to the boiling point.

Turn into heated serving dish and sprinkle with pepper and paprika. Makes 6 or 8 servings.

For flavor variety, mushroom soup may replace tomato soup. Also, some whole canned small mushrooms may be added.

Kings Super Supper Pie

one lb. ground beef
½ cup quick or old-fashioned oats, uncooked
¾ cup chopped onion
1 tsp. salt
¼ cup catsup
one egg beaten
one (14½ oz.) can condensed cream of mushroom soup one (10 oz.) package frozen mixed vegetables, cooked and drained
¼ tsp. Worcestershire sauce
Pastry for 9-inch single piecrust.

Combine beef, oats, onion, salt, catsup and eggs; blend well. Form three dozen small meatballs. Brown in hot shortening. Drain on absorbent paper.

For sauce, combine soup, vegetables and Worcestershire. Place meatballs in 9 or 10 by 5-inch round casserole. Pour sauce evenly over meatballs.

Roll pastry to form 11-inch circle. Place carefully over filling. Turn edges under and flute; prick crust. Bake in 450° oven 20 to 30 minutes or until crust is golden brown. Recipe yields 6 servings.

Hot Mexican Chili

one onion chopped
two cloves garlic, crushed three tbsp. margarine or butter
one lb. ground beef
three tbsp. chili powder (reduce if you're timid) ½ tsp. crushed hot red pepper
two tsp. salt
one tsp. oregano
two cans (14 oz. each) red kidney beans, not drained
one cup water
1 can (5½ oz.) tomato paste

Saute onion and garlic in margarine in large heavy pot until onion is tender. Add beef and continue cooking until meat loses its red color, breaking it up with a fork. Pour off excess fat. Add remaining ingredients and combine well. Simmer uncovered, stirring occasionally, about 20 minutes or until flavors are well blended and mixture is of suitable consistency. Serve very hot, in soup bowls with crackers and a crisp salad. Makes about five or 6 servings.

Quick savory meat loaf, served with baked potatoes and salad.

Jewellery Display

Elsie Pearson of Trenton, and nine-year-old Caryn Langstaff were two of the local models at the Sarah Coventry jewellery fashion show held Monday evening at the Four Seasons Hotel. Organized by new part-time mail manager for the Jewellery company, Jo Hogue, the show was attended by over 100 persons, who saw not only jewellery modelled, but also kitchen ware and wicker furniture. Sarah Coventry items are sold at shows like this one, and at smaller home demonstrations.

Fire-fighting Facts Given To Medical Secretaries

The regular monthly meeting of the Quinte Medical Secretaries' Association was held April 8 at Belleville Hall, with President, Barbara Lewis in the chair.

Guest speaker for the evening was Paul Stephenson, who gave a lecture on fire prevention along with a startling demonstration on the fire hazards of spray cans. A film on fire in the home was also given.

Mr. Stephenson explained that Belleville firemen receive three hours of training per day and that Belleville has fourteen firemen on duty on any given shift. Three-quarters of the fires in Belleville in 1974 were in the home and half of those fires were due to carelessness, the biggest hazard being smoking in bed, Mr. Stephenson said.

The Belleville Fire Department has responded to over 700 calls this year, 11 of which were arson. The total cost of fire damages in Belleville in 1974 was $1,264,000.

Pamphlets were distributed pointing out fire hazards and the necessity for families to plan a home escape route in the event of fire.

After Mr. Stephenson's informative lecture a coffee break was served by Patricia Sargeant and Jane Ellis.

'Mr. and Mrs. Fablo Moscher

Moscher — Dunham

Nancy Ann Dunham and Fablo Moscher, both of Scarboro, were united in marriage in an afternoon ceremony at St. John's United Church, Trenton.

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Dunham, Tweed. The groom is the only son of Mrs. Ennio Moscher, Niagara Falls, Ontario and the late Mr. Moscher.

Rev. Ian Munro officiated at the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, Ann wore a floor length gown of white peau de soie with lace insert, ruffle edged bodice and long gathered sleeves. A flowered head-piece caught her finger tip veil and she carried red roses and white carnations accented by a spray of fern.

Marie Clement of Scarboro was maid of honor. She wore a floor length gown of sky blue with a lace inset, ruffled bodice, and carried a bouquet of daisies and pink carnations. Brian Carter of Scarboro was best man, and the bride's brothers Ian and Arden Dunham were ushers.

Following the ceremony, a dinner was held at St. James' Anglican Church.

The couple resides at 30 Tuxedo Court, Apt. 1116, Scarboro.

People and Events

QUEENSBORO WI

Blanche McMurray was hostess for the April meeting of the Queensboro Women's Institute held in the W I hall.

The election of officers for the 1975-76 year took place and installed: Bernice Cassidy, past president; Dorothy Lent, president; Grace O'Rourke, first vice-pres; Goldie Holmes, second vice-pres; Evelyn Lynn, secretary-treasurer; Bernice Cassidy, district director; Margaret Hollins, public relations.

ALPHA DELTA KAPPA

Members of the Lambda chapter of the Alpha Delta Kappa sorority met at the home of Carol Clements of Stirling, April 2.

Following the business meeting, Phyllis Beatty introduced Dorothy Blakely, who related her experiences while attending a seminar given by the Danish Culture Exchange, held in Oslo, Norway. Accompanying her talk were slides she had taken during a tour of Norway, Sweden and Denmark.

Mrs. Blakely, an educator in the Belleville school system for many years, said that in the last decade more schools have been built in Norway than in any other country in the world. English is taught so that Norwegians are often fluent in this as in other languages.

Mrs. Blakely noted that reduced class size in the schools resulted in better teacher-student learning relationships.

ROSLIN ACW

The April meeting of the Anglican Church Women was held in Roslin recently at the home of Helen Thibault.

President Annie Bates welcomed everyone and opened the meeting with a prayer

Hazel Wilson was appointed delegate to the diocesan meeting in Kingston April 29.

Roberta Fisk conducted the study group, and Alice Wilson was leader for the program during which Hazel Wilson read a poem, Ethel Gillespie gave a reading, and Hazel Hockman sang a solo. Mrs. Fisk gave a paper on spring and Margaret Geen, Florence Meeks, Lola Alexander and Annie Bates gave readings as well.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

RIVER VALLEY W I

The annual meeting of the River Valley Women's Institute was held recently after a turkey dinner. Hostesses were Margaret Bush and Isabel Heasman.

Over $100 was collected for the arena fund at a special card party held at the centre April 11.

A memorial service was held in memory of Irene Douglas who died in March, who had been a WI member for only a few months.

The 4-H achievement day will be held May 19.

ROSLIN WI

Florence Meeks was hostess for the April meeting of the Roslin Women's Institute. Roll call was answered by spring cleaning tips.

Isabel Stirk, agriculture convener gave her report, and also auctioned plant slips and flower bulbs.

All convenors and officers gave their reports, and the officers for the coming term were reinstated as follows: Dorothy Sills, president; Dorothy Fargey, first vice-pres: Helen Chisholm, second vice-pres; Joan Bates, secretary-treasurer; Lori Martin, district director; Dorothy Fargey, public relations and Annie Bates, pianist.

Toronto's Hospital for Sick Children Celebrates Centenary of Service

TORONTO (CP) — One hundred years ago a group of Toronto women rented an 11-room house for $300 a year, set up six iron cots and opened a hospital for children.

Today, the Hospital for Sick Children (HSC) on University Avenue in downtown Toronto, treats 100,000 children annually from all corners of the world.

Affectionately known as "Sick Kids" to those it serves, it has survived some incredible odds since its founder, Elizabeth McMaster, and her group of dedicated women admitted their first patient, Maggie, on April 1, 1875. The three-year-old had fallen into a tub of scalding water and was severely burned.

There was little public money to operate such a facility but the women believed in faith, hope and charity. It wasn't long before the community, recognizing the need for a children's hospital, was donating towels, clothing and bedding. In the first year, 64 patients were admitted and 67 others treated in the out-patient clinic.

John Ross Robertson, publisher of The Evening Telegram, took almost personal interest in the project and worked diligently to have a new hospital built.

He served as chairman of the board of trustees from 1891 to 1918 and at his death left the bulk of his estate to the hospital.

He was instrumental in opening a summertime convalescence home on Centre Island off Toronto's shoreline, known as the Lakeside Home, where children could go enough to travel availed themselves of the clean air and sunshine and returned to the city in the fall more robust and healthy. The home operated from 1891 to 1915 when it burned to the ground.

Lakeside continued for a few years in temporary buildings, but was abandoned in 1918 when convalescent patients were moved to Thistletown, northwest of Toronto.

The brownstone hospital with 300 beds built in 1892 had been, bursting at the seams for years so in January, 1951, the present 14-storey structure was erected.

It has accommodation for 751 beds, 106 laboratories, 14 operating rooms, 13 x-ray rooms, a whole section for the care and study of premature babies, a lecture hall that seats 275 people and auditorium for 85 persons.

There is a drop-in medical centre or screening clinic open 15 hours a day where 180 patients without appointments are cared for daily.

Since 1960, HSC has operated an outer-patient clinic in Sioux Lookout, Ont., to care for Indian children in Northern Ontario. Doctors and nurses go regularly from Toronto to provide service on a rotation basis in the remote area.

Research into a myriad of diseases has gone on since the hospital's inception. Operating on a $2 million budget each year, it encompasses such subjects as the common cold, nutrition, congenital or inherited heart disease, mental retardation, brain disorders, burns, crushed hands and many more.

It was at the hospital in the 1930s that p.ibium, the first effective cervaI for infants was developed. Also, the hospital was one of the leaders in the fight for compulsory pasteurization of milk.

One of HSC's proudest achievements was the breakthrough made by Dr. William Mustard in the field of heart surgery on blue babies. In 1961, he and a team of specialist transposed a child's blood vessels and for the first time in the history of medicine, the infant survived.

Ten years later in 1971 Dr. Barry Shandling successfully performed through surgery, the separation of Siamese twins, the first in Canada.

Other fields where the hospital has led the way have been in surgically perfecting a procedure to correct congenital dislocation of the hip, inventing a lab procedure to cut the time to diagnose whooping cough from three days to 20 minutes and developing techniques in plastic surgery to remake the faces of children born deformed.

In 1937, when a polio epidemic struck hundreds of Canadian children, many were treated at HSC in hospital built iron lungs.

The hospital's school of nursing opened in 1875 and has graduated more than 3,000 pediatric nurses. In addition, the school trains doctors, lab and x-ray technicians, hospital chaplains, social workers, dietitians and therapists.

Royalty, hockey teams and entertainers fall to visit the hospital when they're in Toronto to cheer up the young patients.

To assist in emergency cases, a heliport was constructed on the roof of the hospital, so that a seriously ill child from a remote or distant location can be flown in by helicopter for treatment.

The Toronto board of education runs classes, so that children who must remain in the hospital for three weeks or more are able to continue.

About 2,000 people are on staff at HSC, which costs an estimated $70 million to operate each year.

'Churches Glorify Marriage And Promote Discrimination'

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuter)—Christian churches remain powerful promoters of discrimination against women, says Dr. Sabine Willis, a Quaker, mother of two and tutor in history at Sydney's Macquarie University.

In a talk for International Women's Year, she fired fresh salvos in the women's lib campaign to extend female influence in the church and society at large.

Dr. Willis, 38, argued that the church helps to sustain sexual discrimination against women by glorifying marriage, motherhood and virginity.

"What of those women who choose or must choose a different way? They are made to feel guilty and alienated by a church which claims to free and unite people."

Dr. Willis last year took part in an inquiry into the status of women in the church conducted by the Australian Council of Churches. She said the church practises sexual discrimination within itself and has promoted it without.

While the Anglican synod of Sydney there are only three women parish representatives among 400 lay and clerical staff," she said. "Submissions from women's groups in the churches show their roles are almost exclusively supportive, fund-raising, household or community services.

"There are no women ministers, nor even women in property trusts. It is no good leaving this up to men to change. Changes must come from women themselves."

Dr. Willis said she has found some sympathy for her views among church leaders but none prepared to act to give women higher status.

"Most churchmen, and I'm afraid many women churchgoers, find it difficult to get past the story in Genesis about God creating man first and then woman to serve him."

Dr. Willis said Christianity is not the only world religion which officially or unofficially relegates women to a lower social status than men.

She said Islam's holy book, the Koran, stipulates motherhood and homekeeping as a major functions and suggests that the traditional relationship of male breadwinner and female dependent is the will of God.

Study of Elderly:

Devoted Young Mothers Are Most Unhappy in Old Age

VANCOUVER (CP) — It is not true that people suddenly decline in old age, 'physically or mentally; old age is a continuation of young adult life, says a man who has studied the elderly.

Dr. Harry Maas of the school of social work at the University of British Columbia said that is one of the things he has learned from a study of old age, begun seven years ago when he was associate director of the Institute of Human Development in Berkeley, Calif.

He found that lonely and useless feelings, or disengagement "when you reject society and society rejects you" in old people came only with poor health, "and those people had health problems all through their lives."

The 142 persons he studied had been interviewed at Berkeley from the time their children were born in 1928 and 1929 until the children were 18, "so we had a sizable amount of information about their early adult life."

Dr. Maas said the people who were most unhappy in old age had a lifelong history of physical illness or were people whose interests were centred on husbands and children.

The house of women didn't adjust in old age; the Fearful Ordering Mothers—a dreadful term, I'm sorry we used it—who were submissive, fearful, tending to be depressed; and the Anxious Asserting Mothers—they were more histrionic."

The happiest old women were those who had worked while young adults or devoted time to clubs and organizations.

"The clubwomen had few divorces, although they never liked family life. They were well-educated, poised, dressed smartly. They were remote interpersonally. They were not happy as wives and mothers but in later years they were among the happiest people.

"We assume that all women love to be grandmothers, but the clubwomen certainly do not. They are liberated by old age. We cannot make all these assumptions about old people."

Dr. Maas said women who were still working were happiest.

"They were poorer people. Their husbands were not good wage-earners. They were the least educated and many were divorced or separated.

"But they were happier than most, which suggests it's better not to put all your eggs into the family basket."

He said all of the people studied had "remarkably high" IQs but he found no IQ differences between those who concentrated on families and those who found their pleasures away from the family.

He said a group called the Conservative Ordering Fathers generally had the highest IQs.

"They tended to be independent, not easily impressed, self-satisfied, moralistic. They felt they were productive, they were uncomfortable with uncertainty."

He said all of the 47 men he studied were "comparatively well-off, still married to the same women as 47 years ago, and few had psychological problems."

Two-thirds of the 95 women interviewed were still married.

Dr. Maas said he was surprised from his research "that women caught and unhappy in married life would find pleasure in old age; and that the young adult who invested so much in her family would be less than happy as an old person."

Vietnam Girl of 9 Not Orphan

TORONTO (CP) — A spokesman for the Ontario ministry of community and social services said Tuesday the United States state department has been asked about a Vietnamese girl, probably nine years old, placed on a flight of orphans to Ontario last weekend.

Helen Allen, information officer for the ministry, said she has heard several times since Sunday that Lai Phan, one of 58 children brought to the province for adoption by Ontario parents, is the daughter of a U.S. consulate employee in Vietnam.

American translators in San Francisco last weekend said many of the orphans arriving in San Francisco actually were children of Saigon officials who wanted their children out of the country.

Miss Allen said doctors estimate the girl is nine years old and when the girl is over the effects of jet lag "we'll sort out how she feels and what really has happened" through Vietnamese translators.

Nothing will be done about the child's adoption until provincial government officials hear from federal representatives in Saigon, she said.

Colonel Charged

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Col. Marie Joseph Braun, commandant of the Canadian Forces school of communications and electronics engineering, said at the opening of court martial proceedings Tuesday that he did not know how to plead to the charge of twice disobeying an order.

A plea of not guilty was entered on behalf of Col. Braun, 46, who has been in the Canadian forces 23 years.

He is charged with disobeying an order to issue a notice of intended release to Capt. John Campbell, an instructor found guilty of possession of marijuana by a military tribunal last September.

Need $60 Billion

MONTREAL (CP) — La Presse said Tuesday that a confidential report by the Canadian Petroleum Association estimates $60 billion is needed to explore and develop domestic energy resources if Canada is to be self-sufficient in energy by 1985.

The newspaper said the report, prepared by the Calgary-based associations for both federal and provincial government officials, urges them to reduce taxation to release more funds for exploration.

Payments Down

OTTAWA (CP) — Unemployment insurance benefit payments were down six per cent in February to $238 million from the $307 million paid in January, Statistics Canada said Tuesday. However, the amount still was 20 per cent higher than the $221 million paid in February a year ago.

Meet Children

TORONTO (CP) — Alan and Thelma Sutton of Oakville, Ont., became the first Ontario parents to meet their newly-arrived Vietnamese children Tuesday.

Mrs. Sutton couldn't keep back the tears as she cuddled Nguyen Thi Hong, 18 months old, in her arms at the province's meet reception centre where 32 of the 58 orphans who arrived Sunday are staying temporarily. Four are in the Hospital for Sick Children.

While Mrs. Sutton became acquainted with her new, daughter, Mr. Sutton held their new son, Nguyen Van Ded.

Pleads Not Guilty

OTTAWA (CP) — Michel Gravel, 21, of Ottawa pleaded not guilty Tuesday in provincial court to charges of operating a common bawdy house, living off the avails of prostitution, transporting persons to a bawdy house and gross indecency.

A trial date of June 30 was set for Gravel—one of 17 persons charged by police in connection with a city male homosexual prostitution ring.

Talks Fail

HAMILTON (CP) — Despite the presence of a provincial conciliation officer, talks between Westinghouse Canada Ltd. and its 3,500 employees have reached an impasse.

Conciliation officer Michael Riddell left after one meeting Tuesday and will report to the minister of labor.

Protection of Whale Affects Car Owners

DETROIT (Reuter) — United States government efforts to preserve the nearly-extinct sperm whale has caused trouble for the owners of 5,250 General Motors cars using whale oil in the automatic transmission fluid.

GM included whale oil in the fluid until the sperm whale was put on the endangered species list in 1971, a spokesman said Tuesday, forcing the company to change its transmission fluid formula.

New company service officials report that the other kind of oil being used has caused the transmission oil cooler fitting to fail on some cars. As a result, oil has seeped into the radiator and anti-freeze into the transmission.

Three Jailed

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — Provincial Judge Harvey Hullett, saying "we have reached the point where a sentence must be a deterrent," sent three residents charged with armed robbery to jail Tuesday.

Robert Kreamer, 23, was sentenced to five years in prison for his part in two holdups; Harvey Canfield, 22, to four years for his involvement in the same robberies; and Kevin Saylor, 18, to two years less a day plus a year indeterminate for his part in one of the robberies.

The three men were arrested following armed robberies Jan. 17 and Jan. 28 of the same store. A bandit, wearing a balaclava and waving a sawed-off shotgun, stole $264.

Wants Food Dated

TORONTO (CP) — A private members bill, which would force supermarkets and other food stores to date-stamp merchandise, has been introduced in the legislature.

Leonard Braithwaite (L-Etobicoke) introduced the bill Tuesday. It would make supermarkets label "without the use of code or guide" the date food was packaged and, its freshness would expire.

Seek Ombudsman

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario is still looking for an ombudsman. Several names have been suggested but a choice has yet to be made, Attorney-General John Clement said Tuesday.

"I've had no discussion with the premier whether the ombudsman should be appointed by me or by cabinet," he said. "Several people have applied for the job."

Fighting Fog

TORONTO (CP) — Environment Minister William Newman said Tuesday that he expects his ministry will have solved a fog problem on the Trans-Canada Highway in Sudbury, Ont., by the fall.

Visibility is infrequently reduced to zero on a stretch of highway between downtown Sudbury and Copper Cliff, site of International Nickel Company of Canada Ltd. (Inco) smelters, when a fog encloses the highway.

New Baby Coming

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister and Mrs. Trudeau are expecting their third child in October.

Sources in the prime minister's office confirmed Tuesday that Margaret Trudeau, 26, is expecting a baby after rumors to that effect had been circulating for some time.

This birth will break a pattern established by Justin, 4, and Sacha, 2, both of whom were born on Christmas Day two years apart.

Wants Jail Closed

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General John Clement said Tuesday that he favors closing Toronto Jail but the government does not have money to replace it.

Unions Restrict Volunteers' Roles

TORONTO (CP) — A hospital volunteer attending a conference on the developing role of the auxiliary volunteer complained Tuesday that auxiliary workers are restricted in many areas by union members.

"Once a job is allocated to a hospital union member, it can't be done by volunteers," said Gary Westgarth, volunteer coordinator of the mental health centre at Provincepinshawa, said he found hospital administrators and management lacked knowledge of the potential value of volunteers.

E. W. Roeder, administrator of the York County Hospital, said he views volunteers as counsellors in out-patient areas. Also, as hospitals move into the community, volunteers would have to start looking beyond in-hospital cars.

"There are many services that volunteers can and should be providing with their expertise. The sky is the limit. You should pull up your socks and be more imaginative about your role as hospital volunteers."

District Health Bodies Need Volunteers' Help

TORONTO (CP) — Volunteers have a major contribution to make to Ontario's new program of district health councils, says Claude B. Halpin of the provincial health ministry.

He was speaking to delegates at a conference Tuesday on the developing role of the hospital auxiliary volunteer. The conference was sponsored by the Hospital Auxiliaries Association of Ontario.

Mr. Halpin said that volunteers now connected with hospitals would, in effect, become community workers under the new concept.

"The influence that the hospital volunteer has in her own hospital can be multiplied and she will become a member of a health-care team."

He said integrated planning represented by district health councils, is part of an evolutionary process resulting in greater interdependency of the components of the health-care system.

"It no longer suffices to have health and social agencies working autonomously in the community."

All Ontario Farms Could Go by 2025

KEMPTVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Unless federal and provincial governments legislate a halt to the rapid decline of agricultural land in southern Ontario, farms may become bits of antiquity within the next 50 years, says the Ontario Institute of Agrologists.

In a 30-page draft policy paper, the institute says urban sprawl will absorb all remaining food-producing land in southern Ontario by the year 2025, and recommends governments restrict public and private growth on non-productive or lowest classes of farmland.

The paper suggests the ministry of agriculture be given authority to approve or reject public or private developments that would destroy farmland.

Even if the decline is halted, the paper says, farmers still will have difficulty feeding southern Ontario's projected population of 12 million in 25 years. It says the province must place another two million acres of foodland into production to feed that population.

Teachers to Get Right to Strike

TORONTO (CP) — Stephen Lewis, leader of the Ontario New Democratic Party, said Tuesday that legislation governing teacher-school board negotiations is expected to allow teachers the right to strike.

In the legislature he asked Margaret Birch, social development secretary, to confirm what is "no longer a quietly held confidence."

Speaker Russell Rowe (PC—Northumberland) interjected: "That information will be revealed in due course." Mrs. Birch did not reply.

The Quinte-Thousand Island Lodge in Kingston has received a new addition, a carved onyx chess set, presentd to the Canadian Cancer Society for use in the lodge by George McQuaid, in memory of his wife, Kay. Mr. McQuade tries his hand at the game with Shirley Woodcox, president of the Quinte branch of the Canadian Cancer Society.

Uranium Able to Supply Energy for 1,000 Years

HALIFAX (CP) — Even with today's primitive technology, uranium can supply the energy needs of a world with 20 billion people for 1,000 years, says the president of Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd.

Dr. John Foster, addressing a group of engineers, noted further that each citizen of a world of 20 billion could consume three times as much power as does the average Canadian today.

"Through uranium's power, giving makeup, 'man has already ensured his long-term energy supply," he said.

"Work is already far advanced on systems that will extract 10 times as much energy from uranium as the current system.

"The fast-breeder reactor is part of one of these systems and so is the heavy-water reactor like that used in the Pickering, Ont., station, if it is operated on special fuel involving thorium as well as uranium."

Dr. Foster noted that energy derived from thorium is about four times as abundant as that from uranium.

"Finally, of course, there is fusion. It seems incongruous to be concerned about long-term energy supplies in a world that, hardly more than a century from the wood-burning steam engine, has demonstrated the fusion reaction and is almost irritatingly close to demonstrating a controlled fusion reaction.

"It hardly seems possible that fusion won't be developed as a practical source of energy within a century and that is much sooner than it will be needed."

Dr. Foster, who has been in Nova Scotia for a look at the way Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. has been rehabilitating a heavy-water plant at Glace Bay, said exploitation of fusion would provide an energy supply source that is "to all intents and purposes, unlimited."

Tenderizing Beef...

Knowing and using the recommended way of tenderizing beef allows you to take advantage of all the cuts available in a total country — the less tender as well as the more tender, more expensive cuts. These methods, both mechanical and chemical, are described in this week's bulletin. You'll find your copy of "Tenderizing Beef" at Food City's Consumer Awareness Centre today!

Mrs. Albany will be talking with shoppers Friday, April 18th at Westside Food City, Eglinton Ave. W. at Caledonia from 1:30 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. Please feel free to come in and ask questions relating to food shopping.

Mrs. Albany is available to speak to groups. Write her at 200 The East Mall, Islington, Ontario M9B 6B8 or call (416) 239 0633.

Win Skiing Awards

Two students from Sir MacKenzie Bowell Senior Public School Peter Bird, (centre) and David Owen (right) receive outdoor education badges from Steve Lightfoot, a field studies technician with the outdoor learning section of the Hastings County Board of Education. The badges were won for a project in cross-country skiing.

Library Corner

THE HOME GARDENER'S GUIDE TO BULB FLOWERS — Ronald Vance.

For the home gardener, the world of bulb flowers offers a wonderful, never-ending challenge to imagination and ambition. Their variety is enormous, their blossings can spread over the entire year. This book guides the gardener in choosing among them and in giving each the very special, though often amazingly simple care that it requires.

GARDENING WITHOUT STRESS AND STRAIN — Jack Kramer.

If you find that stooping and kneeling have become less easy, and digging and moving heavy weights are too taxing, but gardening remains one of your favorite activities, this book will tell you how to keep it up without failure.

GARDEN POOLS, WATER-LILIES AND GOLDFISH — G.L. Thomas, Jr.

Perhaps you have hesitated to put a pool in your own garden because of rumors of high cost, leaks, scum, and bad fish. But this authoritative book shows that a water garden can be the easiest of all gardens. The dedicated gardeners, the enthusiastic ones for whom nature is too much trouble, will find here a thorough discussion of all the possibilities of water gardening.

HOW TO GROW HERBS — A Bennet Book.

The importance of herbs dates back thousands of years. They have been used in cooking, medicine, as fragrances, and for ornament. Besides their numerous specials and uses, herbs are to grow and require only a small amount of care and attention. You can grow one or two varieties without any more commitment to them than an occasional watering and trimming.

HANGING PLANTS FOR HOME, TERRACE AND GARDEN — John Philip Rosmgard.

For all who love plants and like to garden indoors or out, here is a book which opens up the exciting vertical dimension of hanging plants, spilling down from baskets or cascading from boxes. Hanging plants bring a special grace and charm to the garden, the modern city back yard or the apartment window, and Dr. Rosmgard describes just how to grow them everywhere.

CHICO'S ORGANIC GARDENING AND NATURAL LIVING — Frank Bucaro.

"Chico" Bucaro has spent more than half a century growing plants without chemicals. He explains the different types of soil, how to prepare them for planting and how to start seeds. Following Chico's advice will benefit you nutritionally, economically and ecologically.

Talks Resume Tonight in Effort to Settle Transit Strike

Talks between Belleville's transit commission and its 33 striking drivers and mechanics will resume tonight. The bargaining started early today.

Negotiations between the two groups broke down April 4 with the union demanding a one-year contract with an increase the board increase of $1 an hour. The commission answered with an immediate 75-cent raise followed by another 75-cent an hour raise effective July 1.

The transit strike — now in its second week — is the first one ever to be called by the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Transport and General Workers in Belleville.

While both sides have been talkative about the events leading up to the action, neither side would comment whether it had softened its stand.

Marylee Burtt, chairman of the transit commission and sole bargaining officer, said during a telephone interview Tuesday night, "we're going to have to do something."

"The problem can't be solved by ignoring it," she said.

Lawrence St., Pierre, chief union negotiator, termed the return to the bargaining table, "the first major step towards settlement."

Mrs. Burtt said the three-man transit commission will meet tonight prior to the negotiating round.

The talks are scheduled to be held in the Sun Valley Hotel and should begin at 8 p.m., said Mr. St. Pierre.

The union has been reviewing its offer for the past week.

Effects of the transit strike have reached most corners of the community. Among those haarded hit are merchants and renters on their way to work.

Responding to the situation, Belleville's Central Volunteer Bureau has set up a driver service to help the city's senior citizens move about — particularly to provide transportation to keep medical appointments.

Davis Remains Silent On Provincial Election

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Whether or not he's made a decision, Premier William Davis still is keeping sealed lips about the timing of the next provincial election.

But that didn't deter him Tuesday from giving the equivalent of a forceful pre-election pep talk to party supporters during a brief stopover in Belleville.

The days are gone when party support means simply attending the rallies, optimistically convinced of an automatic election success, he warned Progressive Conservative workers who packed a Four Seasons Hotel dining room to join him at lunch.

"You can never take anything for granted in an election," he cautioned the more than 300 party supporters, during his brief Belleville visit on a day-long Quinte-Kingston area tour.

"The time has come when this sort of campaigning — in terms of personal contact, hardwork and the enthusiasm is going to mean more than it has in the past."

Mr. Davis was cautious against prompting election speculation.

But provincial politics are reaching "a point — and I have to tell the media I don't know when the point is — but at some point in time there will be an election. . . . And I think the time has come for some very direct talk as far as the party is concerned."

But, aside from his campaigning cautions for party workers the premier's speech also included indirect electioneering themes — from attacking opposition critics to boosting his energy record and praising Conservative governments for creating a province in which people "flourish" to the envy of other regions of North America.

While every nation is currently experiencing economic difficulties, Ontario is endeavoring to meet job and inflation problems in a "very tangible way," he said.

"Where else can a person look forward to getting a job with greater confidence today than in our own province of Ontario?" he asked.

The recent provincial budget was directed to easing no matter problems including an economic turn-around at a time of inflation and high unemployment rates, he said.

It is because of such problems, he opposed an increase in energy prices at last week's Ottawa conference of first ministers, said Mr. Davis.

The present economic situation will not support a price increase in what is "a basic commodity" to "one of the largest consuming provinces . . . ".

As such, what affects Ontario's economy also involves it has in the past."

"the national interest," he said.

Mr. Davis also struck out at Opposition Leader Robert Nixon and the Liberal party, charging him with lack of "forthrightedness" in revealing Liberal policies.

"I think the truth of the matter is he doesn't know . . . he has not been able to grasp the very complex issues that face the people of this province today," said Mr. Davis.

Oil Hike Opposed

Ontario's opposition to energy price increases won't change until the economy improves, Premier William Davis re-iterated Tuesday.

He restated his opposition stand at last week's Ottawa energy conference to party supporters at a lunch meeting over in Belleville on a swing through the Quinte - Kingston region.

The current slack economic climate — which also has caused joblessness in Ontario — won't support a price increase at this time, he said.

"And that is our position and at the present stage as it is it will continue to be our position," he told the audience at the Four Seasons Hotel.

He said the "impression" was that the last boost in western Canada energy prices would also accommodate exploration and development of resources.

But after provincial and federal governments had received "that report that increase there was "little left over" for such work.

Davis in City

Premier William Davis emphasizes point during speech to more than 200 party supporters and guests in Belleville Tuesday. The premier stopped over for lunch at Four Seasons Hotel during speech to more than 200 party supporters which includes meeting of full Ontario Cabinet in Kingston today.

Productivity Slipping Premier Warns Guests

High wage settlements — spurring higher prices without matching increased productivity — is threatening sales of Canadian goods, Premier William Davis warned Monday.

"There has not been sufficient recognition of the need for higher productivity to help offset such costs," Mr. Davis said.

He said he had recently been criticized for talking about the work ethic and the need for people to work harder and produce more.

". . . But I believe it very strongly," said the premier. "We can't afford as a province or a nation . . . to lose our competitive position in the world markets."

Wages settlements — in industry, even government, and the professions — eventually are reflected in prices.

Prices are higher now than in the United States — Canada's major importer — and "we cannot as a province or a country keep up this pace if we're to remain competitive," warned Mr. Davis.

No Circus Promotion

Like everyone else the separate school board loves a circus but trustees Tuesday night decided it was not going to love them and promote them at the same time.

The Hastings-Prince Edward County Separate School Board rejected a request by Ken Gardon Brothers Circus Tuesday night to advertise and sell tickets in the schools for a May 28 performance at the Belleville Memorial Arena.

The circus was offering children prices for the school sales.

At the same time the Belleville Jaycees asked the board to approve a poster contest to promote the circus. The board also voted to reject this request.

Pickets Stand Firm

City transit workers will return to the bargaining table tonight in an attempt to bring a settlement to the 23-member local of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Transport and General Workers. Union members are shown here talking with local president (right) Hugh Kerr.

Sidney Township Hires Recreation Director

Sidney Township has a full-time recreation director following the Tuesday night meeting of township council.

In recent months, there has been a growing awareness on council that the municipality must begin catering to the recreational needs of the township residents—particularly the young people.

Though a recreation committee has been operating for several months, council was unanimous in its opinion that a full-time recreation director is needed.

"We can't run a recreation department without professional staff," said Sidney Reeve Gord Wilman.

Agreeing with the Reeve, Councillor Ernie Kells added, "if we don't get a professional to start it up . . . we won't get very far," referring to organized sports activities.

Wendy Neale was hired as recreation director at an annual salary of $9,000.

Council will review the summer programs and Mrs. Neal's performance before next January to determine if the township is to continue with a full-time director.

In a brief to council Mrs. Neale showed $6,000 was available in provincial grants to offset costs of a number of recreation areas — including a $2,800 subsidy against her pay.

Two Cars Looted

City police are investigating two thefts from cars which occured sometime Monday night or Tuesday morning.

Chief Douglas Crosbie said today a two-way radio, valued at $250, was stolen from a vehicle owned by Vern Barnes of 79 Emily St. And an unknown thief made off with two tennis rackets, some tennis balls, a Polaroid camera and leather tripcase, all valued at $272, from a car owned by Ted McBride of 257 Albert St.

Injured Girl In Hospital

City police have released the name of the girl injured late Monday when the motorized bicycle she was riding in a Pine St. parking lot was in collision with a parked car.

Patricia Hennessey, 12, of Pine St. is in fair condition with a fractured jaw at Hotel Dieu Hospital in Kingston.

Concert Tonight

Artsfest '75 continues in Belleville with the next attraction, the Eastern Ontario Concert Orchestra appearing at Centennial Secondary School tonight at 8.15 p.m.

The orchestra will be conducted by Boris Brott. Chroma while guest vocalist will be Wally Williamson. Tickets are $2 with senior citizens and students paying $1.

Next event in the month-long festival devoted to the arts in the Quinte area is Barbershop and Brass in Concert featuring the Trenton chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America (SPEBQSA) and the Concert Brass.

This, too will be at Centennial Secondary School April 23 and general admission is $2 and $1 for students and senior citizens.

In the field of visual arts, a display of artwork and crafts carries on at Corby Public Library gallery until April 26. The gallery is open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily and from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. this Saturday. Admission is free.

Stepping up Artsfest '75, sponsored by the Quinte Arts Council, is the Belleville Theatre Guild's presentation of The Music Man. This will be presented April 28, May 1, 2 and 3 at Belleville Collegiate Institute at 8 p.m.

Separate School Board Sets Policy for Meetings

The separate school board reaffirmed its policy Tuesday night to discuss matters of employment, property and financial matters behind closed doors.

However, in an effort to comply with new Education Act, the board has reworded its newly-formed policy. Although ambiguous, the new Education Act says board meetings, committee meetings and committee-of-the-whole (closed) sessions shall be open to the public except when the board decides they shouldn't be.

The board's policy prohibited the public from attending committee meeting or committee-of-the-whole meetings. A revised policy says these meeting are open to the public except when matters of personnel, property and finances are being discussed.

The board decided to say just how it would inform the public and press as to which meetings would be open and which ones would be closed. The board agrees that publication of financial matters "might be detrimental to the financial advantage of the supporters."

Some Ontario boards of education, like the Lennox and Grenville, allow the press to attend committee-of-the-whole meetings for background information but prohibit the publication of any material from the meeting.

At the last meeting of the separate school board some trustees felt the board's own policy contradicts the legislation set down by the ministry of education. As a rule few members of the public attend the regular board meetings.

The Hastings County Board of Education also has a bylaw which contravenes the new education act by prohibiting the public from attending committee-of-the-whole meetings. This board has not yet dealth with this descrepancy.

Township to Comment On City's Official Plan

The province's ministry of housing has asked Sidney Township to comment on Belleville's official plan in its amended form.

The request is part of the consultation procedure undertaken by the province to gain complete input concerning any official plan document.

The ministry asks the township specifically if any portion of the proposed official plan affects anticipated growth in the municipality.

Councillor Ernie Kells Tuesday questioned whether Sidney Township had any right to comment on what Belleville does within its own boundaries.

None of the amendments to the plan affect the border between Belleville and the township.

Pellet Gun Injures Girl

City police have issued a warning to Belleville residents about the use of pellet guns following a Tuesday incident during which a 15-year-old girl suffered a minor injury.

Chief Douglas Crosbie said today a group of juveniles was shooting at tin cans when Sherry Lynn Bellis of 40 Bettes St., sitting nearby, was struck in the side of the head by a pellet from a gun which had discharged during re-loading.

"We're satisfied it's an accident," he commented. He said the girl was treated and released from Belleville General Hospital.

Chief Crosbie pointed out the use of pellet guns within city limits is prohibited. They may only be used on private property outside the city boundary.

Scott New Fire Chief

Sidney Township's first full-time fire chief will begin his duties administering the municipality's volunteer fire brigade next Monday, it was learned at a township council meeting Tuesday night.

Council unanimously ratified Canadian Armed forces firefighter Douglas Scott has been named to the position — one of eight original applicants.

Mr. Scott, a resident of Trenton, will receive an annual salary of $10,000 plus a $1,000 car allowance.

"I keep the two systems disjointed . . . as a trustee I'm concerned about the continual improvement of the education standards now demanded by the taxpayers," he explained. He also said trustees should "set policy and then see that those policies are being implemented by the administration and teachers."

Mr. Paquet said he's attracted to the county board of education because he views it as a type of political arena. He served three years on a municipal council of small community in York County.

He said his major interest in education rests on the fact that he has eight children involved in every possible area of schools.

Sidewalk Approved

Approval to build a sidewalk on the west side of Sydney St. has been given to the city by the Hastings-Prince Edward County separate School Board.

The city, on the advice of the traffic committee, wrote the board seeking permission to construct the sidewalk near the Sidney St. School crossing of Our Lady of Fatima School.

The board granted permission as long as the city picks up the tab for the construction. The cost of the sidewalk will be taken out of the general tax rate.

Business Administrator Becomes Education Trustee

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the fifth of a series featuring county educators. The partnership sketches include teachers, administrators and trustees.

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

By trade Edgar Paquet is an educational administrator, by choice he's a trustee — and for him the two don't necessarily mix.

At 44, Mr. Paquet has been a long-time business administrator with separate school boards and the most recent being the Hastings-Prince Edward board since 1969. Last December he was acclaimed to the Hastings County Board of Education as one of its two separate school representatives. John Forbes is the other representative.

Born and raised in Toronto, Mr. Paquet attended St. Michael's College in Toronto and later worked his way through the business section of various boards near Toronto, including Bradford, Newmarket and York County. He is currently completing special administrative training at the Ontario Institute of Education at Studies (OISE) in Toronto.

Since the amalgamation of boards in 1969, education has become big business and those who hold the purse strings have a big job in sorting out provincial grants, taxes and school expenditures.

The Hastings-Prince Edward separate school board has a 1974 budget of $3.8 million. The Hastings County Board of Education has a 1974 budget of $28.6 million.

"My role as a trustee is not simply to represent the Catholic students in the public high schools . . . this is a misconception," said Mr. Paquet, who is married with eight children, ranging in age between seven and 23. Mr. Paquet said with the exception of a few hundred students at Nicholson Catholic College all Catholic children attend county high schools. Every taxpayer supports secondary schools,

Dual Role

Edgar Paquet, the 44-year-old business administrator with the Hastings-Prince Edward County Separate School, plays a dual role in education. Last December he was acclaimed to the Hastings County Board of Education as a trustee representing separate school electors.

Mohawk Debate Televised

TYENDINAGA — Mohawks opposing the elected council on this reserve are making travel arrangements for residents here to view the screening of a debate at Kingston between two leading protagonists in issues which flared last year.

The debate was held March 28 at Queen's University and arranged by the university's film studies department.

It involved Chief William Brant and Brant Maracle, a spokesman for the group opposing council.

Now the taped debate is being shown and reserve residents as well as university students are invited to see the film Thursday.

Tyendinaga residents will be taken from the reserve by bus for the event.

Controversy first flared on the reserve last summer with the establishment of an industry organized under corporate regulations. Opponents claimed this could open the to provincial and municipal regulations being imposed on the reserve which is administered by the federal government.

Fairy Tale Comes True for Local Volleyball Player

Regyna Armonas Selected to Canadian National Senior Squad

Regyna Armonas has been dodging her every move, right down to the last detail, for the past three years. Her ultimate goal was to make the Canadian National Senior Volleyball team for the 1976 Olympics.

Saturday night, the 18-year-old Belleville resident received a phone call from Vancouver. It was her coach, Art Wilms, the right hand man of the national coach, Moo Park. The national team had cut three players and picked up two juniors. Wilms informed her that she would have to cut her stay with her family short if she was to return in time for her first national team workout, Tuesday night.

"I couldn't believe it," said Armonas. "I've been scheming for this for three years: it almost makes you believe in fairy tales."

Regyna is now an official member of the women's national squad.

"I still have to keep up a very high standard to remain on the team," she said, "and I'll have to work twice as hard if I want to crack the starting line up before the '76 Games."

Since September, Regyna has been playing with the Vancouver Chinook. A volleyball club that not only ranks as the best in British Columbia, but possibly the best in the country. From the Chinooks come many of the players for the national squads.

Regyna is gaining her position, education at UBC. She specifically decided on the university because she already knew it would help her chances of making the junior squad. It has been itself in BC.

In the summer of '74, Regyna travelled to the junior national tryouts in British Columbia, and received a special invitation from Wilms, Alter making the junior squad she decided to move to BC.

Upon arriving, Wilms shuffled her right into the Chinook club. For the past eight months she has been playing volleyball across the country and keeping her nose buried in her schoolwork.

The Chinos won the Victoria Invitational, came second at their own Chino Invitational (they lost to the US junior national squad), topped the UBC Invitational, placed well at the Calgary International where they faced the Canadian and Korean National squads and won the Canadian Senior Nations in Quebec (finishing with a 18-1 record), two weeks ago.

Though there was a lot of work and travel involved in playing for the Chinos, Regyna says playing for the national squad will be twice as time consuming.

"School will be over in a few weeks and I'll have done my exams," she said, "that will give me time to concentrate on playing."

The national squad practices 8-10 hours daily for the entire summer. With this being pre-Olympic year, many teams from outside the country will be on tour; looking to play top Canadian teams — naturally that includes the national squad. And then, there's the World Cup, in Mexico in October.

"The travelling is going to be fantastic," said Regyna, "I know I'm going to love it. The only thing is that I won't be seeing much of my family and it appears as though I may have to quit school or at least cut my workload in half for a couple of years."

Regyna, still being junior age, was selected to the all-star team representing British Columbia at the Canada Winter Games in Lethbridge, Alberta. Until the junior national zone championships are completed in the fall, she will be listed as an alternate player with senior national team.

"That will keep the rest of my name quiet," said Armonas, "sometimes if they know you're a member of the senior team they step up a notch when you play for the juniors even though she is still eligible. If I'm listed as an alternate they can't say much."

Prior to the junior zone championships — which include teams from throughout the Western Hemisphere — the Canadian junior squad may be touring France.

"That's still up in the air," said Regyna, "it depends a lot on the funds, but we have an open invitation."

When her junior commitments are fulfilled she will play strictly with the seniors. Though she hopes to have a first string spot nailed down by Olympic time, she may have her work cut out for her.

She keeps herself in excellent physical condition. She is very deceiving at first glance. Her attractive appearance overshadows her actual size and strength since she weighs around 140 pounds, but her weight goes in her favor. However; she is only five-foot-nine and that diminishes her plus-factor for strength. Most of the women playing on the senior team range between five-foot-eleven and six-foot-three.

Still, the work she has ahead of her doesn't bother her a bit.

"It's a relief just to be here," she said, "it takes the pressure off. I just wasn't sure whether coming all the way out here (BC) to go to school was the right thing. But there were a lot of other questions that needed answering. But now that I've accomplished what I set out to do I needn't worry any more."

BQSA 8 Teams Strong

Officials of the Bay of Quinte Soccer Association (BQSA), assured of an eight-team grouping for the 1975 season, have not written off the possibility of a ninth entry.

According to association president Peter Crowle, Brighton may yet join the league but he classes that club's return to the fold as "doubtful".

"Club officials in Brighton have been unable to acquire sponsorship and that gets the entry in jeopardy," said Crowle.

Awaiting the start of league play are two Belleville entries, Olympics and Parsons; three Trenton-based clubs, Citizens Finance, Quinte Italo-Canadians, and Quinte Hellenic; Warkworth Institution, Canadian Forces Base Trenton and Cobourg Town's.

League openers are tentatively scheduled for May 11. Games at Trenton will be played at Centennial Park and Bain Memorial Park. Efforts are being made to make playing areas available in the association in Belleville, at Zwicky's Island, Albert College and Sir James Whitney School.

Adequate facilities for games are available at CFB Trenton, Cobourg and Warkworth.

Two of the BQSA teams, Olympics and Quinte Hellenic, will be doing double-duty. Both clubs are expected to enter the Eastern Ontario Premier Soccer League.

The Premier League has a meeting scheduled for Golden Mile Restaurant in Belleville, Sunday, at 11 a.m.

Stirling Wins Womens Title

Ken Sine Purds of Stirling completed an undefeated season in league and playoff action, Sunday, rolling to the championship of the Quinte Women's Hockey League with a 3-1 win over Belleville Mel Barriage.

The Stirling team swept through the regular season with only a tie spoiling its bid for a perfect record and then got by Picton in three straight in semi-final play before pulling Belleville out in four in the best of seven final.

Goals by Cindy Haley and Joan Bailey shot Stirling in front 2-0 before the Belleville came back to make it close on Sue Morton's counter.

Stirling got the insurance goal when Debbie Lesser connected with time running out.

Olympics, Cosy Drop Openers

Olympics and Cosy Grill, first and second place finishers during the indoor Soccer League, fouled rough going when the loop opened playoff competition, Monday night at Loyalist College.

Faced with red hot goal-tending from John's Variety's Larry Green, Olympics were forced to settle for a 1-1 tie while Cosy Grill was shaded 3-2 by Moira Secondary School.

Ernie Brown was the only Olympics' shooter to beat Cross and that goal came on a penalty shot.

Joe Mulaski and Ginger Sprague took care of the Moira scoring in the aforementioned Cosy Grill. Replying for the losers was Charlie Nesterovski.

FINAL STANDINGS

CULP STAY

HOUSTON (AP) — Carey Culp has decided to remain with Houston Oilers of the National Football League instead of switching to the World Football League's Southern California Sun. The Oilers announced Tuesday the 270-pound middle guard had signed a four-year contract. Culp was traded to Houston by Kansas City Chiefs last October.

Theresa Deak and Joann Remesberger accept their plume tickets and display their plaques presented to them from Ron Swatek (centre) after winning the local leg of the Brunswick Bowl Your Way To Europe Tournament at the Plaza's Brunswick Belleville Bowl on Sunday. Both competitors now participate in the International Tournament Finals (through an all expense paid trip to Washington D.C. next month.

Awards for Junior Girls

In the final game of the Belleville Junior Girls Hockey House League of the season, played Sunday at Memorial Arena, Canadian Legion doubled the score on Belleville Bells, 8-4.

Sue Mober paced the winners with a four-goal effort. Wanda Clapp had a pair with one each for Patti Gerrard and Kim Muir.

Bells rally their scoring among four players. Clicking for the goals were Karen Doonan, Beth Baker, Patricia Hossack and Anne Temple-man.

Several awards were presented as rewards for efforts during the junior girls hockey program.

Canadian Legion award winners were Karen Duffy, most improved player; Lori Moon, best all round; Sherry Towns, most valuable player, and Patti Gerrard, winner of the executive trophy.

Karen Brownlee was the recipient of the award as the Bells' most valuable player and Cindy Hannah was rewarded for collecting the most points on the season. Rookie honors went to Darlene Clarke Janice Bennett took the sportsmanship award, and Kim Mohr was judged the most improved player.

Canucks Quiet Know-it-Alls

Dennis Ververgaert of Vancouver Canucks has a message for Montreal's taxi drivers: "Just tell them to stop making predictions about Montreal and Vancouver. They're wrong."

Ververgaert's message could also apply to many fans who thought Montreal Canadiens would eliminate the Canucks in four straight in their current Stanley Cup quarter-final series.

The Canucks, losers of the opening game Sunday, bounced back to take a 3-1 win Tuesday night to even their best-of-seven set 1-1.

In other games, Pittsburgh Penguins downed New York Islanders 3-1, Philadelphia Flyers topped Toronto Maple Leafs 5-0 and Buffalo Sabres clipped Chicago Black Hawks 3-1. Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and the Sabres all hold 2-0 leads in their series.

"We came here to win a game and we did," said Canucks coach Phil Maloney. "We were skating with more pride — a lot better than we did in the first game."

Up until Tuesday night, the Canucks had never beaten Montreal in a game that meant something. The Canadiens were 24-0-3 in regular-season action and 1-0 in the playoffs.

"I don't know what you think, but I don't think we played badly tonight," said Canadiens defenceman Guy Lapointe. "(Gary) Smith was just fantastic for them and he made several excellent saves. This series is not going to be easy."

Smith blocked 38 of 39 Montreal shots as he returned to the Canucks lineup after resting a groin injury Sunday night. The other Vancouver winner was Gary Monahan who scored the game-winning goal at 15:09 of the third period.

"Leon (Rochefort) shot the puck and it hit the boards," Monahan said. "It came off nicely to me and I shot it. I think Dryden had the shot and then I saw the light on.

"Rochefort broke for the net and created some confusion."

Monahan said Smith "came up with a great game" and "it inspired us."

But Smith, an 11-year veteran, refused to take the credit. "The guys showed a lot of guts for guys making a lot less in salary than the team they beat."

Smith was upset with rookie centre of Doug Risebrough of the Canadiens who was penalized for charging the Vancouver goaltender in the second period.

"My back was turned and he took a run at me," Smith said. "He should have had more than two minutes for charging. It was an attempt to injure."

Risebrough denied deliberately going after the Vancouver goaltender.

"I was just going after the puck," he said. "Smith was just after for me."

Risebrough returned to score Montreal's lone goal at 12:38 of the middle session but Gerry O'Flaherty tied it up at 15:08.

"At one point this season, we were pretty much an all-out offence club," Imlach said. "But we're going a little more to defence now and it makes it easier for me."

The Penguins peppered Islanders goaltender Billy Smith with 47 shots—31 in a scoreless second session. Lowell MacDonald beating him twice to pace the Pittsburgh offence.

Goaltender Bernie Parent made only 13 shots as the Flyers topped the Leafs. Veteran Terry Crisp, who did not play in Sunday night's opener, scored twice for the Flyers with Andre Dupont adding the other.

Leafs coach Red Kelly was upset with the work of referee Lloyd Gilmour in the game but more unhappy with the lack-lustre effort of his club.

At Buffalo, Rick Dudley scored a pair of goals and goaltender Gerry Desjardins kicked out 27 shots—16 in the third period—to lead the Sabres past Chicago.

Paul Evans apparently has found the secret of playing hockey with a broken bone in his ankle.

Evans, who broke the ankle bone during the quarter-final series with Oshawa Generals, scored two goals Tuesday to lead Peterborough Petes to a 6-2 win over Hamilton Fincups.

Hamilton leads the eight-point Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A series 6-4.

In the other semi-final series, Toronto Marlboros scored four unanswered goals in the third period to down Sudbury Wolves 6-4 and even their series 5-5 in points.

At Peterborough, a crowd of 2,975 watched the Petes build up period leads of 2-1 and 3-2 before Evans scored the insurance goal midway through the third period.

In the playoffs, Evans has five goals and seven assists.

Tony Cassolato and Rod Laurence scored the other goals for Peterborough, outshot 35-28 by Don Cusini and Glenn Richardson replied for the Fincups.

At Toronto, Sudbury led 2-1 and 6-4 after the first and second periods but were blanked in the third period when Toronto goaltender Steve Bosco replaced Gary Carr in net.

Bruce Boudreau and Mike Kasrycki each scored two goals, John Smrke, Lynn Jorgenson, Bill Wells and Mark Napier got the other Toronto goals.

Alex McKendry led Sudbury scoring with two goals. Other Wolves' goals went to Rod Schutt, Bob Russell, Geoff Green and Ken MacKenzie.

Toronto outshot the visitors 31-20.

Bramalea Wins Opener

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Dave McKee scored three goals and added an assist in leading Bramalea Blues to a 6-4 win over Oakville Blades in the opening game of their Ontario Hockey Association Junior B final playoff Tuesday night.

The second game of the best-of-seven series is set for tonight at Bramalea.

Bill Joyce, Dan McKeraghan and Don Walker also scored for Bramalea. Rusty Chapman, Mark Cassidy, Don Milford and Dennis Fowler scored for Oakville.

NAMED PLAYER OF YEAR

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Julius Erving of New York Nets was named the American Basketball Association's player of the year in a poll of ABA players conducted by the Sporting News and announced Tuesday.

Howe Pulls Off Second Three Goal Performance of Playoffs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Houston Aeros, led by hot-shooting Mark Howe, could wrap up their World Hockey Association quarter-final playoff series against Cleveland Thursday night and Quebec Nordiques will have to take at least one more game to eliminate Phoenix Roadrunners.

Howe scored three goals Tuesday night to lead the Aeros in a 7-3 win over the Crusaders that gave Houston a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven series.

Quebec missed its chance for a four-game sweep over the Roadrunners at Phoenix, dropping a 5-4 overtime loss that forces that series back to Quebec for the fifth game Thursday.

In Tuesday's other game, New England Whalers rallied for a 5-3 win over the Fighting Saints at Minnesota, tying that series at 2-2, with the fifth game set for the Whaler's home ice at Hartford, Conn., on FRIday.

The fourth quarter-final, with San Diego Mariners leading Toronto Toros 3-1, resumes tonight in Toronto.

Mark Howe has been the dominant force behind the Aeros' playoff success. He had his second three-goal game of the series Tuesday and has a total of eight playoff goals.

"Thank God, we're getting out of Cleveland," said Crusaders' general manager and coach Jack Vivian, angered over fans' booing of goalie Gerry Cheevers in the third period.

"He's came out to clear pucks for his team-mates and has taken many checks," the coach went on. "It will be nice going to Houston. At least down there they're not fickle."

It was while clearing the puck in the third period that Cheevers got into trouble and started getting catcalls.

With the Crusaders trailing 6-1, Cheevers came out to try to clear the puck, but Houston's Andre Hinse poked the puck loose and fed it to Frank Hughes, who fired into an open net.

From that point on, every time Cheevers made a stop, the fans gave him a bonus cheer.

At Phoenix, the Roadrunners bounced into a 4-3 first-period lead, allowed Quebec to tie it in the second and then won the game on Michel Cormier's overtime score.

Dennis Sobchuk scored twice and John Gray and Rob Ftorek added single goals for the Roadrunners in the first period. Wendell Bennett added a Phoenix power-play goal in the second period.

The Nordiques got first-period goals from Serge Bernier and Réjean Houle. Robert Guindon scored twice in the second period, and Bernier added another to pull Quebec even, going into the scoreless third.

New England, which had lost the first game on its home ice, looked in danger of slipping two games behind until Bob Charlebois scored a shorthanded goal for the Whalers to tie the score at 2-2. Then Tom Earl scored another shorthanded goal and Nick Fotiu added his second score of the game to give the Whalers a 4-2 lead. Don Blackburn's score wrapped up the Whalers' four-goal rally.

INTRODUCING A NEW BEER

WHO'S GOING TO DRINK IT?

"With my heavy responsibilities I like a light beer...now and then."
"What's a five letter word meaning...to illuminate?"
"My secret? I eat big but I drink light."

Cool Spring is a new light beer brewed especially for the person who likes the refreshment of a beer but wants a lighter taste. Cool Spring contains less alcohol than other Canadian beers. (For example, most beers offer around 5% alcohol by volume. Cool Spring's content is 3.9%). It's been brewed for the person who enjoys a light beer, now and then. But who is that person? It could be the barefoot executive out at his local. A couple relaxing at home. Or a guy who likes to balance a large sandwich with a light refreshment.

Choosing a beer is a personal thing. And there are just as many reasons to drink Cool Spring as there are people who enjoy it. But wherever or whenever, we think that Cool Spring has a unique lightness which will appeal to people who enjoy the refreshment of a light beer. Now and then.

Cool Spring by Labatt's. Maybe it's for you.

Baker, Evans Take Over Aaron's Stick Duties

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hank Aaron is gone from Atlanta Braves but some of his magic remains in the bats of Darrell Evans and Dusty Baker.

"Driving in runs is the clutch is what I'm paid to do," said Baker after he and Evans drove in three runs each Tuesday night in a 6-1 Braves win over Houston Astros.

"You can't drive them in all the time, but you can try—that was one of Hank's philosophies."

Atlanta has scored only 20 runs in eight games. Evans is driving in nine of them and Baker seven.

Elsewhere in the National League, Los Angeles Dodgers defeated Cincinnati Reds 3-1 and San Diego Padres beat San Francisco Giants 2-1. The Chicago-Pittsburgh and New York-Philadelphia games were rained out while St. Louis and Montreal were not scheduled.

Evans hit his third homer of the season, a two-run shot, in the first inning off J.R. Richard. He picked up a third RBI when he was hit by a pitch with the bases loaded in a three-run third. Baker hit a bases-loaded single for two runs in the third and added a sacrifice fly in the fifth.

Meanwhile, knuckleballer Phil Niekro scattered seven hits, including Jose Cruz' first-inning home run.

Los Angeles pitcher Don Sutton held Cincinnati hitless for 6 2-3 innings before Johnny Bench's first home run of the season forced him to settle for the fourth one-hitter of his career.

The 30-year-old right-hander joined Joe Morgan on a 3-2 pitch with one out in the first inning but Morgan was erased when Bench grounded into a double play. Sutton then faced the minimum number of batters and had retired 18 in a row when Bench homered on the first pitch. Sutton then retired the last seven Cincinnati batters.

Jimmy Wynn hit a two-run homer for the Dodgers in the first inning off Clay Kirby and Sutton squeezed home the final Los Angeles run in the seventh.

The victory was the Dodgers' third in a row and second over Reds, who beat them three times in Cincinnati last week.

Randy Jones allowed two hits in seven innings and Bobby Tolan and Willie McCovey delivered run-scoring singles as San Diego rallied in the eighth.

YEAGER SIDELINED

HOUSTON (AP) — Catcher Steve Yeager of Los Angeles Dodgers suffered a hairline fracture of his left knee Sunday in a home plate collision with Wilbur Howard of Houston Astros. It was not known how long Yeager will be out of action. The Dodgers lost starting shortstop Bill Russell, who suffered a broken hand, last Friday.

Mike Caldwell blanked the Padres on five hits over the first seven innings and an unearned run in the first put the Giants on top 1-0. But Glenn as a pinch hitter for Jones, was safe on an error by second baseman Derrel Thomas, a former Padre. Pinch runner John Scott stole second and third and, after a walk to Enos Hernandez, scored the tying run on Tolan's single.

Hernandez went to third on Tolan's hit and, after John Grubb was hit with a pitch, scored the winner on a bloop single, by ex-Giant McCovey of reliever Gary Lavelle.

Yanks Hunter Loses Second

Dark Intervenes At Wrong Time

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mike Norris was dating long enough to make Oakland forget about Jim (Catfish) Hunter until A's manager Alvin Dark intervened.

When Hunter escaped from his contract, and ultimately escaped from Oakland to take up residence with the Yankees in New York, he left a gap in the A's pitching corps.

But Norris appeared to be filling the gap. In his major league debut last Thursday, he pitched a three-hit game against Chicago and won 9-0. And on Tuesday night, he pitched seven innings of one-hit ball in Kansas City before Dark, figuring his young hurler was getting sleepy-weary, called for veteran reliever Paul Lindblad in the eighth to protect the A's 3-1 lead.

A few pitches later the lead was gone, compliments of Al Cowens' two-run homer.

And an inning later, the game was gone, too, The Royals won it 4-3 on Hal McRae's single and George Brett's double off Rollie Fingers.

Elsewhere in the American League, Hunter lost his second game in a Yankees uniform with Boston Red Sox taking the 9-3 victory.

Other scores: Milwaukee Brewers 7 Baltimore Orioles 1; California Angels 7 Minnesota Twins 3; Texas Rangers 4 Chicago White Sox 3.

Norris allowed only Cookie Rojas' second-inning single in his stint against the Royals. But when the leadoff runner got on in the eighth—through no fault of his own—and threw a couple of bad pitches to Tony Solaita, Dark figured it was time to make a move. Vada Pinson had just reached first on Joe Rudi's error on first base when Dark called for Lindblad.

The Yanks built up a 3-0 lead against Bill Lee, but it evaporated in the Red Sox' four-run fourth. A walk and singles by Bernie Carbo and Bob Montgomery produced one run, Doug Griffin's single loaded the bases, a sacrifice fly by Fred Lynn made it 3-2, Griffin stole second and Dwight Evans singled for two more runs. Carbo doubled and scored Boston's final run on Rick Burleson's single when Hunter departed in the eighth amid booing from the Yankee fans.

"Every time he goes out there, the fans don't see a 25-million pitcher. They see a $3.75 million pitcher," Lee said of Hunter, expressing concern that the huge contract could hurt Catfish. "He's a nice guy. I hope this doesn't ruin his life. He shouldn't have that burden."

Milwaukee's Robin Yount hit a tie-breaking single to start a six-run eighth inning—with the final five runs unearned because of three Baltimore errors—that backed Bill Champions five-hit pitching for the Brewers.

Bruce Bochte hit a two-run double and Bob Darwin's three-base error let Mickey Rivers race home with the tie-breaking run in the Angels' decision over Minnesota that gave Nolan Ryan his third straight victory and ruined the Twins' home opener.

IN MEMORIAM

THOMPSON, David Michael — In loving memory of a dear son who was taken away April 16, 1971.

Sad is the day he left us,
No eyes can see his way,
But still within our aching hearts,
His memory lies deep.

Never remembered by Mother and Father Dorothea and Ted and Brothers.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. Lena Alger of Cherrytree Lodge, Mrs. Shirley Robertson, Dr. Shantz, the nurses in Intensive Care and on 4th level, the staff of the Belleville General Hospital for the kind care she received during her recent illness. She also wishes to take this opportunity to thank friends and neighbors for the cards, flowers and calls she received during her illness.

Josephine Baker Buried

PARIS (Reuter) — The world of show business paid homage Tuesday at a funeral service for music hall star Josephine Baker, exactly one week after giving her a standing ovation at a show to mark her 50-year stage career.

Two thousand people packed under the dome of La Madeleine Church and 10,000 more outside paid tribute to the singer who rivalled Maurice Chevalier as one of the great stars of music halls in France.

Among the mourners was Princess Grace of Monaco, who helped the once-penniless singer to find a home for her 13 multinational orphans after she was ejected from her French chateau.

Miss Baker, 68, died of a cerebral hemorrhage on Saturday, just two weeks after opening a revue at Bobino's Music Hall which played to full houses every night and was seen by 15,000 persons.

Ballet on Tour

THE HAGUE (Reuter) — The National Ballet of Canada opened a six-day tour of the Netherlands on Tuesday with a performance of Coppelia before a packed house at the Netherlands Congress building.

About 1,800 persons, 300 of them invited guests, attended the performance by the 93-member company. It was the ballet's first appearance in the Netherlands since it was established 26 years ago. The choreography for Coppelia was by Denmark's Erik Bruhn.

The visit forms part of a special bilateral cultural exchange marking the 30th anniversary of the liberation of the Netherlands by Canadian troops in the Second World War.

Actor Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Richard Conte is dead of a heart attack, the fourth Hollywood personality to die in six days.

Conte, 65, who often played smooth gangsters and jaded heroes in such films as The Godfather and A Walk in the Sun, died Tuesday at UCLA Medical Center.

Marjorie Main, 85, the gravel-voiced star of the Ma and Pa Kettle series, died of cancer last Thursday. Larry Parks, 60, who starred in The Jolson Story, died of a heart attack Sunday. Two-time Oscar winner Fredric March died of cancer Monday at 77.

Cancer Society Open House

April is cancer month and recently Quinte branch of the Canadian Cancer Society held open house at its Bridge St. offices. Holding one of the society's booklets about Celly, aimed at children, is volunteer Doris Wardle, while Mary Williams, also a volunteer with the group, chats with Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Churcher.

Linda Will Take Class

LOS ANGELES (Reuter) — Linda McCartney, wife of former Beatle Paul McCartney, dropped Monday her attempt to fight a marijuana possession charge and agreed to attend a court-approved class on the evils of drug abuse.

Mrs. McCartney, 33, communicated her decision on the six-month instructional program through her lawyer, Richard Hirsch, in west Los Angeles municipal court. She is back in England and did not attend Monday's hearing.

"It's possible that she could be asked to write an essay as part of the program," Hirsch told reporters outside the court.

Both Mrs. McCartney and her husband were taken to the police station for questioning March 3 after police stopped their car for a minor traffic offence in Santa Monica and found a smouldering marijuana butt on the floor of the car and 16 grams of marijuana in Mrs. McCartney's handbag on the back seat.

Film Pirates to be Checked

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The film industry is finally doing something to combat the piracy racket that earns an estimated $100 million a year from stolen films.

Jack Valenti, president of the Motion Picture Association, has announced the founding of the Film Security Office, which will try to track down and recover movies that have fallen into wrong hands.

He appointed William Nolan, a 33-year veteran of the FBI to head the office, with Ewing Layhew, a 36-year FBI man, as assistant.

Houdini Sculpture Smashed

NEW YORK (AP)—A granite bust of the late magician Harry Houdini was smashed by vandals above his grave in a Queens cemetery.

The life-sized sculpture was attacked with a hammer sometime between 5 p.m. Tuesday and 8 a.m. Wednesday, when the damage was discovered in Maspeth Cemetery.

Houdini died at the age of 52 in 1926. He was buried in a 70 by 10-foot family plot, surrounded by a 6-foot wall.

"We plan to work closely with the law enforcement agencies in making it tough for pirates to operate," said Nolan. "We want to prosecute, which is the only way to cut down on this illegal trade."

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario College of Pharmacy told Ontario druggists Tuesday it is "not ambivert" to charge them with breach of law should they post drug prices inside their stores and the posting is not designed to promote sales.
However, the college said prices of narcotics or controlled drugs, such as barbiturates and amphetamines, must not be posted.

Road Program
TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Treasurer Darcy McKeough has announced $281.7 million on highway construction in the current fiscal year, John Rhodes, minister of transportation and communications, told the legislature Tuesday.
The expenditure is part of a $2.6-million program which proposes work on 949 miles of highways—much of it aimed at improving existing highways—and construction of 84 bridges.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Thursday, April 17

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You have a tendency today to leave things half-done. Complications will later arise from this. Try to finish what you start.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20) Guard against making hasty judgments where your work is concerned. Any mistake you make today is bound to be a big one.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You'll have to be very careful the next few days regarding resources. You could buy what you want instead of what you can afford!

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You'll have a bit of a problem advancing your ambitions today if you're not careful. Back off if odds seem stacked against you.

LEO (July 23-Aug 22) Don't try to manipulate others today with techniques out of character for you. Results would be anything but what you sought.

VIRGO (Aug 23-Sept 22) Don't be enticed into a financial proposition by an acquaintance today. Taking the ball, you may be in for some treacherous hidden costs.

LIBRA (Sept 23-Oct 23) You could make some rash moves today that could give your opposition the advantage—and all the edge they need!

SCORPIO (Oct 24-Nov 22) Try not to seek advice from too many sources regarding a problem. The diversity of solutions will only confuse you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 23-Dec 21) Be careful! If you borrow tools or equipment today you may wind up paying for repair or replacement!

CAPRICORN (Dec 22-Jan 19) Treat associates with kid gloves today. Several important relationships are in delicate balance.

AQUARIUS (Jan 20-Feb 19) Stick with proven techniques where work is concerned. This is not the time for new methods or attempted innovations.

PISCES (Feb 20-March 20) Don't push your luck too far today. It is much more fragile than you realize. Hide the dice and the cards and stay away from the track.

WFL Goes After Broadway Joe

NEW YORK (AP) — With visions of Broadway Joe Namath in its dreams, the once-destitute World Football League rises from the ashes today with a press conference at a plush and fashionable hotel.

Hoping to make Namath its biggest catch, the league said Tuesday night it has offered the New York Jets quarterback $4 million in guaranteed cash—a quantity the WFL has lacked so far—to play with its Chicago franchise for three years beginning this summer.

League president Chris Hemmeter said the offer called for a $500,000 bonus, $300,000 a year for three years and $120,000 a year for 30 years beginning in 1973.

In addition, the WFL said it offered Namath 50 per cent ownership in a future expansion franchise—one which sources said would be located in New York.

As an indication of its uncertain future and unsuccessful past, the league did not know as late as Tuesday night what it could announce today.

Officials said there would be a league, but just how many teams there was yet to be figured out. Other problems were also being argued, in meetings that were going 18 hours each of the last two days.

Hemmeter, the Hawaiian land developer who has rescued the WFL, said the offer to Namath was backed by guarantees. There was no immediate response from Namath, who is under contract to the Jets until May 1.

Sources at the meeting said owners of the potential Chicago franchise were insisting they would not play unless they got either Namath or Larry Csonka and Paul Warfield.

The league wants to make Chicago its flagship in hopes of attracting television money and major media coverage. The Memphis WFL owner, who owns the contracts of Csonka and Warfield, has said he would sell them to Chicago if such an action was necessary to save the league.

To be sure, the league is not on the most solid economic ground. But a few months ago, when the WFL had lost $20 million, missed countless payrolls and broken numerous promises, another season seemed a virtual impossibility.

Challenges Foreman

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — World heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali challenged George Foreman to a three-round exhibition on April 26, and also predicted he would knock out Tom Lyle in the eighth round of their scheduled 15-round title fight May 18.

There was no immediate comment from Foreman or Video Techniques Inc., which is handling the television package for Foreman's three-round bouts against five opponents in Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens.

On Tuesday, Mac Foster pulled out of the exhibition with what his manager said was tendonitis. Foster's spot on the card was taken by Philadelphia heavyweight Jerry Judge.

Ali, who knocked out Foreman in the eighth round of their title bout last year to regain the heavyweight championship, said, "I want to be the first man to go three rounds.

"Foreman wants another shot at me. This is a chance to show me he deserves a rematch . . . that he's better than he showed in Zaire," Ali said. "I'm going to blast him in the first three rounds.

"He's going to get his shot (at the title) anyway. But it could be prolonged. Let's have a real hard duel and see who's the best man."

Foreman's other scheduled opponents in the April 26 exhibition are Boone Kirkman, Terry Daniels, Alonzo Johnson and Pedro Agosto.

TRADE FOR GEORGE

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore Colts traded an undisclosed draft pick to Pittsburgh Steelers Monday for the National Football League rights to offensive tackle Ed George.

Ali Claims Was Misquoted

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Muhammad Ali denied Tuesday that he called fighter Jerry Wepner and Ron Lyle "a big rip-off" and considers himself a "black Robin Hood."

Ali had been quoted by the Fort Lauderdale News last week as saying: "I admit it. It feels like stealing sometimes. I just made a million—and a half dollars beating a nobody like Chuck Wepner. I'll make another million dollars beating another nobody like Ron Lyle.

"Sure, what I'm doing is a big ripoff, but I can't stop fighting while I'm making all this money. . . . I want to make as much money as I can. I want to take as much money from the rich as I can."

The Canadian Press also carried the story.

Writer Bob Padecky, who conducted the interview, said Ali made the statements attributed to him and added: "To say you were misquoted is an overworked cliche."

"I can't say they lied," Ali said Tuesday. "They just added some things I didn't say. This is what a person would write to destroy what a person does to his fans.

He called Lyle "a good fighter," and said he decided to fight him because it would give fans who couldn't afford tickets a chance to see the fight on home television.

Being Sued By Referee

NEW YORK (AP) — Boxing referee Tony Perez filed a $25-million law suit Tuesday against Muhammad Ali, alleging the heavyweight boxing champion hurt his name and reputation by remarks after the Chuck Wepner fight in Cleveland on March 24.

In the suit, Perez claimed Ali protested that Wepner was throwing rabbit punches and illegal blows to the back of the head.

"Ali then began intentionally to throw rabbit punches at Wepner and painfully (Perez) directed him to stop," the court complaint said.

The complaint further states that during the fight the champion called the referee derogatory names and also shoved the challenger, Wepner.

Ali won the fight by stopping Wepner with 39 seconds to go in the 15th round. Perez stopped the bout after Wepner, knocked to the floor, had struggled to his knees at the count of nine.

All later criticized Perez for stopping the fight, contending he should have been allowed to score an official knockout, and said Perez let Wepner hit him with rabbit punches despite repeated protests.

St. Louis Has Got the Spirit

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The American Basketball Association today has an unexpected contender getting ready for the Eastern Division final playoff.

"When people talk about our series with New York, they all expected the Nets to win," St. Louis' Freddie Lewis said Tuesday night.

The Nets didn't win.

Instead, it was the underdog Spirits, a collection of promising rookies and some discarded veterans, led by Lewis, who upset the defending ABA champions and knocked them out of the playoffs.

And it was a 20-foot jump shot by Lewis with three seconds remaining that gave the winning Spirits a 108-107 victory over the Nets at Uniondale, N.Y.

St. Louis' fourth consecutive victory, after an opening loss in the best-of-seven series, moved the Spirits into the eastern final against Kentucky Colonels starting Monday at Kentucky.

There was no other playoff games Tuesday in either the ABA or the National Basketball Association.

The Nets got off to a fast start and led virtually all the way, by as many as 16 points at times, and 13 with less than nine minutes remaining. But they couldn't put away the determined Spirits.

Lewis, who finished with 29 points, scored St. Louis' last 16. His three-point field goal with 1:51 remaining brought the Spirits within two points at 103-101. Twenty-one seconds later Lewis' three-point play put the Spirits ahead for the first time in the game.

Russians One Step From Championship

DUESSELDORF, West Germany (AP) — The Soviet Union went on the biggest goal-scoring binge of the world hockey tournament Tuesday, overwhelming Poland 15-1 for its eighth straight victory.

The defending champions, who can ensure their 14th title by beating Czechoslovakia on Thursday, got two-goal performances from Sergei Kapustin, Victor Shalimov, Vladimir Vikulov, Valery Kharlamov, Alexander Filippov and Vladimir Shadrin.

Czechoslovakia, led by Frantisek Kaberle with two goals, kept its title chances alive by shutting out the winless United States 8-0.

The Russians' biggest previous margin was a 13-1 victory over the U.S., which is struggling with Poland to avoid relegation to Group B next year. Poland has lost seven of eight games so far.

The Soviet Union got single goals from Jari Tyurin, Valery Vasilev and Alexander Maliiev as it took a 3-0 lead in the first period, extended its to 7-1 in the second and added five unanswered goals in the third. Poland got its goal from Andrei Rybak.

The Czechs, who defeated the U.S. 8-3 in the first leg of the double round-robin tournament, got single goals from Eduard Novak, Vladimir Martinec, Jiri Kochta, Bohuslav Stastny, Jiri Bubla and Edward Novak.

Czechoslovakia now is 7-1, its only defeat coming from the Soviets, 5-2, last week.

The Americans play Sweden today and Poland on Friday even and only a decisive victory over the Poles will save them from being relegated.

'Foreign' Customs Rejected But Liquor Laws to Change

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government plans few major changes in liquor laws according to two bills—which will replace existing legislation—introduced Tuesday in the legislature.

Solicitor Handleman, minister

May Cover Violence In Print

TORONTO (CP) — Terms of reference of a royal commission into the portrayal of violence could include investigation of the print media as well as television and the movies, Attorney-General John Clement said Tuesday.

Premier William Davis announced Monday the appointment of former Secretary of state Judy LaMarsh as a one-woman commission "to study the possible harm to the public interest of the depiction of violence in the communications media."

Mr. Clement was questioned in the legislature by Peter Reilly (L—Ottawa East) and Pat Reid (L—Lab Rainy River).

"Why limit your inquiry to television and films, where you have no jurisdiction?" Mr. Reid asked.

He waved a comic book at Mr. Clement which depicted an orgiastic successfully dodging an armored tank brandishing a flashing sword.

Mr. Roy complained that children have easy access to comic books which depict killings and other violent acts.

"Our objective will be broad," Mr. Clement replied. "It will be up to the commissioner—if he feels it is relevant—to her task—to look into all types of violence."

No Decision Yet On Legislation About Auditor

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is willing to introduce legislation spelling out the functions and responsibilities of the auditor-general but has not yet decided whether his powers to expose inefficiency and waste in federal spending should be expanded, Government House Leader Mitchell Sharp said Tuesday.

Mr. Sharp told the Commons that the government supports the general principle of legislation setting out the role of Parliament's watchdog over spending.

Pardon Unlikely

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is unlikely to pardon abortionist Henry Morgentaler or change existing abortion laws, Health Minister Marc Lalonde said Tuesday.

The federal position against clemency or new legislation has been made clear by Justice Minister Otto Lang, he said outside the Commons.

of consumer and commercial relations, told the legislature that the provinces decided "that much is right with the way licence is sold in this province" following a two-year review.

"We rejected foreign drinking standards," he said. "There is nothing particularly desirable, for instance, about drinking customs which fill one in every two French hospital beds with alcohol-related diseases."

Among proposed changes would be a procedure for appeal of decisions of the Liquor Licence Board of Ontario (LLBO) to a newly-created tribunal and further appeal to the Supreme Court on questions of law.

The LLBO also would be responsible for "regulatory activities" other than disciplining and sale now under the control of the Liquor Control Board of Ontario (LCBO).

Another proposed change would require bars, taverns and licensed clubs to offer a choice of non-alcoholic coffee and soft drinks in addition to alcoholic beverages.

Mr. Handleman said liquor licence policies are to be coded in regulations "for ease of reference and recommendations involving special occasion permits would be included in that code.

Under opposition questioning, Mr. Handleman he said, the code would "remain silent" on such controversial issues as author ity of the board chairman to control entertainment in licensed premises, inspections and employment of women in retail outlets.

He said two permanent advisory committees would be established to "help monitor continuing changes in social attitudes—one to deal with special occasion permits, the other with over-all liquor policy.

In another change, a public hearing would be required for granting of new licences. Outside the legislature, he said public hearings have been held but this public often did not get sufficient notice.

He described the legislation as a "tidying up" of existing practices and placing them in a code to become regulations under the Act.

He said the proposed code would be circulated for comment from interested groups including Addiction Foundation, church groups, ethnic clubs and retailers.

In response to questioning, Mr. Handleman said a number of licensing changes are proposed, among them granting of "patio" licences for outdoor beer gardens, cabaret licences requiring a 70-30 ratio of sale of liquor and food and "club" licences to ski, tennis or badminton clubs without dining rooms.

He said no changes were proposed regarding home-made wine because existing legislation allows transporting wine and distribution to friends, contrary to general opinion.

Energy Conference Ideal for Lougheed

EDMONTON (CP) — Under the circumstances, the federal-provincial energy conference would scarcely have gone better for Alberta Premier Peter Lougheed.

The Ottawa conference last week did not reach agreement or even come close to a compromise on a new oil price but Mr. Lougheed and most politicians had never expected that it would.

In fact, some believe the Alberta premier, whose province produces about 85 per cent of Canada's domestic oil, had never really wanted to negotiate new prices with the other premiers at all.

They believe Mr. Lougheed's chief aim was that he could get a better price in bilateral talks with Ottawa than he would in the presence of such hold-the-line proponents as Premier William Davis of Ontario and Premier Gerald Regan of Nova Scotia.

Mr. Lougheed appears to have achieved this goal.

Both Alberta and Ottawa made it clear as the conference ended that if no national agreement on oil prices is reached in the next couple of months, the premiers of Lougheed governments will post a new price themselves.

The world price for a barrel of oil now is $10.70 and the Alberta-Saskatchewan price is $6.50.

The Alberta and federal views on oil pricing and future exploration expressed at the energy conference now appear almost the same. They were as close that even their traditional roles seemed interchangeable.

At a major point in his opening statement to the energy conference, Prime Minister Trudeau spoke of the needs of the producing provinces while Mr. Lougheed spoke mainly of "national interests."

Mr. Trudeau's statement:

"We cannot expect Alberta and Saskatchewan to go year after year selling their oil to Canadians at a price which is far below what they could get by exporting it. The price of oil in Canada must go up—upwards the world price."

This is almost word-for-word what Mr. Lougheed has been saying for two years. This time, however, the premier spoks mostly about Canadians as a whole:

"For Canadians to be assured of an adequate energy supply and to be free from the fear of energy shortages arbitrarily imposed by foreign governments, higher prices are necessary."

Mr. Lougheed was also able to let Ottawa carry the ball for him in the oil-prices fight against some of the other provinces.

Basically, Premier Davis took on Mr. Trudeau, instead of Mr. Lougheed as had been anticipated.

Trudeau to Consider Plea of Metis, Indians

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau promised Tuesday to give serious consideration to a plea by 70,000 Metis and non-status Indians seeking aboriginal land rights.

The 27-member executive of the Native Council of Canada, representing the Metis and non-Status Indians, said after the meeting they were encouraged by the reception they received from Mr. Trudeau and a large number of his cabinet.

Kermot Moore, council president, said a new conference has been arranged for two hours and 15 minutes.

group wanted the funding of aboriginal land claims taken away from the sole jurisdiction of the Indian affairs department and shared with the office of the secretary of state.

"We didn't get commitment," said Mr. Moore. "But we were told the government would give it serious consideration."

Adding to the feeling of optimism of the council was that the meeting, scheduled to last about an hour, went on instead

Transport System Overhaul Needed to Keep Customers

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada may lose sales to Japanese customers unless the transport system is streamlined, suggests a study for the Canada-Japan Trade Council.

The report, prepared by economic consultants Kates, Peat, Marwick and Co., and S. R. Hill of Ottawa, says strikes and other problems have undermined the domestic transport system.

Inability to deliver goods might prompt customers to look for more reliable suppliers with a "loss of Canadian marketing credibility and an undermining of our international competitiveness."

The report, submitted recently to the government, said Canadian exports to Japan likely will increase 20 per cent by 1980. But could the Canadian transport system cope?

The trade council is a non-profit organization promoting trade between the two countries. It is supported financially by its 600 member companies and the Japanese and Canadian governments.

Japan is Canada's second-largest customer after the United States. Japan bought goods worth $2.2 billion in 1974, about 7.1 per cent of the country's exports. The U.S. accounted for more than 66 per cent of Canadian exports.

The report suggested the administration of transportation should be overhauled so there are few government bodies making transport decisions.

It also proposed establishing a regional transport advisory groups such as the Western Transportation Advisory Council which includes provincial governments, railways, labor groups and rail customers. This would encourage co-operation.

And the study recommended improvements in relations with labor included on productivity councils so workers take part in port, terminal and railway development.

National interests should take precedence over regional development plans, the report said.

The government also should encourage the efficient movement of bulk goods such as grain and coal rather than such glamorous projects as short takeoff and landing (STOL) aircraft and Turbo trains.

Committee Approves Bill on MPs' Salaries

OTTAWA (CP) — A committee of MPs approved an amended bill Tuesday that would increase their salaries by 23.4 per cent.

The bill also would mean more than $4,300 in back pay for MPs because the proposed one-third increase is retroactive to July 8, 1974.

An amendment passed by the Commons miscellaneous estimates committee would place a seven-per-cent ceiling on proposed annual increases, scheduled to start in 1976.

Conservative spokesman said the bill was expected to be taken before the Commons next week for final approval, it then would go to the Senate.

The basic MP salary now is $18,000 a year plus an $8,000 tax-free allowance for a total of $26,000. Of the immediate $24,000 that would be provided MPs upon the proposed increases, $10,800 would come as a tax-free allowance.

The total basic MPs salary and allowance would be $43,227 in 1976 if it increased by the maximum seven per cent a year under the amended bill.

The government backed down considerably from its original pay bill proposal that would have increased salaries and allowances paid to MPs and senators by a flat 30 per cent. That would have meant $23,000 a year for MPs and $44,000 a year for senators.

Drivers Accept 95-cent Increase

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

City transit workers were back on their bus routes this morning, following acceptance of a 21.3 per cent pay increase over a one-year contract.

The 23-member local of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Transport and General Workers voted 90 per cent approval of the contract which provides an immediate raise of 75 cents an hour followed by a 30-cent an hour increase July 1.

The raise — applied to a 40-hour work week — will bring drivers' salaries from $4.45 an hour to $5.40 an hour. Mechanics earn $5 approximately 20 cents an hour more.

The commission's 20 drivers and three mechanics will receive 75 cents an hour retroactive to Jan. 1 when the former contract expired for a total lump-sum payment of approximately $200, union spokesmen said following the vote this morning.

In addition to the pay increase, union members will receive a drug plan, of which the commission pays 75 per cent.

Following contract approval, union officials contacted commission chairman Marylea Burtt advising her the men would return to work immediately — in time to handle the noon-hour trade. The return to work brings to a close the strike which began April 5.

Mrs. Burtt, in a telephone interview, described the contract as "an equitable and acceptable solution for the benefit of the commission and the union."

"I'm sure the members of the union were as anxious to get back on their jobs as we (the commission) were to get them back," said Mrs. Burtt.

Lawrence St. Pierre, Ottawa negotiator for the local, said he was happy with the outcome but, "I didn't get what I thought the boys should get."

"This settlement is the best we can do under the circumstances," said Mr. St. Pierre.

Both sides are expected back at the bargaining table in the fall, in preparation for the Dec. 31 expiration of today's contract.

Dozens of Daffodils

Daffodils by the dozens arrived in Bellreville from Victoria, B.C., Wednesday. 1,200 dozen of them in fact. The spring flowers will be sold this weekend to raise money for the Cancer Society's annual campaign. Friday, industries and businesses will be contacted, while on Saturday the flowers will be on sale throughout the city. Nancy Bronson, 17, a BCI student, sits surrounded by daffodils, being stored until their sale, in a cooler in a Brewers Retail Store, of all places.

Phnom Penh Capitulates

From AP-REUTER

Phnom Penh military capitulated to the Khmer Rouge insurgents after a 3½-month siege, ending five years of war that devastated Cambodia and caused uncounted casualties among the country's seven million people.

A Khmer Rouge spokesman, speaking over Radio Phnom Penh, said the Communist-led insurgents took over the Cambodian capital at 9 a.m. Cambodian time today.

Another broadcast said several leaders of the regime President Lon Nol left behind, including his brother and chief adviser, Brig. Gen. Lon Non, were meeting with the Khmer Rouge at the information ministry building.

A number of other leaders sought refuge in the Hotel Le Phnop, which the International Red Cross declared a security zone for noncombatants. This group included Gen. Sirik Matak, one of the leaders of the coup that overthrew Prince Norodom Sihanouk in 1970 and once Lon Nol's closest associate.

In Tokyo, the Japanese news agency Kyodo reported that Premier Long Boret and Gen. Sak Sutsakhan fled the capital by helicopter ahead as hour after the surrender.

Cambodian reporters in Phnom Penh said white flags blossomed on buildings in the downtown part of the city. crowds on the streets greeted the incoming insurgent troops, and the Khmer Rouge embraced soldiers of the Cambodian army

Army vehicles toured the streets with loudspeakers, telling the people to put out white flags. Officers in the cars said they had orders from the army headquarters.

Long Boret's government gave up after the Khmer Rouge captured the Phnom Penh airport on Wednesday, moved its artillery into range of the centre of the capital and began fighting its way into the city from three sides.

Sihanouk Unlikely To Be Real Ruler

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Prince Norodom Sihanouk, the loquacious and unpredictable former ruler of Cambodia, evidently expects to hold little power if and when he returns to his country following his victorious Communist-led Khmer Rouge's conquest of Phnom Penh.

When he left Cambodia at the outset of its five bloody years of civil war he was the head of state and wielded autocratic power with a style all his own, a blend of benevolence and petulance.

When he returns—if he does—he himself says: "The future of the country belongs to the Khmer Rouge."

After five years in exile in Peking, if there is a trend in his words it centres on punishment of the "traitorous clique" that overthrew him, the formation of a vague kind of socialism once the insurgents gain power and his own future role as Cambodia's international spokesman.

Although nominally head of Cambodia's government-in-exile, reports during the last few years show his leading role has been supplanted by other, still shadowy, figures of the Khmer Rouge Communists.

Envoy Resists Evacuation

U.S. Senators' Advisors Say Saigon's Fall Sure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sources say...a secret congressional report assesses the South Vietnamese military situation as "irretrievable" and accuses United States Ambassador Graham Martin of delaying plans to evacuate Americans.

The 18-page report was prepared by Richard Moose and Charles McLaurer, staff members of the Senate foreign relations committee, who returned last weekend from an 11-day fact-finding tour of Vietnam and Cambodia.

The report says the evacuation of Americans should be receiving high priority from the U.S. embassy in Saigon, but that Martin was "actively" resisting such a "dangerously overdue" step.

It also says that "virtually all Vietnamese military and civilian leaders agree that President Nguyen Van Thieu, must go if the armed forces are to be rallied in Saigon's defence."

"The Vietnamese military does not consider" mere military aid as critical "in the short run" as removing Thieu, the report says.

President Ford said Wednesday he is "absolutely convinced" South Vietnam can stabilize its defences against the North Vietnamese invasion if Congress quickly approves his request for $722 million for weapons and ammunition.

The military aid request may be voted upon today by the Senate armed services committee.

Mr. Sharp, the province has given the town assurances it will quickly agree to the aid-to-tion limit.

When patch-up operations will start is still unknown, since in part, they are contingent on approvals from the two senior governments.

Complete repairs to the bridge are estimated at $1,350,000. Such repairs ($825,000 for the swing portion alone) would give the bridge a life expectancy of 10 to 20 years. The load carrying ability of the span would also increase to 15 tons.

Whether full repairs will be made depends on the response the town receives from the provincial transportation and communications ministry, the source of part of the repair funds. Council plans to submit the consultants report and a cost estimate for a new bridge (possibly as high as $3.5-million) to the province for review.

Mr. Sharp said a new bridge, with a life-expectancy of 40 years, may be hard to get.

"We may have a battle on our hands to get a new bridge if the ministry can spend only $1-million to allow it to last 10 to 20 years," he said. A bridge across Dundas St may not be considered vital since the town has the use of the D.J.- MacDonald Bridge, he said.

Beltless Drivers May Pay Own Bills

TORONTO (CP)—The province should enact legislation requiring drivers not wearing seat belts to pay their own medical bills if they are involved in auto accidents, an official of the federal health department said Wednesday.

Dr. Marion Law of the health services planning branch told delegates to a conference of the Hospital Auxiliaries Association of Ontario that the law should also include the cancellation of the driver's insurance."

Dr. Law said it should be mandatory that taxis be equipped with seat belts.

Two H-bombs a Day U.S. Power Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — United States government energy specialists are studying the feasibility of exploding thermonuclear bombs daily in abandoned salt mines to produce electricity.

The study was disclosed Wednesday by Representative Frederick Richmond (Dem. N.Y.) who told the head of the Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) that the "mad . . . scheme should be placed in cold storage immediately."

A spokesman for the energy office confirmed the agency is considering the plan but said Dr. Robert Seamans Jr., ERDA administrator, "did not indicate up or down" on the proposal.

Richmond said the project, called the Pacer Plan, would require daily explosions of two thermonuclear bombs, each three times the size of the atomic bombs dropped on Japan. He said the bombs would be detonated in salt mines a mile underground in Louisiana, Mississippi, Texas and the Gulf of Mexico.

Richmond said more than $720,000 in federal funds have been spent during the 1974 and 1975 fiscal years for preliminary feasibility studies performed by the Atomic Energy Commission.

Six-ton Load Limit Planned

Trenton Will Spend $75,000 to Repair Trent Swing Bridge

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Trenton council plans to slap a 6-ton load limit on the 59-year-old Dundas St., swing bridge and spend $75,000 to patch up sections of the span now badly deteriorated through the effects of age and weather.

Council's action, expected next week, was announced by Mayor Bob Patrick during a press conference Wednesday. The news follows a closed meeting Monday during which Toronto consultants presented their study of the bridge to council.

Mayor Patrick said the $75,000 will be used to do "some minimal repairs to give us some breathing space." Called a "stop-gap" measure, it is expected to extend the life of the bridge from one to three years.

In the interum a limit of six tons will be placed on traffic crossing the bridge. The tonnage limit was recommended by consultants, Totten, Sims, Hubicki Associates Ltd.

The consultants, after a two-month, $15,000 study in 1974, concluded the bridge was "in fair condition only, considering its age," said the mayor. Its condition "limits the theoretical load carrying ability to six tons."

Structurally, steel girders underneath the deck of both the fixed and swing bridge sections have corrodtd, extensively in places. Mayor Patrick said, in photograph, taken by consultants, showed a hole in a girder about the size of a softball.

In that section, said Mayor Patrick, deterioration is "fairly bad." Support members are "severely corroded" under the steel grids on the swing section. Concrete in bridge supports also in the river is riddled with holes.

Most of the $75,000 effim will go towards repairing such faults. It will also give the town time to attempt to find funds for complete repairs or agreement with Ontario Park's for partial funding of a new bridge.

Town clerk Aubrey Sharp said the only way to prevent the expenditure is to close the bridge to crafic completely.

Both the six-ton limit and the repair expenses must be approved by the provincial government. However, said

World Food Crisis Not Over

CALEDON, Ont. (CP) — Federal Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan said Wednesday people who think the world's food crisis is over are dreaming.

"If we have a crop failure this year, there's going to be starvation like you can't imagine," he told a Brampton Board of Trade meeting.

He said the federal agriculture department feels that the world and country "do not realize the challenges we face in food production."

He predicted that "by the year 2000, at our present rate of growth, there will be hardly any farmland left in southern Ontario."

Mr. Whelan said that both federal and provincial governments are watching the use of land, but added that he would not stand for a freeze on agricultural land without compensation for farmers.

Postmen Start Talks

OTTAWA (CP) — Roger Decarie, president of the Letter Carriers' Union of Canada, said Wednesday he expects to meet today with government negotiators to continue talks on a new working contract. The letter carriers now are in a legal strike position but except for a walkout in the Quebec City area have remained on the job.

Beirut Fighting Ends

BEIRUT (AP) — A torrential rain and a ceasefire calmed Beirut today after four days of street fighting between left and right wing groups in Lebanon. Palestinian guerrillas and leaders of the right wing Falangist party called on their warriors and supporters to dismantle their street barriers and return home. The two groups were forming joint patrols with Lebanese security forces to enforce the truce.

Union Curbs Sought

MONTREAL (CP) — The Chamber of Commerce has called for measures to restrict union activities in Quebec to promote "the social peace necessary for economic development." The business group called for government supervision of all strike votes and public control over union funds not specifically alloted to "direct union activities."

Senators Get CIA Charter

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House will give the Senate intelligence committee several hundred directives issued since 1947 that comprise the so called "secret charter" of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA). The documents, many dealing with specific covert operations conducted by the CIA, will form the base of the committee's investigation into allegations that the agency violated laws barring it from domestic spying.

Belleville Slated for Major Industrial Growth: Professor

From the Toronto Bureau Of The Intelligencer

KINGSTON — The province intends to direct major growth over the next 30 years to the Belleville area, says an urban and regional planning professor at Queen's University.

Dr. Gerald Hodge, who head the planning school at Queen's said at a public cabinet meeting here Wednesday Belleville and Brockville will become concentrated growth centres as part of the government's development strategy for eastern Ontario.

Designs for development in the eastern and north eastern regions of the province were promised before the end of the legislative session by treasurer Darcy McKeough in his budget statement last week.

Dr. Hodge said he has seen the plans to be contained in the report. The university's planning school has been consulted by regional municipal affairs officials in the last several years, he reported.

He said the provincial schemes for the eastern sector calls for the creation of 500,000 new jobs and a population increase of approximately one million within 30 years.

Except for Belleville and Brockville areas, most eastern municipalities would experience only an average rate of expansion.

Dr. Hodge criticized the intention to create "new growth magnets" in the two cities where population totals would exceed 100,000 in less than 10 years.

Instead of talking about the policies of growth that many municipalities will find wasn't even for them, the government should talk about the policies of stability," the professor said.

He suggested the government concentrate instead on sharing costs of physical, social and recreation services which many communities in eastern Ontario cannot afford under present provincial-municipal assistance programs.

Last week's provincial budget provided 16 million for acquisition of property in Edwardsburgh Township near Prescott for a major industrial park announced in January.

The purchase of additional industrial sites in eastern Ontario is planned, Mr. McKeough said, as well as release of planning strategy.

Canada Week Discussed

City council has received a list of suggested activities to mark Canada Week — set for June 24 — July 1.

These include parades, film nights, menu and activities involving youth, community groups and businessmen, all on Canadian themes.

There has also been a suggestion the city formally proclaim Canada Week. Council this week decided merely to receive the suggestion.

Among other proclamations requested and granted were Deaf Awareness Week, May 5-11, Salvation Army Week May 5-9 and Medic Alert Month in May.

IS THERE SOMEONE YOU KNOW who is afraid to go to a Physician when he is ill? In this day and age that may seem a silly question. But there are millions who are afraid or they might find out that they have something seriously wrong with them.

IF YOU KNOW such a person he needs your help. Not very many cases fail in a short, or a cancer, or a heart condition. On the contrary, very few of them are.

BUT YOU MUST KNOW, and worrying about something you might have, but don't can actually make you really sick.

YOUR PHYSICIAN has knowledge, and resources of newly-discovered medicines at his command that enable him to be able to help you. Many of the medicines he can now prescribe were unknown a few years ago.

EVERYDAY newly-discovered medicines, of complicated chemical structure, are being tested. As fast as they are released we receive them.

MAKE A FRIEND of your Physician. Tell him about any illness you have, not well-meaning friends, who do not have the knowledge to properly advise you. You can lead a healthier and happier life if you visit your Physician when something troubles you.

Webb Critical Over Lack Of Trenton Ball Facilities

TRENTON — Interest in minor baseball here is reported to be at a low ebb, says Gordon Webb, councilmember of the Trenton Minor Baseball Association, can be traced to a lack of suitable facilities for the summer sport, he says.

"We find ourselves with a serious shortage of adults who are willing to volunteer their services as coaches, managers, umpires and conveners in our house league operation especially," said the councillor.

"I think one of the main reasons grownups hesitate to help out is because it usually means they'll be committed to spending time in the program on the weekend.

"With more baseball diamonds, we could run our leagues on evenings during the week and leave the weekends free.

"Right now, we are trying to operate house leagues and three Eastern Ontario Baseball Association teams on two diamonds and they are not the best.

"Sometimes I think the town wishes we would simply disappear.

"There's no chance of that.

Assistant commissioner Don Cole echoed Webb's feelings on the subject.

"We have the same few people trying to do all the work every year and it just can't go on," he said.

"This year, we've seen some interest from parents who have pitched in and taken positions on the executive and we're glad to have them aboard but our executive, no matter how dedicated, can't do it all over the season starts," he emphasized.

The TMBA should get some idea of what response the group will get from adults when player registrations are taken at Trenton Community Gardens this weekend. While the youngsters are registering, parents will be asked to assist in the program.

Registrations will be taken Friday, 6-9 p.m., and Saturday, 10 a.m. - 1 p.m.

Webb and Cole will be putting their message across to the public, April 21 - on Cablevue 4 when they are guests on the regular program What's It All About With Maureen.

County Students Tour Community Industries

BLOOMFIELD — The County as a Classroom program being introduced by the Prince Edward County Board of Education, will open in May says project co-ordinator Sue Greetham.

This community education program is being developed to provide the residents of Prince Edward with a direct knowledge of the county.

On May 7 the "Overview of Community Education" will be discussed at Queen Elizabeth School in Picton by P. McCarrity and on May 14 Joe Karas of Wellington will be guest speaker when a tour of the Campbell Soup Company's mushroom plant is held.

Next in the community education program will be a tour of the Picton Gazett.

The final program in May will be held at Kente School in Ameliasburg when Col. Angus Duffy of the Emergency Measurers Organization outlines the purpose of this group.

The County as a Classroom project will recess during June, July and August, resuming September 16, tentatively, each Tuesday and Thursday until March, 1976.

"The purpose of this program is to co-ordinate community resources, human and physical, and develop a program of providing these resources to the people of Prince Edward County, "says Sue Greetham, project co-ordinator.

Topics suggested for discussion include History, government, agriculture, industry, education, county services, communications and threatre and arts.

District at a Glance

Oden Gets Gifts

PICTON — Retired manager of the Picton branch of the Bank of Montreal, Gordon Oden and his wife were honored by staff members recently at Prince Edward Yacht Club.

Pool Grant Offered

PICTON — The Prince Edward Agricultural Society will donate $1,000 toward a community swimming pool, if and when the project is built on school property.

The decision was announced following a recent directors' meeting.

The agricultural society suggested locating the pool at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute during a special meeting with county council and the pool committee last month.

This suggestion prompted a proposal this week by the swimming pool committee to school trustees concerning location of the pool at PECI.

The school board granted approval in principle for the project.

President of the fair board, Creighton Carr, said the agricultural society spent $200 for an engineering survey of the fairgrounds which had been considered as a pool site.

As a result of the survey, the society reported to county council advising of high costs in providing water and sewerage services for a pool at the fair grounds location.

"There has been considerable misunderstanding of the agricultural society's role in discussion of the site," said Mr. Carr.

"The engineering survey and other investigations led us to the conclusion that the fairgrounds is not the best site and the society recommended that the site at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute — where there is no difficulty in supplying services and where a heating system already is available — would be more suitable," observed Mr. Carr.

Helping Hand

Eastern Ontario Library System official Joan Macleod gets helping hand from Lake Ontario Regional Library System director Barry Robinson during a one-day workshop for about 100 librarians at Trenton Memorial Library Wednesday. The Ottawa woman encouraged librarians to expand their use of the media in spreading information on services their libraries provide the public.

Government and EMO

As the government goes about its business of phasing out the Emergency Measures Organization — a course of action we believe the authorities should reconsider, if not come up with something better — it is ironic to recall an EMO exercise in Stirling only last month.

The exercise was a realistic conception of the kind of thing peacetime emergency forces might have to tackle, not to mention even greater tragedy following say a nuclear attack.

In Stirling the exercise was based on the premise that a gasoline truck had overturned and exploded and a wide section of the community had been destroyed.

EMO coordinator Angus Duffy said at the time that people think the federal and provincial governments will take care of them after a disaster. "They will," he added cryptically, but it will be too damned late."

Col. Duffy sees the need for a controlled or co-ordinated effort beyond the scope of any community affected. In the event of such a disaster. As an example, the Stirling group was told of the citizens' radio band and that 20 minutes after Brighton's big storm two years ago seven communications centres had been set up.

This is the kind of preparedness we cannot see being available at the local level if the government tries to call the shots from out of town.

Letters

Due to pressure on space, it is not always possible to publish letters as soon as may be desired.

Readers are asked to keep their letters as brief as possible, preferably no more than 500 words.

Letters are subject to editing, but only with regard to length and in fustances, which do occur, when the letter tends to be abusive or libellous or both. For these reasons too, as well as in cases of repetition — when the subject has been brought up before by the same writer — some letters may not be published.

The writer's name, address, and telephone number where available, and his signature should appear on the letter whether or not a pseudonym is used. If a pseudonym is desired, this should be indicated.

The Credit Syndrome

Remember former Bank governor James Coyne's famous last words about the inflationary scene of 15 or more years ago.

Canadians, he said, "are living grandly beyond their means."

They are still doing so, although no one, from the Government on down, cares very much.

Yet, for further statistical proof of our high living ways, without regard for the need of increased production, or for balancing the books, a note that comes with the current crop of Bell Canada bills is hard to beat.

Unless, we consider columnist Don O'Hearn's mention the other day of the country's net debt being $4,708 million, an increase of 400 per cent in ten years.

And what has Bell Canada got to say? Beginning this month, phone bills with an unpaid balance of more than $50 will be charged 1½ per cent a month.

"The reason we have adopted this practice that many large companies have followed for some time," says Bell Canada, "is that during the past year the level of unpaid balances has soared to more than $60 million — about one-third of our total monthly billings."

The company points out that less than two per cent of residential customers will be affected. Rather, the problem "lies with a relatively small percentage of our larger, chiefly business accounts," and its aim is to "pass along the costs of carrying unpaid balances to those who cause them to be rather than pass than over all accounts."

There is a lot of money involved — and just how much the country lives on credit — and debt — is revealed by this circular.

A February Weekend

Holiday weekends in Canada come and go without too much thought or concern from citizens as to their historical or social significance.

Generally we are all too pooped, or caught up with what to do and where, to go, to reflect on much else —and still further exhausted by it all when Tuesday and the grind roll around again.

In any event the long November to May night for many will be banished finally May 19 — Victoria Day, or Queen's birthday as it is more often called.

And while we look forward to that, it will be in further anticipation next year of an extra weekend in the works for mid-February to be called National Heritage Day.

Viewpoint

PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER

Taking the money from the rich and giving to the poor — that's the target of so many anti-poverty plans and programs but it obviously isn't working. And even if the money were doled out fairly, would that eradicate poverty?

Probably not, because poverty is an attitude as well as an economic condition. Being poor becomes a state of mind for families, and is passed along the generations in "the process by which poverty grinds down the natural optimism and enthusiasm for life," which the National Council of Welfare speaks of.

Let it take its time though, for doesn't life pass so swiftly anyway? As a Bellevillian put it with some insight the other day, the reason why time seems to pass slowly for the young is that they are waiting around all the time for something to happen. When job and family later assume their stranglehold on life the young come to understand they are growing up; the long, lazy and often boring days are gone for ever.

When that Heritage Day comes though — and its sanction by Parliament is taken for granted — it will mean a weekend that is well deserved. February is a time when only the most hardy and enthusiastic of us are not mentally and physically run down. It's not everyone who can go south — but wouldn't an extra weekend give extra-leeway to those who can and do, as well as enabling those who stay home to recharge their batteries?

As another level of concern, the title National Heritage Day should also give Canadians pause to show appreciation of their many blessings and advantages, while pondering also social disintegration elsewhere which, unless we preserve our traditional beliefs and national integrity, might spill over here too.

The world is changing very swiftly and Canada cannot expect to stand still; the question that must be faced is what kind of political and moral climate can we expect a decade or half-a-century hence?

Suez Re-opening Is Vital to Egypt's Economic Future

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

On June 5 next, the anniversary of the outbreak of the Six Day War, Egypt's President Anwar Sadat will officially re-open the Suez Canal.

He has offered to let Israeli shipping pass through as part of the opening process, a proposal which has brought a suggestion from the Israeli defence minister of agreeing to discuss with Egypt meaningful Israeli military withdrawals from the Sinai.

Whether that takes place or not, the Suez Canal was, and is the bright diadem of modern Egypt, in many ways an impossible task to be now High Dam at Aswan built by the Russians.

Both are absolutely vital to the future economic progress of a country at present largely badly from the emphasis on political negotiations with the Americans and various Middle Eastern parties and the high cost of maintaining a military infrastructure.

Before the Six Day War took place, the Suez Canal was earning about $300 millions annually for Egypt under first-class Egyptian management, in fact doing better financially than it ever did under foreign control.

The war of course, made it a front line with the Israeli troops on the Sinai side, the Egyptians on the other side. And it closed the canal for almost eight years with an estimated loss to Egypt of about $1.5 billions for Egypt.

This kind of earnings loss was staggering for a country like Egypt which lacks the huge natural resources of the Saudi Arabians, or even of the lesser Persian Gulf oil states.

And during those years Egypt had to replace her estimated $2 billions in sophisticated Soviet weapons destroyed or taken in the desert by the Israelis during the Six Day War.

In addition, she has had to pay for the substantial military aid being supplied by the Saudis, as well as replace once again the equipment lost in the Yom Kippur War, even though in that one in October, 1973, Sadat's forces were partially victorious.

President Sadat's other sources of income are less secure than earnings from the great canal. Egypt is again pushing cotton as a way to her self-available oil resources near the Libyan border.

Egyptian tourism still is captive to Russian needs, part of a deal and by now a dreary agreement with them, to help pay for all their guns, tanks and missile units.

Recent visitors to Egypt report that the country at large looks run down, somewhat weary, with a lack of energy in official buildings and a malaise among the public service, which is highly regarded in other Arab states.

The hope for recovery is largely the style and determination of Sadat who this columnist feels is a much more impressive and realistic Egyptian leader than Gamal Abdel Nasser, his charismatic and wasteful predecessor.

In spite of economic downturn and the huge commitments to the Arab, Slavic and Arab, to pay for all the weapons, Egypt still possesses an elite of first-class public administrators. Among them Mahmoud Younes, first director-general of the Suez Canal, was best known abroad.

Egypt is to be wished the best on the canal opening and one hopes can do so well with its operations as before June 5, 1967.

Weak Leadership Bedevils Grits

By DON O'HEARN

TORONTO — Can you really change a man?

This, in effect, is what conferred Liberals are asking today.

As an election approaches more and more wise and objective members of the party are realizing that leader Bob Nixon is their big weakness.

And they are wondering what can be done about it.

As one of them said to me a day or so ago: "What is the answer?"

And the answer, I believe, is very little.

There are surface alterations that Nixon can make.

The principal one is that he can become more aggressive, and this he has been trying to do with some success.

But the real trouble is in the fundamental Nixon.

And whether there can be changes here is a matter of great doubt.

One of these apparent fundamentals is that from all indications he has a weak imagination.

Personally, I can't recall one innovative thought that he has produced.

Perhaps there will be a different picture when he produces the election platform, which he personally is preparing. It might show an imagination that we haven't seen to date.

Then, in a political sense, he thinks narrowly.

Rather than forming his opinions and positions from the perspective of society as a whole, he tends to cater almost exclusively to the causes of special interest groups.

Thus he has been endorsing the cause of school teachers right across the province, apparently almost blindly.

His position has to leave the impression that he is extremely conscious of the large vote represented by the teachers.

Again he has apparently almost blindly endorsed the cause of municipal autonomy.

With this he has shown not only a narrowness but a lack of boldness and adventurous thought.

Nixon, of course, has many fine qualities. You have to respect him for integrity, for hard work and for sincerity of purpose.

But these don't make him a leader. And the question is can he show us that he really is one.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

April 17, 1955.

The Town of Picton is to have a new and modern fire truck at a cost of around $14,000. From four tenders, town council's fire department committee accepted that of the Thibault Co. of Montreal. The truck is officially rated as a 500-gallon-a-minute pumper and is equipped with a 500-gallon storage tank. Delivery is expected early in June.

Maple syrup took a slight drop in price on the local produce market this week, with some vendors quoting $1.25 instead of $1.50 per quart. Prut kits sold down to 65 cents and maple sugar was quoted at 35 cents per half pound.

30 YEARS AGO

April 17, 1945.

Miss Josephine Tickell was among those elected to the executive committee at the annual meeting, Ontario Division, Canadian Red Cross Society, April 16.

Warden of Hastings County, Fred Wilson addressed the Belleville Life Underwriters' Association at their regular monthly meeting this week. His topic was the part Hastings County agriculturists have played in the war effort. Hastings County has increased cheese production to such an extent that last year it supplied from one-fifteenth to one-tenth of the total cheese exported from the Dominion to Great Britain — and this from only nine township. Mr. Wilson said important developments in projects for post-war days would be the extending of more modern facilities and services to farms.

40 YEARS AGO

April 17, 1935.

To remedy the nuisance of heavy pools of water collecting in the sunken sections of sidewalk along Front Street, following the snowfall and accompanying slush, employees of the Department of Public Works were engaged today in cutting drill holes through the concrete. The holes were carefully designed small enough so as not to catch the high heels of feminine pedestrians.

50 YEARS AGO

April 17, 1925.

Principal M.T. Mott attended the Ontario Educational Association convention at Toronto this week as the representative of the public school principals of the city. He stressed that more thorough instruction should be given in elementary English, penmanship, and arithmetic. Mr. Mott felt that the home and school should be brought more closely together, and that teachers should be allowed more freedom of imagination in order to work more effectively.

Those Tax Deadlines And Tax Liabilities

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

The deadline for filing 1974 income-tax returns is April 30, drawing near.

Two deadlines have already passed for those wanting to defer the tax liability on part of their income. March 1 was the deadline for tax-free investment in a registered retirement savings plan, and March 31 for paying tax-free money into a registered home ownership plan.

If you missed either deadline and wish you hadn't, consider a couple of relevant points:

—Tax sheltering is not necessarily the right thing for everyone to do. The line if your current tax rate is high and you expect to have a low rate of tax on retirement.

—But if your current rate of tax is below normal, and your retirement income is likely to be high enough to subject it to higher tax, then there's nothing to be gained by deferring it.

If you are among the majority of taxpayers who could save money by putting some of their current earnings into a trustee plan, it might be a good idea to start to invest now in an RRSP or (if you are eligible) an RHOSP.

Periodic investments throughout the year are usually easier than trying to scrape together one big payment just before the deadline (end Feb.) when they help to eliminate the danger that you might make a decision through unforeseen circumstances next winter.

On the case of an RRSP, it may be impossible this early in the year to tax-free, with much of the four family members closing $1,000 of it.

Municipal Spending

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Back in February, we saw council, in a full page newspaper, running up a trial balloon to ascertain what people their best efforts we could probably expect an increase in taxes. There were the usual promises to keep a close watch on spending but one member was even quoted as saying the taxpayers wouldn't mind for a large increase in the mill-rate.

This is a popular myth that the politicians have about the taxpayer, if you think about it, will shout and holler but when elected representatives decide, in their wisdom, that despite our city council rennning an area in the East end to permit the construction of townhouses, completely disregarding the wishes of the property residents in that area. On a higher level, the provincial government has decided that Papineau Lake will have a public park, despite all protests by the residents to the contrary. On the highest level, the federal government has decided, after three years of concentrated protests, that we are going to have another airport, of sorts, at Pickering.

We are told inflation is the culprit responsible for a higher standard of living. The Mayor now openly proclaims is inevitable. One of the culprits is the cost of education but she does not say this whole trend to economic suicide was started by our present Premier when he was Minister of Education. Other culprits in the inflationary picture are the increased salaries to civil servants, firemen and policemen. Strange to mention is one thing that it was our own city council that granted these pay increases.

Is city council going to proceed with all its plans for widened arterial roads, a new library and the existing pocketbook befores they know for sure that the projected tax rise is going to indeed going to be located at its existing site? What

Is this irresistible urge that elected people get, once in power, to spend the taxpayers money? What is it that makes them confident that the taxpayer has an unlimited amount of money?

New Industry to Locate In Murray and Trenton

By CHRIS ALMEY
Staff Correspondent

WOOLER — A new industry, a ban on the sale of burial plots in non-Murray Township residents in Mount Evergreen Cemetery, more discussion on Murray's own fire truck, and other events kept Murray Township council working until midnight Wednesday. Also, the official plan for Murray will be presented to the public soon.

Council did not reveal the name of the proposed industry, but passed a resolution to enter into an agreement with the town of Trenton regarding servicing of the site, which is expected to cost $80,000. Over half of the building would be in Murray, the balance in Trenton.

No new plots in Mount Evergreen Cemetery can be sold to other than Murray Township residents. Reeve Harry Lafferty told council, until more plots are available. He pointed out that three-quarters of the people buried there now are from Trenton. He said the cemetery board has no money, and a survey to establish plots would be expensive.

Murray Township's Official Plan will be revealed to the public on April 28 and 29 at 8 p.m. The first meeting will take place in the community hall in Wooler, and the second in Murray Centennial School.

Business left over from a previous meeting came up again, namely the roadway running north and south ending at the Murray Canal on which Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bolting had built a home and rented it to Mr. and Mrs. Morley Pitchett.

The complexities of the matter were revealed at the last meeting, but reeve Lafferty this week said the road was in use 20 years ago and allowed to fall into disrepair, so council decided it would fix the road up.

It was suggested that there were many road allowances in Murray that should be fixed up or not at all, but council did not pursue that issue, although it was pointed out that council had the same matter put before it earlier at a meeting in another part of the township.

By improving the roadway on which the Boslings own land on both sides, council was concerned about further development along it at this time.

In the matter of fire protection, it was noted that Trenton Fire Department fought three fires in Murray during March.

Reeve Lafferty tried to get council to decide if it wanted to form its own fire department or tie in with Brighton, but all council would agree to at this time was to invite two representatives of differ-ent fire truck suppliers for discussions.

Reeve Lafferty said he had a fire on a property he owns, and the Trenton Fire Department sent a truck to fight it, but it could not carry enough water to extinguish the blaze, and was going to leave, so he had the Trenton crew call on the Brighton Fire Department's tanker to replenish the water supply.

"We are paying Trenton all kinds of money and they send a truck that only holds 500 gallons of water," the reeve said.

Hastings Highlights

Dance to Raise Funds

TWEED — The Tweed Agricultural Society is sponsoring a dance Friday evening, April 25 at St. Carthagh's Church Hall, on Bridge Street, Tweed.

Dairy Executive Elected

ATHENS — Addison area dairy farmer Hubert Earl was elected to his fifth straight term as chairman of the Leeds County Milk committee last Saturday at its annual meeting. Ronald Visser of Portland was elected vice-chairman and Lawrence Eyre of Athens was elected secre-tary-treasurer.

Water Meters in Stirling?

STIRLING — Public Utilities Commission chairman Eugene Burrell says he and PUC member Doug Robson are planning to attend the Ontario Municipal Water Association meeting in Toronto on Mon-day. Mr. Burrell wants to talk to representatives from municipalities similar in size to Stirling to find out the pros and cons of water meters. Stirling does not have meters at present.

Concert Next Week

STIRLING — The Stirling Primary School will present its annual spring concert Thursday, April 24 at 1:15. Stormy weather has spoiled Christmas concerts and they have been abandoned, so the spring show now gets special attention.

Lights on Order

STIRLING — Fifteen street lights for Frankford Rd. and the west end of Front St. have been ordered and should be installed in about a month, Stirling Public Utilities Chairman Eugene Burrell reports.

Rat Race Route

The first annual River Rat Race from Bapidate to Bancroft will be held May 18 on the turbulent York River.

Oil drums and planks are at a premium in the area as contestants get their craft ready for the event. The river is expected to be at an ideal level for the gruelling race.

Bancroft Track Club To Run Prestige Races

BANCROFT — Road race runners from all parts of Ontario are expected in Bancroft on September for the first area sanctioned road race.

The race, which already has the endorsement of the Ontario Track Association, will be sponsored by the Hastings Highlanders Track Club.

The area Hastings Highlanders has been in operation for four years under the guidance of Tom MacWilliams, a local teacher.

Mr. MacWilliams has been selected to act as one of the Canadian officials at the 1976 Olympics.

During an executive meeting of the Bancroft Chamber of Commerce this week, Mr. MacWilliams indicated that the organizing club would need the support of the chamber and local businesses in provide some prizes for the participants in the September race.

"I think this race will mean a great deal to the North Hastings area," said Mr. MacWilliams, "I can see 75-80 athletes entered in the senior race alone."

The race program for the day will include a 30-km race, for senior, a junior 10-km race, a 5-km fitness race in anyone who wants to participate and a 10-km walking race.

"The route for the race will probably be along Highway 500 west," said Mr. MacWilliams, "we can control the traffic along there."

The race was granted by the Ontario Association to Bancroft after a submission had been made by the local group of young athletes.

"We really wanted to participate fully in the track life," said Mr. MacWilliams, "it's a major undertaking, but we decided to go for a championship event because we want lots of people to come."

The local Hastings Highlanders group will also be holding a track clinic at North Hastings High School on Saturday, May 3.

The clinic is open to everyone in the area and will feature instruction to participants by coaches and athletes from the Etobicoke Striders Track Club.

Dads Help In Kitchen

BANCROFT — A group of North Hastings fathers donned aprons and manned the dishpans on Tuesday evening as 180 mothers and daughters sat down at the Bancroft Bible Chapel to enjoy the Pioneer Girls annual banquet.

The Pioneer girls groups are an interdenominational affiliation of youngsters from Grade 3 to Grade 13.

There are four age groups, Lavellers for eight and nine year olds; Trailblazers for those 10 and 12 years of age; Shikari for the early teens and Explorers for those in the upper grades at school.

Following the banquet, Ruth Pettit, a young local violin virtuoso performed for the group.

Ruth, was a prize winner at the North Hastings Music Festival and a scholarship winner at the Brantford Festival.

The pioneer groups are open to all area girls who are interested in an experience in physical, intellectual, musical and spiritual growth.

Never-fail Ways To Be Truly Blue

Feeling a little glum?
Well, don't just go half way. Make yourself. Really miserable. If you're going to be unhappy, you might as well do it right. That is, if you can do anything right.

That's the first step to a genuine downhill depression. Belittle yourself. Say things like "thinking I do ever turns out right. I'm just a loser."

I've never known anyone who could stay partially unhappy with a pessimistic attitude like that. Eventually reality will start to match your view of it, and you'll be right. Everything you do will be a failure, and you'll have a right to be miserable.

In case you are only an amateur at the game of being the most unhappy, unloved and unlucky person in the world, here's a few random sampling of surefire techniques.

* * * * * *

Declare yourself to be misunderstood and unappreciated. Complain about how little thanks you ever get, and don't forget about it. Hold grudges, harbor ill feelings and be hurt by the way people start to avoid you.

* * * * * *

Decide that you won't be completely happy until you possess some specific object — swimming pool, color television set, first prize in a contest, new spring outfit, that list is endless — and then stay discontent until you acquire what you want.

Once you get it, notice how little your life has changed, and become temporarily sad, until you have fastened on some new material possession that you simply must have. Keep this up for years, and you'll manage to make others around you miserable too.

* * * * * *

Try this: "must have" business with individuals. Convince yourself that you won't be happy until you get a date with the girl or boy of your dreams . . . or until you get leveled by a party at the home of a socially prominent person . . . or until you get married, and have children of your own.

Relying on someone else's presence or absence for your own well-being is an easy way to ruin your life. When these people don't make you constantly happy, you have a good chance to become bitter, disillusioned and lonely.

* * * * * *

Be jealous. Feel threatened and insecure if your husband or wife or friends seem to enjoy the company of anyone else but you.

Be envious. Get miffed when people around you are more successful than you, or more popular, or more attractive. Build up some resentment, and nurture it.

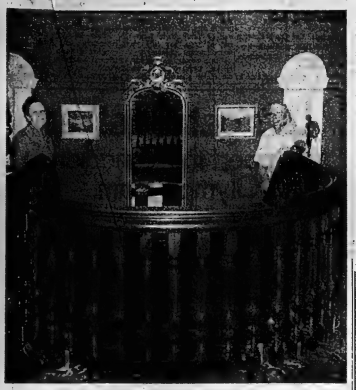
Caretakers at Glanmore House: It's a Big Job

By SHARON AIRHART



Tom and Hilda Jordan on the great staircase.

From their daily shlitings of miles of glass showcase to the shoveling of snow, Hilda and Tom Jordan are the behind-the-scenes people who help run Hastings County Museum.

Mr. and Mrs. Jordan are the caretakers of Glanmore House and from the home base of their three-room apartment within the museum they look after the 9,000-square-foot former mansion.

"It's a busy life," Hilda points out.

After all, when Glanmore House was a private home as many as five servants were employed to light the fires, prepare and serve meals, take care of the lawns and, of course, keep the mansion thoroughly clean.

Nowadays, of course, there are no fires to light and meals to prepare and the Jordans have a far more responsible task — the care of the county's treasure. And there are 23 rooms filled with them.

"It's an exacting job," Hilda admits. "The first time I dusted the things, I shook like a leaf."

Besides the cleaning work, which must be completed every day before the museum opens — during the summer that means rising at 5 a.m. to get everything done — the Jordans are responsible for building maintenance.

"If something breaks, I fix it," Tom says simply.

And often he builds things. Just hours before the museum opened, in 1973, for example, curator Marion Lewis thought a Welsh cupboard was needed for Mrs. Simpson's kitchen.

He delivered a set of plans and some lumber to the museum and within six hours, Tom Jordan had produced the cupboard.

The Jordans, who have three married children, were new to this kind of work before they moved into Glanmore a year before the museum opened.

Marysville residents for many years, they were forced to change their lifestyle when Tom was "involuntarily retired" from the company where he had worked for 15 years.

With that behind them, the Jordans have thrown themselves into the care of the museum.

In fact, visitors have been moved to comment in the guest book about the cleanliness and good appearance of Glanmore House.

The Jordans say that's a two-way street — they have nothing but praise for the visitors who only rarely leave evidence of their tour.

"We find the odd candy bar wrapper or a bit of mud from someone's shoe" Tom Jordan says. "But people are pretty neat."

Sunday is a day off for the pair when the Jordans do more of the same kind of work as their own employees — they're cleaning up and refurbishing an old two-room school house near Tweed as a retirement home.

Tamil People's Fight For Autonomy Swells

BOMBAY (CP) — The struggle for autonomy is being stepped up in the key Indian state of Tamil Nadu.

Tamil Nadu Chief Minister Muthuvel Karunanidhi told the state assembly that he is prepared to go to prison "to wrest the legitimate rights of the Tamil people from the central government in New Delhi."

Newspaper reports say that Karunanidhi's party, the Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam (DMK), seems to be getting ready for a major confrontation with the Congress Party of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi.

It is noted that this is the first time that DMK politicians have talked of courting imprisonment for their cause.

When a legislator said that he hoped such a situation may not arise, Karunanidhi retorted: "Why not? The situation is bound to arise and I am ready to face it."

The DMK has been in power in the southern state for the last eight years. It has explained that it does not want the secession of Tamil Nadu from the rest of India but only "maximum internal autonomy."

With a population of nearly 41 million, Tamil Nadu is one of the major states in India.

The new flag, which symbolizes the intensification of the fight for autonomy, the DMK has already designed a new state flag.

The blue flag with a temple inscribed on it has been hoisted in some government offices in Madras, capital of Tamil Nadu.

Prime Minister Gandhi has repeatedly said there is no question of Tamil Nadu getting internal autonomy. No step that would weaken Indian unity would be taken by Parliament.

Germans Can Pick Best for Troops

BONN, (Reuter)—After years of recruitment problems, West Germany's armed forces are savoring the unfamiliar luxury of choosing candidates from a growing stream of volunteers.

To the surprise of defence ministry experts, the number of applications from students intent on a military career soared to 65,000 last year from 49,000 in 1972. The selection boards choose a little more than 35,000.

Ministry spokesmen say the trend is partly due to the lure of improved training facilities, which provide young soldiers with qualifications they can use in civilian life.

In addition, West German teen-agers nowadays seem more ready than their elder brothers to accept that the armed forces are really necessary. Last year, for the first time, the number of conscientious objectors was down.

But with college openings in short supply, cuts in many industrial training plans, and 123,000 people under 20 out of work, no one questions that there are other reasons too.

"There's no doubt that the economic situation has been a factor," a defence ministry spokesman said.

The armed forces have 1,500 university openings at their disposal, and hope to have 4,600 by 1976. The defence ministry foots the education bill for the officer cadets who fill them, and in return the graduates serve for eight years after qualifying—or repay the money if they leave the forces.

For university candidates and would-be skilled workers, the army offers a secure alternative to the uncertainties of waiting for a college opportunity or looking around for a company willing to take on trainees.

Even high school graduates interested in college are thinking twice before doing their national service for the obligatory 15 months on pay of about 162 marks (about $67 a month. If they choose to volunteer instead, they are paid four or five times as much and only serve seven months longer.

One story highlighting the change in attitudes tells of an entire high school class that took the second option.

Although the forces can draw on greater manpower now for recruits, defence experts say a professional force on the British model would be too expensive. The intention is for 60 per cent of the force to be professional, compared with 55 per cent of the 495,000 soldiers today.

With unemployment leading to a desire for job security clearly motivating many applicants, it is hard to say whether there is a trace of new militarism in the volunteer statistics.

One teen-age volunteer confessed in a newspaper interview to an admiration for the German army campaigns of the last war, and then added hurriedly that he still could not go along with "gassing the Jews and all that."

The $12.95 carpet that looks, feels and wears like $16.95.

Once in a while a carpet comes along that has everything going for it and everything going for you.
QUALITY...reaching the highest standards of excellence.
APPEARANCE...a lustrous look with pin-point definition.
FEEL...wool-like luxury.
PERFORMANCE...wears like the best nylon.
VALUE...not found in other carpets at anywhere near the same price.
That carpet is here now, today, to make any one of your fabulous decorating ideas a beautiful reality.
That carpet is Royal Star by Bigelow.
Here are some of the exciting things that make it the number one choice in carpets this Spring.
Colors have a brilliance and radiance that surpass anything in a carpet you may have ever seen before. This is made possible by the unique star-shaped fiber of 100% TREVIRA* STAR polyester. Imagine a Royal Star color and you're imagining a room with added richness and taste...in contemporary colors like Desert Fawn, Sea Pearl, Glacier Blue, Campfire Red, Sunray Gold and many others.
The fibers in Royal Star carpet are heat set. This ensures twist retention and a resiliency that's going to stand up to the roughest wear. Even in heavy traffic areas. Even with a large family of children.
And there's more. Like ease of cleanability, low static properties, good abrasion resistance.
Before Royal Star carpeting reaches the store, it must go through one of the most rigid quality control programs. Each carpet is subjected to tests for wearability, abrasion resistance, and colorfastness of the highest standards. Only after the carpet has met these exacting quality and performance measures does it earn the TREVIRA* STAR label.
Your guarantee that you're getting quality at a price never before possible.

Rahman Rules

Sheik Mujibur Rahman's takeover of absolute control as president of Bangladesh has met with approval from many Bengalis who hope his new powers will provide the punch he lacked in three years as prime minister of the young nation. But others, including a few members of the ruling Awami League, were said to be fearful that the fiery liberation hero might be slipping toward the kind of absolutism he had fought during the days before 1971 when Bangladesh was East Pakistan. The amendment changing Bangladesh to a single-party, authoritarian state was passed unanimously by parliament and the sheik told parliament he was assuming the sweeping powers to do away with colonial-based government, stop exploitation of the people and guarantee their security and prosperity. ## Killings Harming Sea Lions

VANCOUVER (CP)—The population of British Columbia sea lions is not increasing and a university scientist believes continued illegal killings are part of the reason.

H. Dean Fisher, zoology professor at University of B.C., says sea lions, protected by law since 1970, have not recovered from killings in the 1950s and 1960s which reduced their number by almost two-thirds.

He said in an interview that his annual count shows the stellar sea lion population is holding steady at 4,000 to 5,000, the same as it has been for the last four years. In the early 1950s, there were about 12,000 sea lions.

Mr. Fisher said about 15 sea lion carcasses were washed ashore in December near a UBC research station at Barkley Sound on Vancouver Island. The animals had been shot.

Before the animals were brought under the federal Fisheries Act they were considered a threat to commercial fishing and were shot by fishermen and the federal fisheries department.

Private Reform School Head Hits Public Schools

SHAWNIGAN LAKE, B.C. (CP) — Hugh C. Wilkinson is headmaster at what may be the country's most exclusive reform school.

Mr. Wilkinson runs Shawnigan Lake School, a 180-acre private school on southern Vancouver Island.

"You're bloody right we're a reform school," he says. "We wouldn't be worth the money if we weren't."

It costs $4,000 a year to board at the 250-boy school, but Mr. Wilkinson says the total cost of public education may be just as high.

"By total cost I mean the cost of the failures, the dropouts, the loss of usefulness, the lack of confidence, the crime, the social workers running around," he said.

A Shawnigan Lake graduate himself (class of 1940), the 55-year old Wilkinson says he might be a different boy today.

"I know damned well I would be a juvenile delinquent if I grew up under the conditions of urban life that most young people find today.

"After all, what's more fun than going into a store and stealin a bottle of pills or a small radio? It has all the elements of skill, excitement, nerve and strategy."

Mr. Wilkinson said the trouble with public schools is that they do not provide round-the-clock guidance for their pupils. After the 3 p.m. bell, he said the schools do little to keep students from the path of crime.

"And the average home, what do they find there? Mostly, it's the television set, which is not productive, or the old man's liquor cabinet, which may be very productive," he said.

"There's no work for the kid to do to establish that he's a valued member of the family," he said.

"We have an opportunity that the public schools lack because we are with the boys 24 hours a day.

"At the end of the school day, the public school student reverts to another school—his family, his friends, the neighborhood. That's where he gets his other education."

At Shawnigan Lake, each student's day begins with domestic chores, followed by classes. The evenings are taken up with supervised recreation and two hours of homework. Regulations are enforced by canings.

The canings are possible because Shawnigan Lake is a private school. Corporal punishment is outlawed in British Columbia public schools.

Three cheers.

When you need $2500, you don't have to dress like a million.
Come as you are.

Grow with Us

You don't have to dress up.
It may sound strange. But a lot of people think they have to look more like bankers than we do, to get a loan. Which is ridiculous.
We don't mind seeing you the way the world sees you most of the time. That way, we can build an honest relationship with you. And you can feel relaxed while you're doing the same with us.
We figure you wouldn't be coming in to ask for a loan unless you had a good reason to borrow. And a Scotia Plan Loan officer won't let you borrow beyond your means. He'll help you make the right kind of loan, in the right amount, at the right terms. After all, a loan should never be a financial burden.
So let this be your invitation to visit one of our over 900 Scotiabank branches for the money you need. When you need it. Just as you are.
We'll try to give you a loan quickly and simply.
Remember. Dress is optional.
Because, if we're going to try to take the mystery out of lending you money, it'll help if you try to take the mystery out of yourself.

Unemployment Up

The number of unemployed rose again in March, according to figures released by Statistics Canada April 8. The seasonally adjusted rate rose to 7.2 per cent of the labor force, up from 6.8 per cent in February. The actual rate remained the same at 8.6 per cent, or 840,000 unemployed. — (CP Newsmap)

Biologists Propose Lobster Corrals

LOS ANGELES (AP)—New England lobsters, those tasty creatures of the briny North Atlantic, may soon be raised like herds of cattle in heated, underwater corrals.

Keeping lobsters in shore-based pens would reduce the lobsters' staggering mortality rate, marine biologists say. In the ocean about one lobster in 20,000 reaches the marketable weight of one pound.

Furthermore, scientists have learned that lobsters grow to that size four times faster in heated water from power-generating plants than in the icy depths off New England.

Long-range benefits from the work being done in labs on this coast and elsewhere might mean a dependable and increased supply of this much-loved but rapidly dimishing seafood.

New England lobster costs more than $4 a pound retail—when it can be found. Demand has depleted lobsters in some areas. Lobster farming may insure a steady supply, but the price is not expected to come down because of the cost of raising them.

Scientists began a study in 1970 to determine whether it would be feasible to transplant eastern lobsters to the Pacific Ocean.

"The first we had to find out how these lobsters would get along with the habitat and the other marine animals that are native to this area," James M. Carlberg, a research associate at California State University at San Diego, said in an interview.

It was soon determined that the Pacific Ocean along Southern California offered all the shelter, food and other conditions that the lobster needed.

But biologists found that the lobster's aggressive tendencies, backed by huge powerful claws, could possibly displace other native creatures, including California's spiny lobster, which has no claws.

By 1972, Carlberg said, he and his associates were concentrating on aquaculture. A two-storey labratory was set up beneath the shoreward end of a pier at Scripps Institution of Oceanography at La Jolla.

They rigged trays, tanks and pipes to circulate water from the ocean.

From the Massachusetts Lobster Hatchery, they got egg-bearing females for brood stock and, with temperature controls installed on some of the tanks, they soon found that in water heated to around 70 degrees,the time between mating and hatching of eggs was reduced from 12 months in the wild to about 12 months in the lab.

They also found that a lobster could be grown from the egg to marketable size in about 18 months, a process that requires five to seven years in the cold Atlantic. Raising the lobsters in pens also reduced the mortality rate to under 50 per cent.

To obtain an economical source of heated sea water, the biologists turned to the San Diego Gas and Electric Co. They were given permission to build a laboratory at its generating plant on the ocean front at Carlsbad.

They combine seawater that has been heated as a coolant for the generators with water from an adjacent ocean-flushed lagoon to maintain temperatures between 70 and 75 degrees.

"If we can raise 10,000 pounds of lobster a year in commercial operation can expect to raise 100,000 pounds, and probably would go for even 500,000 pounds for more economical use of the expensive plant he would need."

He said under present feeding methods it takes four pounds of food—brine shrimp, fish meal and the like—to produce a one-pound lobster. The cost of the food is $1 a pound, or $4 a lobster, almost exactly the retail price of a marketable lobster.

But Carlberg said researchers at Louisiana State University and at least one commercial pet food plant are working on shrimp culture ration and other productions which would reduce the cost to about $2 a lobster.

How does the farm-grown lobster compare to the Atlantic-raised lobster in taste?

"We have eaten some of them," Carlberg said. "As far as we could tell, there was no difference. They were mighty good."

Just to be sure, the scientists plan an even tougher test.

"About six months from now we're going to have a banquet," Carlberg said. "We're going to invite a bunch of the best-known gourmets we can find, and we're going to serve wild lobster and tame lobster, and then we'll know."

Employees Like Three-day Week

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — The three-day work week is here for some insurance company employees and a sampling of opinion shows that most like the idea, despite having to work 13-hour days.

Howard Byrd found that working three 13-hour days and then having four days off gives him "more free time to spend with my family. We've rediscovered each other."

Byrd, a computer operator, works the night shift, 6 p.m. to 7 a.m.

The schedule was initiated at Aetna Life — Casualty to keep the company's large computer operations humming.

Company studies show that the 276 employees who are on the three-day work have efficiency ratings comparable to employees on traditional schedules, also have a lower than average absentee rate.

Peter Belanger, a section manager in the short-week program, thinks the night crew is more congenial because "these are the only people you see, and you have to get along."

Dick Mackay, an assistant supervisor, says the employees keep from getting tired on their long work days by thinking about the four days off. "You're just looking at the last day."

The company studies show performance declines in two situations—if an employee has a second job, and when the crews switch their work schedule every four months.

When the switch is made, the Monday through Wednesday workers change with the Thursday-through-Saturday crew and all work six straight days.

There are some drawbacks, especially for employees who aren't interested in hobbies or who prefer spreading out their hours. And for some "it seems a little quieter," Belanger says, there's a sense of isolation.

Many Properties Never Assessed

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Ontario's property re-assessment program has discovered thousands of properties that aren't on the assessment roles, Revenue Minister Arthur Meen revealed Wednesday.

Mr. Meen made the comment in an interview during a provincial cabinet meeting here Wednesday.

Mr. Meen also said, in response to several briefs, that there would be no relief for university cities amounting to millions of dollars when re-assessment is instituted by 1977.

Speaking to reporters about his re-assessment program, Mr. Meen said as many as 30,000 properties are not on the tax roles.

He specifically mentioned properties such as summer cottages.

The revenue minister also said a number of business and residential properties are under-assessed but many apartment buildings are over-taxed.

A downward adjustment in assessment "might help to moderate riddal problems in places like Toronto," he said.

The Ontario cabinet heard more than 40 briefs ranging from day-care centres to family counseling services.

The meeting was the latest in a series of special cabinet meetings being held by Premier William Davis outside Queen's Park.

Next month's meeting will be held in Thunder Bay.

On the subject of store hours, Attorney-General John Clement said he has almost given up trying to set hours across the province.

He said neighboring communities are unable to agree on when and how long stores should be open.

Mr. Clement promised legislation later this year governing Sunday store opening. He said he would prefer to do this by persuading the federal government to put stiffer penalties into the Lord's Day Act.

He said he asked federal Justice Minister Otto Lang to raise penalties for illegal Sunday openings to $5,000 for individuals, from $20.00 to $25,000 for companies, instead of the current "few hundred dollars maximum."

He said the best solution is to allow the whole thing up to local municipalities.

Miller Says High Prices Way to Check Drinking

TORONTO (CP) — Problems caused by alcohol consumption are becoming such a burden to the public purse that governments should re-evaluate their involvement in the lucrative business of selling beer, wine and spirits, the Addiction Research Foundation says.

Health Minister Frank Miller, commenting on the suggestion, said Tuesday he recognizes that health problems result from use of alcohol but higher prices — not departure from the business — is the most immediate tool to cut consumption rates.

Ontario Cabinet Asked To Police Small Towns

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Ontario should take over the policing of small municipalities because they can no longer afford the cost, the mayor of Smiths Falls told a special cabinet meeting Wednesday.

"Believe me, it is not easily done, nor lightly, that I as a local politician suggest handing further authority over to the province," T. O. Ashwell said in his brief.

He also suggested that the province should not be quite so generous in its pay settlements with the provincial police.

Mayor Ashwell said provincial police salaries set the tone for smaller forces and that in turn escalates salaries for all municipal employees.

"There is literally no way that once the first crystal, that of settlement of police salaries and benefits is done, that his chain can be stopped."

Liberal Wants Budget Scrapped

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP) — The Ontario budget should be scrapped to avoid endangering the provincial economy, James Breithaupt, Liberal house leader and financial critic, said Wednesday in an address to Chatham-Kent Liberal Association.

He said the most serious error which Treasurer Darcy McKeough and Premier William Davis had made in presenting the budget was the assumption that the United States economy would turn around in the second half of 1975 and energy prices would remain stable.

Mr. Breithaupt said the provincial treasurer used misleading, two-month-old figures on the U.S. economy from President Ford's mid-February budget forecast.

"It was amazing what the fear of electoral defeat will do to some politicians," Mr. Breithaupt said, citing the "11th-hour conversion of Provincial Treasurer Darcy McGeer to a position opposing further oil and gas price increases."

Later in an interview in London, Ont., Mr. Breithaupt predicted a June provincial election, saying this would give the government breathing time before any controversial issues arise in the fall.

Wells to Open Education Week

Ontario's education minister Thomas Wells will officially kick off Education Week here Sunday. Hastings County will be the focal point for activities across the province.

The official opening will begin at 11 a.m. at Albert College Chapel with a non-denominational service open to the public and students. At 12 a.m. the official party will be bussed to Loyalist College for a buffet lunch. Loyalist president Herb Young will welcome guests.

At 1.30 the party will go back to Centennial Secondary School where Mr. Wells will speak to guests. Following this a multi-media presentation will take place on the themes of Education Week "learning a co-operative community enterprise."

The ceremonies will be concluded by a tour of Centennial Secondary School.

Liberals Gear Up for Battle In New Provincial Riding

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

MARMORA — Liberals — in what they say will be southern Ontario's biggest provincial riding — began shaping up Wednesday for the election race expected later this year.

Their founding meeting here began assembling a pre-campaign machine for Hastings-Peterborough, a sprawling 5,000-square-mile rural area created by electoral boundaries redistribution, now awaiting legislature approval.

To head the re-organized party organization, they chose Jim Watson, 29-year-old Madoc high school teacher.

As president, he leads an association which he and other Liberals in Hastings and Peterborough constituencies have been organizing since last fall. Their work area has covered 19 townships from Peterborough which have been merged with the 23 in Hastings — a territory reaching from Deseronto to northeast of Peterborough.

The preliminary organization work peaks next week from tonight when the new association chooses an election candidate at a nominating convention here.

Already two candidates are publicly committed to contesting the nomination, David Hobson, of Apsley, a secondary school teacher and 1971 candidate in Peterborough riding and Don Mullan, of Marmora, now publisher of two local newspapers in both counties.

Clarke Rollins, MPP for Hastings since 1959, already has announced he intends seeking the conservative ticket in the new riding.

About 80 party workers met at the Rotin Club here to form the new Liberal organization.

Mr. Watson, who teaches business administration at Centre Hastings Secondary School, is president of seven Liberal organizer in recent years heads the following executive:

Breen O'Connor, Marmora, executive vice-president; Gordon Hoard, Rawdon Township, vice Mayor; Havelock, and Russell Moore, vice presidents; Lily Rodgers, Norwood, treasurer; Wayne Milroy, Marmora, secretary.

Key speaker at the meeting was Michael O'Toole, Liberal candidate in the new riding of Peterborough, who attacked the Conservative government for not being responsive to the Ontario citizens.

The Davis administration, he said, is "bureaucratic and computerized, that the average person is forgotten".

Separate School Planned

A planned new separate school at Whitney, Ontario will not be a combined public-separate elementary school as reported in the Intelligencer Wednesday.

Hastings-Prince Edward County Separate School Board director Ed Neville said today the original intention was to build a new school for public school and separate school students in this community, at the east entrance of Algonquin Park, Mr. Neville said difficulties, however, prevented the joint effort.

However, Mr. Neville also said the township of Airy is still considering the project and that original plans have not been completely abandoned. The new school is subject to approval from the ministry of education and the co-operation of the township of Airy. A site has not yet been selected.

Opposed - - in the Same Cause

David Hobson, (left) of Apsley, and Don Mullan, Marmora, joined hands in the same cause Wednesday night — but they're still opponents. Both men are seeking the nomination as candidate to contest Hastings-Peterborough for the Liberals in the next provincial election. They declared their intentions at founding meeting of new riding association at Marmora.

Two Candidates Seeking Liberal Nod in Election

New political personalities are poised for a chance to strike at Conservative supremacy in this area.

Two candidates Wednesday night declared themselves as serious contenders for the Liberal nomination in the new riding of Hastings-Peterborough.

The contenders to date for the nomination convention set for next week here are:

— Don Mullan, 38, who quit an executive newspaper post to run a weekly in Marmora two years ago—and now is the publisher of four papers in the region.

— David Hobson, 29, who teaches high school in Bancroft, lives in Apsley, and part-time township councillor and Liberal candidate in Peterborough in the 1971 provincial election.

Mr. Hobson was last president of the Hastings Liberal Association. He teaches law, business and history at North Hastings Secondary School where he has been on staff for the past 10 years.

He became interested in politics after being elected a councillor in Chandos Township — where he has a beef farm — and served four years in municipal government. He joined the Liberals in 1967 and in the Peterborough election four years later, claims he received more votes than any other previous Liberal provincial candidate. He is married with three children.

Mr. Mullan who rose through the ranks of newspaper work to become managing editor of a Thomson Newspaper daily paper in Galt, quit in late 1973 to "try things on my own." He bought the Marmora Herald and later the Norwood register and started the Hastings Star in 1972 and last year purchased the Madoc Review. He served on school boards 10 years, is married with three children and is lay reader in the Anglican church and a delegate to the Anglican Synod of Ontario.

$6,000 Damage In Collision

FOXBORO — A 21-year-old Huntsville man is in satisfactory condition in Belleville General Hospital today with injuries to his knee, nose and abdominal injuries following a one-car accident late Wednesday night.

Dale Gibson Wreglit of RR 1, Huntsville was admitted to hospital after his vehicle was in collision with a second vehicle driven by Terry. Tenkner, 47, of RR 1, Foxboro.

Mr. Tenner was treated and released from hospital after being examined for possible head injuries.

Belleville detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police said the accident occurred about 11 p.m. Wednesday at the junction of highways 14 and 62. A total of $6,000 damage to the two cars resulted, police said.

Public Hiking Day Set Along Hastings Trail

Ontario Hiking Day — proclaimed this week by the provincial government to promote outdoor activities — will centre near the Moira Lake area for Quinte participants.

The Quinte Hastings Recreational Trail (QHRT) is one of 19 organizations around the province which are organizing hiking tours for the April 27 event.

The QHRT will take hikers on a five-mile stretch south and north of Moira Lake.

The trip begins and ends at Camakins Camp Inn grounds, on the Quin-Loc-Lac Rd., a half mile west of Highway 62 south of the lake.

The aim of the province-wide event is to encourage Ontario citizens to discover contact with the outdoors — becoming increasingly popular with the increase in hiking.

Trails like the QHRT means that facilities are available on the doorsteps of many urban residents says the Federation of Ontario Hiking Trails Association.

The hiking day was proclaimed this week in Niveola and wish it to be the first of effective of recognition from Premier William Davis for the efforts of organizations like the QHRT.

The Quinte facility — reaching 250 miles from Ontario to near Algonquin Park — also is the biggest multi-purpose trail in the province. Besides hikers, it is used for snowmobilers, cross-country skiers, horseback and trailbike riders.

The provincial government will be also hanging the QHRT offices in Belleville — calls such trails a "most worthwhile activity."

Such facilities come at a time when "pressures of urban society are growing, says the document from Premier Davis.

"It is our hope that recreation trails will always be by a portion of a failing roof during dinner-time rush.

He was taken to Belleville General Hospital, transferred to Kingston General Hospital in Kingston and finally to Toronto.

Fife is employed by Standard Machine and Foundry Co. Ltd. of Uxbridge, Pa. which has branch offices in Ontario.

Constable Ted Arthurs, the investigating officer, said a larger portion of Fife's left hand was severed and he also suffered bruises to his chest. Officials of the Board of Industry of labor now are investigating, he added.

Constable Arthurs said workers were in the process of removing a part of the roof of one of the buildings at about 10.45 a.m. when the southern half collapsed.

Family Affair

The Eastern Ontario Concert Orchestra conducted by Stephen Choma performed Wednesday night at Centennial Secondary School to appreciative audiences. The concert was part of Artafest '75, a month-long display of the arts sponsored by the Quinte Arts Council.

Tuning up their violins in the school corridor prior to the performance are Joschim Reimann and his daughter, Elizabeth. Guest vocalist for the night was Wally Williamson.

TM Meeting Tonight

A followup preparatory free public lecture on transcendental meditation (TM) will be held this evening, 8 p.m., in Room 214 at Quinte Secondary School. The lecturer is last Roberts of Toronto, assisted by Quinte area instructor Jyrin Hanson.

Museummobile Here

The Museummobile, the roving mini-museum of the Royal Ontario Museum in Toronto which travels throughout the province, will visit Belleville during education week celebrations next week. It will be open for public view at the Hastings County Museum at 257 Bridge St. — Monday and Tuesday, 3-4 p.m., Wednesday and Friday, 7-9 p.m. and Thursday and Friday, 3-4 p.m.

Integration Topic

The Quinte Association for Hearing Impaired Children will hold its regular meeting April 21 at 8 p.m. at the Teacher Education Centre at Sir James Whitney School.

Topic for the meeting is "Social Integration of Hearing and Hearing Impaired Children. Special guest will be Pam Allin, social worker at Sir James Whitney School.

Budget Discussed

The Hasting County Board of Education received its new grant regulations Monday but board officials say it may be three weeks before the budget can be handed down. Superintendent of business Ken Wormald predicted the board may have to call a special meeting May 5 for the budget presentation. He said an effort will be made to have it ready for the next meeting April 28.

First Aid Training

The new First Aid Procedures booklet, recently printed by the Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit for distribution in area schools, should not be regarded as the end-all or be-all in first aid care for schools, says Dr. C.R. Lesk, medical officer of health. He emphasizes each school should have three or four people with St. John's Ambulance training.

Board Looks At Dryers

On cue from the county board of education separate school officials decided this week to investigate the use of electric hand dryers in their own schools.

The Hastings County Board of Education recently purchased about $6,000 worth of hand dryers for their schools this year. This board maintains electric hand dryers are more economical.

J.J. Sheridan, a member of the executive council with the Hastings - Prince Edward County Separate School Board, said monday night that the board "should take a second look at the dryers."

Mr. Sheridan said an earlier study revealed the change over to be costly for the separate school board but he added that the cost of paper towels has doubled in the last few years.

Competition Sharpens Team Rescue Procedures

A four-man team from Belleville's City Ambulance emerged as top rescue team in the province this past weekend, at ambulance competitions in London.

The team lead by Harry Hilchon scored 1155 of a possible 1295 to capture top honors — the third time the Belleville team has done so in the competition's five-year history.

Team members are Tony Tyrrell, Stephen LaMoere and Art MacConnell.

Sponsored by the Ontario Association of Ambulance Operators, the competitions places teams in rescue situations and judges team members on their proficiency in carrying out the rescue, said Mr. Hilchon.

Some 15 ambulance companies from across the province participated in the competition with Hamilton placing second — 125 points back of Belleville.

Asked what application competition training has for practical ambulance service, Mr. Hilchon said, "competition teaches you to assume everything possible is wrong with your patient and that everything must be checked."

"Attendants who have competed learn it is just as important to find out not what physically went wrong with the victim to cause an outwardly minor injury," he said.

"When a man is treated for a heart problem after a fall he could die later because of a heart condition which caused him to fall in the first place but was left untreated," he said.

The City Ambulance crew now is preparing for international competition to be held in Minneapolis this August.

In four international outings — all of which have been held in the United States — the City Ambulance crew placed no lower than 14 and as high as third, competing against 60 other teams.

Workman Severes Hand In Industrial Mishap

A 38-year-old Belleville man is in St. Michael's Hospital in Toronto suffering from a severed hand following an industrial accident early Wednesday on the site of the former Canada Crushed Stone Ltd. asphalt plant at Point Anne, about 10 miles southeast of here.

Ontario Provincial Police at Belleville said today Douglas Eugene Fife of 278 East Dundas St. was struck and pinned

Kinsmen Plan Two-day Blood Donor Clinic

Fresh from helping form two separate clubs, one in Tweed-Stanerdton and a K-40 Club for those over the age of 40, the Kinsmen Club of Belleville is diverting its attention towards its own club.

During the Kinsmen Club's regular meeting this week announcement was made of a two-day blood donor clinic to be held May 28 and 29 at the Masonic Temple on Foster St. and Dundas street.

The clinic will be open from 1:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. on the last Wednesday and Thursday in May.

Also brought up during the meeting was the pledging of future proceeds' from upcoming Kings games up to the sum of $4,000 to go towards fighting cystic fibrosis, cause endorsed by the Kinmen Club.

In other business, final plans were made for the opening of the Kinsmen Swimming Pool which will officially open Friday, June 27.

Kniesel Outlines Role Of Loyalist in City

The role of Loyalist Colleges in the community and area was pointed out to Chamber of Commerce members Wednesday by Ernst Kniesel, director of public relations at the college.

"There are about 8,500 people associated with Loyalist College in some way either as teachers or students," said Mr. Kniesel referring to full-time and part-time students and staff, as well as these taking correspondence.

Mr. Kniesel was speaking to the chamber members during the group's regular monthly meeting, held for the first time in Club 213, the dining room operated at the college by students in the hotel-restaurant course.

Mr. Kniesel pointed out the five divisions that college activities can be broken down into: business and communications, technology, health and community, which includes the Edith Cavell School of Nursing at BGH, retraining and extension courses.

Other areas discussed dealt with advisory committees and the practical background in industry and business that the instructors have. "We have only one instructor, that in economics, who does not have an industrial background in the subjects they teach," said Mr. Kniesel.

Budget Due This Month

Hastings County council will strike its 1975 budget at the end of this month.

Council meets for a two-day session — April 29-30 — during which debate and approval of the budget will be the key issue.

Various council committees also will present reports on the work between council sessions.

Ontario housing ministry officials also are expected to make an audio-visual presentation on the province's Home Renewal Program, says Carl Bateman, county administrator.

31 Groups In Display

The final list of those volunteer and service groups in the city taking part in the Volunteer Information Mart April 27 is complete with the entry of the Big Brothers organization.

This brings to 31 the total number of groups taking part in the one-day display held Sunday April 27 at the Four Seasons Motel from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

The purpose of such displays taking place on a day dubbed Volunteer Recognition Day, is to make the community aware of such groups in the city and the services they provide. Admission is free, as are the refreshments which will be served during the afternoon.

Alarm Box

Belleville firefighters responded to the following call for assistance during a hour period which ended at 8 a.m. today.

Wednesday, April 16, 8:44 p.m. — grass fire behind Brewers Retail warehouse on Station St. started in pile of rubble allegedly lit by children, no damage.

Home Show Ready

The crews were busy until midnight Wednesday preparing Ben Bleecker Auditorium for the annual home show, sponsored by the Quinte Home Builders' Association. Dave Clarke, manager and partner of Woodland Cleaners, gives his carpet a fin al once over before the crowds come. More than 30 area businesses are par ticipating in the show which opened to the public today at noon.

Oakridge Squad Foils Bid by Birt's

By DOUG WALSH
Sports Editor

TRENTON — Birt's Handy Stand had its third straight Ontario Minor Hockey Association Juvenile AA title in the bag here, Wednesday night but somebody forgot to tell Oakridge Charterways. And the visitors stayed alive with a dramatic 5-5 tie.

Birt's, aiming to treat a crowd estimated at approximately 1,000 to a victory celebration, came two seconds away from accomplishing the feat.

Many in the crowd had begun the countdown with the home side in front and 23 seconds to play but they had their enthusiastic chant cut short. Oakridge made a heave-and-die attitude pay off with the tying goal at 9:38 in a 10-minute overtime period. And now the series goes to a sixth game.

Birt's record in the title set now stands at three wins, a tie and a loss and the club needs only one more point to wrap it up.

Charterways had goalie Ian Harrison out with a faceoff in the Trenton zone with Birt's clinging to a 5-4 lead and 10 seconds on the clock.

Describing the events leading to the Oakridge equalizer, a disappointed Trenton coach, Roger Drake, said: "We got the draw and the puck went to the corner. Instead of trying to work the puck out along the boards, we got careless and it cost us."

"That "careless" but put the puck into the slot where Oakridge captain Bill Nediger took control and connected on a hard, high drive to goalie, Gord Beall's stick side.

Charterways' coach John Stoyanovich appeared to be the only person in the arena who was not surprised his team had come through in such stirring fashion after sound trouncings in Games 3 and 4 at Trenton, on the weekend.

The Oakridge skaters were expected to offer little resistance after 7-3 and 9-1 setbacks here, Saturday and Sunday.

"I'm not surprised we pulled it out," offered Stoyanovich, "this club has done everything the hard way all season long and we're very much in this thing."

To those weekend games here, we missed Nediger who was hobbled by an injury and he proved tonight just how important he is to this club," Stoyanovich explained.

Drake thought his charges may have been chalking up the win before the action started.

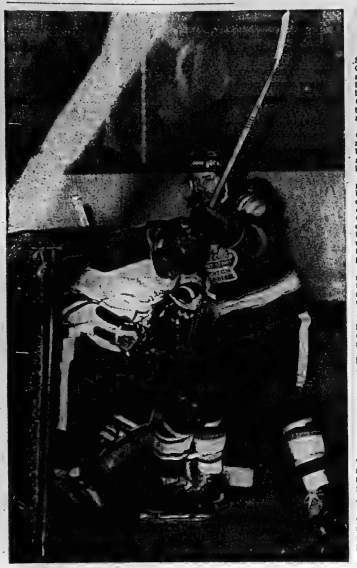
"We were not up for this one," he said, "and we ran into some hot goaltending."

With the score tied 5-5 at the end of regulation time, Oakridge jumped-in front early in the overtime when Craig Hotston connected. Late in the 10-minute session, Bob Thompson's unassisted counter put the home side on even terms and Bruce Leedham appeared to have the clincher when he combined with Rick Mathison and Harold Roberts, to make it 6-5.

It was 1-1 after one period. Jeff Poole opened the scoring and Birt's Dave Lewis squared things.

The visitors opened up a 3-1 lead in the second, on goals by Reisdeo and Doug Gleasie. Brian MacKintosh replied for Trenton.

Lewis potted the only goal of the third to send the game into extra time.



Trenton Birt's defenceman Brian MacKintosh isn't particular about where or how he takes his man as he barrels into Oakridge captain Bill Nediger in Charterways' goal crease. Obscured by the two combatants is Oakridge goalie Ian Harrison who escaped the crunch.

Sixth Game A Question Mark

"But who knows where or when?" goes a line in an old standard and it's a fitting way to describe the Ontario Minor Hockey Association Juvenile AA provincial final series.

Oakridge Charterways forced a sixth game in the title set with Trenton Birt's Handy Stand by pulling out a 5-5 tie in Trenton, Wednesday.

Now the series shifts to the Gordon Arena but when and where Game 6 will be played had not been decided late this morning.

Trenton team manager-sponsor, Gary Birt wants the game played Friday, the day originally agreed upon by both sides.

Oakridge team officials claim they won't be able to get an arena Friday and they are pushing for a Saturday game at home.

"If we play Saturday and Oakridge wins, we'll have to go right back at it in Trenton, Sunday and with all the travelling, it will put us at a disadvantage," Birt explained this morning.

Should the OMHA decide the Oakridge home game will be played Saturday, Trenton's next move will be to change Sunday's game time to 7 p.m. from the original 3 p.m. start.

Of course, all the Birt's team has to do, is win or tie in Game 6 and the problem is solved.

Racing at QER So Popular Track May Have to Close

Harness racing may disappear from the Quinte sports scene this year.

And that possibility exists partly because of the increasing popularity of the Friday race meets staged at Quinte Exhibition Raceway.

Classed as a "C" track since the Belleville Agricultural Society took over operation of that raceway some five years ago and brought existing facilities up to standards required, the operators are now faced with another large expenditure.

Tracks are classed as 'A', 'B' or 'C', depending on dollars bet per race.

'A' tracks are those with bets exceeding $10,000 per race; 'B', bets exceeding $5,000 but not more than $10,000 and 'C', bets exceeding $1,000 but not more than $5,000.

Exhibition Raceway's bet per race now stands at a $3,400 figure and that puts the track in the 'B' category.

Says raceway general manager E. C. 'Ev' Gowsell, "We are back to much the same position as existed five years ago . . . a track not fully up to standard according to rules and regulations, for a 'B' rating."

The change in track status brings with it additional requirements in facilities, such as video lighting, mast-type and electric odds board, to mention a few.

Raceway officials estimate it would cost in the neighborhood of $100,000 to bring the track up to 'B' standard.

"With an average return of approximately $15,000 per season to apply against investment and improvements, plus current problems concerning the future of exhibition park due to the construction of the new bay bridge, it is impractical to consider capital expenditures, particularly when the need is brought about by a Book Regulation figure," explains a release from the raceway.

The Belleville track has supported the Harness Racing Industry in the past by providing a place for horses to begin their careers and older horses to finish. And track officials hope to continue to do so.

But they make it clear this can be done if the C rating is retained.

Raceway officials have been meeting with Chief of Race Supervision representatives from Ottawa in an attempt to make their position clear.

Simply stated, the raceway's stand is: "C, yes"; "B, No".

Gowsell says no headway has been made in negotiations with the representatives from Ottawa and, as of Wednesday, no definite conclusions had been reached.

The raceway general manager says the track's future now lies in the hands of the regulating agencies and whatever influence the public may have or be able to offer on its behalf.

The Agricultural Society considers that harness racing here is a definite asset to the city and the Quinte Community and that both would suffer if the sport were discontinued.

Blades Edge Blues

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — Oakville Blades edged Brampton Blues 6-5 Wednesday in the second game of their Ontario Hockey Association Junior B final series.

The win evened the best-of-seven series at 1-1 with the third game Saturday in Oakville.

Rusty Chapman, Dennis Fowler, Mark Cassidy and John Holmes scored for Oakville. Dan Walker, Billy Joyce and Doug Crawford replied for Brampton.

Toros Square Set with 6-5 Win

Boils Down to Series of Inconsistency

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto Toros-San Diego Mariners playoff series has come down to a contest of which club can solve its problem of inconsistency first.

The Toros emerged with a 6-5 win Wednesday night, tying their World Hockey Association best-of-seven quarter-final at two victories each.

The fifth game is set for San Diego on Friday and the sixth here Monday.

Each club admitted to playing only one good period of hockey Wednesday. For the Mariners, it was the first period when they took a 1-0 lead on Norm Ferguson's fourth goal of the playoffs and extended the lead to 2-0 on Mike Laughlin's first of two for the night early in the second period.

For the Toros, it was the second period when they stormed back with four goals before dropping their defences again in the final session.

"We didn't start out in the first period playing well at all," said Toros coach Bob Leduc.

"Then we turned the game around in the second period and took a 4-3 lead in the third. Then we let down again."

Mariners centre Andre Lacroix said: "We got a two-goal lead and sat on it.

"It was just a case of not being tough enough in the second and third periods. We started to let them come to us. They got a couple goals from directly in front of the net and that killed us."

The Toros' four-goal comeback in the second period included two goals by centre Wayne Dillon, Lee Hutiley's fifth of the series and Tony Featherstone's first.

Gene Peacosh scored for the Mariners to open the third period but Toronto came back with goals by Frank Mahovlich and Gavin Kirk. Brian Perry then scored for San Diego and Laughlin's second goal closed out the scoring.

The Mariners were again without high-scoring winger Wayne Rivers who has been nursing a painful bruise on his calf.

Cincinnati had built a 5-0 lead with four of the runs coming in the third inning, two on Tony Perez' homer off Juan Marichal. Ron Cey hit a two-run homer in the fourth to get Los Angeles started on the comeback trail.

The Cubs, recording their fifth straight victory to open the East Division, had seven hits for six runs in two innings of pitcher Steve Carlton.

Don Kessinger's triple and single, by Bill Madlock, Jerry Morales, George Mitterwald and Rick Monday started the first-inning carnage, producing the first two runs. Then Manny Trillo pounded a Carlton fastball over the left field wall for three runs and a 5-0 lead.

Woody Fryman pitched a five-hitter to lead Montreal past his former Pittsburgh teammates.

"You're not going to stop those Pirate hitters but you can slow them down, and that's what Woody did," said Montreal manager Gene Mauch. "He'll pitch against Pittsburgh every time in Montreal."

Buzz Capra's six-hitter, Dusty Baker's homer and Larvell Blanks' two-run single led Atlanta past the Astros. Bob Watson drove Capra's winning run with a two-run homer in the ninth.

Second baseman Felix Millan's error paved the way to three runs in the fifth inning that enabled the Cards to edge the Mets.

Wynn Cranks Grand Slam

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jimmy Wynn was almost apologetic. It was as if he was saying he just couldn't help himself.

"I was just trying to meet the ball," he said. "I wasn't trying for a home run. Seldom do I ever go up there swinging for a home run.

"But it did cutie my mind that a grand slam would tie the game," he added with what amounted to a sheepish grin.

So with Los Angeles Dodgers trailing Cincinnati Reds 5-2 in the bottom of the seventh inning, he swung—just trying to meet the ball—and it went into the left field stands.

"There was no doubt about it when I hit it," he said of the 3-a-s-o-loaded homer that vaulted the Dodgers into a 6-5 victory over the Reds Wednesday night.

He had a chance to duplicate his heroics with the bases loaded and one out in the bottom of the ninth—but all he could do this time was foul out.

Steve Garvey got him off the hook—and gave the Dodgers a 7-6 triumph over the Reds—with a line-drive single to centre off Clay Carroll. Mike Marshall wound up with the victory.

In other National League baseball action, Montreal Expos blasted Pittsburgh Pirates 5-0, Chicago Cubs beat Philadelphia Phillies 8-3, Atlanta Braves defeated Houston Astros 5-2, St. Louis Cardinals edged New York Mets 3-2 and San Francisco Giants beat San Diego Padres 7-1.

Killebrew Kickin', Aaron Fading

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Harmon Killebrew is alive and well in Kansas City. Hank Aaron seems to have taken a turn for the worse in Milwaukee.

Killebrew showed Wednesday night that he can still hit a home run as he helped his new team beat Oakland A's 6-2.

Aaron, another slugger who's wearing a different baseball uniform this season, continued to wear a collar as well and as a result, Milwaukee Brewers lost a 9-0 decision to Baltimore Orioles.

Killebrew, who hit 559 home runs in a distinctive career with the Minnesota Twins, hit his 560th off Vida Blue to get Kansas City Royals started Wednesday night. Killebrew then was in the middle of a three-run rally in the fourth inning, scored one of the Kansas City runs after leading off with a walk.

Killebrew's homer gave him his third extra-base hit of the season so far in seven games.

"I hit that ball real good," Killebrew said of his second-inning homer that tied the score at 1-1 And I got two bases on balls. I'm a base on balls hitter. The home run tied the game so it meant something; so many of them don't. It was my first homer for Kansas City—and that meant something too."

By contrast, Aaron has been having his problems adjusting to the American League after collecting a record 755 homers in his National League career. Aaron was hitless in two official appearances against Mike Cuellar Wednesday night and had his no-hit string extended to 12 by the crafty Baltimore lefthander. The one-time Atlanta Brave great has had but two hits in 19 at-bats with the Brewers, none of them homers.

In other American League action, Boston Red Sox beat New York Yankees 4-2, Minnesota defeated California Angels 10-4 and Texas Rangers beat Chicago White Sox 14-4.

Along with Killebrew's hitting, the Royals also had the pitching of Nelson Briles who scattered five hits in one of his best performances with the Royals.

Mike Cuellar pitched a three-hitter, Don Baylor singled in the only run he needed and Ed Kirkpatrick drove in two runs with a double as the Baltimore Orioles defeated Milwaukee Brewers 3-0.

Boston's Rick Wise hit up a rare victory cigar, his first in a long time after being beat New York. "This one tastes a little special," he said after scattering nine hits and striking out five Yanks en route to his first complete game since April 13, 1974.

All the Boston runs off Pat Dobson and reliever Larry Gura came on homers, a two-run shot by Carl Yastrzemski and a pair of solo jobs by rookie Fred Lynn. Wait Williams homered for the Yanks.

Elsewhere, playoff action continues tonight with Quebec Nordiques and Houston Aeros both looking to wrap up their respective series.

The Nordiques lead Phoenix Roadrunners 3-1 going into tonight's fifth game at Quebec while Houston leads Cleveland Crusaders 3-1 with the fifth game tonight at Houston.

The New England Whalers-Minnesota Fighting Saints matchup is tied 2-2 going into Friday's fifth game at New England.

So-GreeN · The 4-Step Program · So-GreeN

When our customers ask us how they can get a beautiful, trouble-free lawn, Thrasher's Farm & Garden Centre recommends the So-Green Four-Step Program. When used as recommended we guarantee results.

1 MARCH/APRIL

To get your lawn off to a fast, healthy start in the early Spring, apply So-Green Premium 21-7-7 with Iron. You use only 1/3 the amount compared to 7-7-7 fertilizers, saving you time and money, while achieving the same results. This product contains time release nitrogen for long lasting results.

If you were troubled with Crabgrass last year use So-Green Crabgrass Killer plus 10-5-10 fertilizer and do two jobs with one application.

Premium 21-7-7
50 lbs. feeds 10,000 square feet
25 lbs. feeds 5,000 square feet
12½ lbs. feeds 2,500 square feet

Crabgrass Killer 10-5-10
40 lbs. treats 5,000 square feet
20 lbs. treats 2,500 square feet

2 APRIL/MAY JUNE

For your second feeding use new So-Green Super All Purpose 14-7-7 with Milorganite and Iron. The Milorganite ensures a long lasting Organic feeding and the Iron guarantees a deep green lawn. This fertilizer contains all the nutrients essential to plant life. It will not burn your lawn.

If you were plagued with ants and other soil insects last year, use So-Green Bug Killer 10-5-10. We guarantee it.

Super All Purpose 14-7-7
25 lbs. feeds 5,000 square feet

Bug Killer 10-5-10
20 lbs. feeds 2,500 square feet

3 SEPTEMBER OCTOBER NOVEMBER

A most important time to feed your lawn to help it survive the winter ahead. Fall Season Lawn Food 3-6-10 is a formula designed for just this purpose. It contains Milorganite, to keep your lawn green throughout the Fall season.

If you failed to eliminate your weeds earlier, ensure they're gone by next Spring by applying So-Green Fall Season Weed Control. It is formulated to winterize and fertilize your lawn while controlling persistent weeds. Don' forget: use So-Green Guaranteed Grass Seed for your Spring and Fall seeding.

4 MAY/JUNE JULY/AUGUST

A vital time to feed your lawn with So-Green High Organic containing 60% Milorganite. The organic nature of this product prevents your lawn from turning brown during the summer and 20 trace elements will give you a deep, dark green lawn. High Organic will not burn your grass.

If weeds are still a problem, use So-Green Weed Killer with 10-5-10 fertilizer. It kills dandelions, plantain and other broadleaf weeds while feeding your lawn.

High Organic 10-6-4
50 lbs. feeds 5,000 square feet
25 lbs. feeds 2,500 square feet

Weed Killer 10-5-10
80 lbs. treats 8,000 square feet
40 lbs. treats 4,000 square feet
20 lbs. treats 2,000 square feet
5 lbs. treats 500 square feet

Wolves Lead Marlies 7-5

Petes Eliminated by Fincups

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hamilton Fincups got their revenge against Peterborough Wednesday, defeating the Petes 4-1 and earning a berth in the Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior a final series.

Late in regular-season play, the teams see-sawed between second and third place, Hamilton, which ended the season in third spot four points behind Peterborough, took their eight-point semi-final series 8-4 in points. The Fincups will meet the winner of the Toronto Marlboros-Sudbury Wolves series, which Sudbury now leads 7-5 after defeating Toronto 5-1.

The seventh game is expected to be played Friday in Toronto although the Sudbury management is seeking an interim injunction to prevent the game to be played in Maple Leaf Gardens.

Bud Burke Wolves' owner has officially protested to the OHA, saying some officiating was prejudicial against his team during Sudbury's 8-6 loss Tuesday at the Gardens.

At Hamilton, a crowd of 1,914 watched Hamilton the Fincups trail 1-0 after the first period but lead 3-1 going into the final 20 minutes.

Rich Seiling paced the win with two goals. Dale McCourt, a 15-goal scorer in the regular season, got his first playoff goal and Archie Xing scored a short-handed effort to insure the win.

Stan Jonathan replied for the Petes after a scramble midway in the first period.

Peterborough goaltender Gret Millen faced 48 shots while his team-mates peppered Greg Redquest with 17 shots.

At Sudbury, the Wolves played before 6,086 spectators and outshot Toronto 36-25.

Sudbury got goals from Hec Marini, Geoff Green, Randy Carlyle, Bobby Russell and Paul Crowley.

Mark Napier replied for Toronto on an unassisted effort Lidway in the final 2 minutes.

Earlier in the day, the Sudbury owner demanded the replacement of Dave Branch, an OHA official who assigns game officials, for the rest of the series.

Burke alleged that referee Blair Graham, who was officiating in the Hamilton-Peterborough game Wednesday, continually showed bias against the Wolves Tuesday and pushed arguing Sudbury player aside.

Six Duncan, Sudbury's general manager-coach, and Burke said Toronto's Bill Wells was off-side before he scored the winning goal late in the third period. They also said that the goal judge behind the Toronto net in the second period left his stool five seconds before the period ended and was not on the job when Sudbury's Russell scored just before the buzzer at the end of the period.

The blue light signifying the period-end flashed and Graham disallowed the goal.

The Sudbury management also are angered with the OHA's alleged negligence to notify referee Mike Lazos of Ottawa that he was scheduled to referee Monday's game in Sudbury.

The game was delayed 45 minutes when Lazos did not appear and while Sudbury officials searched for a local ref.

Northern Ireland Returns in Glory

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Northern Ireland celebrated its return to Belfast after a six-year exile to soccer stadiums around the world by defeating Yugoslavia 1-0 in a European championship qualifying soccer game Wednesday.

In other games, Malcolm Macdonald scored five goals to give England a 5-0 win over Cyprus in Group 1 play, and Wales edged Hungary 2-1 at Budapest in Group 2.

The victory left Northern Ireland atop the Group 2 standings with a 2-1 record. Yugoslavia and Norway, at 1-1, have each played one less game and Sweden has lost its only start in qualifying play.

Wales, 2-2, leads Group 2 followed by Austria, 2-3-1; Hungary, 1-2-1, and Luxembourg, winless in three games.

In group 1, England is the leader with two wins and a tie after three games. Portugal has tied its only game, and Czechoslovakia and Cyprus both are winless.

Macdonald became the first player to score five goals in one game for England in recent years. The Newcastle United striker has recently returned to action after a long absence because of injury.

The previous record of four goals was set by Dennis Wilshaw against Scotland in 1955.

CANADIANS ADVANCE

LONDON (CP) — Greg Halder and Adrienne Straub, both of Toronto, won second-round matches Wednesday in an international hard court tennis tournament. Halder defeated G. Calmon of Australia 6-2, 6-0 in men's play and Miss Straub eliminated Australia's D. Evers who retired with an injury.

WFL Biggest Disaster In Professional Sports

NEW YORK (AP) — Chris Hemmeter was telling some of those World Football League horror stories which have become so popular. Then he grew serious.

"The biggest disaster in professional sports history," he said of the league in 1974.

It is not difficult to document that statement. There were dishonest attendance figures, bankruptcies, broken promises and Internal Revenue Service liens for starters.

The team that won the so-called World Bowl had its uniforms seized and sold as souvenirs. The team that lost it hadn't been paid in months, and the man who ran that team is under indictment in two states.

An estimated $9 million was lost. But the WFL is giving it another try.

This time, promises league president Hemmeter, things will be different.

What the WFL announced Wednesday was a 10-team league that will play football in 1975 under financial rules never before tried in professional sport in this country.

The formula drawn up by Hemmeter requires teams to put money in the bank before they sign any contract to spend it. It requires that 41 cents of every dollar taken in be paid out to coaches and players, most of whom will be getting one-per cent of a club's revenue in lieu of a salary.

And each team must place varying percentages of its income in four bank accounts, three of which the league will have control over.

There was the usual hoopla that accompanies any big announcement. Players Calvin Hill, Larry Csonka, Jim Kiick, Paul Warfield and John Gilliam were there to sing the league's praises.

And there was the talk about the Chicago WFL team offering Joe Namath, National Football League star with New York Jets, $4 million to join the WFL, be an 11th team in Portland. There was no immediate comment from the folks there can raise [illegible] Namath. There was, about $750,000 by April 30.

There had been negotiations [illegible] We... in 1975 will have [illegible] Warfield and Csonka in Honolulu, Anaheim, Chicago to give the league a [illegible] Chicago, Philadelphia, strong entry there, but those [illegible] Memphis, San Antonio, Tex.; talks collapsed Wednesday and [illegible], N.C.; Jacksonville, Hemmeter said the former NFL [illegible] Fla., Birmingham, Ala., and Miami Dolphins stars would [illegible]-orport, La. And there will definitely play in Memphis.

Grant, Wings Flying

PHILADELPHIA (CP) — John Grant scored six goals and assisted on four others Wednesday night as Philadelphia Wings defeated Montreal Quebecois 23-15 in a National Lacrosse League game.

Rick Boucher and Jim Wasson each had four goals for Philadelphia with Larry Lloyd, Carm Collins and Terry Lloyd adding two each. Dave Mindell, Barryi McColl and Ted Peters were the other Philadelphia marksmen.

John Davis scored five goals and added eight assists for Montreal. Jim Lynch and Dave Tasker each had two goals with Dave Litzenberger, Sandy Lynch, Ken Blansfield, Geoff Pinder and Gerd Ochelnik rep plied for the Quebecois, outshot 60-30.

League play resumes Monday night with Montreal at home to Philadelphia and Boston Bells in Quebec to play the Cariboos. Boston was originally scheduled to play Long Island Tomahawks in Uniondale, N.Y., Friday night, but that game has been postponed to May 23.

Canadians Win

KINGSTON, Jamaica (CP) — Jamie Paulson of Toronto and Locio Fabris of Creighton, Ont., both won first-round matches Wednesday in an international badminton tournament.

Paulson defeated David Chen of Jamaica 15-1, 15-5 and Fabris eliminated Ray Sikowmoot of Surinam 15-2, 15-1.

RATTLE TO DRAW

BIELEFELD, West Germany (Reuter) — Spain held West Germany to a 0-0 draw in an Olympic qualifying soccer match Wednesday night after West German Egon Schmit missed a 74th-minute penalty.

NO DOWNPAYMENT AND THEN SOME

Now you can, if you qualify, purchase a new home with absolutely no down payment. The latest government grant, can make it possible to own a condominium and end up with a $600.00 bonus. If you are an individual house in Chatterton Valley you could get in with no money down, if you qualify. If you are a 2 person home buyer you just can't miss this opportunity. It would be like throwing away $2,000.00.

CHOICE OF TEN

We are now proceeding with ten new houses on East Bridge Street. Each one is a different model. Let's have a buy with family rooms, some with garages. Could be ready by July. Still time to select yours.

Drought Hits Kenya

NAIROBI, Kenya (CP) — Agriculture in Kenya has a poor year in 1974, mainly due to drought and higher prices of farm machinery, says a government report. Tea production declined to 30,100 tons from 31,800. Cotton dropped to 14,500 tons from 18,200, and rice to 34,700 tons from 36,100.

Showbiz Short

HOLLYWOOD (Reuter) — Actor George Peppard says his recent attempt to abandon acting and become a director was a casualty of the economic recession and he now is acting again in a television movie.

The star of the successful television detective series Banacek, Peppard gave up the series and announced last year he was abandoning acting altogether to direct a western film he wrote himself.

But he failed to get the money he needed for the film and now is filming a television movie about a secret-surgeon which, if it is successful, will be expanded into a television series.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Friday, April 18

ARIES (March 21 - April 19) You'll do things for the sake of expediency that are not to your advantage, be warned. Time is your ally. Shortcuts will work against you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Talking too freely about a confidential matter could be your downfall. Your words could haunt you later via "instant replay" from an unpleasant source.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't lead anything to a friend you had trouble with before over something borrowed. This leopard hasn't changed his spots.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you challenge persons in authority today, you'll only tempt them to show you just how much muscle they really have.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll be called to task for a responsibility you neglected. Don't attempt to sweep it under the rug again.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A tax matter you've overlooked, ignored or put off is getting perilous because of an old obligation you've overlooked. Square things as soon as possible.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) In partnership situations today, let certain both partners are in accord about the goal or a series of it may cause.

Sobrietas will rebel today if you treat them in an arrogant manner. Consider their feelings. Lead by example.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your conclusions regarding a shared interest are inaccurate. Some information needed for a valid appraisal is being withheld.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're priming the pump for a problem if you ignore your mate's viewpoint in a decision affecting the family.

It will be difficult for subordinates to please you today. You don't know your own mind. Make sure your orders are clear before voicing them.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You'll soft-pedal your principles when the youngsters are concerned today and indulge them too much. Careful—you can't buy their respect.

To Your Good Health

Infected Lungs Cause Bad Breath

By C. C. HOSTESON, MD

Dear D. Thosteson: I'm a victim o fhalitosis. I've been to the hospital for a checkup on the whole digestive system. I've been to a dentist to check my teeth, my own, which I've had for 50 years. He says I have one of the cleanest mouths he's ever seen.

An ear, nose and throat doctor found nothing wrong. I had a gall bladder operation, but still retained the bad breath. My husband tells me it changes within short intervals.

I'm overly clean about brushing my teeth, and use a mouthwash, etc.

What are your comments of this subject?—Mrs. E. B.

You seem to have covered most of the waterfront in your search for a cause. However, one possibility you don't mention having investigated is significant by its absence. That is lung involvement. Have you been checked for this?

Diseases involving the lungs are always worthy of suspicion, particularly bronchiectasis, a problem that can produce a rather unpleasant breath. In bronchiectasis the small bronchial passages of the lungs become chronically dilated, providing pockets in which thousands of enormous occurs. It is one of several similar ailments involving the lungs that can produce bad breath.

But lungs may not be the only source of your halitosis. An allergy can cause it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please help me. I'm at my wits' end. Our 18-year-old son has had the crabs for four months. He has used medicine at the drugstore and gets rid of them for a few days, then he gets them back again.

Either he isn't using the medicine right or he keeps getting and getting them back from his girl friend.

Either possibility you suggest is reasonable—or both. With proper use of an appropriate medication, the crabs (pubic lice) should disappear in short order. There are a number of effective preparations, some of which must be obtained through a prescription.

There are simple methods to control the problem beyond medication. His clothes should be laundered individually, as should his bed clothing. Your mattress itself can still harbor the lice. After four months, you should probably initiate a general cleaning operation around your house.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a roaring noise in my left ear. I am also being treated for high blood pressure. Do you think this might be the cause?—T. T.

Do" you mean is the blood pressure the cause, or do you mean is the treatment the cause? I think you mean the latter. If so, the answer is that it's doubtful any medication you are taking for high blood contribute to the ear-noise problem.

However, if you hadn't mentioned the fact that you have high blood pressure, I would have suggested you be checking for this. It is one of the major causes of ear noises, and the noises thagnify for the victims being many unsuspecting high blood pressure patients to the attention of alert doctors.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like to know if there is anywhere I can buy one shoe for my son, a cerebral palsy victim? As he pushes himself around in his wheelchair with his left foot, he wears that shoe right down and the right shoe is still good.

It seems such a waste of the good shoe when I go to buy him a new pair.—Mrs. L. D.

Some others feel the same way you do. An organization called the Odd Shoe Exchange may be able to help you. The last address I have is 1415 Ocean Front, Santa Monica, Calif.

Consumers Boycott Greedy

By RAM SUNDAR
CP Correspondent

BOMBAY (CP) — When Malli Valdya, wife of a bank clerk in Poona City, 135 miles from here, found her grocer charging 30 cents more for a pound of millet, she telephoned the secretary of the grahak panchayat or buyers' council.

Within minutes the council went into action and in the next few days thousands of housewives members were told to boycott the grocer.

Faced with the greedy merchant apologized for his behavior and gave up overcharging in writing that he would not be unreasonable.

Poona City now has become the scene of a unique consumers' movement which is helping housewives at a time of rising prices and shortages of essential commodities.

Nearly 70,000 families have joined the movement. One of its basic rules is that shopkeepers who overcharge or sell articles under the counter and sub-standard stuff should be boycotted.

In some areas of Poona City, which has a population of 800,000, shopkeepers reported a 50-per-cent fall in sales following boycott by the consumers.

Mahadev Rane, who sells electrical appliances, said bulb and electrical appliances, said business became suddenly dull soon after he sold a stove for more than the price prevailing in the neighborhood shops.

"No one came into my shop for several days thereafter and I knew I had drawn the wrath of the buyers' council," Rane said. "It was only when I expressed regret for my conduct that I was forgiven. These Poona housewives can be terrible."

Former Federal Education Minister Mohamedali Chagla has praised the Poona consumers' movement as "an example to the rest of the nation in this critical period of rising prices."

The council recently set up a "parallel" textile market when cloth merchants began charging high prices. It bought several thousand dollars worth of textiles directly from manufacturers and sold them to its members on a non-profit basis.

It is planning to set up a network of food shops where rice, wheat, kerosene, cooking oil and eggs will be sold at less than market rates.

The council is also campaigning against false or exaggerated advertisements in newspapers.

When a local newspaper advertised a product known to be substandard, angry housewives picketed the publisher and editor and threatened to cancel their subscriptions to the newspaper.

Celtics Outrace Rockets To Take Two Game Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Houston coach Johnny Egan is well aware that Boston is at its best when its running game is working, but his Rockets haven't yet been able to contain the Celtics' fast-breaking offence in the National Basketball Association playoffs.

"When you get into a running game with that club, you're in trouble," Egan said Wednesday night after the Celtics had outraced the Rockets 117-100 and gained a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven Eastern Conference semi-final series.

The running game was the key to Boston's victory and proved Houston's downfall. The Celtics got it going in the closing minutes of the third quarter, outscoring the Rockets 13-2 for an 89-70 lead at the end of the period.

Dave Cowens paced Boston with 28 points while Calvin Murphy led Houston with 30.

In the other Eastern Conference semi-final, Washington Bullets beat Buffalo Braves 115-96 to a 2-1 series lead.

In the Western Conference semi-finals, Chicago Bulls also gained a 2-1 series advantage over Kansas City-Omaha, edging the Kings 93-90, and Golden State Warriors 109-98.

The only American Basketball Association game saw Indiana take a 4-2 Western semi-final series victory over San Antonio with a 115-108 decision.

Phil Chenier scored 34 points after intermission in leading Washington's victory over Buffalo. Bob McAdoo was high for Buffalo with 34 points.

Bob Love scored 31 points in leading the Bulls past Kansas City-Omaha.

Spencer Haywood, with 36 points and 15 rebounds, scored [illegible] points on free throws with 1:08 remaining for the Golden State.

Leafs, Canucks, Hawks, Islanders at Home Tonight

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto coach Red Kelly tries to sound confident even with his Maple Leafs trailing Philadelphia Flyers 2-0 in the National Hockey League quarter-finals.

But Kelly sounds less than convincing when he admits the Leafs played poorly in the last game and then says: "But our chances are just as good as they were when we started the series."

The Leafs chances may have improved by the move to home ice for the third game tonight and the fourth game Saturday, but the defending Cup champion Flyers still remain the favorites to take the best-of-seven series.

Elsewhere, Chicago Black Hawks and New Islanders they are also returning to home ice tonight, hoping to rebound from 2-0 deficits while Vancouver Canucks play host to Montreal Canadiens in a series tied at 1-1.

The Hawks will be looking to shut off high-scoring Buffalo Sabres while the Islanders have to stop Pittsburgh Penguins.

Against a Leafs team containing several players who are in their first playoff season, the Flyers are comparative veterans, backed by goalie Bernie Parent, the Vezina Trophy winner who shut out the Leafs in a 3-0 win on Tuesday.

The recognized superiority of the Flyers, however, has not left coach Fred Shero overconfident.

His points to Boston Bruins and New York Rangers, both upset losses in the first-round playoffs, as examples of what happens to a team that becomes overconfident.

"Boston was counting their money already and so was New York," said Shero.

"We have to work for everything we get."

Shero said his club can't afford to sit back after winning the first two games. "We have to make our own breaks. The Leafs are a very defensive minded team and we've got to challenge if we want to win."

Leafs centre Norm Ullman agreed with coach Kelly that the Leafs were playing "in slow motion" in Tuesday's loss when they got only 13 shots on goal.

The Canucks, besides having home ice against the Canadiens for the next two games, also have the psychological lift provided by their first-ever victory over Montreal on Tuesday.

"The real thing for us is that the win has taken a load off the minds of our players," said Canucks coach Phil Maloney.

Montreal coach Scotty Bowman blamed some of his players for not giving a full effort Tuesday. "There were quite a few people out there who weren't working as hard as they can," said Bowman. "That just won't do. We can't have any more of that. We've got to bounce back and come up with a better effort."

Islanders goalie Billy Smith wasn't letting the Penguins' lead worry him. "The more pressure on us, the better we play," said Smith.

"We let the Penguins play their game Tuesday night, but we're going to bounce back," said Islanders coach Al Arbour.

Chicago coach Billy Reay, like Arbour and Kelly, also tried to sound optimistic: "I still think it will be a six or seven-game series."

Thorburn Leads

SYDNEY, Australia (CP) — Cliff Thorburn jumped into a 13-1 lead near the halfway point in his second round match at the world professional snooker championships Wednesday, prompting referee Erick Burke to predict the Canadian, "in his present mood," would be impossible to beat.

The Victoria native, who makes his home in Toronto, won all seven games in his evening matches with No. 2 seed Graham Miles of Britain to take command in their best-of-29 series that resumes Thursday.

Bill Werbeniuk of Winnipeg, who also advanced to the second round, did not play Wednesday.

In other second round games, defending champion Ray Reardon of Britain took a slight lead, 5-4, over veteran Australian Warren Simpson and Britain Rex Williams moved into an 11-7 lead against Ian Anderson of Australia.

10.60 Lowest Return

TORONTO (CP) — Quick Flight wool has paid $2,900 dividends here and at Greenwood Raceway to return $10.60 for the lowest payoff on a win ticket during the evening.

In the fifth, Steven's Pride returned $70.70, $21.10 and $6.50 and combined with Cossip was worth $422.80 exacter.

Highland Kenny won the seventh, a mile pace, at $5.50 to $10,600 claimers. The five-year-old, who won the same class at Mohawk Raceway a week ago paid $9.50 and $5.50 and with a rising race time of 2:04 3-5 and received $12.10, $6.50 and $3.60, combining with Keystone Sargent for an $86.40 exacter.

The daily double of Cape Finn Bonacion and His Importance was worth $117.60.

Niagara Cougar and Wil Lor Echo returned a $97 ninth-race exacter.

A crowd of 7,506 wagered $652,749.

Artery Surgery Method of Future

EDMORTON (CP) — Heart transplants and artificial hearts may sound glamorous but coronary artery surgery is "the operation of the future," says a prominent heart surgeon.

Dr. J. C. Callaghan, head of thoracic surgery at University Hospital's cardiovascular division, told a Red Cross meeting that heart transplants and artificial hearts "are not the answers because of their unacceptable expense."

"Artificial hearts may never be a reality because of tremendous costs and service requirements.

"And a heart transplant costs about $50,000 plus $12,000 to $15,000 for testing and handling of rejection."

Instead of these developments which cannot be afforded by the public health-care system, more emphasis should be placed on procedures such as the coronary bypass operation, said Dr. Callaghan.

In the operation, blood vessels are taken from the patient's leg and attached to the heart, bypassing the constricted coronary artery that could lead to a heart attack. The operation's cost is about $5,000.

However, patients often do not seek the operation until they have had muscle-destroying heart attacks "and destruction of muscle makes surgery much more risky."

"The responsibility of doctors is to spot patients who are developing pain in the chest from coronary arteries and investigate it before it goes past the stage where it "can be helped by surgical procedures."

Pot-users Find U.S. Is Lenient

WELLAND, Ont. (CP) — Persons attempting to take small quantities of narcotics across the border into the United States are treated more leniently than those trying to cross Canadian customs with drugs, says a U.S. customs official.

Don Kelly, an inspector at the Customs Agency Service in the U.S. said a person taking two or three marijuana cigarettes from the Canadian to the American side of the border may be liable for criminal prosecution, but it depends on the prosecutor.

"If you are carrying 20 pounds of heroin, you're naturally going to be arrested and charged, but if you have one marihuana cigarette you probably won't be," he said.

Often, in cases involving a small quantity of marijuana, no charges are laid and no arrests made. Instead, civil action is brought gainst the vehicle used to transport the goods.

A criminal charge is the most serious thing that can happen to an offender caught at U.S. customs. Consequences are minimal for those who are not charged but pay a fine on the impounded vehicle.

"We might take a closer look at you next time you cross the border," Insp. Kelly said. "But that's all."

Persons apprehended at Canadian customs attempting to bring drugs into Canada are arrested and charged regardless of the quantity.

Residents of Canada are dealt with under the Bail Reform Act, usually resulting in the person charged being released after signing a "promise to appear" in court document. Bail is required from U.S. residents, about $300 for those caught with a small quantity of marijuana.

Al Lacavera, special narcotics prosecutor for Welland, said that despite the leniency found at the U.S. customs, drug laws in New York State are "very harsh."

Mr. Lacavera said prosecution of narcotics charges in New York State is complicated.

"They have attempted to take away discretion of trial judges in sentencing and specify sentences in their statutes or state laws."

First offenders found with less than one-quarter ounce of marijuana are usually proceeded against with what is termed an ACD—adjourned in contemplation of dismissal.

A type of probationary period is set and if the accused stays out of trouble for that period of time the charges against him are dismissed.

But if he is charged with felony, he may spend a minimum of 15 years in jail said Mr. Lacavera.

There are different degrees of felonies, with an A-1 felony being the most serious.

It carries a minimum 15-year sentence and the maximum is life imprisonment. Possession of more than two ounces of heroin or marijuana may result in that sentence.

But it doesn't have to be two pure ounces of either drug, Mr. Lacavera said, just two ounces of a substance containing heroin or marijuana.

Four Convicts Trying to Guide Young

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — The Canadian Youth Research Project (YRP) is not your ordinary venture designed to keep youthful offenders out of jail. The success or failure of this project rests with four convicts at nearby Collin's Bay penitentiary.

Lawrence Butile, John Mooney, John Jamieson and John Prince have decided that the best way to keep young people out of jail is by providing experienced counseling when they first run into trouble with the law.

They are serving time for crimes ranging from armed robbery to non-capital murder with terms from 10 years to life. Three of them started their criminal records while still juveniles.

"We all feel we would like to help kids at the time they first get into trouble rather than wait until they are in prison," said Butile.

"We are not the Mafia Man coming in to save Kingston," added Mooney. "We just want to save some kids from going through the same trip we did."

The CYRP operates on a shoestring budget, gaining some support from both Collin's Bay and St. Lawrence College here. In addition, the group sponsors films at the college and collects and sells postage stamps to bring in extra revenue.

The project was started a year ago while the men were prisoners at Millhaven maximum security penitentiary near here but the number of restrictions in force there severely limited what the group could do.

However, their activities have expanded since the group was transferred last year to Collin's Bay, a medium-security institution.

Now the group is gathering data about youthful offenders, studying Kingston's welfare system and interviewing a range of people from family court judges to the offenders themselves.

The group expects to use the data they collect to determine the scope of future activities. They will need to decide whether to concentrate on prevention, treatment or alternatives to the court and penal system for dealing with young offenders.

Experience within the penal system is not the only background the four men have on which to base their project.

"We realized we'd better get some education, otherwise I don't think anyone would listen to us," said Prince.

All four men are taking university courses and a re free from prison work duty.

Prince has earned a law degree and a certificate in criminology and now is majoring in psychology with Butile at Queen's University through courses provided at Collin's Bay.

Nigerian Criticizes Canada

LAGOS (CP) — Canada does not do enough to promote the new economic order sought by Third World countries, Dr. Okoi Arikpo, Nigerian external affairs minister, said Wednesday.

The Nigerian minister said Third World countries must have a greater say in distribution of the world's natural resources, a better price for exports and better access to trade markets of industrial countries.

The remarks came during an informal meeting with members of the news media and Canada's external affairs minister Allan MacEachen, currently on a 15-day tour of a number of African countries.

Contradictory

TORONTO (CP) — Government health officials in the last two years have sent contradictory form letters to Indians in the Kenora, Ont., area, advising some not to eat raw, carp-contaminated fish and telling others it was alright to eat the fish, officials of the National Indian Brotherhood said Wednesday.

But-the-fish letters were withdrawn from use eight days ago in a meeting with Indian chiefs.

Seek Markets

OTTAWA (CP) — Trade Minister Alastair Gillespie told the Commons Wednesday that efforts are under way to seek export markets for Canadian-made auto parts outside the United States. Meantime, he told Allan Lawrence (PC—Northumberland-Durham), he expects the current deficit in automotive trade with the U.S.—$1.3 billion last year—will "diminish rapidly" when sales improve there.

$240,000 Awarded

THUNDER BAY (CP) — The wives and children of two brothers killed in a freak traffic accident in late 1972 have been awarded an out-of-court settlement totalling $240,000.

The awards were made to Thelma Adeline Horner, who received $140,000, and Carol Anne Horner, who received $115,000. In addition, each family received $12,500 for court costs.

Given Life Term

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. (CP) — A Brampton, Ont., carnival worker was found guilty Wednesday in the slaying last fall of a Medicine Hat service station attendant and sentenced to life imprisonment.

Richard Joseph Desommeaux, 23, had chosen trial by judge alone on the murder charge. The attendant, Peter Van Eerde, 17, was killed last Aug. 22 while alone on duty.

Can Eat Trees

TORONTO (CP) — A University of Waterloo professor says he has discovered a process to turn trees into protein and hopes to use the process to feed the world's hungry.

Murray Moo-Young, a professor of chemical engineering and a biochemist, said in a telephone interview Tuesday that he has received $32,000 in grants from two Ontario firms to conduct further experiments.

Woman Kidnapped

TURIN, Italy (Reuter) — The 29-year-old wife of a Turin industrialist was kidnapped Wednesday night by three masked men armed with pistols who beat her husband and then escaped in his car.

Police said the abduction occurred as Pietro Rosco, 58, co-director of a Turin meat-importing firm and chain of butchers, was driving his car into his garage.

Bill Coming

OTTAWA (CP) — The long-awaited bill affecting the Canadian editions of Time and Reader's Digest will be introduced in the Commons on Friday, government sources said Wednesday.

Seaway Plan

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A research scientist said Wednesday that it is technically feasible to keep the St. Lawrence Seaway open year-round by building strategically placed "power parks."

New power plants can be built at remote sites along the seaway, discharging waste heat at strategic points and thus preventing winter ice jams, said Dr. Arthur Bueche, vice-president for research and development for General Electric Co.

New Star Found

LONDON (Reuter) — British scientists have discovered a new type of star, the science journal Nature reported Wednesday.

The star, too slow for a pulsar and too fast for an ordinary binary system, was found with the help of the new British satellite Ariel 5 launched last October as part of a joint space program with the United States.

Make Progress

LONDON (CP) — Canadian Environment Minister Jeanne Sauve says delegates to the international sea law conference in Geneva, Switzerland, are making headway in efforts to hammer out new legislation governing use of the world's oceans.

Third Bylaw Passed

TORONTO (CP) — City council passed a third interim bylaw Wednesday to control development in the downtown area until the end of September when council hopes to make extensive changes to its plan and zoning bylaw.

The bylaw follows two other bylaws that met roadblocks at the provincial level.

'Just Statistic'

OTTAWA (CP) — Manpower Minister Robert Andras refused Wednesday to confirm a report that the Unemployment Insurance Commission (UIC) may raise its ceiling up to 50,000 cheaters through a checkup system.

He told the Commons that the figure is "just a statistic" based on a Toronto-area check using a system in effect for more than a year.

Want Land Saved

KEMPTVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Citing the need for public pressure on federal and provincial governments, the Ontario Institute of Agrologists (OIA) says it will launch a publicity campaign on the need to preserve food-producing land.

At a meeting Tuesday, the OIA approved in principle a draft policy paper urging both levels of government to take "immediate steps" to preserve foodland and concentrate urban growth in other areas.

Weary MPs Debate Strike of Dockers

OTTAWA (C) — The recurring problem of disrupted grain shipments plunged the Commons into another overnight emergency debate Wednesday—this time on threatened grain shortages in Quebec.

MPs sat until 3:40 a.m. EST wrangling over the danger posed to Quebec livestock by striking St. Lawrence River longshoremen who have interrupted deliveries from grain elevators at Montreal, Quebec City and Trois-Rivieres.

The House with about 25 weary members still present, adjourned without acting to end the three-week-old strike that has made truckers reluctant to cross picket lines, and load grain for feed mills.

The 7½-hour debate, precipitated by Roch LaSalle (PCN-Joliette) and Adrien Lambert (SC-Bellechasse), took place over the objection of Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan.

"Talk never moved grain," he said after Speaker James Jerome agreed with the two MPs Wednesday afternoon that the situation was serious enough to warrant an unscheduled open-ended debate. The House normally adjourns at 6 p.m. on Wednesday.

Mr. Whelan left town before the debate started at 5 p.m. He spoke at a meeting in Caledon, Ont., but returned after midnight to sit through the final hours of the debate. He did not participate.

When it was over, he said he had not heard anything new. It was mainly political talk, he said.

His attitude contrasted sharply with remarks he made last week when grain commander were seeking injunctions to end picketing and to resume the flow of grain. Some livestock and poultry might die unless injunctions were obtained, he said at the time.

But he said Wednesday that no cattle or poultry were in danger because of feed shortages and "no great disaster" is foreseen.

"Some (feed mills) have enough supplies for 10 days, some have enough for seven days and some only have a two-day supply."

He rejected back-to-work legislation because it should not be used "every time we have a strike." The 2,500 longshoremen left their jobs March 21.

Back-to-work legislation was passed earlier this month to end a strike by Vancouver longshoremen. It also was used last fall to put West Coast grain handlers back to work.

A similar emergency debate, which lasted until about 2:30 a.m., was held a month ago to prevent a strike by federal blue-collar workers, who include grain weighers and samplers. That strike was settled without legislation.

Mr. Whelan's stand against intervention in the Quebec dispute was backed during Wednesday's debate by Consumer Affairs Minister Andre Ouellet and Postmaster-General Bryce Mackasey, a former labor minister.

Switch to French Urged

TORONTO (CP) — Businesses operating in Quebec should immediately begin taking steps to make French the language of the working place, Quebec government officials told businessmen here Wednesday.

But the businessmen were reassured that the change will not have to occur overnight nor be as costly as might seem at first.

Nearly 30 speakers, including two Quebec cabinet ministers and a number of private business representatives, spent the day explaining and answering questions on Bill 22, Quebec's Official Languages Act.

The act, passed last year, makes French the province's official language and is designed to protect and promote the French language and culture in Quebec.

Probe Oil Firms

TORONTO (CP) — The CBC says executives from four oil companies have been subpoenaed to testify before a member of the restrictive trade practices commission of the combines investigation branch, a division of the federal department of consumer and corporate affairs.

It says subpoenas were served on executives from Gulf Oil Canada Ltd., Imperial Oil Ltd., Shell Canada Ltd. and Texaco Canada Ltd.

A hearing will begin in camera in Toronto on Tuesday, the CBC says.

Montreal Normal

MONTREAL (CP) — Marcel Perreault, president of the Montreal local of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers (CUPW), told a news conference Wednesday that any disruption in service will be the fault of Postmaster-General Bryce Mackasey.

Mail service in Montreal was normal Wednesday, said post office spokesman Paul Laroche.

But he said that Quebec City post offices did not function throughout the day because of strike action by letter carriers.

Mackasey Praised

TORONTO (CP) — Business spokesman Keith H. Raspey Wednesday praised Postmaster-General Bryce Mackasey for "his strong stand in the face of efforts by a minority of postal workers to disrupt service."

Paper Burns

Mounties Complete Investigation of SIU

OTTAWA (CP) — The RCMP has completed its investigation of allegations that politicians and government officials were bribed by the Seafarers' International Union (SIU), Solicitor-General Warren Allmand said Wednesday.

He told Patrick Nowlan (PC—Annapolis Valley) in the Commons that a report is being prepared on the matter which rocked the House last fall.

Investigated were statements by Morton Shulman, New Democratic Party member of the Ontario legislature, that the SIU bribed politicians and officials to not do anything about waterfront violence.

Dr. Shulman also said the SIU was conducting violence against its dissident members. Both charges were denied by SIU President Roman Gralewicz.

Mr. Gralewicz said the union made $4,788.18 in donations to 17 candidates from the three major federal parties during last year's election campaign.

Four cabinet ministers, Labor Minister John Munro, Mr. Allmand, Health Minister Marc Lalonde and Mailpower Minister Robert Andras, acknowledged receiving contributions.

News Briefs

No Unconditional Grants

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Treasurer Darcy McKeough told the provincial municipal liaison committee Thursday that the province will not provide blank cheques to municipalities in the form of unconditional grants. The 19-member liaison committee had suggested in a brief that grants should be unconditional.

Abortion Foes Beaten

OWEN SOUND, Ont. (CP) — Three anti-abortionists nominated for election to the board of governors of the Owen Sound General and Marine Hospital, were defeated Thursday by 825 registered voters from Bruce and Grey Counties. One newcomer and three incumbent board members recommended by a nominating committee of the board were elected.

Canadians Captured

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — A letter from Saigon reports that two Canadians and six Americans previously listed as missing have been captured by the Viet Cong during their latest offensive. The two Canadians are identified as missionaries, Rev. and Mrs. Norman Johnson of Hamilton.

Inflation Rate High

LONDON (Reuter) — Britain's annual rate of inflation has broken through the 20 per cent level for the first time, say official figures published today.

Pays to Advertise

OXFORD, Mich. (AP) — Wayne Bennett, a 41 year old widower, is considering 102 responses to his advertisement for a new wife. Bennett ran an ad in the Oxford Leader, which began: "Wanted one wife: Experience not needed, will train the right person . . ."

Taxes Cut In Quebec Budget

QUEBEC (CP) — A $360 million tax exemption package, which stunned opposition spokesmen, was presented in the Quebec national assembly Thursday night by Finance Minister Raymond Garneau.

The expansionary budget, including a $200 million reduction in personal income taxes, has the dual purpose of increasing consumer demand and stimulating economic growth, Mr. Garneau said.

Calling for a deficit of $300 million, the budget forecast included cuts of $20 million in consumer taxes, $20 million in corporation taxes and $60 million in school taxes.

About 300,000 Quebecers will be exempt from paying income taxes, Mr. Garneau said in presenting the Liberal government's sixth consecutive budget without a tax increase.

Also provided in the budget are increased exemptions for retired persons, greater sales tax and meal tax exemptions and increased aid to municipalities.

Sinai Force Mandate Is Extended

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The UN Security Council renewed for three months Thursday the mandate of the United Nations buffer force separating Egyptian and Israeli troops in the Sinai peninsula.

The vote was 13-to-0 with China and Iraq abstaining in keeping with their policies of dissociating themselves from UN peacekeeping in the Middle ast.

The three-month extension was suggested by President Anwar Sadat of Egypt at the time he announced his intention of reopening the Suez canal.

SAIGON (AP) — The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong closed in today on the Saigon government's last enclave on the central coast, lobbed at the edge of Saigon and shelled the big Bien Hoa air base 15 miles northeast of Saigon again.

There still were no indications that a North Vietnamese drive on Saigon had begun, but analysts predicted it was only a matter of time before the Communists consolidate their forces and attack.

Military sources said North Vietnamese troops mounted fierce attacks on Phan Thiet, a coastal city 100 miles east of Saigon and the capital of Binh Thuan province. They said radio contact between Phan Thiet and four district towns was lost, indicating they had been taken over by the Communists.

Phan Thiet and Phan Rang, 150 miles northeast of Saigon, were bypassed by the advancing North Vietnamese and Viet Cong when the Saigon forces fled from the northern and central parts of South Vietnam. Apparently the Communists did not have sufficient forces in the area to take them over. The Saigon command announced the loss of Phan Rang on Wednesday.

The situation in Cambodia was unknown. Radio Phnom Penh, now in the hands of the victorious Khmer Rouge, broadcast accounts of the taking of the Cambodian capital Thursday. Commercial communication channels were not open.

Sources in Bangkok said Premier Long Boret, head of the fallen Cambodian government, was taken into custody Thursday as he was trying to flee from Phnom Penh by helicopter. Earlier reports said he had escaped to Kompong Chnang, 50 miles northeast of Phnom Penh.

Another leading member of the former government, Lt.-Gen. Sak Sutsakhan, was reported to have escaped by helicopter to Utapao air base in southern Thailand. He was Long Boret's defence minister and the president of an "emergency supreme committee" formed last week.

A member of Cambodia's revolutionary politburo told a news conference in Paris there will be no trials in Phnom Penh, but "we will judge in a humane way. You've seen that there is no bloodbath in Phnom Penh."

Senators Again Refuse More Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Congress again is signaling its reluctance to approve more military aid to South Vietnam, but it might vote for some humanitarian assistance if efforts are made to evacuate most Americans immediately.

The Senate armed services committee voted Thursday against all emergency bids to increase military aid beyond the $300 million which was authorized but not appropriated last year.

Meanwhile, the House of Representatives international relations committee approved a $327-million fund for humanitarian aid which also could be used to evacuate Americans and some Vietnamese.

A number of House and Senate committees were to try again today to reach a final decision on both the $723-million total asked by President Ford in additional military aid and the $250 million he sought in humanitarian aid.

Canada to Recognize New Cambodia Regime

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada will recognize the new government of Cambodia once it takes firm control of the country, Prime Minister Trudeau indicated Thursday.

He said in the Commons that Canada is trying to assess the situation in Cambodia to determine "how speedily the process of recognition should take place."

In general, Canada extends recognition to all governments which show they are in firm control, he said in a reply to Opposition questioning.

Several MPs expressed concern for refugees and members of the overthrown government.

Immigration Minister Robert Andras said the Cambodians will be asked to leave Canada until the situation settles down. Each case would be reviewed when the picture is more clear.

Mr. Sharp said aid is being given through international agencies, including the United Nations high commissioner for refugees.

Help is going to all parts of South Vietnam and Cambodia, regardless of areas controlled by Communists, he added.

Outside the House, Mr. Sharp said Canadian aid to Cambodia is "several millions of dollars," slightly more than half of which is cash.

Sihanouk To Reside At Angkor

PARIS (AP) — Prince Norodom Sihanouk said today he plans to live in Angkor, the cradle of Khmer civilization, rather than in Phnom Penh when he returns to Cambodia.

"I have too many bad memories of Phnom Penh, where I humiliated me too much during the years of Lon Nol's regime," Sihanouk said in an interview in Peking with the radio station Europe No. 1.

Sihanouk said his return to Cambodia depends on the health of his mother. He said she is close to death, and he might be a question of weeks.

The Peking correspondent of Kyodo, the Japanese news agency, said Sihanouk told a visiting Cambodian political leader he plans to return to Phnom Penh in about a month.

Study Plan

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says the Canadian Labor Congress has called leaders of major unions in Canada to a meeting in Toronto May 7 for a decision on a proposal by Finance Minister John Turner to ease inflation with a program of voluntary wage-and-price restraints.

Third of Babylift Volunteers Sick

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Diarrhea, rashes or bacterial infections have hit about 300 volunteers who cared for nearly 1,000 Vietnamese children airlifted to the United States in recent weeks, officials say.

Lack of proper sanitary facilities at receiving centres for the 8 days of transpacific operations helped cause an outbreak of stomach disorders and other illness among volunteers, said Dr. Fred Stark, chief of infectious diseases at Letterman General Hospital at the Presidio here.

"I guess the birds of basic have really come home to roost," said Stark. "By all rights we should have a case of typhoid or two by now."

More than 300 persons associated with the Operation Babylift care centre here reported cases of diarrhea, said Stark. Rash and other infections have been reported in the "the actual number of cases may be twice that" because some victims probably failed to go to their doctors.

"There is one thing we have to face honestly," he added. "There is a possibility of some cases of hepatitis."

Marilyn Dickson, director of the University of San Francisco student health centre, said more than 50 student volunteers were stricken with diarrhea last week, and her staff was swabbing a similar outbreak of chicken pox. The disease was widespread among the children, but it takes two weeks before the characteristic spots show.

"Many of the student volunteers feel about having chicken pox when they went to the Pre-side," she said. "Now had very pure motives. Now they are paying for it."

Four Kids Born to Spice, Avonlough Road Nubian Goat

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

It was an amazing day for Robert and Catharine Lough and their three sons when one of their goats decided to "spice up" their lives.

The Loughs, owners of Avonlough Farms on Avonlough Rd., have a herd of 29 registered goats which they raise for a hobby and sell for breeding stock.

One of their Nubian goats, who answers to the name of Spice, delivered four kids, all does, which Robert, who is in-vestigating, says might be a first in Canada.

"Having four is unusual," notes Catharine, "And all of the same sex is very rare."

Connally Acquitted

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Connally says he hopes to resume his political life in some form following his acquittal on bribery charges.

"I hope as long as I live I never lose the desire to participate in political affairs," said the former treasury secretary and one-time presidential prospect.

"How in what role, in what capacity, in what way it will be done, I don't know."

Connally spoke to reporters Tuesday night after a jury found him not guilty of charges that he took two $5,000 payoffs from dairyman Jake Jacobsen to influence the 1971 milk price supports in 1971.

The prosecution's case against him had been based primarily on the testimony of Jake Jacobsen, a former lawyer for the dairymen. Jacobsen said he paid Connally the money. Jacobsen had admitted to the jury that he perjured himself in testimony about the case in other forums.

Lang May Ask Review Of Abortion Question

OTTAWA (CP) — Justice Minister Otto Lang said Thursday he is considering asking Parliament to have a committee review the broad questions raised by the 1969 abortion law.

However, he would not be pinned down by John Gilbert (NDP—Toronto Broadview) to a time limit on the recommendation.

He said that a great deal of time may be required in fact-finding and analysis before such a committee is set up. This material would have to come first.

Mr. Lang was before the Commons justice and legal affairs committee, whose members pressed him on the issues of abortion and capital punishment.

Robert Stanbury (L—York-Scarborough), who was on the committee that recommended the 1969 law, said it represented the medical profession's feeling about abortion at that time. But six years had passed and things had changed.

Gas Price Decision Will Wait for Week

OTTAWA (CP) — A decision on a sharp increase in the price of natural gas exported to the United States won't be made until at least next Thursday, Energy Minister Donald Macdonald says.

Emerging from a weekly cabinet meeting Thursday, Mr. Macdonald said the ministers did not get a chance to consider the price increase.

Although he has declined comment on how much the prices might go up, sources within the government say cabinet is looking at a 35-to-40-cent increase on current prices of $1 a thousand cubic feet.

An increase of that amount would add between $300 and $800 million to the cost of the one trillion cubic feet of natural gas exported annually to the U.S. midwest and Pacific northwest states.

United Appeal Collects 87 Per Cent of Target

By JIM SOELLE
Staff Reporter

The final figures for the 1974-75 United Appeal campaign show that a total of $125,778 was collected, 87.6 per cent of the target. This compares with the previous campaign total of $110,836.

This was revealed by Gordon Mullin, United Community Services executive director, during the group's regular monthly meeting Thursday.

Supplementary allocations amounting to a total of $8,037 will be distributed to 13 member agencies of the UCS out of money from the campaign contingency fund and from savings the UCS made within the past year.

The dispersal of these allocations is based upon a percentage of the 1976 allocation, of money received from the United Appeal campaign. The amounts ranging from an allocation of $165 to the Volunteer Bureau to one of $1,783 to the Belleville Family YMCA.

The money has accumulated over a period of time and comes from the contingency fund set up to take care of uncollected pledges," said Frank Seeman gal, president of the UCS board of directors.

Citizens Bureau Returns To City, New Name Sought

TRENTON — After a 16-month absence from the city, the Citizens Bureau will be returning to Belleville April 29 when it will open its new offices on Coleman St. with a budget of $19,000.

The date of the move and the bureau's newly-established budget was announced Thursday by recently-appointed public relations officer Vernon Farrow.

Mr. Farrow said the new bureau offices will operate with two permanent staff members whose salaries will range between $6,000 and $7,000 annually. Members of the board of directors will act as voluntary staff and supplement the two-member permanent staff.

The bureau's budget, struck this week at a special board meeting, is $7,000 more than the bureau now has available through a grant from the federal government.

As yet the bureau does not have the extra $7,000, said Mr. Farrow, but he is confident it can be raised: "We've always seemed to be able to raise it in the past."

He said various other sources, in the provincial and federal government, are being approached for additional funding. Earlier this week the bureau asked Belleville city council for $4,700 seeded to supplement the federal government's $12,000 grant.

"We've also trying to figure out ways of raising money on our own," he said. Some method of getting direct public donations is being considered.

Bureau staff will move into new offices at 237A Coleman St., next to the United Produce warehouse on the east side of the street, just south of the footbridge. Rent for the offices, recently vacated by the Local Initiatives Program (LIP) funded Low Income Peoples Project, is $75 a month.

New telephone numbers are 962-2218 and 962-8213.

Still under consideration is a new name for the Citizens Bureau; first established in Belleville in late 1972 under no LIP grant, it moved to Trenton when it was awarded another LIP grant under the sponsorship of the Trenton-based Quinte District Labor Council.

For more than six months it has operated on a shoe-string budget with money raised by public donations and a small $500 grant from the United Community Services of Belleville.

Mr. Farrow said the word "bureau" in its name must be changed because it gives the impression the consumer-advocate service is a government agency. Although funded by federal money, it is to be known as an information and assistance service, he said.

The choice of name rests with the federal consumer and corporate affairs ministry.

Youth Hurt In Crash

WAUPOOS — An area girl here was treated at Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital Thursday morning for multiple bruises following a single-vehicle accident on Wauposs Road.

Injured was Bernadine Marcus, 15, of RR 4, Picton, passenger in a truck, driven by Lonnie Langmuir, 18, also of RR 4, Picton.

A police spokesman said the mishap occurred when the truck veered to the shoulder of the road then across the pavement into a ditch. The 1965 pick-up was described as a write-off.

The driver, and another unidentified passenger were unhurt. No charges were laid in the accident.

Trenton Hikes Hydro Rate by 19 Per Cent

TRENTON — Town electric power users will face a 19-per cent increase in their bills after Aug. 1 as the above the eight to 10 per cent increase originally estimated by the town utilities commission earlier this summer.

Approval for the rate increase came at a Trenton PUC meeting Thursday.

Douglas Manlow, PUC manager, said today, the jump in the rate increase was necessitated to cover the 13.4 — increase in the cost of bulk power to the commission in 1975: Ontario Hydro raised its rates to Trenton and other Ontario municipalities an average of 12 per cent Jan. 1.

In addition, the increase is being used to defray the cost of another 15-per cent jump in the cost of bulk power that Ontario Hydro officials anticipate will occur in 1976.

Hydro's rate, now only an estimate, is subject to change between now and the first of next year, said Mr. Manlow. "If we get a 20 or 25 per cent increase, we'll have to have another rate change."

He would not say when any new rate jump could occur.

Last month commissioners expressed fears that the new Hydro rate for 1976 could rise to 30 or 35 per cent, above what they now pay Hydro (or their bulk power. The fears stemmed from statements by Hydro chairman R. B. Taylor who said increases for 1976 can be expected to be considerably higher than those in 1975, when the 13.4 per cent increase was experienced.

High on the Job

A. N. Shaw and Sons Ltd. workers walk along the scaffolding at Lock No. 1 on the Trent Canal Thursday as they bear completion of major concrete restoration work valued at $250,000. The facelift operation began in early February and has so far seen several tons of deteriorated concrete chipped off walls at the lock and replaced with new facing. The work is scheduled for completion later this month.

Nursery School Plans Integrated Classes

PICTON — The Little Learners nursery school, opened in Picton for handicapped youngsters about a year ago will be re-organized as an integrated nursery school.

The decision was announced following a meeting of the Prince Edward Association for the Mentally Retarded this week.

A teacher, Lael Hogel, who is a graduate of St. Lawrence College in Early Childhood Education, has been hired.

The new nursery school program is expected to begin in May.

Dr. Ben Bechard of Picton, a member of the county association for the mentally retarded says if response to the program it large enough additional staff may be hired for September, 1975.

"This will give the association time to gauge community interest and support of this type of enterprise," he observed.

The Prince Edward Association for the Mentally Retarded will meet April 30 at Queen Elizabeth School in Picton and all interested parents are invited to attend. The nursery school program will be discussed in an effort to gauge interest.

Scouts Plan Major Push For Public Fund Saturday

TRENTON — Trenton scouting leaders will open a four-pronged campaign for public support Saturday when they launch their final drive to raise enough money to send nine boys to the 14th Canadian World Jamboree in Norway this summer.

The big push will be undertaken by about 370 scouts, who will canvass door-to-door Saturday for newspapers and bottles and pledges for the Trees For Canada program.

New to Canada, the program is primarily a fund-raising venture that will see about 10,000 trees planted on 20 acres in Madoc and Codrington later this spring. Each boy is asked to get pledges for each of the 10 trees he will plant.

Trenton District and Council leaders will use 70 per cent of the money raised through the program to send the nine boys to the Jamboree. The remaining 30 per cent goes to provincial scouting headquarters.

Cecil Paul, council information officer, said Thursday, the council is still short half of the $9,000 needed to send the boys to Norway. If the money is not raised by May 15 the $4,500 will be contributed to provincial headquarters may be lost, he said.

Scouting leaders said they hope to raise more than $400 each in bottle and paper collections.

Another push for money will be launched April 28, the start of Canada Scout Week. Cubs and scouts will canvas Trenton homeowners and ask for small clean-up jobs for pay. All proceeds will go into the Jamboree fund.

At the end of the week, May 3, an auction will be held at the home of Bob Dafoe on Highway 2, west of Trenton where scouters are now canvassing for donations for the auction.

The latest search for public dollars is a continuation of a busy list of events already held to raise money for the month-long Jamboree trip.

The nine boys will leave for Europe July 19 and return to Trenton in mid August. During their stay, they will visit Denmark, and Sweden, as well as Norway.

Nearly 1,300 Canadian scouts will attend the Jamboree, which has 15,000 boys from around the world are expected.

Cyclists Pedal For Funds

TRENTON — Early Saturday, Mayor Bob Patrick and Air Maintenance Development Unit commander Col. Gene Douge will push down on the pedals of their respective bicycles and start the Trenton Memorial Hospital 25 miles (39 kilometers) bike-a-thon.

The two men will be among 300 to 400 people bike-a-thon organizers hope will participate in the event geared to raise funds for new surgical equipment at the hospital.

For Mayor Patrick and Col. Douge the event will likely be more difficult than the other bicyclists.

It is rumored that the two men will be competing against each other on four-man bicycles with assistance from three other riders of course. However, Col. Douge, when asked if the rumors were true, declined to comment.

Col. Douge did admit that he had challenged Mayor Patrick and indicated it would be a fight to the finish or as close to the finish as they could get.

He added he said he gave to the mayor could not be confirmed since the mayor could not be reached Thursday. He is believed to be in training with his four-member team.

The colonel said he is planning to finish the bike-a-thon "even if I have to walk part of the way."

Support for his effort is high at AMDU, he said. Over 600 people have pledged more than $500 for the event.

Organizers say they hope to raise more than $8,000 in Saturday's bike-a-thon.

Bicyclists will start between 9-9 a.m. at the hospital. From there, they ride west along Highway 2, along the road to Wooler, east on Stockdale Frankford, and south along the Trent River back to the hospital.

Campbell Joins Picton Police Force

PICTON — A former Belleville man, Kenneth Campbell, has been hired as a constable with the Picton police department with duties effective May 1.

Constable Campbell was one of approximately 18 applicants for the job vacancy created by the retirement of Constable Cecil Farrington this month.

Born and educated in Belleville, Constable Campbell attended Confederation College in Thunder Bay and received a certificate under its Law and Security Program.

He then joined the Terrence Bay police department before returning to the Metro Toronto force in 1973.

Constable Campbell is married and he and his wife have a seven-month-old son.

Going, Going . . .

The old Prince Edward County Home for the Aged is under the wreckers' hammer and this week the roof was removed. After the building is demolished the old site will serve as a parking area adjacent to the new H. J. McFarland Home.

Bicycle Top Prize

PICTON — The Centennial Committee of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Picton will sponsor a bike - a - thon, Saturday, May 24 with a five — speed bicycle included in the prize list.

The Bike will be awarded for the rider earning the most pledge money. Details of the bike — a —thon will be announced at a later date.

'Ottawa Cannot Buy Itself Out of the Recession,' Says an About-face P.M.

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Is the Big Spender becoming the Prudent Saver?

Is the let-it-rip liberal turning into a take-it-easy conservative?

To hear Prime Minister Trudeau sound off on the economy, you would almost think that the political leopard was changing his spots.

If he is, then the budget that Finance Minister Turner produces next month, will be designed, as he already has suggested, towards stimulating the lagging economy, could be restrictive with controls to curb inflation.

To bear and then check his text against his spoken words was to meet a whole new Pierre Trudeau.

This Prime Minister, who in his seven years in power has more than doubled federal spending, now proudly has gone on the record with the admission that the government can't buy its way out of the recession, that bureaucratic programs won't purchase prosperity, and that the Bank of Canada isn't able to print the dollars that into economic recovery.

He doesn't put it quite that way, but his federalese means the same thing.

"The injection by federal authorities of ever-increasing amounts of money and credit into the Canadian economy could not bring any quick or easy solution to our present difficulties," he counsels.

"We can't keep the sale workers in Central Canada or the loggers of B.C. busy by infusions of Public Works or Local Initiative projects.

"If we try to ignore all this — if we go overboard in an attempt to spend our way into prosperity — the consequences are predictable."

Then in the turn-words of the Ottawa bureaucracy, he spelled out these "consequences" which pared down to one lean phrase would be "more and worse inflation."

It has taken years — because it began when former Prime Minister Pearson caved in and purchased labor peace on the Montreal waterfront and the St. Lawrence Seaway, with wildly inflationary wage settlements — but Pierre Trudeau finally seems to have had enough of labor blackmail, especially in his own federal public service.

He says he is "ready now to look frankly at collective bargaining."

And he talks of the crippling of the economy by strike, mentioning in particular labor paralysis on the West Coast waterfront, the St. Lawrence ports, the airlines and airports, the Post Office — all involving supposedly "essential" public service workers.

For the first time, after months of boasting how much better the Canadian economy had performed than almost any other "nation", he confesses Canada's strike record has been the world's second worst.

He warns, too, that Canadian strike settlements, running "much higher" and far more inflationary than those in the United States, threaten Canada's competitive position internationally.

Now the old labor agitator — the young Trudeau marched with the rest of the reformers — names the full cards and even forces that something has gone "wrong" with collective bargaining.

Then he puts the onus precisely where it belongs — on governments, his own federal and the provincial administrations which have and share authority in labor matters.

These governments — which have the ability to end wrecked strike records, with paralysis of essential public services becoming the norm — have the responsibility, he admits, as both employers and legislators.

Now comes the kicker.

And from Pierre Trudeau it really comes as the big boy: the forces that something has gone "wrong" with collective bargaining.

Then he puts the onus precisely where it belongs — on governments, his own federal and the provincial administrations which have and share authority in labor matters.

These governments — which have the ability to end wrecked strike records, with paralysis of essential public services becoming the norm — have the responsibility, he admits, as both employers and legislators.

Now comes the kicker.

Chief Crosbie's Warning

Crime is on the increase.

Noting this fact and the growing social permissiveness that is its root cause, Belleville Police Chief Douglas Crosbie has a message for the community, for concerned citizens, for local organizations which have a responsibility to counter the trend, and for the Government whose own liberally-minded concepts of a free democratic society in large part have brought us to this difficult point in our affairs.

There is increasing uneasiness that things have gone too far along the road of the good life and the route of a social order built on lack of challenge, on the right not to work and on government's charitableness that allows people to loaf around at the expense of others who carry the burden.

"The underlying cause of most of our crime and other problems is the lack of discipline in today's society."

It has been said before, but it bears repeating and Chief Crosbie has said it at the right time, when all around there is a society adrift, a lotus-eating social order in a country uncertain of where it is going and soothing its lack of purpose and direction with alcohol, tobacco, over-indulgence in food, and the salacious and violent offerings of the magazine stands.

Provincial government meanwhile has brought up the old problem of violence on television, and has appointed former parliamentary assistant Margaret Scrimger to study the problem. It is said the average teenager by the time he is 15 has witnessed some 18,000 murders on television — a figure incidentally approximating the annual homicide rate in the United States.

Government at all levels must take a lead in reversing the trend toward a more violent society. It should be warning enough to all of us that we are heading in the same direction as the United States — this too from Chief Crosbie — with all its attendant horrors.

Bridging The Generation Gap

A Chinese-Canadian woman whose name escapes us but who is connected in an executive capacity with the Royal Ontario Museum once remarked in a Weekend magazine interview that there are not enough ongoing contacts between young Canadians and the older generation.

She said that friendship did not exist much at the level of different generations and this was society's loss. It's true of course and the result, from the very start, is a sort of apartheid situation leading to what is commonly known as the generation gap.

Amid the cold, corridor-lined and impersonal atmosphere of the typical Canadian school, probably the one thing most lacking is a sense of community and warmth and a feeling that there is something present besides teachers in this and that classroom giving of their knowledge alone."

There are counsellors of course to whom a youngster may pour out his problems, but in the context of the building of a society, largely, such as Chief Crosbie envisages, maybe there is room for say adult volunteers within the school system.

Retired people maybe, and some use for them at both the social and academic level, to help in the overall objective of a stronger sense of unified and proper society — one in which crime would not play the increasingly pernicious part we are witnessing today.

Ottawa Courts Havana

Canadian politics is a strange blend indeed. Behind the facade of Grits and PCs and NDP and Social Credit are there is an inner world of other allegiances, to the left and to the right of the political spectrum, nudging the country this way and that way, in no set direction.

Pragmatism, as practised by Prime Minister Trudeau and his cabinet, is in the spirit of what Montaigne once said: "To be everywhere is to be nowhere."

One curious drift, if it may be called that, in the contemplation of a government that seems to have no definite objective, is the love affair with Cuba.

Of course Ottawa has always maintained contacts with Castro's Communist regime, but nowadays it seems to be pushing them with even greater deliberation.

Trade Minister Alastair Gillespie has been to Havana and we see Governor Gen. Jules Leger, everything from Holstein cattle to tourists — among them former NDP leader Stephen Lewis who has written an article on his experiences in The Ottawa Journal.

Ottawa has been pursuing the same sort of links with Communist China and if we thought there was little direction in our politics . . . well, if anywhere it is to the left.

Ottawa is not even concerned about events in Southeast Asia, or with the decline of U.S. influence there. Perhaps after all, that is the Americans' problem, and not ours, but we have to ask ourselves too just who is going to stand up for western democracy in the days ahead? And this while we, quite legitimately if — to some — questionably, embrace and hold hands with those who in the long term seek to subvert us.

Viewpoint

Cambridge Reporter

If anyone was ever really silly enough to NOT believe the domino theory, he should know better now.

Laos today. Vietnam. Tomorrow Cambodia.

Where do WE fit into the timetable? Or have we something special which ensures that Canada, alone, will never face the same sort of aggression from within financed by forces from beyond our borders?

Conflicting Paths to Communism Test Lisbon, Macao, and Peking

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

A few years ago the many enemies of the former right-wing regime of Portugal's former prime minister Marcelo Caetano were clamoring for an end to Portugal's still large colonial empire.

Let the big Portuguese African territories have their independence, they demanded. Give the Cape Verde Islands independence if they want it. Return the two tiny Asian colonies of Portugal to Communist China and Indonesia.

That process of breaking-up the world's last major European colonial empire is well-advanced, having begun a year ago this month with the military coup which has lead to a Communist-inspired regime.

The big rich African ex-colonies of Mozambique and Angola will be independent African states by the end of the year. Steamy little Portuguese Guinea is an independent nation with no basic resources and a bone-poor and mainly sick population, but a new country in the world in spite of all that thanks to world pressure.

But tiny Macao, across the bay from Hong Kong, sent of vice dens, international gambling, prostitution, in short one of the world's major centres for making an illicit buck, the Portuguese Communist regime with its sense of economic and political purity, can't give away.

The Communist Chinese, perhaps the most puritanical Marxist society in the world today, don't want it. Who else would, it's hard to say. The British across the bay don't. They have their hands full with Hong Kong.

But there is a catch in the Communist Chinese actually not wanting the return of a port which was Chinese territory until the arrival of the European explorers and traders.

In a further paradox of values and attitudes, Macao under a Portuguese military governor is a semi-dependency of distant Peking in any case.

And Mao's representative in the once-rich and corrupt little colony is no Mao-inspired ideologue sent in from the mainland, but one Ho Yin, a millionaire businessman, an almost to old-fashioned Chinese capitalist of the kind the Chinese Revolution wiped out by the score 25 years ago.

His job as chairman of the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce also makes him the official agent for Peking in this very odd European colony.

But now Communist-millionaire Yin has another problem to test his political skills. The Communist government in distant Lisbon, which should be friendly to China is not.

This is because Portugal's ageing Communist party leaders who have been in exile for most of the past 50 years, have, as all Russian-brand Communists and the Russians are more out to lunch in Peking today than are American capitalists.

Hence in this complexity of ideology and politics, Macao money is suspect, not because of its racy reputation, but because the home government which wants to give it back, supports Moscow, not Peking.

And it's one thing to have a bunch of hash dens on the border of simon-pure People's Republic of China, because in the end very corrupt China is where they came from in the first place.

But to have a Russian Communist presence on the doorstep of the very soil of China itself, a thing which the Kremlin bureaucrats cannot endure at this point.

Not even the termination of diplomatic relations between Portugal and the Nationalist Chinese regime in Taiwan has put a ripple. Peking doesn't want Macao until the Russian Communist influence in Lisbon is, if possible, removed.

Election Timing in Limbo

By DON O'HEARN

Queen's Park Bureau

Thomson News Service

TORONTO — It appears that the new gutting to be famous election to be held sometime this year may be up in the air again.

It seems that Premier Davis may be playing the old dairy game of "I will," "I won't."

Only a few weeks ago, after the premier had returned from 10 days reflection in Florida during the Easter break, the election was set for this spring.

The inside word, and it was certain, was that he had made up his mind.

He intended to have a slow and stirring session, an appealing budget, and then he would go to the people.

But then the meeting of first ministers came along and the finishers now, and this time they aren't certain, say he may wait for fall.

Strangely, the main reason for the premier's indecision apparently was his success in Ottawa.

He emerged from the conference with more prestige than he has gained from any previous meeting of the federal-provincial groups and more prestige possibly than he has ever had before.

A new more positive, more powerful Davis was on display, and at the end of the conference he was recognized as the leader of the provincial premiers who were against any increase in oil prices.

According to the word, nobody has been more impressed with this prestige than the premier himself. And it is said he now feels that if he holds out on a vote until October he may be able to build it still further.

If he does hold off, this would say, he is taking a big gamble.

His party recognizes he is on the way back and most probably will peak during this session.

If he doesn't go in the spring, however, he could lose a lot of this momentum.

There wouldn't be much chance to build prestige during the summer.

In fact, the chances are much better that he could drop some of it.

And also he would be giving the opposition parties and other opponents of the government more opportunity to build up their forces.

On the surface evidence one could say spring would be his best time.

But then he is the only man who knows all the factors involved.

Finding a Job Difficult

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

As the mother of four children, I have been informed many times of the importance of education. Our Centennial Year Learning tell us we should keep our children in school, and if possible, they should go on to University or some other substitute of training after graduation.

Assuming this to be true and reasonable, I encouraged my daughter, who is a high school graduate, to enroll as a reputable Business College. This she did at a cost of approximately $1,000. She graduated from the college at the end of January with honors.

To this date she has been unable to find employment. She has registered at Manpower in both Trenton and Belleville, applied at numerous business establishments in both areas. She has also applied for various positions advertised in the local papers, to which the courtesy of an answer hasn't even given.

Is it any wonder that families in educate a person to join the ranks of the unemployed.

Is this what higher education is all about? And is this the best the Canadian community has to offer the young people in this area?

A CONCERNED PARENT.

EMO's Role Is Questioned

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Let's face it, the Emergency Measures organization has no further useful purpose in today's climate.

We have a well-trained corps of men in the Army and we are sure that they can handle any emergency that should arise without the expense of the EMO. The planning which the EMO will be saving to all levels of government and the use of local municipal share can be put to much better use elsewhere.

OHS Operation Wins Praise

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

The accounts published in your newspaper yesterday about the decision of Council to take over the care of animals from the Humane Society dismayed me. This is certainly a step backwards into the past. I can recall the city pound when it was located in the fairgrounds. It was a disgrace to humanity.

I have been out to the Humane Society building on numerous occasions, the last time about a week ago. I was very much impressed with the cleanliness of the stalls and the condition of the animals. Their food had all recently been put in place and looked fresh and wholesome. There was a clean smell about the place and there was no odour.

I have heard many complimentary and admiring remarks about the Humane Society operation here from area residents as well as visitors from the U.S.

J.M. PORRITT

Editor's note: Council has decided to retain the Humane Society operation until the end of the year at least.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

April 18, 1955.

Forty-three students are taking a Red Cross Water Safety course at Albert College during the Easter recess. The group is made up of high school students from points as far north of here as Kirkland Lake and North Bay and west to Barrie, Three Red Cross instructors have supervised the course since it started Tuesday.

30 YEARS AGO

April 18, 1945.

Salary schedules for all teachers in Belleville public schools and in the Collegiate Institute and Vocational School were increased by $200 at the maximum level. It was noted at the meeting of the Board of Education that the Ontario Educational Association convention in Toronto during the Easter season was attended by Miss Osborne, Miss Blue, Miss Hamilton, Miss Young, Miss Thompson, Miss Lockhard, and Principal A.C. Wilkin.

40 YEARS AGO

Canada's most distinguished actress, Miss Julia Arthur, is playing leading feminine role part of the maid in Bernard Shaw's play "Saint Joan". She was presented a bronze key of the city at a ceremony held at the entrance to city hall, officiated by Mayor Mikel. In her speech she said that "Saint Joan" was a great play written by a great author, and she was pleased to play in it and to travel with such a good company. She thanked the citizens of Belleville for their welcome and said that she hoped to return here often.

Sugar Bush Operators Praised for Program

Charles and Mabel Irvine, operators of a sugar bush at Feller, came in for warm praise this week from Wayne Brooks, co-ordinator, out-of-school learning for the Hastings County Board of Education.

For the past five years the Irvine sugar bush, rented by the Moira River Conservation Authority, has been the focal point for thousands of school-children each spring to see collection of sap and making maple syrup and sugar.

"Charles and Mabel have been gracious hosts every year. The program would never have been as successful as it was, without them," Mr. Brooks said.

Now the Irvine farm is up for sale and Charles and Mabel Irvine plan to retire from farming. "We'll miss them," Mr. Brooks said. "The whole Fuller community pitched in to make our program a success."

In spite of one weekend's bad weather this year, 1,547 students visited the bush to see the sugaring off operations. This total was down a bare 100 from last year's.

Also, the Irvines enjoyed a record year for syrup production.

Plans for next year are uncertain, Mr. Brooks said, although the program will definitely continue. "We'll get together with the Moira River Conservation Authority to select another site soon," he said.

Grant Announced

PICTON — James Taylor, MLA Prince Edward-Lennox this week will make a further $30,000 payment toward the H. J. McFarland Home for the Aged on behalf of the provincial government.

Residents were moved into the new facility in February and demolition of the old building constructed in 1905 now is under way.

Fluoride Treatment

Dental fluoride treatment is being administered in Stirling Primary School this week. Here dental hygenist Lynn Braun works on Bonnie Brough. To date the fluoride treatment has been administered out of the Picton Health Unit during March break, and in Trenton schools.

Metric Workshop Planned

STIRLING — There will be a Metric Workshop for adults next week at the Stirling Senior Public School. Principal George Patton said staff math teachers will be the instructors. The day is April 22, at 8 p.m. and those wishing to attend should let the school know by this Friday.

Improvement Slated

The right-angle corner that plunges downhill on Yeomlice Road four miles east of Stirling (First Concession, Rawdon) is in the budget for Sydney Township's road improvement and is awaiting approval by the province. Trees have been cut down and later the road will be widened. At present it is still a blind corner and wide enough for only one vehicle.

Sweet Session

Young members of the Explorers interest group from St. Paul's United Church in Bancroft experienced the fun of collecting maple sap and tasting the final product Wednesday. On the property of their leader, Mrs. Giles, they went through the whole operation, with the help of her son, Joe. According to the children, between 5 and 8 years of age, their product "tasted much better than the stuff out of the store." Syrup production operations are continuing in North Hastings, but have wound up in the south.

Big Weekend For Y's Men

This weekend will be a full one for members of the city's Y's Men Club. The Quest district Y's Men's spring Conference will take place April 19 and 20 at the Four Seasons Motel.

Registration will take place Saturday from 11 a.m. to noon at which time the opening luncheon, with Y's Men Club president, Harry Collins in the chair will take place.

At 6 p.m. there will be the Quest banquet with guest speaker David Smith, co-ordinator of community school programming services, Hastings County Board of Education. Mr. Smith will also conduct workshops later that night.

Sunday's activities will include devotions in the morning led by Rev. Robert Henderson, a former Belleville Y's man and a theme session on Service.

A business session and a closing luncheon directed by John Hayman finishes up the weekend activities.

The conference is one of the club's special 50th anniversary efforts, but also is a regular conference rotating now at clubs in the Quest (Quebec and Eastern Ontario) district. Clubs from Sherbrooke, Que. Ottawa, and Kingston will be among those taking part.

Gospel Group to Perform

TWEED — A Toronto-based gospel singing group, The Sale Foundation, will join members of St. John's United Church in their continuing celebration of the 50th anniversary of the founding of the United Church of Canada on Sunday, April 26. The seven-member group has a wide-ranging repertoire including traditional hymns and contemporary selections. Full orchestral accompaniment is provided through sophisticated electronic sound equipment.

Syrup on Agenda

STIRLING — Maple syrup will be boiled down outside at the Senior Public School in Stirling next week, during education week programs. Grade 3 and 4 special education students will be doing the work . . . making candy.

Father, Son Hurt

A 40-year-old Downsview man and his six-year-old son are in fair and satisfactory condition today at Belleville General Hospital following a single-car accident on Highway 401, about five miles east of Belleville.

Listed in fair condition with chest and head injuries Arthur McGraw, driver of the late-model car which went out of control and rolled several times about 4 p.m. Wednesday. His son, Darren, is in satisfactory condition with cuts and bruises.

Madoc OPP are investigating the accident which caused an estimated $4,000 damage to the station wagon.

University Women:

Successful Gourmet Club Is a Group Effort

By ISABEL HUGGAN
Women's Reporter

Wouldn't you love to sit down every few weeks to a candlelit, five-course meal of exotic foreign foods, served with good wines and convivial conversation?

Well, wishing won't make it come true. But with a little enthusiasm and organization, 11 Belleville women have made it possible for themselves. And their success may encourage you to try the same thing.

All members of the University Women's Club, they decided in the fall to form a gourmet group. Their purpose to learn how to prepare unusual dishes from different countries, as well as having a pleasant night out together.

The cooking of the meal is a shared responsibility, so that no one person is overpowered by the awesome task of presenting a series of tasty masterpieces.

Jane McNichol, a home economics graduate with international cooking experience gained while living in Lake, took on the job of organizing the first meals.

"To begin with, I suggested all the dishes, and got lots of calls at home for last-minute advice," she recalls. "But as we've gone along, everybody's gained more confidence, and we plan our meals together now.

"We started out with a French menu then German, Greek, Spanish and finally this Ukranian dinner, and with each one, more people have suggested their own recipes."

Mrs. McNichol is also in charge of the budget — $5 per person limit — and redistributes funds at the beginning of the evening so that the costs are all divided evenly.

A different woman has been hostess to the occasion each time, so that this aspect of the meal is shared as well. Since the hostess is not required to cook, her only duty is to get her kitchen ready for the onslaught of pots, pans, dishes and bottles that are brought when the women arrive.

While the prepared dishes are being warmed, chilled, or sliced in the kitchen, the women serve hors d'oeuvres and aperitifs before the meal begins.

One or two women are always responsible for the purchase of suitable wines and liqueurs, a duty taken in lieu of cooking. The money spent on wine is included in the total budgeting for the meal.

"This has worked out so well, I'm really thrilled about it," says Julie Brock, a new member of the University Women's Club. "We've been saying how to make dishes we'd never try otherwise, and it doesn't cost nearly as much as if you did it all yourself."

One of the comments that many of the group make is how much they enjoy the wide age span within the group. The more than 30 years age differences among the women makes for excellent conversation, they say.

The often inevitable competition to "out-do" the last grand dinner on the current club circuit is entirely circumvented in this group's arrangement, since the success of an evening depends on everyone.

If one dish doesn't turn out, it's not the end of the world. And if they all turn out beautifully, as happened at the most recent Ukranian dinner, then all the cooks can applaud themselves, and go home happy.

They Share Their Recipes

HOLUPSHI
(Karen Michol)

one medium cabbage
1½ cups rice
one small onion, chopped finely three slices bacon, cut in pieces ½ lb. butter
one cup tomato juice
one cup water
salt and pepper

Cut out the cabbage core and put the cabbage, stem side down, in a pot of boiling water. Remove the pot from the heat, and let the cabbage stand until the leaves wilt sufficiently to roll easily. This time will vary with the size of cabbage.

Turn and gently separate the leaves. Cut the large leaves into two or three pieces. Discard the central rib.

Put the rice in a two-quart saucepan and add with boiling water to cover an inch above the rice. Cover and boil at a medium slow heat until the water is gone. The rice should be still little crunchy, not completely cooked.

Fry onion and bacon together. Add butter and salt and pepper to the rice, and then half of the onion-bacon mixture. On each cabbage piece place one spoonful of rice mixture. Roll the leaf tightly in and place these cabbage rolls, layer upon layer, in a heavy pot.

Combine the water and tomato juice and pour over the rolls. Scatter the remaining bits of onion and bacon and then cover and bake tight-fitting lid. Bake in a 350-degree oven for an hour, or until you judge the filling and leaves are done.

GHIVETCH
(Mary Miller)

one cup thinly sliced carrots one cup fresh green beans, sliced into ½-inch diagonals one cup diced potato
½ celery, sliced into ¼-inch diagonals two medium tomatoes, cored and quartered one small yellow squash, thinly sliced one small zucchini, thinly sliced
½ Bermuda onion, thinly sliced
½ head small cauliflower, broken into small flowers
¼ cup julienne strips of sweet red pepper
¼ cup julienne strips of green pepper
½ cup frozen peas, thawed

Prepare the vegetables while the oven preheats to 350 degrees. Place vegetables in an ungreased shallow baking dish (13 by nine by two inches) and mix them all together. Then add the following ingredients, that have been first heated together to the boiling point in a small saucepan.

one cup beef bouillon
one third cup olive oil three cloves garlic, crushed
two tsp. salt
½ bay leaf, crumbled
½ tsp. savory
¼ tsp. tarragon

Place a lid on the baking dish, or heavy aluminum foil, and bake for one hour, stirring vegetables occasionally so that they cook evenly. The vegetables should remain slightly crisp and retain their original color, so don't lift the lid more than is necessary.

Substitutions can be made for various vegetables, for example, turnip for squash, cabbage for celery.

CHICKEN KIEV
(Julie Brock)

two chicken breasts (4 halves, de-boned)
one cup butter
one cup fresh parsley, chopped half loaf white bread, crumbled in blender four green onions, chopped dash of garlic powder ½ cup grated parmesan cheese
salt and pepper
three eggs
five tbsp. cooking oil
flour as needed

Put each piece of de-boned chicken between sheets of wax paper, and flatten by beating gently with a rolling pin until each breast is about ¼ inch thick.

Melt ½ cup butter, and mix with parsley, two cups of breadcrumbs, onions, garlic and cheese.

Season breasts, and spread buttery stuffing on each one. Roll like a jelly-roll and secure with toothpicks.

Beat the eggs with the oil and then dip each chicken roll in flour, then the egg, and then in the remaining breadcrumbs.

Fry the chicken in the rest of the butter until well browned. Place in a casserole and bake in a 250 degree oven for 40 minutes.

The chicken Kiev can be prepared up to the point of being browned earlier in the day, and then baked just before the meal.

Serve with the following mushroom sauce.

MUSHROOM SAUCE

¼ onion, chopped finely two tbsp. butter
one 10 oz. tin mushrooms
¼ cup of the drained mushroom juice
one tbsp. flour
½ cup sour cream
one tbsp. chopped dill or parsley
salt and pepper

Mix the first four ingredients together. Cream the egg yolks and sugar together in another bowl, until they are light in color.

Add the first mixture and the stiffly-beaten egg whites to the egg yolk mixture, alternating a spoonful of the dry mixture then a spoonful of egg whites. Blend in one direction only.

Bake in a 350-degree oven for 35 minutes in four eight-inch pans.

Put layers together when cool with lemon filling (a lemon pie filling mix is sufficient), chocolate filling and coffee frosting.

CHOCOLATE FILLING

one cup white sugar
one-third cup cocoa five tbsp. cornstarch
salt

Mix these ingredients and add one cup of boiling water. Cook over medium heat until thick and bubbling, then add one lump of butter and one tsp. vanilla.

COFFEE FROSTING

½ lb. sweet butter
three cups icing sugar

Cream together, and moisten with strong, thick black coffee.

WALNUT TORTE
(Leith DeTracey and Jean Lily)

one lb. finely ground walnuts
one tbsp. flour
one tbsp. breadcrumbs one tsp. (rounded) baking powder nine egg yolks
one cup white sugar
nine egg whites, stiffly beaten

Mix the first four ingredients together. Cream the egg yolks and sugar together in another bowl, until they are light in color.

Add the first mixture and the stiffly-beaten egg whites to the egg yolk mixture, alternating a spoonful of the dry mixture then a spoonful of egg whites. Blend in one direction only.

Bake in a 350-degree oven for 35 minutes in four eight-inch pans.

Put layers together when cool with lemon filling (a lemon pie filling mix is sufficient), chocolate filling and coffee frosting.

CHOCOLATE FILLING

one cup white sugar
one-third cup cocoa five tbsp. cornstarch
salt

Mix these ingredients and add one cup of boiling water. Cook over medium heat until thick and bubbling, then add

ANGLICAN WOMEN

Robert Henderson, principal of Centre Hastings Secondary School, was guest speaker at the recent meeting of St. Paul's A.C.W. held at the home of Verna Grant.

The topic on which Mr. Henderson spoke was "What is Education All About". followed by a question and answer period. There are 23,000 students and 1,117 teachers in Hastings County, Mr. Henderson said and the aim of educators today is to keep students interested and help them to open their eyes and see what knowledge there is in the world.

The student at the bottom of the class is just as important as the student at the top, Mr. Henderson declared.

Hastings County is hosting a variety of events in connection with Education Week, he reported.

Craft — Whattam

The marriage of Judy Ella Whattam and Peter David Craft took place in Calvary Temple, Belleville, Friday, April 11 at 2 p.m.

Rev. C.K. Benn performed the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, R. Whattam Stirling.

The bride wore a white floral headdress and floor length gown. She carried a bridal bouquet of pink gladiolus and fern.

Heather Craft, the groom's sister, attended the bride and Richard Whattam, the bride's brother, attended the groom.

Following the ceremony, the couple left for Niagara Falls. They will reside in Belleville.

Sexsmith — Brenner

St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church, was the scene of the spring wedding of Trudence Marie Brennen, and Richard Lyndon Sexsmith.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brennen, Belleville; the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Sexsmith, Napanee.

Rev. John F. Granger officiated at the ceremony.

Lynn Van de Water, Toronto, was maid of honor; she was assisted by Mary Rashotte, Belleville and Christine Brennen, the bride's sister. Randy Sexsmith, the groom's brother, was best man. He was assisted by ushers Ken Reid, London, and Wayne Johns, Belleville.

After a dinner and dance at the Sun Valley, the couple left for a wedding trip to Quebec City.

The couple resides in Belleville.

Ann Landers

Father Feels Like Snubber

Dear Ann Landers: After 21 years of child-support payments plus a lot of love, worry and heartache, my husband found out that his daughter from a previous marriage is not his child. Linda is a blood dis-order and had to take several tests. My husband went to the blood bank and had them the tests came out.

His first wife (the girl's mother) was always wild. He married her because she told him she was pregnant with his child. He believed her.

Now my husband is in a state of depression. He feels like a sucker. His ego is crushed. To make matters worse, the girl is determined to find her "REAL" father!

I married this man when Linda was only three years old. Although her mother had custody I had to fit her into every weekend, every holiday and vacation. My own little girl always felt like "second best." It was a heartache for me.

Is there any way my husband can get some money back? His ex-wife doesn't have much but I think she owes it him to go to work and pay him back. Any ideas, please.—Cheated, Calif.

Dear Cheated: Your husband did what he believed was the honorable thing. And there is always the chance that his ex-wife will find somebody to pay him. She may have believed he was the father of her child.

No one can turn back a clock or a calendar. My advice is to settle the past and stop eating yourselves up.. Your husband can sue a lawyer if he wants to, but you can't get blood out of a turnip.

Dear Ann Landers: Will you settle an argument, please? Is it a breach of etiquette to send a sympathy note to a woman whose husband committed suicide?

I say yes. My friend says no.

What do you say? Your word will prevail.—Counting On Ann

Dear Counting: It is not a breach of etiquette to send a sympathy note to a woman whose husband has committed suicide. In fact, under such circumstances it is even more important for the survivor to know that friends are thinking of her.

Isolation during such a traumatic time can be devastating. By all means let the bereaved woman hear from you.

Dear Ann Landers: What is wrong with a woman in her early 70s who is very wealthy and divorced, lives in a fine home, dresses like a lady, and every day loaded with diamonds and does nothing but talk to people (gossip)? Her second-most-favorite subject is sickness and death. She takes particular delight in seeing someone carried from a hotel on a stretcher, preferably dead, so she will be among the first to know. This isn't hearsay. Ann, I've watched her by the hour.

Every night, Diamond Annie as she is called behind her back) takes her position at the bar and proceeds to drink until she is so plastered someone has to lead her to her room and open the door. Do psychiatrists have a name for this kind of sickness? Please answer in the paper. A lot of people would enjoy seeing your reply. — St. Louis Lady

Dear Lady: That "sickness" is a combination of many things—alcoholism, loneliness, boredom—some of which are easy to live with. The woman sounds pathetic, and the only difference between her and millions of others is her money.

Incidentally, you seem to have a lot of spare time on your hands, Sister. The same for your sickness is nose trouble.

Math and Science Stressed for Girls

VANCOUVER (CP) — The managing director of the British Columbia Association of Professional Engineers says it is time to change a situation which has become something of a tradition.

Dan Lambert urged more women to consider a career in engineering.

"It wasn't traditional for women to enter the profession, he said in an interview. "Those who did were considered unusual."

The feeling today was not much different.

"Girls should be more aware at the grade-school level that the professions are not for men alone. They should be encouraged to take maths and science. On the home front, parents should be discouraging their daughters," he said.

"Sometimes when a girl makes the decision to enter a profession, the parents discourage her by stressing the years and years of work, saying: 'When are we ever going to have grandchildren?'

There seems to be a growing interest in attracting women to the engineering profession. B.C. Highways Minister Graham Lea recently announced a course in learning of the small number of women engineers in training and on the job.

The University of B.C. department of applied science has a seminar planned this spring where women will be encouraged to become engineers and the Association of Professional Engineers has offered its support to a task force the highways minister proposed.

The intention of the task force is to study the reasons why women are not enrolling in engineering at UBC.

The demand for qualified engineers has increased steadily in the past few years. However, the number of engineering graduates has declined across North America in the same period, Mr. Lambert said.

There are 6,800 professional engineers registered with the association, four of them women. Of 900 engineers in training in the province, 12 are women.

"Engineering basically only takes a certain amount of logic, acquired knowledge and skill that can be gained by men or women. Women engineers can work in any branch of the profession," Mr. Lambert said.

"The barriers to working in the field involve mostly awareness-quartering and lavatories. We have women there in 1-000 professional engineers who are really design people rather than grandchildren."

They're office-orientated and awkwardness that thinks of in the field doesn't apply to these people."

Jim Carson, external affairs manager with the association, said he sees no barrier to women doing such a job and is surprised more women are not entering the profession.

"A graduate engineer's starting salary usually is about $12,000 a year and average annual salaries for experienced engineers are about $19,000, the association manager said.

Developing Potential For Handicapped Kids

FREDERICTON (CP) — The Child Development Centre, a pre-school here for handicapped children under the age of six, was started out of necessity.

Mothers of handicapped children used to meet once a week to discuss the feelings and problems they encountered in trying to look after youngsters who could not walk, could not talk and who showed no sign of being toilet-trained.

Ann Fagnoux, now chairman of the centre, understood their problems.

"I have twin six-year-old boys of my own who are brain-damaged and were given the same diagnoses—trainable, mentally-retarded and grossly mentally-retarded."

She looked for facilities to help her boys but found no school for four-to-six-year-old that was "limited in scope."

"But working with the principal there until with other parents who had handicapped children, we decided we needed a place to go."

At first the centre operated one day a week; then every weekday morning.

"We run a child-development care centre that aims at developing any child's potential," said Mrs. Fagnoux.

"So who can come? Any child can come with any kind of handicap—mental, physical or both.

"I dislike the word 'retarded,' as it has limited connotations."

She acknowledged that some children will not be able to acquire any degree of independence in caring for themselves. She said many children, however, are not brought to realize they have potential.

Some children at the centre have only emotional barriers confronting them.

Developing Potential For Handicapped Kids

"We had one six-two-year-old who was unable to walk. We are doing anything that a normal child does. Now, perhaps maybe that boy is in a regular kindergarten.

"He was encouraged to learn. He was shown how to learn. His self-image and ego were built up. His physical and mental abilities were improved.

"The mother was shown how to help him and her picture of the child changed. She received encouragement in the group. Between the two of them, the child's potential was a dramatic improvement."

Lack of understanding and fear have generated a mistakenness that handicapped persons are ill and the public that most handicapped children belong in institutions.

Mrs. Passmore feels this may be largely due to the enormous emotional drain on the family. Because of the initial feelings of shock, guilt and shame, few families find the strength to accept the child for what he is and thus help develop his full potential.

New Job for LaMarsh

TORONTO (CP) — Judy LaMarsh, former secretary of state and more recently a law professor and broadcaster, is back in the news.

The outspoken Niagara Falls, Ont., lawyer was named by Premier William Davis Monday to head an Ontario royal commission to investigate violence on television and in the movies.

Miss LaMarsh, who was thought to be in line for some type of appointment after being invited to the federal government reception following the speech from the throne March 18, is a prominent member of a Liberal cabinet put together by former Prime Minister Lester Pearson. Miss LaMarsh came to first as unlikely political choice for a Progressive Conservative government.

She has, however, never been one to mince words—regardless of party affiliation. She used a less-than-scorching term to describe Pierre Trudeau to a national television audience during the 1968 Liberal leadership convention.

Since quitting her cabinet job in 1968, Miss LaMarsh has remained active. Her autobiography, Memoirs of a Bird in a Gilded Cage, established her as a biting political critic.

She had her own television program in Ottawa then moved to Vancouver as host of a radio hotline show. In 1971 she returned to Ontario to teach law at Osgoode Hall Law School.

She now teaches law, appears on a weekly television phone-in show, is a director with Unity Bank, a member of several committees and a political commentator on CBC radio.

She announced herself in a recent magazine article: "I don't belong to the party, nor the people, she said. "I am my own person."

Miss LaMarsh was first elected to the House of Commons in 1962. In 1963, she was appointed to the health and welfare ministry and two years later was transferred to secretary of state.

As secretary of state, she was minister responsible for the CBC and became involved in a furor over the network's decision to drop the controversial documentary show "The Hour Has Seven Days. She said the decision offended her respect for free speech and she sided with the show's producers.

She received caustic quit policies saying she was tired of fighting.

Her appointment to head the royal commission on violence follows several speeches by cabinet ministers in recent days. Both Mr. Davis and Attorney-General John Clement have complained about the high incidence of violence they say is portrayed on television.

Judy LaMarsh should have no difficulty focusing attention on the issue.

Schweitzer Had Reverence for Life

Nineteen seventy-five marks the 100th anniversary of the birth of Dr. Albert Schweitzer.

With this in mind, The Kindness Club, of which Dr. Schweitzer was honorary president, wishes to encourage the teachers to give children an opportunity to learn of this great man.

Please join with people all over the world in remembering and honoring the memory of Dr. Albert Schweitzer, whose philosophy was Reverence For Life.

Aida Flemming, President, The Kindness Club.

And a wonderful philosophy it is, too. If every single one of us had a reverence for life, would some of us still go around killing people? At the same time, a good proportion of the rest of us are, working at helping people to live better, fuller lives, improving their health, point of view, and their contribution to a good world.

We need more examples like Dr. Schweitzer.

Let her be. My two-year-old daughter has two loving grandmothers for which I am very thankful, but at times I could strangle them for some of the things they do. She is intelligent for her age; but I for one can stand so much calm talk when I get "No, No," for an answer; then I blow my top.

Ever since she could get around she has loved to clean out cupboard and dresser drawers, a stunt which I have tried to discourage. There are only certain ones she is allowed to play in at home. However, at Grandma's, she can play in anything and everything, creating total confusion. It takes me a day to get her back to what things it again. I feel sorry for her because she gets many spankings on account of what the grandmothers let her do.

Normal Feeling Inadequate

Dear Feeling: You aren't the first mother who has felt like tearing her hair over grandparents.

Try simply have to make it clear to the grandparents that you make the rules. When you go to grandm's you can tell her, "While you're here you can play with the pots and pans like you do at home. But usually I play in your Grandma's other cupboards or other dresser drawers." Then close those doors and don't allow her to play in the whining or pleas.

Explain what the grandparents think. You are giving your daughter security. The only inadequacy will be when you give in.

Confidential to Interested: You've gone about as far as you can do. She has had dinner at your home and he knows you enjoy his company.

He comes from a society where women are not very aggressive and you'll just have to bide your time. Meanwhile, don't let your feelings interfere with your studies. Making a poor showing at exams won't be much of a way to impress him.

Take part in things that you know interest him and if he spars in there at all, it will catch fire.

Self-Sufficiency Means Freedom

KENDRICK, Idaho (AP)—A Kendrick farm wife has wrote, printed, marketed, promoted and distributed her own cookbook homesteader's encyclopedia is not content to rest now that the book is a success.

She has embarked on another, and perhaps bigger step in teaching people to return to Mother Nature.

Carla Emery says her mimeographed, 600-plus-page book was finished last summer after four years' work. In the months since, Carla—no one uses her last name, because readers were pouring in so fast she hired a full-time staff to operate four mimeograph machines six days a week.

Her book is called The Old Fashioned Recipe Book and sells at $12.95, postage included. It contains 44 photographs illustrating and is designed to be an encyclopedia for every conceivable type of cookery.

Carla said she got the idea from the magazine Organic Gardening.

"In those magazines I saw a great yearning on the part of city people to be able to raise their own food," she said in an interview. "I thought, what they need is a great big book that will tell things just like they are."

Now she wants to go on to bigger things. She and her husband Mike plan to begin a homesteading school in 1975 on 400 acres of newly—acquired land near their 150-acre farm.

A sign painted outside her Kendrick office proclaims her ambitions. Under this, the school will teach people to "harness and drive a team of horses; fell trees; split rhikes; make posts; build a fence; drive a tractor; butcher; cut meal; make sausage; cure bacon; make soap, bread, cheese, butter; can handle bees; tan hides; and a goat will get wool from sheep in socks."

AROUND TOWN with LANA ROBINSON

(. . . an advertising feature designed to keep you better informed of what's new around town.)

At The Home Show

Ruddy Electric's Consumer Division, 281 Coleman St. will be alive and in color at the Home Show this weekend at the Bleecker Auditorium. Ruddy can't possibly show you all the wonderful things they sell to improve your life and home style, (they're the one-stop place to homeowners). But they will have a display of fixtures, saunas, air-conditioners, dehumidifiers and central vacuum systems on hand. There's so much more to Ruddy Electric that meets the eye. Some of it you can see today and tomorrow and from 9 a.m. 'til 10 p.m. at the Home Show.

Hawaiian Night

Tuesday nights it's 'aloha' to an evening of dancing and entertainment. Hawaiian style, at the Four Seasons Mad Mechanic. Special effects, special drinks and special music will all add up to one big fun evening. Make Tuesday at Mad Mechanic night, Hawaiian style. And speaking of special music, the Jimmy Norman trio is now playing in the Terrace Bar of the Four Seasons. If you like great listening in a very pleasant atmosphere, the Terrace Bar is just the place.

What You Might Lose

Do you ever think that optical firms which offer "same day service" may be shirking some of the other things which are important, like quality and quick dispensing? Trenton Optical, 54 Bridge St. E. doesn't offer same day service. There is no "way they could do it" either, but at reasonable prices they do, the quality article which each pair of their glasses is. Their highly-trained service, Trenton Optical isn't interested in just making a sale; they're committed to serving their customers. And there's a great deal of difference, isn't there? You need no appointment. Just drop in.

A Big House-cleaning Help

Gibbs and Soa, vacuum cleaner specialists at 37 Albion St. have a great spring-housecleaning recommendation — the Air-Way vacuum cleaner which makes housekeeping cleaner history right before your eyes. The Air-Way system is still on sale too. Regularly priced at $350.00, you can purchase this wonder machine for only $299.00. All you can get a home demonstration of how this machine performs absolutely free of charge. All you have to do is call this special Air-Way number — 968-9197 and Gibbs and Sons will supply your demonstration.

They're All Here

Al Whitney of Sidney Ian tells me that all his seed potato varieties are in and all sets of onions — Dutch, Spanish, etc. There are even some rosebushes at Sidney Ian and more on the way. Al says that Sidney Ian is open for and ready for such recipients, and for that you need peat moss, manure, and other types of fertilizer. Sidney Ian can supply all those too. And of course, if you don't get out to Sidney Ian on Monday, Wednesday or North Sidney during regular hours, the Sidney Ian can accommodate you quite nicely until 11:00 p.m. every night.

Just 20 Miles Away

Germany . . Switzerland . . Finland . . Brazil . . England . . Ireland . . Scotland . . Italy . . France — and even Dominicana. You have access to the best in fashion and quality produced by these countries and many others, when you visit Jean Smith's West Wind Boutique and Import Room at the West Wind Motel. And you have only to drive 20 miles north to do it. The West Wind is on Highway No. 7 at Actinolite. And the hours, as well as the calibre of merchandise, facilitate a visit any day from 10:00 'til 9:00 p.m., every day except Sundays — and until 6:00 on Sundays. And you don't need a passport either.

Oh, Those Mondays

When was the last time you saw 10 lbs. of potatoes for only 29 cents? You did when you visited Murray's Feed Market on Monday. Murray has put Monday into the smart grocery shopper's calendar by advertising his specials on Monday. And of course, you have all week to take advantage of them — not just the "specials" described in his three day-advertised special as "astounding". And you know Murray and his work!

The Place To See

If you've missed those earlier columns when I told you about the superb cupboard collection to be seen at Highland Construction & Supply, Highway 62 just north of Tweed, I'm not going to mention it again. There cupboards don't just offer good looks — but quality workmanship inside and behind, something not every cupboard can boast. I fear, All this is evident with the inspection of your own eyes and hands, and the consultations of available Highland staff. Visit the Home Improvement Centre and improve your home.

The Spring Cleaner

In case you're trying to figure out that jargon, that's the new term I've devised for you and me — those dedicated souls with the dedicated hands who are going to somehow get our homes ready for this glorious next six months. But a good idea is always better than a lot of unnecessary effort isn't it? So here's a good idea — call ServiceMaster at 967-1672 and hire the services of competent housekeeping specialists to come and help you with this job done and keep your home looking that way. I'm great fan of good ideas. Aren't you?

A Lot To See

That's how the Home Show at Bob Bleecker Auditorium seems to be shaping up to do . . . show you a lot of what's new in the home industry. And a very significant part of this 'what's new' is the presence of Aquafine Water Softeners at the Moira Sekester display. For nearly a year now I've been telling you about the efficiency and safety of Aquafine water. And at the home show you'll be able to get the explanations from the experts — the people at Moira-Schuster who are the distributors of this product. Moira-Schuster has a lot more fine products about which they'll tell you while you're there. That's the Home Show, today and tomorrow from 9 a.m. 'til 10 p.m.

Cameron Notes

One of the ticket holders at the art show in Trenton, sponsored by the Knights of Columbus in aid of the Belleville Society, is a painting by Donnah Cameron. This show is open to everyone, will serve wine and cheese, and takes place May 1 and May 2. Sounds like a very enjoyable time for a very worthwhile cause . . . Donnah has a suggestion for groups who are planning on giving a parting gift to a staff member. Her gallery has memberees in paintings, water colors, pottery and crafts of the local area. I know that I personally would be very pleased and proud to have a Cameron Gallery gift. The gallery is open most days now, including the week days, as well as on the normal Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays.

Literacy Chief Goal of Schools Says Expert

Literacy is a school system's most important product, teachers and local educators were told Thursday.

And teachers should quit trying to make the student fit the system instead of vice-versa.

The advice was taken in attentively — and for good reason.

It came from an educator of international repute — Daniel Fader, English scholar, author and educational consultant.

Dr. Fader, of the University of Michigan, spent a day-long visit talking with teaching staffs and education administrators at seminars at Loyalist College and Centennial Secondary School.

The professor, with a reputation for dynamic concepts in teaching had a diversity of opinions on contemporary education and the role of instructors.

Inevitably, for a writer of books on the subject, he had much to say about literacy — a basic necessity to giving an individual self-confidence, he said.

The problem has its roots in preconceptions that a youngster must be made fit into the mold of the institution and its disciplines, he indicated.

Instead "what we're trying to do is fit the school to the children not fit the children to the school."

Why, for instance, asked Dr. Fader, do only English teachers teach English?

"I'm asking it for kids who need to be persuaded that literacy is necessary to survive in the world — to be persuaded early enough," he told his night-time audience at Centennial.

The solution to the problem is to ensure that literacy is taught every day in every classroom.

If students wrote every day in every classroom the production would be enormous. The result might not produce better writers.

"But that is not what this is about. It is about convincing kids that words are a means to an end," said Dr. Fader.

Lack of literacy can lead to social isolation for the individual involved.

In middle-class literate society verbal violence is acceptable, but not physical violence.

"How do you suppose it feels to be a kid in a society where language is the means to the end of violence that's acceptable — and you haven't got the language?" he asked.

"Let's make language a means to an end of expressing violence. Let's" at least give a kid the tools the middle class has to survive."

Fader Says Fire Poor Teachers

Unless the teaching profession finds a way to remove incompetent instructors from their positions, it does not deserve to call itself a profession, says a professor of English at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, Michigan.

Daniel N. Fader, author of Hooked on Books, the publication that relates the method by which he and his colleagues introduced a program to raise the standard of literacy in American classrooms, criticized his own profession before a group of Loyalist College faculty members Thursday afternoon.

"Until you discover a means to drum out of our profession all those who teach their students badly . . . we are nonprofessionals," he commented.

Separate School Teachers May Get 19 Per Cent Pay Hike

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

Hastings and Prince Edward County separate school teachers can expect about 19-per-cent salary increase during the second year of their two-year contract with the separate school board.

The contract, signed by about 200 teachers in both counties, was conditional on the provincial grantable ceilings for the school year 1975-76. Tentative ceilings were set at six per cent for the salary schedule with an agreement the teachers would receive three-quarters of the added grantable ceilings.

Director of education Ed Neville said Thursday the new ceilings are about 28 per cent and he estimated this would increase the salary level by 19 per cent. Exact figures will be available in the budget, soon to be handed down.

Mr. Neville said the salary arrangement is unique in the province and it is based on his philosophy to endeavor to spend the ceiling, in order to provide a level of service to all students as well as being fair to the teachers and taxpayers."

With the revised ceilings the lowest salary level will be $7,797 compared to $6,500 in the original contract. The top salary will now be $21,352 compared to $17,800 in the original contract. The salaries become effective September, 1975.

Last September teachers with the lowest level were paid $6,200 while the top level attracted $17,800. The two-year agreement has three salary increments written into the contract.

The Hastings-Prince Edward County separate school board received the salary schedule this week and went on to distribute the new figures to the teaching staff.

Negotiations will soon begin between the county's 330 secondary school teachers and the Hastings County Board of Education. The elementary school teachers have already begun talks with the board.

Student Attitude Attacked

Loyalist College faculty members would receive more than that students who feel the world owes them a living are among the most destructive human beings.

Prof. Daniel N. Fader of University of Michigan's department of English commented, "the worst human beings I have seen — are those students who have been told by parents and teachers they are number one."

"They think the world revolves around them," he remarked. "They cannot survive on their own. They are among the most destructive human beings.

System Attacked

Federal departments of education came under fire from Daniel N. Fader, professor of English at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, Michigan Thursday as he spoke to Loyalist College faculty members. He commented the United States' office of education is "a completely useless arm of the U.S. government — you have probably got its equivalent here in Canada."

Mayor to Investigate Growth Plans for City

Mayor Robin Jeffrey will seek to have the provincial government clarify its intentions for economic expansion in the Belleville area.

The mayor said today she intends pursuing further with Queen's Park the implications of statements made by a planning professor about economic decentralization in Eastern Ontario.

But the professor, Dr. Gerald Hodge, head of the planning school at Queen's University said today he has not seen any provincial government plans for concentrating major future growth in the Belleville and Brockville areas.

He said he had mentioned both centres as examples — not as specific locations — when cautioning a provincial cabinet meeting in Kingston Wednesday about policies aimed at decentralizing expansion away from metropolitan areas.

"If there are any such plans, this municipality has never heard of it — not has the Quinte Planning Board which would be the first to know," said Mayor Jeffrey.

"I would like to find out if there's any merit in any of those statements," said the mayor after a report on Dr. Hodge's presentation was published in Thursday's Intelligencer.

In The Intelligencer the professor was quoted as saying provincial designs for development would see future growth in eastern Ontario to Belleville and Brockville over the next 30 years.

His text told the cabinet:

"It is a proposal that is abroad, it is suggested that eastern Ontario and nearly a million people and half a million jobs in the next three decades, and combine that with the development of two re-large urban complexes at Belleville and Brockville.

"This is pie in the sky because it simply cannot be achieved without a radically different approach, both in getting industry to locate in non-metropolitan regions, and in building new cities."

Dr. Hodge said today the main purpose of his presentation to the cabinet was to warn against projecting massive industrial and urban expansion for centres that may not have the present capability to absorb the dimensions of such growth.

He did not think centres like Brockville, Belleville, and Peterborough can be "made to grow fills fast under the capabilities we have now," he said today.

Municipal officials polled in the Belleville area following Thursday's report, said they had never heard of such a plan.

Correctional Services Minister Richard Potter, MPP Quinte, told The Intelligencer from Queen's Park Thursday growth in the Belleville-Trenton areas would be a "follow-up" to the 10,000-acre Frost-district industrial site announced by provincial government in January.

The objective was for heavy industry to locate on the provincial government site with a "supporting economic spinoff" of smaller industries that would locate in the regional periphery — including the Quinte area, he said.

Police have investigated 17 thefts of tapes and tape decks from vehicles in the city during a period from Jan. 1 to April 9 this year.

That is a slight increase from last year in the same period when 15 such occurrences were looked into.

Chief Douglas Crosbie described the frustration of people in an interview today.

"They're easily taken out . . . and the sad part is they're easily stolen," he commented.

Chief Crosbie passed on several tips to car owners with tapes and tape deck equipment and the basic one is to "take your car."

He continued, "don't leave the tapes clearly visible. Either put them in the glove compartment, under the seat or in the trunk."

Doctors Sew Severed Fingers Back on Hand

Doctors at St. Michael's Hospital in Toronto have sewn back four fingers onto the hand of a Belleville man who had them severed Thursday in an industrial accident near here.

A spokesman from St. Michael's Hospital said Douglas Eugene Pile, 38, 775 East Dundas St., is doing well after a plastic surgeon performed the operation late Wednesday. The spokesman said it would be 10 days before it is known whether the operation is a success.

Working at the site of the former Canada Cement La Farge Ltd. plant at Point Anne, about 10 miles from here, Mr. Pile was struck and injured by a portion of a falling roof during demolition work.

He was taken to Belleville General Hospital, transferred to Hotel Dieu Hospital in Kingston and finally to Toronto. Pile is employed by Standard Machine and Equipment Co. Ltd. of Uniontown, Pa. which has branch offices in Ontario.

Setting Up

Bay Bridge to Get Repairs Under Latest Roads Program

Repairs to the swing bridge in Belleville's Bay Bridge and more across the Bay of Quinte are among projects in the latest capital instruction program of the communications and transportation ministry.

Road and bridges in the Stirling, Tweed and Prince Edward county areas also are scheduled for work.

The $436.4-million program — with an estimated $29.17 expenditures in the current fiscal year — was announced by the provincial government earlier this week.

Among projects are structural and mechanical and electrical overhauling of aged parts on the Bell in 1981 — a replacement for which now is under study by the ministry.

Other projects:

Intersection improvements on County Road 3, about one-half mile south of the city and on Prince Edward County Road 28, 1.2 miles south of Belleville.

Improvements to the north and south entrances of Thomasburg south of Tweed, on Highway 37.

Grading, paving, drainage and a new base on Highway 37 from Tweed five miles to Highway 7, and on Highway 41 from Highway 7 south of Kaladar.

— Resurfacing of Highway 37 for 1.3 miles through Reconstruction along Highway 14 for 7.3 miles from Stirling north to Springbrook, including water servicing and paving of the Rawdon Creed bridge in Stirling.

Operating equipment also has been scheduled for the Marysville highways patrol terminal.

In Brighton, Highway 2 along Main St. from Division St. to the village's western limits will undergo reconstruction. Improvements also are scheduled for Ontario St. from Highway 2 to Napoleon St. in the village.

Detroit Priest Praises Hospital Nursing Staff

Belleville General Hospital has received commendations for its professionalism from a Detroiter priest after several of his parishioners were involved in a major traffic accident.

The letter came this week from Rev. H. Blondell, pastor of a church in Melvindale, Mich., and a former hospital chaplain.

Three people were injured in the mishap, one fatally and the priest became the contact 76 their family, whom he described as soberly who could hardly speak English.

A hospital supervisor "went out of her way" to reassure both the injured and the family by telephone.

Later Rev. Blondell flew from Detroit and visited Edith with a relative of the patient.

He said he was prompted to write the hospital because of the manner in which the staff handled the situation.

"You have the most professional group of women in the health care field and I hope you appreciate that," he wrote.

"I have never seen a group of registered nurses put themselves out beyond what is expected of them to give all forms of service —", wrote Rev. Blondell.

50-bed Nursing Home Nears Completion

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Construction of Belleville's newest nursing home located on Dundas St. West has reached its final stages with completion anticipated at the end of the month.

The 50-bed home on the western fringe of the city is being built at a cost of about $500,000 and Lillian Bond, one the most recent changes in the province's nursing home act, says its owner Jack Bond.

The home — is the red tape and paper work process for about two years — marks a major step for Mr. Bond, who until now has operated the 15-bed Victoria Lodge Nursing Home. The new home is named Westgate Lodge.

Once it is complete, patients from the lodge will be transferred to the new building sold, said Mr. Bond.

The Dundas centre cleared a major hurdle Thursday, receiving virtually a clean slate from provincial inspectors.

"There are a few very minor things we have to do," said Mr. Bond. "Generally the inspectors were very pleased with the home and we received assurances there will be no problem in licensing."

Nursing homes across the province come under government scrutiny in recent years with long lists of new requirements to be met by operators.

The act governing nursing homes first received a major overhaul in September, 1972, with thousand set of revisions expected some time this year.

Mr. Bond said his new facility will meet with even the new requirements.

Included in the home are a variety of private, semi-private and ward rooms, recreation room, dining room, television rooms, a whirl pool bath and an elaborate calling system providing immediate communication between the resident's bedside to the centrally-located nursing station.

Once in operation, the home will employ anywhere from 30 to 35 nursing, maintenance and cooking staff with Mr. Bond as home administrator and his wife, Lillian, as director of nursing.

The couple plan an open house and grand opening in mid June — coinciding with Nursing Home Week.

Professor Has Unusual Approach to Teaching

Literacy expert Daniel N. Fader, professor of English at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, Michigan, has a method for teaching English which he told Loyalist instructors Thursday ensures full absorption of the subject by all students in a class.

He described a class of 30 students, where he would spend as much time during the first week of semester as possible discovering all about each student. He said he then would place them in a standing.

For example, number one student would be the one "best prepared for what I am going to teach" and the number 30 student would be "the one least prepared," explained Professor Fader.

He continued he would group them in threes with each group including a top student, a middle student and a bottom one.

Prof. Fader commented the students would be capably instructed by working with each other in the groups rather than by his instruction to a class of individuals.

Overtime Marker Puts Hawks in Series

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

When you've been around the National Hockey League as long as Stan Mikita, you don't blow two scoring chances in a row.

The veteran centre missed one chance Thursday night by hesitating until it was too late to get off a shot against Buffalo goalie Gerry Desjardins.

But a moment later the puck was back on Mikita's stick and he got it past Desjardins to give the Black Hawks a 5-4 overtime win over the Sabres.

The win beat Chicago alive in the best-of-seven quarter-final series, which Buffalo still leads 3-1.

Dick Redmond set up the winning goal when his shot from 30 feet out was stopped by Desjardins but Mikita was in position and slapped the rebound home at 5:21 for the victory.

"I had the puck and was moving in on him (Desjardins)" said Mikita. "He came out for the shot but I stopped for a fer and didn't have a shot left.

"But we got some chances in and made good. We got the faceoff in front of him. Dick Redmond let go of a shot which went through the players.

"Desjardins got his stick on it and the puck came bouncing in the air. I batted at it, I didn't get my stick on it but it went in."

Philadelphia Flyers and Philadelphia Flyers extended their series leads to 2-0 and Montreal Canadiens took a 2-1 lead in other quarter-final action.

Pele Offered Four Million

ROME (AP) — Brazilian soccer star Pele has been presented with a take-it-or-leave-it $4-million offer to play for three years with New York Cosmos of the North American Soccer League, officials here said Thursday.

The offer came after five hours of negotiations between Pele and Clive Toye, general manager of the New York team, the source in Rome said.

"We have reached the final point when there is basically no further negotiation," Toye said. "We have been discussing money for eight months. This was our fifth meeting and at this stage the talks have ended.

"Pele has said he will phone his decision to New York sometime next week, after his return to Brazil. He wants to think it over carefully," he said in answer.

Pele, who arrived in Rome Wednesday, was not available for comment. Last week he had been quoted as saying he wanted $4 million from the American team.

"I don't plan to return to soccer, but if I do, I'll play. I'm not into doing so they have to give me the money," he said in Rome upon his arrival in Italy Saturday on a world tour to lecture youths on soccer.

Russians Win 14th World Title

DUESSELDORF (AP) — The Soviet Union won its 14th world hockey championship Thursday, defeating Czechoslovakia 4-1 in a tight-checking game broken open in the final 10 minutes when Victor Shalimov scored twice.

Until Shalimov connected, the Soviets were protecting a narrow 2-1 edge built on Vladimir Petrov's first-period power-play goal and a second-period goal by defenceman Vladimir Lutchenko.

Petrov's goal came with two Czech players in the penalty box, Miroslav Dvorak for interference and Vladimir Martinec for hooking. The Czech goal, scored by Edward Novak, came with the Soviets two men short because of penalties.

Defence Gordon Lee of the United States disallowed an apparent goal by Czechoslovakia with six minutes left in the second period, ruling he had illegally played down before the puck was shot into the net.

Czechoslovakia had gone into the tournament as co-favorite with the Soviet Union which it had beaten four times this season before the championships. The Soviet Union has lost this tournament only once since 1963. That defeat came in 1973 when the Czechs took the title.

In Thursday's second game, Finland upset Sweden 3-1, building down the second-place silver medal for Czechoslovakia and postponing the bronze medal winner until Saturday—final day of the championships.

The Finns an 65wedes, battling for third place, have split their two games in the round-robin tournament.

Williams - Hutchison Hearing Postponed

MONTREAL (CP) — Right-winger Dave (Tiger) Williams of Toronto Maple Leafs and defenceman Dave Hutchison of Los Angeles Kings will have to wait for a while to find out what punishment, if any, they'll get for a stick-swinging incident at Los Angeles April 3.

Clarence Campbell, National Hockey League president, said Thursday that a hearing scheduled for Toronto today was postponed because "more facts are required" were not all available.

He said he is not certain a hearing will be held until after the incident "may be resolved on the basis of the game films."

The incident occurred at the 43-second mark of the third period with the Leafs holding a 5-0 lead in the game they subsequently won 5-1, eliminating the Kings from further Stanley Cup playoff competition.

Williams had drawn a two-minute major penalty from referee Art Skov for a fight with Dave Carr, who reportedly received a game misconduct along with the original major penalty for an altercation at the penalty box.

During the melee, Hutchison left the Los Angeles bench and skated around the ice to engage in the battle with Williams, still seated in the box.

Hutchison drew a minor penalty and subsequently was given a ten-minute misconduct penalty for his action, and a match penalty was added for Williams' major. Match penalties bring an automatic fine, but not other punishment possible after review of the infraction by the league president.

Kim Hammond, a former backup quarterback with Jacksonville Sharks, said: "We've never been paid. The league has offered us a settlement in which they will pay each player 15 per cent of the money owed, with the balance being paid over a period of several years."

He said all but one of the Jacksonville players that he been in touch with have agreed.

finish was a second at Houston last year, a one-shot edge over a quartet of Jerry Pate, Bruce Crampton, Charles Coody, Mike Wynn and Bert Greene.

With 30 players breaking 70 in the opening round, it appeared it might take better than even par to survive today's cut when the field of 147 is trimmed to the lowest 70 scorers and ties.

Among those on the bubble at the start of the second round were South African Gary Player and Lee Elder, who won this event a year ago and thus became the first black man ever to play in the Masters.

Billy Casper had to settle for a par 71 while Great Britain's Peter Oosterhuis, who lost a playoff to Elder last year, was at 72. Gene Sarazen of Tonawanda, the only Canadian in the tournament, had a 78.

India's Motion Rejected

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — India's motion to oust South Africa from Davis Cup competition was rejected Thursday by the International Tennis Federation's Davis Cup committee.

A committee spokesman said after the meeting that there had been repeated attempts in the committee and in the ITF general assembly to exclude South Africa because of its race segregation policies.

The committee may exclude countries whose participation would endanger fair competition, but the spokesman said the committee did not think South Africa posed such a danger.

J.C. Gets Same Old Treatment from Fans

By Glenn Cole
The Canadian Press

When J. C. Tremblay was playing for Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, he was often subjected to the boos and catcalls of the Montreal fans.

Three years ago, Tremblay sought refuge in Quebec City with the Nordiques of the World Hockey Association. In his first two seasons in Quebec, he seldom heard any abuse.

But following Quebec's 4-3 win over Phoenix Roadrunners Thursday night which enabled Quebec to clinch their quarter-final series 4-1, Tremblay was upset with the fans.

"I'll never finish my hockey career here," Tremblay said. "I'll finish the two seasons I have on my contract, but that's all."

While Tremblay was upset, coach Bill Dineen of Houston Aeros had some reason to smile as his club defeated Cleveland Crusaders 3-1 to take their quarter-final set 4-1.

Houston will meet the winner of the San Diego Mariners-Toronto Toros set while Quebec will oppose the winner of the series between Minnesota Fighting Saints and New England Whalers. Both series are tied 2-2.

EVYAINEE INCREASE

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Cars for Roger McCluskey, Bobby Allison and Jim McElreath were entered Thursday for the 500-mile running of the Indianapolis 500-mile race May 25. This brought the number of cars eligible to qualify for the 33-position field to 52.

2 and resume tonight in San Diego and Hartford, Conn.

Tremblay will miss today to think about the treatment he received in the fifth game of the Nordiques series played before 8,695 spectators.

Several members of the crowd turned on the Quebec captain after he had made a couple of bad passes in the second period. One of the fans threw a beer can at him and Tremblay's wife was on the scene posture.

"He makes one mistake and the people jump on him," said Mrs. Tremblay, who broke a 3-3 tie with his third goal on the series at 14:20 of the third period.

J. C. Tremblay hadn't been there three years ago, they wouldn't even have had a professional hockey club in Quebec City on the map."

Despite boos and lacklustre opening 30 minutes, John Gray of the Roadrunners opened the scoring on an end-to-end rush at 1:18 of the middle period.

Ronald Leclerc tied the score three minutes later when he broke in alone on the right wing and snapped a shot past Roadrunners Gary Kurt on the far side but Phoenix moved back in a one-goal lead on Dennis Sobchuk's power-play at 8:47.

Leonard tied the game at 11:31 of the period setting the stage for Yardi's third-period winner. Jean-Guy Gendron added Quebec's fourth goal in the final minute after Kurt had been lifted for an extra attacker.

Al Hamilton, Gordie Howe and Larry Land scored in the first period to start the Aeros on their way. The goal for Howe was his first in the playoffs.

Gerry Pinder scored for the Crusaders in the second period but Ted Taylor added Houston's insurance goal at 8:52 of the third period.

"Tonight was more like the playoffs," said Howe. "It was a really good game tonight. It never did break open at any point like some of the others.

"I was a little surprised when I shot. They really came at us strong."

THAT DEMAND PERFORMANCE
Master nutritionists have developed a remarkable new horse feed; the first in years. High Performance is the name and every ounce lives up to it.
High Performance is formulated for two year-olds and mature horses that need more energy for performance, but its equally ideal for any horse that loves to really perform for its owner.
Because of its grain base and balanced formula High Performance is also surprisingly economical and convenient. You can, for example, feed up to 20% less of High Performance to provide the equivalent energy of oats. And the feed is available in bulk for extra savings. The balanced formula means that you no longer need to buy and mix different ingredients. Also, High Performance is produced in pellet form to prevent your horse from selecting and eating just the coarse part of the ration. He gets all the goodness in every mouthful.

John Sheppard – 100 a Week

Youngest Competitor from Canada

Sheppard Aims for Top 500 in Boston Marathon

In sports, man attempts to overcome an opponent. In hockey it's another team. In tennis it's another person. But there's one sport where man has a real battle. Long distance running. In it, man has to beat the elements and himself. He has to have enough self-discipline and self-control that he doesn't quit before reaching the finish line.

One of the greatest tests a long distance runner takes is the Boston Marathon. Monday, almost 2,000 athletes will take to the hills and streets of the bean-town region hoping to complete the gruelling 26-mile course.

Among that conglomeration of runners from around the world will be Belleville's John Sheppard.

An 18-year-old student at Quinte Secondary School, this is the second time around for Sheppard. Last year he finished 91st in a field of over 2,000. This time, he's looking to cross the finish line in the top 500.

"I'm better prepared this year," said Sheppard, "I know the flats — and I know how I should pace myself. Last year I could have finished better, but I wasn't sure what pace I should have kept."

"This time," he added, "I'm going to go all out from the start."

At 19, the local runner will be the youngest participant from Canada. He will travel to the event with about 100 others being organized by the Metro Roadrunners, of Toronto.

Among the other members of the Canadian contingent attending this year are Jerome Drayton, who finished third in '74, and Bob Moore, who came seventh.

For the past three years John has been running about 100 miles a week. This figure entails nearly two hours a day. Every morning before breakfast he runs five miles.

"Some people depend on a cigarette and a coffee to get them going in the morning," said John, "I go out and run five miles. If I don't it throws my whole day off."

John doesn't expect to finish anywhere near the top of the heap. He simply wants to finish.

"I don't think it matters all that much to most of the runners where they finish," he said, "as long as they complete the course. If you cross that finish line you're a winner."

Sheppard has set a goal for himself. He would like to compete the run in under three hours. In 1974 he did it in 3:13:16.

This year he weighs in at exactly the same poundage as he did in '74 — 132. When he crossed the finish line, he was six pounds lighter.

"I feel that if I do it in under three hours I'll finish in the top 500," he said, "and add John, "I go out and run five miles. If I don't it throws my whole day off."

Someday John would like to compete for Canada at the Olympic Games.

"That's still a long way off," he added, "but there's always the possibility. Besides, I'm not even sure what I want to do with my life."

For now, John plans to complete his post-secondary education at Quinte Secondary School and continue working part-time at McDonald's. Both of those establishments figure heavily in his attending the Boston Marathon. Quinte's student parliament is picking up the tab for his air-fare — there and back. McDonald's manager, Bob Seeley, has been sponsoring John in all the track meets he has attended. The restaurant picks up his living expenses while he is out of town.

"I'm better prepared for it this year," said John, "both physically and psychologically. Especially psychologically. I'm a lot more sure of myself."

At last year's meet, John wasn't even ranked. He was given the number 988 and buried in the masses. This time around he will be wearing 431, which ranks him 84 spots better than he placed last year. So somebody else must be sure of him as well.

Sari Amal a Big Winner In Club Championships

Sari Amal, a student at Albert College, figured prominently in the list of winners when the Belleville Badminton Club held its club championships, Thursday night.

Not content with the men's singles title, Amal teamed up with Judy Woodley in the A mixed doubles event to share top honors in that competition and then he and partner Rich Wooley captured top spot in men's doubles.

Larry Wilson and Bobbie Driscoll were the winners in the B mixed doubles while C honors went to Greg Hanford and Helen Phelps.

The ladies' singles crown was taken by Judy Poltz and the consolation winner was Sue Smith.

Judy Woodley and Judy Poltz combined talents to finish on top in the ladies' doubles, Runnerup was the team of Sue Smith and Kay Sneddon. Pat Ackerman and Ezo Poltz were consolation winners.

Al Sinclair and Len Cleaver were runnerup in the men's doubles and Richard came in for the consolation award in men's singles.

Casual play continues for another month at Centennial Secondary School with facilities available weeknights.

Brighton Lands BQSA Sponsor

Brighton will definitely be represented in the Bay of Quinte Soccer Association (BQSA) again this year.

Classed as a doubtful starter, earlier this week, the Brighton club got the sponsorship it required from a Trenton firm, and, says team official Aris Marcus, all systems are go.

Trenton Machine and Tool, Flim St., Trenton, is supplying the financial backing for the club.

Jerry Wolters, part owner of the company, is a member of the Brighton team. He confirmed Wednesday that his firm would sponsor the latest BQSA entry.

"Only one problem remains," said Wolters, "we have yet to decide on a name for the team but that will be settled later this week."

The Brighton entry brings the number of teams in the grouping to nine. Two Belleville-based teams, Olympics and Parsons; three from Trenton, Citizens Finance, Quinte Italo-Canadian and Quinte Hellenic; Warkworth Institution, Cobourg Tony's and Canadian Forces Base Trenton are the other league members.

Juvenile Series Goes Saturday

TRENTON — The sixth game of the Trenton Birt's Handy Stand-Oakridge Charterways provincial final series for the Ontario Minor Hockey Association Juvenile AA championship, will be played Saturday, in Ilderton.

Officials of the Birt's team were informed late Thursday that the sixth game had definitely been rescheduled for Saturday. Originally, the game was set for Friday.

A bus for spectators is planned. It will leave Trenton Community Gardens at 11 a.m., Saturday. Bus tickets are $5 each.

The Trenton team goes into the match at Ilderton with three wins, a loss and a tie in the eight-point final. Birt's needs only a tie to make it three Juvenile AA crowns in a row.

Should Oakridge force a seventh game, it will be played at Trenton Community Gardens, Sunday night at 7 p.m.

The Original Knight SOLUNAR TABLES When To Fish Or Hunt

By Mrs. Richard Alden Knight

The schedule of Solunar Periods, as printed below, has been taken from Mrs. Richard Alden Knight's Solunar Tables. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting in good cover during these times, if you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.

The Major Periods are shown in boldface type. These begin at the times shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours thereafter. The Minor Periods, shown in regular type, are of somewhat shorter duration.

Use Eastern Standard Time until April 27. Then use Daylight Saving Time.

Thorburn Continues Drive

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuter) — Cliff Thorburn of Canada defeated Graham Miles of Britain 25-4 in their second-round match Thursday at the world professional snooker championships.

A native of Victoria who lives in Toronto, Thorburn won seven of eight games in their final session to complete a rout of the second-seeded Miles.

Eddie Charlton of Australia defeated Norbert Werbeniuk of Winnipeg 9-6 although he lost 3-2 to the Canadian in the second session of their 29-game match.

Defending champion Ray Reardon of Britain reached the quarter-finals along with Perbirn and Rex Williams, another Briton. Reardon edged Australia's Warren Simpson 15-14.

NFL / Management Wants Negotiations

WASHINGTON- (AP) — The National Football League management council said the players' union Thursday that all issues must be negotiated, including the so-called Rozelle rule, if an agreement on a contract is to be reached.

Earlier this month, the players urged a $25,000 minimum salary for veterans, the seasoned player's right to refuse a trade and appointment of an arbitrator to settle disputes, all omitted a call for elimination of the Rozelle rule.

When an athlete plays out the option year of his contract, he technically is a free agent, clear of obligations to the club he belonged to and eligible to offer his services to all 28 clubs.

However, if a different club in the NFL signs the player, it is required to compensate his former employer for its retainment. Commissioner Pete Rozelle is empowered arbitrarily to stipulate compensation if two NFL clubs cannot agree.

In their proposal, the players said they were not including the compensation rule because it is being contested in court.

The owners, in their response, said the option clause, waiver system and trades along with the draft and compensation rule, all involve issues of player retention and movement.

STRAUS ELIMINATED

LONDON (CP) — Adrienne Straub of Toronto was eliminated in the third round of the women's singles competition at an international hard court tennis tournament Thursday. She lost 6-1, 6-1 to M. Tyler of Britain.

BATTLE TO DRAW

MADRID (AP) — ... and Romania tied 1-1 Thursday in a qualification match for the quarter-finals of the European soccer championships. Spain leads Group 4 with six points from four games, followed by Romania with two points from two games, and Scotland and Denmark with one point each from two games.

Expos Rally with Five in Ninth

Cubs and Braves Looking Good

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

While baseball fans were concentrating on a National League series between Los Angeles Dodgers and Cincinnati Reds, Atlanta Braves and Chicago Cubs were putting on a show of their own this week.

The Dodgers, who dropped three in a row in Cincinnati last week, completed a four- game sweep of the Reds in Los Angeles, winning 5-4 Thursday on an 11th-inning error.

That left them tied atop the West Division standings with the Braves, who won their third straight, defeating Houston 3-1 in 10 innings.

"We're playing good ball," warned Atlanta manager Clyde King. "We're going to make the Dodgers and Cincinnati take notice."

Meanwhile, the Cubs, last in the East Division a year ago and picked to repeat, ran their winning streak to six in a row following a opening-game setback, edging Philadelphia Phillies 10-9.

Elsewhere in the National League, Montreal Expos beat Pittsburgh Pirates 7-4 and New York Mets trounced St. Louis Cardinals 14-7.

In the only American League action, Texas Rangers trimmed Chicago White Sox 7-3. A game in Bloomington, Minn., between Minnesota Twins and California Angels was rained out.

Carl Morton scattered nine hits for his third consecutive blanked Houston after the first inning—and scored the winning run while Dusty Baker's two-out single in the 10th.

Jimmy Wynn raced home from second base on a two-out error by Cincinnati first baseman Dan Driessen in the 11th inning following a pair of two-out singles.

Cincinnati appeared to have won the game in the ninth, when Cesar Geronimo's leadoff homer tied the game and Pete Rose sent the Reds ahead with a run-scoring single off Mike Marshall. Dave Concepcion homered earlier for the Reds.

But the Dodgers tied it on singles by Dave Lopes, Manny Mota and Garvey.

Rick Monday's three-run homer snapped a 3-3 tie in the fifth inning and the Cubs built a 10-3 lead and held on behind the clutch relief pitching of Oscar Zamora.

For those about to get hung up on the Cubs, Monday, who doubled in five runs with his homer, a single and a sacrifice fly, also had a few words of realism.

"The difference," he said, "is that this year we've played only seven games and last year we played 162."

Larry Parrish scored the tie-breaking run in the Montreal rally on a wild relay throw by Bonnell attempting to complete an inning ending double play. Montreal then added five runs in the ninth.

Jack Heidemann's three-run double capped a tie-breaking five-run ninth inning for the Mets. Ted Simmons hit a pair of homers for the Cardinals in the game.

St. Louis' Ted Sizemore tied a major league record for second basemen by committing three errors in one inning as the Mets were hammering relievers Elias Sosa and Ray Sadecki during their winning rally.

Mike Hargrove doubled across two runs and Jim Spencer tripled home two more in a six-run fifth inning that helped Ferguson Jenkins win his first game in three starts.

Jenkins, who entered the game with a 10.38 earned-run average, allowed seven hits and one run in 7 2-3 innings.

"It feels good to finally win that first one," said Jenkins, a 25-game winner last season. "I kept the ball down and didn't make any bad pitches."

Marichal Packs It In

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Juan Marichal retired from baseball Thursday, telling manager Walt Alston: "I don't think I can help."

Marichal, 36, one of the best pitchers in the major leagues, ended his 15-season career voluntarily after two unsuccessful starts with Los Angeles Dodgers.

Marichal spent most of his career with San Francisco Giants, but was with Boston Red Sox last season before signing this spring with the National League Dodgers.

He broke into the majors with a one-hitter against Philadelphia on behalf of San Francisco in 1960. He threw a no-hitter June 15, 1963, against Houston, and added two more one-hitters. He won 20 games or more in six seasons.

Over all he had a won-lost record of 243-142 with an earned-run average of 2.87. His .633 winning percentage was topped only by Walter Johnson, Grover Cleveland Alexander, Whitey Ford and Lefty Gomez.

Going into this season, his 243 victories were second among active pitchers, Gibson with 251. Louis Carolinas leads with 268.

And his 52 shutouts were second among active pitchers only to the 58 by Gibson.

"I came here thinking I could help," said Marichal. "I worked hard to get into shape, but at my age it's a lot tougher. When I reached back, I just couldn't find what I was looking for."

He was 0-1 for the Dodgers, losing to Houston and being knocked out Wednesday night by Cincinnati although the Dodgers won the game. He gave up nine earned runs in six innings of work for a 13.5 ERA.

"I think retiring is the best thing I can do, the right decision. Don't feel sorry for me."

WATKINS TRADED

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Buffalo Bills have traded running back Larry Watkins to New York Giants for an undisclosed future draft choice, it was announced Thursday. Watkins has been in the National Football League six seasons.

WILLIAMS TRADED

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore Orioles sent catcher Earl Williams back to Atlanta Braves in exchange for minor league pitcher Jimmy Freeman and an unspecified amount of cash Thursday. Williams, 28, acquired from Atlanta following the 1972 major league baseball season, has not played this season.

How to win $100,000.00

"If I win, I'd take the family down south... to Orillia."

Good idea, Charlie. Because the new Ontario Lottery, Wintario, is going to be fun to play and fun to think about winning 100.

Particularly with a new grand prize of $100,000 every other Thursday. And lots more prizes. In the first draw alone, there will be up to Forty-Five $1,000 prizes — one hundred and twenty $1,000 prizes and hundreds of $100 prizes—up to 1,350 prizes in all!

And Charlie, the tickets cost just one dollar each. And you can get them almost anywhere: cigar stores, restaurants, newsstands, gas stations, milk stores, grocery stores.

You see this sample ticket, Charlie?

Tickets for each draw are prepared in series. For example, in the first draw there will be up to 15 series of tickets. The series number is printed on the corner of the ticket beside the date of the draw.

Your ticket number, made up of five digits, is printed in red and is located next to the series number.

Now, if your series number is the same as the series number drawn, and your ticket number is identical to the winning number, then you'll win the grand prize of $100,000.

If your series number is not the same as the series number drawn, but your ticket number is identical to the winning number, you win a big $10,000.

If only the last four digits in your ticket number are identical and in the same order as the last four digits in the winning number, you win $1,000. If only the last three digits are identical and in the same order as the last three digits in the winning number, then you will win $100.

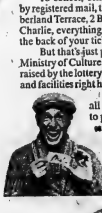
Tickets are only good, of course, for the draw printed on the ticket and are eligible to win only one prize.

And Charlie, the first draw will be live on television May 15. You'll actually see the winning number drawn. Then, if you want to check the winning number afterwards, just look in your local paper the next day.

To collect, bring in your stub, or send it, filled out, by registered mail, to: Ontario Lottery Corporation, Cumberland Terrace, 2 Bloor Street West, Toronto. Don't worry, Charlie, everything you need to know is printed right on the back of your ticket.

But that's just part of the story. Because, through the Ministry of Culture and Recreation, the millions of dollars raised by the lottery will support a whole range of activities and facilities right here in Ontario. Things we can all enjoy.

You see, Charlie, with Wintario we're all going to win. And it costs just a dollar to play.



"You mean, just a buck a throw?"

Right, Charlie.

"I'll throw."

we all win

CP News Roundup

Davis Mum About Vote

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Premier William Davis said Thursday he thought a commission to regulate the proposed Election Expenses Act could be set up in time for a spring election but said he would not comment further on whether he will call an election soon.

He was responding to a remark by Legislature Clerk Frederick Lewis that in his opinion it would take too long to set up the commission in time for a spring election.

Mast Leaning

TORONTO (CP) — Corrections will be made within 10 days to straighten the mast portion of the new CN Tower that is leaning, Mel Grant, director of design and construction, said Thursday.

Will Toughen Law

OTTAWA (CP) — Justice Minister Otto Lang said Thursday the federal government will only toughen, not soften, the law on impaired driving.

Urges Change

OTTAWA (CP)—The century-old Supreme Court of Canada could be legislated out of existence by Parliament and should be given a constitutional rather than a statutory foundation, Jean-Jacques Blais argued Thursday.

Seek Solution

OTTAWA (CP)—Indian Affairs Minister Judd Buchanan said Thursday that he and Health Minister Marc Lalonde are looking for "other short-term arrangements" to help some Northern Ontario Indians who are eating fish from mercury-contaminated waters.

Won't Grant Request

OTTAWA (CP) — The government will not accede to a Home Oil Co. request to ship unlimited amounts of oil to the United States, Energy Minister Donald Macdonald said Thursday.

Ontario Problem

OTTAWA (CP) — Any Canadian action against the discharge of asbestos into Lake Superior at Silver Bay, Minn., is up to the Ontario government, Health Minister Marc Lalonde said Thursday.

Visit Planned

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Joop Ber. Uyl of the Netherlands will visit Ottawa May 13-15, Prime Minister Trudeau's office announced Thursday.

Off to Italy

OTTAWA (CP) — Two hundred Canadians leave next week for an 11-day pilgrimage to Second World War battlefields and cemeteries in Italy.

Seek Assurances

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario will seek assurance from other provinces that they are attempting to bring egg marketing in Canada under control, Ontario Agriculture Minister William Stewart said Thursday.

Wants Seat Belts

TORONTO (CP) — Albert Roy (L—Ottawa East) introduced a private member's bill Thursday requiring mandatory wearing of seatbelts.

Must Be First Home

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's $1,500 grant to first-time home buyers won't apply to buyers who have owned a home in other provinces or countries.

In debate on the proposed legislation Thursday, Treasurer Darcy McKeough accepted a Liberal amendment to disqualify purchasers who have moved to Ontario but owned a home elsewhere.

Test Water

TORONTO (CP) — Environment Minister William Newman said Thursday his ministry will conduct further tests next month on asbestos fibres in drinking water in the part of Thunder Bay that was formerly Port Arthur.

Defends Program

TORONTO (CP) — Housing Minister Donald Irvine defended his ministry's programs Thursday in the face of recent attacks by opposition critics.

"I am proud of the record of the ministry of housing in its first fiscal year," Mr. Irvine told the legislature.

Colonel Reprimanded

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Colonel M. J. Fern Brazo received a severe reprimand and two years forfeiture of seniority Thursday after he was found guilty by a five-man court martial on one charge of refusing to obey a lawful order.

Consult Children

TORONTO (CP) — Children should be consulted on which parent gets custody of them in divorce cases although the presiding judge should decide whether the child is mature enough to do so, says Jean Cooper, director of social work service in Britain.

Wants Fees Posted

TORONTO (CP) — Patients might use doctors' services more judiciously if a fee schedule were posted in doctors' offices, Pat Reid (Lab—Rainy River) suggested Thursday.

Treat your family. Tonight.

Nobody can ever get enough of the finger lickin' good taste of Kentucky Fried Chicken. That's because of the way the Colonel taught us to cook it, his special recipe of eleven different herbs and spices. So whether you pick up Kentucky Fried Chicken by the Barrel, Bucket, Thrift Box or Snak Pak—it will be a treat no matter how often you serve it.
Colonel Sanders and his boys make it finger lickin' good.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Saturday, April 19

ARIES (March 21 - April 19) You'll be fortunate today through your social contacts. People will go out of their way to be helpful and considerate.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A bothersome situation will be resolved even better than you hoped for, because of an unexpected shift in conditions.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your day will be heightened by some favorable news. It affects others involved, too, in planning an important social event.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You'll be under some very favorable financial aspects the next few days. Be alert for ways to increase your holdings.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Larger strides than usual can now be made where your self-interests are concerned. Don't waste time. Delay is lost.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Channels blocked the past few days will now be opened. Be given what's needed in the nick of time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'll be lucky through friends today. Doors will be opened for you. Use your good fortune to advantage.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A good day to talk things over with those who call help you exercise. Much of value can result.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You have the knack today of saying and doing things to put others at ease. Impressions you make will be lasting.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A windfall will come your way today, either from the way you handle a tricky business situation or through a friend's generosity.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) You'll be called upon to help someone with a difficult personal decision. Your counsel and support will be sound—and welcome.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) You're in a brief cycle where your skills will pay larger dividends than usual. Make the most of this fleeting time.

Protein in Urine Reveals Little

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had a free urine test at the kidney mobile unit recently. They found protein in my urine. Is this serious and what does it mean?—Mrs. I. M.

Probably not very much, except that now you are armed with just enough information to make you nervous, and probably unnecessarily so.

You can't tell much from just the finding of protein in albumin in a single specimen, especially since the sample may have been contaminated by vaginal secretions which can produce the same positive protein readings. More about this below.

Infection in the urinary tract (including the kidney and bladder) which is not uncommon in women would cause a positive albumin finding, but there would be other symptoms. A microscopic examination of your urine might reveal the presence of pus cells or blood cells. Also, a blood pressure test and careful examination of your blood pressure would be important for a reliable diagnosis of a kidney disease.

As to the albumin, a very common cause of this is a condition known as orthostatic proteinuria, a fancy-sounding phrase with a simple background. In this, the first urine specimen of the day is free of albumin but specimens obtained after being up for a while contain it.

So it is essential, first of all, for you to offer as "clean" a sample as possible when having a urine test to avoid any of the natural contaminations I mentioned earlier. It would be wise that you should wash the exterior of the urinary opening before voiding.

If the mobile unit test was complete (and most are these days) you could have a check on your findings sent to your doctor.

I wouldn't become overly excited about a little albumin in your urine. It may be, incidentally, in both men and women, and doesn't have to mean a disease is present. It is often caused by minor peculiarities in the kidney's filtering system.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Could you please tell me what causes dark circles just below the eyes? Mine are dark and unsightly, especially during menstruation. How can I get rid of them?—Mrs. R. E.

The skin around the eyes is particularly thin and loose, a fact you can prove for yourself by really pinching a fold of this skin between your thumb and forefinger. Its transparency allows more of the blood pigment to show through, more so in the fair-skinned than in the dark-or thicker-skinned persons.

The problem becomes more noticeable during menstruation because at these times the body retains liquid more readily, often causing the puffiness around the eyes and exaggerating the transparent effect.

No solution beyond the cosmetics counter, I'm afraid.

Note to Mrs. E. C.—You apparently have misread what I wrote. I said gall stones cannot be removed readily by dissolving them. Research has been going on in this area. It is being done experimentally with certain bile-acids, a long process. But as yet no substance has been found to do this without unacceptable irritation to the gall bladder. Thus, if your doctor has found stones in your bladder and is recommending removal, then my advice is to have it done. Stone removal usually means removal of the entire gall bladder. You will be better off without it.

Accident Victim Is Martyr

BOMBAY (CP) — Mita Sengupta is A Martyr—Long Live Her Memory," says a banner-bearer poster on the campus of Calcutta University.

In downtown Calcutta, lamps are lit every evening in temples in memory of Mita. Several United States and Canadian businessmen and tourists attended a church service in her honor.

Seventeen-year-old Mita did not accomplish anything great to deserve all this attention. The college girl died in a road accident.

But there have been so many road accidents in India's largest metropolis, whose population is nearing eight million, that the Bengali girl has become a symbol. It was columnist put it, "of the chaotic traffic conditions in Calcutta." Mita died under the wheels of a speeding bus only a few yards from the gate of her college.

Charging the police with failing to stop reckless driving, student organizations in the city have threatened to take over the regulation of traffic.

Sudip Bannerjea, a leader of the student wing of the ruling Congress Party, has said: "If there is just one more death because of speeding, the students will halt all buses in the city."

Sivadas Mukherjee, another youth leader, said three pedestrians die in road accidents in Calcutta on an average every day. "Cars and bus drivers observe no rules. For them pedestrians just don't exist."

On College Street a student crowd stopped the driver of a bus and beat him up. He was stripped of his clothes and made to run.

Another student group set fire to a bus to protest rash driving. "Such methods may be crude," said Nilin Ghosh, a school teacher. "But they are working. Car, bus and taxi drivers are becoming more cautious. They know they will be beaten up."

When Gurcharan Singh's taxi hit an old man crossing a street in south Calcutta, he abandoned his vehicle and ran for his life, finding refuge in a police station.

"I have instructed my chauffeur not to exceed 25 miles an hour," said a British diplomat.

Vicar Saves Fuel

IRTHINGTON, England (AP) — Anglican Church services this winter in this Cumberland village (population 670) are being held in the house of the vicar, Rev. Peter Cashmen, instead of the church. He said it would cost too much to heat up the church for only three or four people at Evensong services.

South rejects free insurance

He was mighty unlucky indeed. West didn't really need an eight-card club suit for his non-vulnerable preempt and dismonds don't always break 4-4, but he had a free insurance policy at his disposal.

All he had to do at trick two was to play dummy's nine of clubs instead of the king.

East could ruff or do anything that his fancy told him, but South would have had no worries. He would be sure of 12 tricks provided he remembered to draw trumps before putting in his claim.

Some forms of declarer insurance are easy to take out. In fact there is no cost involved.

When today's hand was played, South had no interest at all in insurance. West opened the ace of clubs and continued with the queen. South played dummy's king without a moment's hesitation. East ruffed, but this didn't worry South. He overruffed, ran off a few rounds of trumps and led a diamond.

When West showed out, he did stop for some prolonged and fruitless study. There was no way left for him to collect 12 tricks.

This 1930 Packard is one of no more than half a dozen left in the world according to its, owners, The Craven Foundation. The same type of car was fashionable for well-to-do movie stars and was also the choice of Franklin D. Roosevelt. The Packard and two other vintage cars are on display at the Quinte Mall.

Minister Resists Fare Increases

OTTAWA (CP) — Transport Minister Jean Marchand said Canada's two major airlines Friday to reconsider their proposals to raise domestic air fares by between eight and 15 per cent.

Air Canada and CP Air each filed proposed new rate schedules, effective May 15, with the Canadian transport commission Friday. They call for fare increases as much as 15 per cent on certain short-haul flights.

Both airlines say they need higher domestic fares to offset increases in operating costs.

Commission officials meet Monday to decide what additional financial information to demand from the airlines to justify the rate proposals. Public hearings could be ordered.

Cruise Ship Burns at Dock

COLOGNE (AP) — A West German cruise ship carrying 186 persons, most of them handicapped, aged or ailing Dutch passengers, caught fire at its mooring early today and sank in the swollen Rhine River within sight of famed Cologne Cathedral.

One woman died after being dragged from the flaming ship, and at least 18 were missing and presumed drowned, officials said.

Twenty-four others were taken to hospital, three of them in critical condition.

Mr. Marchand said in the Commons that he considers the fare increases "exaggerated." He said the timing of the proposed increases is poor because the government is seeking a restraint for both wages and price increases.

"I am asking the airlines voluntarily to reassess the increases with a particular emphasis on those cases where the proposed new fares would represent substantial increases over the existing fares," he said. He said he is asking for some restraint from CP Rail, which Thursday filed for a 36-per-cent-rise in Montreal commuter fares.

The transport minister can overturn transport commission decisions, but there have been few interventions in the past.

Andrew Roman, counsel for the Consumers' Association of Canada (CAC), said the proposed increases appear "pretty shocking." He said the group will study the proposals before deciding whether to intervene, as they did last year.

CP Air and Air Canada had two rate increases in 1974 that brought fare schedules about 21 per cent higher. The CAC lost a bid to have those increases denied.

An Air Canada spokesman estimated the proposed higher fares would add $6 million to its 1975 revenues. It had about $500 million of sales last year. CP Air said it could not estimate what the increased revenue it would gain from the higher fares.

The heftiest increases apply to fares for short flights. Increases for longer flights are proportionately lower. The airlines say short hauls have been subsidized in the past by higher rates for longer flights, and they want to end this practice.

One-way economy fares between Ottawa and Montreal, for example, would increase $5.5 per cent to $28 from the current $18. Both airlines charge the same fare. But the Toronto to Vancouver fare would rise by only 9.8 per cent to $157 from $143.

The highest single fare increase in the proposed schedules is for one-way first-class flights from Ottawa to Montreal, which would go up $1.3 per cent to $9 from $26.

Regionally, the new Air Canada schedule shows the fare between Halifax and St. John's, Nfld., for example, would go up to $28 from $23 economy. The Victoria to Vancouver rate would rise to $74 from $46.

CP Air says that on its Western Canada economy service there would be a $5 across-the-board increase both for normal fares and for standby fares for the elderly, as well as for its family plan special rates where two or more members of a family use the same flight.

Former Canadian Leaders Beheaded

The Khmer Rouge said today that most top leaders of the fallen Cambodian government have been beheaded.

Those prerogatives told Cambodians still resisting the new regime to lay down their arms and join our side "immediately."

A "Khmer Rouge broadcast monitored in Bangkok contained the first report of continued fighting in Cambodia since the Communist-led rebels captured Phnom Penh on Thursday.

Reliable military sources in Bangkok said most of Cambodia's provincial towns and capitals were surrendering to the insurgents.

The Khmer broadcast said:

"The new traitors' commander-in-chief Lon Nol and which stubbornly chose to resist our forces has totally collapsed. Some have fled the country but most have had their heads cut off."

The reference was to the seven-man supreme committee" established prior to the fall of Phnom Penh and headed by Lt.-Gen. Sak Sutthakhan, the only high government official known to have left Cambodia.

The fate of Premier Long Boret, No. 2 man in the committee of political and military leaders, was unknown. Some reports said he had escaped to Thailand, but reliable sources said he was captured by the Khmer Rouge as he tried to flee from Phnom Penh with his family.

In South Vietnam, military sources said North Vietnamese troops led by tanks captured Phan Thiet, capital of Binh Thuan province, 100 miles northeast of Saigon, the government's last bastion on the central coast.

It was the 19th of South Vietnam's 44 provincial capitals lost to the Communists.

Saigon military sources said Phan Thiet fell after a fierce 24-hour battle. They said government authorities fled by boat.

The fall of Phan Thiet was not expected to have an immediate bearing on the fate of Saigon. But its loss added to the sense of despair in the capital and fresh gains of Communist troops for a push on Saigon.

In Washington, the Senate foreign relations committee approved $350 million for humanitarian and evacuation programs in South Vietnam. But State Secretary Henry Kissinger said if Congress doesn't grant military aid "I think the collapse would come soon."

The chances for more military aid appeared slim as the Senate armed services committee rejected all congressional bids to increase arms aid beyond the $300 million authorized but not appropriated last year.

Kissinger also dismissed suggestions that the Ford administration was delaying the evacuation of American and Saigon.

Senator Frank Church (Dem., Idaho) said the administration has refused to get all but 1,000 Americans out of Saigon within a week.

Officials in Saigon declined to give details of the evacuation, saying only that the number of Americans had been reduced to 4,000 from 6,800.

News Briefs

Plan 'Revolutionary'

PRESCOTT, Ont. (CP) — Housing Minister Donald Irvine says the province's Planning Act is undergoing major revision in which guidelines will be developed for each section of the province on an individual basis. He told the planning board here that resulting legislation will be "revolutionary."

No More Refugees

OTTAWA (CP) — There apparently are no more Vietnamese, orphans or refugees, in Saigon who are in a position to come to Canada, a spokesman for the immigration department said Friday. But two Canadian Hercules that have been on standby in Hong Kong for almost two weeks will remain there at least during the weekend, the spokesman said.

Executives Cut Pay

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors' top officers and directors in the United States took a 68 per cent pay cut in 1974, earning a total of $6.6 million, compared with a record $20.9 million as a group in 1972. The percentage cut for the 68 executives was even greater than the 60 per cent earnings decline the auto maker suffered last year. GM profits fell to $950 million from a record $2.4 billion in 1973.

Sellout Predicted

TORONTO (CP) — Marshall Pollock, director of the $100,000 Ontario lottery, is confident the first draw will be sold out. If the anticipated sellout occurs, 1,250 people stand to make $80,000, with the grand prize of $100 000, 14 prizes of $10,000, 120 of $1,000 and 1,215 of $100.

Truckers Want Change

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario dump truck owners agreed Friday to ask the provincial government to transfer licensing control of dump truck operations to the Ontario Highway Transport Board from municipal and regional bodies. A resolution approved during the second annual Dump Truck Owners Seminar also stated that current requirements duplicate mandatory provincial licensing and only serve to provide municipal revenue.

Aid Pledged

GENEVA (Reuter) — Twenty five governments and national Red Cross associations have pledged financial aid totalling more than $11 million for Indochina, it was announced Friday. The announcement came from an operations group jointly run by the International Committee of the Red Cross and the League of Red Cross Societies.

USSR Leads in Oil

MOSCOW (Reuter) — The Soviet Union, which last year became the world's leading oil producer, stepped up production seven per cent in the first quarter of this year, official figures showed Friday. In the first three months of this year production was 118 million tons while natural gas production increased by 11 per cent over the first quarter of 1974. Coal production rose by two per cent.

Trenton Gets $760,000 To Upgrade Housing

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Trenton has received conditional approval to spend $760,000 in Neighborhood Improvement Program (NIP) money to upgrade homes and town services in several still undesignated residential areas.

Approval of the expenditure was revealed by a provincial housing ministry spokesman in the community renewals branch, Friday.

The dollar figure falls short of Trenton's request of $800,000 for improvements in older and deteriorating residential areas in town.

In receiving the okay from the province, the spokesman said that Trenton is "a lot better off than some municipalities that requested $1.5-million, and got nothing."

Of a total of 21 that received money for the first time this year, only four or five got exactly what they wanted or more than they wanted, he said. In all, 45 municipalities applied for funds, 12 were rejected outright, and another 12 received money to complete work begun in 1974.

Trenton has been waiting since early February to learn the fate of its application. Delays in making a decision at Queen's Park resulted from an Ontario government cabinet shuffle and the lack of a provincial-federal agreement laying out the ground rules for NIP.

Precisely when the town will see the money is still unknown. The approval was given conditionally since the agreement between the two senior governments has still not been signed.

Lack of the official stamp of approval is not expected to present a stumbling block to Trenton's application, according to the government spokesman.

Ground rules have been informally agreed to between the provincial housing ministry and Central Mortgage and Housing Corp., the source of $15-million in NIP funds. The province contributes another $7.5-million.

"As far as we're concerned, we're satisfied with these figures," he said. The final agreement between the official governments "doesn't mean that there will be a change."

He said letters went out Friday to successful municipalities in order to give them an earlier start on planning of their upgrading programs.

Trenton will be contributing $190,000 to the NIP program with the remainder coming from the federal 50 per cent and provincial 25 per cent governments.

Once the money begins to jingle in the town purse, Trenton council must decide which one or two of five previously designated areas will receive an influx of upgrading dollars.

Program spending will be spread over four years.

Association Seeks Women Engineers

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

The 20,000-member Association of Professional Engineers of Ontario (APEO) is hunting across the province for women engineers to join its rank and file.

Speaking to Quinte area engineers at the Four Seasons Friday night, Dr. H. G. Quittenton, president of the APEO, said, "In view of 1975 being International Women's Year the association should make every effort to seek out women engineers in the province and ask for their participation in projects undertaken by professional engineers."

Dr. Quittenton, also president of St. Clair College of Applied Arts and Technology at Windsor, said there now are about 250 women registered with APEO.

"However, there are still hundreds of excellent professional women engineers out there we should reach. We think they've got a role to play in helping the public understand the role of the engineer in society," he added.

The 230 member Quinte Chapter of the APEO does not have one woman engineer. Dr. Quittenton was taking part in a panel discussion on the theme of Learning → Co-operative Community Enterprise, also the provincial theme of next week's Education Week activities.

Prisoners Take Over Cellblock

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prisoners seized control of a maximum-security cellblock at the District of Columbia jail today and were holding 14 guards hostage after an early-morning escape by two convicts, police said.

More than eight hours after the incident began, prisoners, relatives and friends summoned to the scene by the prisoners were admitted to a visitors' centre within the jail.

The prisoners had said they would not discuss terms for ending the siege until they had talked with the friends and relatives.

Each outsider was searched on the way in.

Corrections Director Delbert Jackson, who police said was in telephone contact with the prisoners all morning, also was at the jail.

Police said they were unsure of the identity of the escapees and did not know how many of the 127 prisoners in the cellblock were taking part in the siege.

However, a prisoner in the cellblock said from a window: "Everybody in here is participating."

The prisoners holding the hostages had at least one gun, authorities said.

There was an unconfirmed report that one shot was fired at a guard captain during the escape, but no one was injured, police said.

They said 10 guards and a medical technician were being held.

Connally Cleared

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former treasury secretary John Connally has been cleared of all criminal charges arising from an allegation that he accepted $10,000 in bribes.

Federal prosecutors moved Friday for dismissal of perjury and conspiracy charges after Connally's acquittal by a jury Thursday of related charges of accepting illegal gratuities.

U.S. District Judge George Hart, who had presided at Connally's trial, accepted the prosecution's call for dismissal of the remaining charges.

The charges against him arose from an allegation she Jake Jacobsen, a former lobbyist and lawyer for Associated Milk Producers Inc., that he gave Connally two $5,000 cash payments in 1971 in exchange for Connally's support for an increase in federal dairy price supports.

Heavy Rains Hit Province

Waterloo regional police began evacuating residents of two villages in the Grand River watershed area of southwestern Ontario today as heavy rains and melting snow flooded the low-lying districts with more than two feet of water.

Charles Stevens, an operations officer for the Grand River Conservation Authority, said several houses, a business establishment and a sewage treatment plant in Grand Valley, above the Shand dam, were flooded by at least two feet of water.

Mr. Stevens said residents of that village and several in West Montrose, below the river system, were told to leave their homes. He said a few houses in West Montrose were flooded.

The watershed, which includes Kitchener, Guelph, Cambridge and Brantford and which has a total drainage area of 2,614 square miles, was one of several areas hit by rainstorms early today.

Subway Crash Ruled Accident

LONDON (Reuter) — Britain's worst subway disaster, in which 42 people died, was an accident, a coroner's jury ruled Friday.

But the four-day inquest failed to resolve whether the train crashed into a blank alcove before his commuter train crashed into the end of a tunnel at London's Moorgate Station Feb. 28.

Forensic experts disagreed how the train driver died, found in the body of the driver, Leslie Newson.

There was a suggestion that it might have been formed after death by fermentation, enzyme action or bacteria.

"It is possible that these matters will be discussed at scientific meetings and in forensic circles the world over for the next 30 years," coroner David Paul said.

Barber Shop Battle May End in Court Says Owner

Bill Koipers is brushing up his opposition to Belleville's newly-amended bylaw on barbershop operations.

It's a familiar scene for Mr. Koipers. He's been contesting the city's barbershop ordinance for four years — a fight that's taken him through the courts.

So far he's been unscathed.

But now, he says, he's prepared to fight again — even if it means going to jail.

The recent Amendments to the city's bylaw passed last Monday which defines and regulates barbershop hours and operations.

The new regulations — city hall's latest move in the long-lingering issue — are as out of step as ever, says Mr. Koipers.

At the core of his contention is that barbering has changed with hair styles over the years. But the city's attitude remains static, he claims.

"Today, a barbering establishment is more than a hair removed from the traditional definition of a shop that delivered short hair cuts, he contends. All that changed when men's hair fashions went long.

But, Mr. Koipers, who has practised his craft since 1964, also noticed another change: Longer hours than those decreed by the city for customers who wanted to stay open. He took out a petition seeking such a change but failed to win over city council.

Then he went into business as a hair-stylist — a trade for which there is no bylaw or licences — and stayed open.

The dispute ended in court. Mr. Koipers won his claim as bylaw immunity since he was more than just a barber in what he calls the "classical sense." There matters rested until Monday — when council passed its amending bylaw.

It lays down specific definitions of what the city considers a barber for licensing.

Mr. Koipers claims there has been "pressure" by bylaw officials for him to become licensed. But such a move on his part would reject what he already had claimed in court, said Mr. Koipers.

"As long as there's a bylaw in the city regulating hours of barbers there's no way I'm going to put myself in conflict with what I said in court. — that I didn't have a barbershop.

Mr. Koipers said he doesn't particularly want to continue the dispute but he may end up in court proving how "ridiculous" are the new bylaw's definitions. Twice this year he's suggested settlement before city council.

What is required is a single bylaw, he insists, covering barbers and hairdressers. That way council doesn't lose face and we all get what we want."

"I really hope it can be cleared up without hard feelings," he says.

But last time he was "prepared to go to jail rather than pay a fine . . . and that still stands".

It's all a matter of principle, he says.

"I'm fighting this battle because I believe the whole democratic society . . . is being threatened by things like this. If I believe something I want to stand up for it."

SHOULD YOU PRE-ARRANGE YOUR FUNERAL?
In these changing times, attitudes about funerals are changing too!
Members of the Ontario Funeral Service Association find that many show a preference for a funeral which is simple, yet dignified and in good taste.
The thoughtful head of every family takes care to prepare a Will, carry Life Insurance, etc., with one unselfish motive in mind - to assure his family of security and freedom from worry.
Many go further and pre-arrange their own funeral leaving instructions as to their wishes.
Candidly speaking, should it not be YOUR RESPONSIBILITY to make these arrangements so this task will not be left to someone else?
The Ontario Funeral Service Association believes that this is a matter which deserves your serious consideration and suggests that you call on a funeral director and ask about pre-arrangements. Your enquiry will be in confidence and without obligation.

Foresight May Have Stopped Bridge Decay

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

We don't have to guess anymore. Now we know for sure that the half-century Dundas St. bridge is not in fine form.

Even if it's not quite at the point at which it'll tumble with a thundering crash into the river, at least it's close enough to a state of collapse to cause a mild trepidation in the hearts of stout men.

In a closed session early this week, town councillors learned that the rusty span has deteriorated to the point at which a $1,350,000 repair job is more than necessary. Can't you just see crocodile tears streaming into coffee cups?

A Toronto consultant presented a $15,000 report of a study that proves more than conclusively what councils over the years have felt in the gut: The bridge has corroded badly. It's unsafe.

Over the years the elements have dug their teeth into the steel, into concrete supports, into gears that make the bridge swing. Now the time for righting of nature's wrongs has come.

Council has acted swiftly and taken almost immediate steps to repair the bridge, and more important, to protect the public. However, I must admit that I suspect that this swift action is probably prompted by pictures of the very physical nature of possible consequences.

After all, It's much easier to picture cars plunging into the Trent River today, an exaggerated example than see the importance and consequences of a bylaw to provide a scheme for home improvement.

In any event, council's quick response is highly commendable.

As quickly as council can get approvals from Queen's Park, the town will prohibit trucks over six tons from using the rusty span. It will also embark on a $75,000 repair program to prolong the safe life of the bridge another one to three years.

The only other alternative to mending the sum is to close the bridge.

What must be particularly irksome to today's council is that it has inherited the foolishly penny-pinching ways and lack of foresight of its predecessors. Money should have been spent regularly to keep the bridge in better condition. If this had been done, today's council would not be faced with today's 'Do or Die' quandary.

Money given Trenton by the federal government to maintain the bridge should have been used for just that — maintenance. Instead, it was used to build a new bridge, necessary of course, but still not a particularly wise use of funds.

Isn't hindsight wonderful? But it's too late now, the damage is done and the damage exists. Through a lack of foresight, town taxpayers now face paying for repair costs, called only stop-gap, and can expect to pay still more.

Tourist Drive Lacks Direction

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — "Come Alive in '75" is this year's slogan for the Quinte's Isle Tourist Association but specifics for translating tourism's tired blood seem to be lacking.

Vice-president of QITA Robert Anthony says too few carry the banner and other tourist operators must be mobilized to join, pooling their time and effort.

Before QITA can sell a holiday in Prince Edward to tourists it first must sell itself to tourist operators.

Nobody ever does show much interest in joining an organization that has not "Come Alive" to promote its goals.

The tourist who visits Picton and Prince Edward expecting more than pastoral quiet and postcard scenery lucks out because much of the area's potential is undeveloped.

There is no theatre open in town. The last picture show was here about two years ago.

The shops may provide an afternoon's browsing but the boutiques with authentic county crafts are dotted willy-nilly throughout the county with few advertisements to direct tourists.

In 1967 the town and county did "Come Alive" with Loyalist Days, a summer promotional program that ejected with a parade and featured special events for several days. It was highly successful at first.

This program, organized by the Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce, was repeated in later years but eventually dropped.

The idea was and is good but variations on a theme were needed to rescue Loyalist Days with special events to entertain tourists.

If QITA expects to introduce enthusiasm into tourism a summer promotional of some sort should be considered.

Loyalist Days was dropped, the Quinte Antique Blossom Festival succumbed to indifference and the winter carnival has been frozen out.

It's time Prince Edward does "Come Alive" in sponsor at least one entertaining summer program to attract tourists and boost tourism.

The need for a shot in the arm has been recognized by the QITA but other community groups should offer their support in aiming toward a promotion with common benefits.

With the help of the chamber of commerce, service groups and other organizations surely a summer promotional for the town and county could be realized.

In "growing up for company" it is likely Prince Edward would discover a year-around pride among local residents to afford that "come alive" push.

Kindergarten Kids

Flinda Hord, 3, of RR 1 Foxboro, brought a month-old kid to Stirling Primary School on Thursday for her classmates to enjoy. The occasion was related to a spring theme during which teachers Barbara Holroft and Linda Moorcroft talked about animals born in spring. To date the young people have enjoyed a duck, a rabbit, and this kid. On the list to come is a lamb and possibly a calf.

Keep Evergreens Away From Your Foundation

By ROSS HAWTHORNE

In the whole world of gardening no plant family is overlooked more than the evergreen, overlooked both in terms of care and exploitation.

Perhaps it's the name — "evergreen" — that's the problem a name that implies shades of immortality, of living forever, with few requirements in terms of tender loving care. Perhaps it's their inherent hardiness, their will to survive in spite of continual neglect. But whatever the reason, the evergreen is deserving of something more than a forgotten foundation planting in the front of the house.

Which provides a prime example of their adaptability. Because if there is one wrong place to plant evergreens, it's near the house foundations — for two reasons.

First, they love acid soil, a condition that is in keeping with a damp soil high in humus. Which is what your foundation soil isn't. Secondly, evergreens never go fully dormant as do their deciduous cousins. But rather, keep the factory operating all winter, although at a greatly reduced pace. And so they need a continual supply of moisture and no soil is dryer in winter than the soil around your foundation.

Your foundation, at least the block and concrete in your foundation is alkaline and leaches alkali into your soil. And if your home is new, there's a good chance there are bits of block, concrete and plaster scattered underground; all alkaline and all deadly in terms of evergreens.

And all winter long, a certain amount of basement heat escapes through the underground walls and renders the soil the consistency of the Sahara.

And into those totally adverse conditions you introduce your evergreen — and they survive. So imagine how they would prosper if you reversed those conditions.

If your evergreen planting is established, there are specific corrective steps you can take. If your foundation planting is still in the planning stage, then there is a great deal you can do to provide prime evergreen growing conditions.

An established evergreen bed should receive a liberal mulch of peat moss, dug in as deeply as possible without drastic disturbance of the root structures. And be fed with an acid-type evergreen fertilizer on a regular basis. And watered heavily, especially in the late fall months. And provided with a moisture resource in the winter months, which you can accomplish by shovelling your lawn, by tackling the drifts with a shovel and piling the snow around your evergreens.

Of course, if you really want to exploit evergreens to their fullest, don't confine them to the foundations. Get them out where they can be viewed from your windows all year 'round. And don't stick to the standard junipers and cedars. Take a good look at such unusual specimens as the Weeping Nootka False Cypress. It looks ridiculous when it's young, but when it matures it's great pendulous branches are a sight to behold. And whatever you do, don't overlook the Sky Rocket Juniper that soars to a 12-foot rapier-like cone. Or the feathery Blue Heron Juniper whose light blue foliage is truly striking against the snow.

Schedule Fertilizer

With the higher costs of fertilizers, farmers cannot afford to misuse this valuable resource of livestock manure.

"Manure has to be considered one of the most useful by-products of agriculture," stated soils specialist professor T.H. Lane of the department of land resource science, Ontario Agricultural College "If a farm is operated under a grass forage program, it's an ideal situation in which to utilize manure."

FUNERAL QUESTIONS

JOHN R. BUSH

WE ARE OFTEN ASKED

R. DOUGLAS BUSHNELL

QUESTION:
HOW DO I COLLECT INSURANCE?

ANSWER:
Your Funeral Director, who in the very nature of his calling is in constant contact with local insurance agents, can help you tremendously in securing the death benefits from insurance policies. He knows exactly what to do and how to do it, he knows what documents must be provided in support of the claim and how to fill in these forms. You can present these claims yourself if you desire or you can simply give the names of the various insurance companies to your funeral Director, he will call these companies, give them the necessary information, provide them with proof of death, and in many ways relieve you of burdensome and time consuming details.

PRESENTED AS ANOTHER SERVICE TO THE PUBLIC

New York: 'Massive Urban and Human Decay' Behind Menace to Life and Limb

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

NEW YORK — "It's a form of guerrilla warfare, not organized as such, but individual acts of terrorism against other individuals. I say this because attackers are no longer content to mug citizens, they also brutalize them."

"If it were organized as in Argentina, we would know what we are up against."

This terrifying assessment was made to me here at supper by an old friend who lives in New Jersey, but who up to now has always kept his cool about the decay of this great city.

"One in four guests in the Waldorf Astoria now can expect to be robbed in their hotel rooms," he continued. "And a few weeks ago, visitors from Virginia phoned the manager of their hotel (The Berkeley) in the still-fashionable East district and asked him what he was doing to do about the theft of jewellery and furs from their room."

According to my friend, the manager's response was angry at being called in the early morning, and a reference to the even more chilling Waldorf statistic.

About four in the morning the police arrived, understandably impotent to do much about it. They didn't know any more than the hotel management claimed to know about who did the break-in, hotel staff, outside gangs, or was it an individual act of theft.

Where do thieves, muggers and would-be killers come from? The dark, abandoned ghettos of New York, mainly which the attackers learn the "art" by first victimizing each other, my friend said.

In the ghettos of New York, danger to life and limb is pervasive that municipal water, hydro and garbage inspectors penetrate it at their peril.

Cold water flats, unheated unsold apartment blocks and unattended garbage are the outward signs of massive urban and human decay. Empty lots in some New York ghettos are piled eight to 10 feet high with garbage.

From these slums, reminiscent now of those in India, Latin America and the Middle East, emerge the lonely angry disenfranchised of New York city.

The rot has penetrated into New York suburbia where previous break-in and mugging suspects were usually disenfranchised Americans of another kind. These were the children of the well-to-do and frustrated white families and children drift in a world where the jungle is the upper level one of concern with careers, corporation ambitions, keeping-up-with-the-Joneses.

Their kids were amateurs compared to the tough and brutal housebreakers and killers now rampant.

What's more, my urbane and now worried New Yorker friend told me, is that this phenomenon of such intensity has appeared so far only in American society.

All large urban communities with their many levels of human alienation have thieves, killers and muggers, but none on the scale or with the fierce individual intent of New York and Washington, he said.

In the centre of one of these ghettoes, called Spanish Harlem, site Columbia University, still full of prestige where coeds and female academic and administrative staff go to and from work in car pools and nightly stayhind after dark to work.

Last November driving in the safety of a taxi to Columbia for an evening event there, I saw a fat and angry woman systematically smashing a car to pieces with a huge sledge hammer.

Others on the street only stared at him as they probably would have done if he had attacked a human instead of a car.

Southeast Asia's Agony

Whether the children brought to North America from Vietnam are genuine orphans or the offspring of officials who were able to buy their passage is irrelevant. They are all part of a major human tragedy whose long-term consequences are only beginning.

When it is pointed out that many of the children could be suffering from both physical and emotional problems and face the ongoing difficulties of "culture shock," it is to state the obvious.

Those who are looking after the children for the present, or have absorbed them into their homes already are to be commended, but it is as well that they recognize the children's own immediate needs while making plans for the necessarily longer-term upbringing which they have undertaken.

Consider for instance their right to privacy, all the more compelling given the near hysteria that has attended their arrival. Susan Brown of The Peterborough Examiner expressed this with considerable insight in a report of the arrival scene at Toronto.

"Is it exhaustion or do they always sit so patiently, so passively, suffering through the coos, and oohs, and ahs, in a language they don't understand. Do the hands which continually caress them give them comfort or simply emphasize that they are different? One older girl's lips twitched in annoyance and she turned her cheek to avoid having her cheek stroked again and again by a solicitous volunteer."

Here are these beautiful youngsters, catapulted from a terrorized homeland, now dependent on a new but also dependency. Clearly, they are in need too of some ethnically-familiar anchor to which they may cling while retaining their own identity and dignity.

Children such as the open-mouthed tot on crutches at Vancouver airport, and the older, more sophisticated kids like the one described by Susan Brown.

More than most Canadians these youngsters one day will be saying to themselves, "who am I, what was my past, and where am I going?"

Local Interest

There is local interest in the saga of the Vietnamese children. Jean McMaster writes from Hattiesburg, Miss., where her husband is on a year's sabbatical.

Jean McMaster notes that many people in the Quinte area helped with a "Families for Children" airlift to Vietnam several years ago, and again last fall helped Mr. and Mrs. Norman Rickaby of Belleville with a similar program.

The supplies went to Rosemary Taylor, a young Australian who cared for about 100 children under six years in orphanages in Saigon. Her letter expressed concern that Miss Taylor might have been on the ill-fated U.S. aircraft which crashed with so many orphans and their workers aboard, but we have since received word from Mr. Rickaby, of the Sir James Whitney school here, that she was not involved and is still caring for orphans in the South Vietnamese capital.

City and Animal Care

Humane Society manager Tom Hughes does not impress Ald. Stu Meeks. He says he has "absolutely no faith in him" and charges he is "fuelling this city up the garden path."

These are strong words and Ald. Meeks should think about whether he has facts to back them up.

Council also should get down to deciding what it is going to do about animal care. According to Mr Hughes, the Quinte branch of the Humane Society is paying less per capita than many other centres; yet it has a fine facility in the Animal Shelter on Avonlough Road and one way or another the community must discharge its responsibilities in looking after animals.

It is clear both from observation and talking with people this animals are pretty low on he totem pole of values in Canadian society. This is too bad; nevertheless there should be a community response toward providing, as Mr. Hughes has suggested, such basics as food, shelter and exercise.

If Belleville or the Quinte area can go it alone — and Mr. Hughes, while expressing his doubts, has said in effect, "more power to it if it can" — and provide an adequate service it should say so. Obviously it has doubts too, otherwise it would not be maintaining the Humane Society link until the end of the year. Well before that period is due to expire it will need to have arrived at a decision in this matter.

T-shirt Phenomenon

What with the immediacy of today's communications and the flood of media information it is not surprising we have the sort of world Alvin Toffler describes in "Future Shock."

There are some in this world though — many of them "laboring" under media-assisted notoriety — who are proof of the "it's a great world-if-you-don't-weaken" syndrome.

All those Watergate "plumbers" and subsequent cast for instance, apparently doing quite nicely on the lecture circuit — even if they are out of legitimate jobs and have to pay legal expenses.

Canadian folk heroes too, such as Captain Brian Erb who was pictured recently flogging T-shirts in Quebec City to raise funds to help pay court costs relating to ownership of the cargo vessel Answer.

Next thing we may see the appearance of T-shirts showing Hamilton harbor.

Government Muscles Into Consumer

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Consumerism was once a healthy, vigorous movement, helping to counterbalance the excessive power of business.

Now, it's showing more and more signs of being bureaucratized. If it turns into just another program to spend tax money and create more public jobs, watch out for the backlash from frustrated consumers.

In Sweden, a once-active consumer movement has all but vanished because of government support.

Here in Canada, the federal department of consumer and corporate affairs has made significant grants to the Canadian Association of Consumers, described by deputy consumer affairs minister Fred Gorbet, as "an organization to educate the consumer and express his interest on various issues. I should say her interest."

To its credit, the CAC had undertaken worth-while initiatives, as for example its perceptive arguments against telephone-rate increases before regulatory authorities.

But the government's own record on consumerism suffers in comparison with many of the businesses that consumer advocates so roundly criticize.

During the past year, the Trudeau government has introduced legislation ostensibly designed to ensure greater competition, but actually giving arbitrary and vastly delayed powers to a new, oppositive regulatory commission.

Anti profiteering legislation was also introduced, apparently designed not so much for the laudable purpose of protecting the consumer from profiteering as for establishing mindless limitations on corporate earnings.

There is, after all, a difference between profiteering and making profits. Profits are necessary for business survival, and may have to be higher in some years to offset losses in other years.

Profiteering, it should be noted, is not limited to the private sector. Plenty of examples of it could be found in the dealings that the government itself has with the public—such as the sky-high parking fees of many of Canada's federally-owned airports, or the government's failure to provide a reliable postal-delivery service despite big increases in mailing rates.

Even major industries, burdened with bureaucracies of their own, have nevertheless found it possible to act up an effective listening post for the benefit of consumers. Canada's life-insurance industry is just one example.

The federal government could and should do the same. Today's consumer is asking for a better deal—at the hands of governments as well as of business.

Governments, after all, spend $2 for every $1 worth of goods and services produced by Canadians. The public that provides that money has the right to expect governments to meet the same standards it demands of business.

Public regulatory agencies seem to gravitate toward extremes—either being too protective of the interests of regulated industries, or too zealous in tracking down technical irregularities.

What's the answer? Just a fair deal for all concerned—the consumer, the party that he or she is dealing with, whether it be business or government.

Favorable comments about the 1954 folder are still being received by the Chamber secretary — it from members of Parliament.

From Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, President of the United States, came a personal note to 11-year old Phyllis Babcock of this city, today, complimenting her on her fortitude during her recent weeks in the Belleville General Hospital, where she had been confined prior to an expected operation to relieve a persistent inverted stomach or normal. Surgery was not necessary, however, and Phyllis is now at other forms of treatment. Miss Babcock's condition, considered rare in medical annals, has attracted international attention.

Mayor Mikel intends to send a resolution of welcome to Belleville to Chicago to deliver invitations to the Mayor, Council and Board of Control and citizens of each municipality between there two points for the great Peace Celebration which will be held in Belleville the first week in August to commemorate the 110 years of peace which have existed between the United States and Canada. The distance between the two cities is 600 miles and it will probably take 35 to 40 days to negotiate. It is expected that there will be 100,000 people present for the celebration.

Star Treatment in U.K. Press For PC's Flora MacDonald

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — "She has picked hops from down in Kent, baled hay until dusk in the Cotswolds and pulled potatoes on warm Wiltshire afternoons."

"But this morning the only harvest that rates Flora MacDonald is ready to reap is the Canadian Conservative Party leadership.

Described as Liberal Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau knows ... the former British farm girl flora is keeping a thrust a pitchfork in his political career."

Who is saying all this and more?

The London DAILY EXPRESS.

THE EXPRESS, along with the London TIMES, the Manchester GUARDIAN, THE DAILY TELEGRAPH, THE OBSERVER, and the British Press Association, at the invitation of External Affairs, all sent resourceful representatives on a short familiarization tour of Canada taking in Ottawa, Toronto, Montreal and Halifax.

While here, some of them used the time in between receptions, luncheons and briefings at the resort back to their Fleet Street offices on whichever sector of the Canadian scene caught their eye.

THE DAILY EXPRESS, Britain's biggest-by-far standard-sized — as opposed to tabloid — newspaper spotted fair Flora.

And on its editorial page it bannered her under the headline:

A NEW LEADING LADY
IN POLITICS: EX-HIPPY FLORA

So how come THE DAILY EXPRESS is so interested in Ms. MacDonald?

Because, as the big London daily told its millions of Brit readers:

"She is now heavily tipped to do a Margaret Thatcher as Conservative leader. Mrs. Thatcher's Stanfield — like Edward Heath, a three-time loser — prepares to stand down.

"At 48, Flora MacDonald is the Tories' most glamorous MP. Mrs. Thatcher . . . and the image is identical . . . smooth fashion voice, sharp, firm jaw and a dress sense which is both stylish and wholesome."

But what makes THE EXPRESS view of Flora all the more interesting for Canadians — as a candidate for the Tory leadership — are some of the new and colorful touches it gives Ms. MacDonald's background.

At 22, it recounts THE EXPRESS, she packed her only suitcase, left the backwater of Grand Bretan, bought a one-way ticket to England and arrived in London with just 40 pounds Sterling.

"I was the original hippy," she is quoted as saying.

"Luxury was a bed in a youth hostel at two bob a night.

"At other times it was a bench in Victoria Station, sleeping — or the horrack-like conditions of farms over ready to pick up cheap summer labor."

It was all hard work, she told THE EXPRESS, but she believes in work, "destroy the work ethic and you destroy the person, for when people feel they are not contributing to society they begin to have self-doubts."

So she worked her way "from the farm yard to London's West End . . . and a job organizing social events for Selfridges' staff — arranging cricket and soccer matches, game facilities in the canteen and making sure there was enough booze for the after the match."

But already she was hooked on politics, told THE EXPRESS that "whenever I had the chance I'd be in the public gallery at the House of Commons listening to the debates. I loved the political scene."

Then 21 years ago, in 1954 she farms back to Canada, recalls THE EXPRESS, "first to work on a Conservative election campaign and then to become manager of the National Headquarters in Ottawa."

Now comes the punt that may raise few eyebrows among those readers of Bidney reading THE EXPRESS, but just possibly could get Flora in the end at the Conservative convention, auditioning she that is still plenty to be party leadership.

"When, 10 years later," it reads, "she was fired by Conservative leader John Diefenbaker, she showed she had teeth as well as toughness.

"She tried to get rid of Diefenbaker's political weaknesses.

"Within a year the tables had turned.

"He was out — she was back at the top of the party machine.

"No one has ever underrated Flora MacDonald or her political judgement since then."

Nobody, she predicted, to tell THE EXPRESS, except perhaps Prof and Mrs. still considerably following in the House of Commons and the army of faithful all across the land.

Wealth of the Monarchy

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

In order to clarify a point of history I would like to draw attention to several facts surrounding the wealth of the Monarchy.

The Crown at one time enjoyed the revenues from large estates which can be traced back to Edward the Confessor. The estates have been added to from time to time in the past years by purchases of land, until they now have an annual revenue in the region of two million pounds. The Queen does not, however, receive this revenue because in 1761 George III handed it over to be exchequer to be paid to him an annual payment modo by Parliament, which which all his successors have continued. This is known as the Civil List. It is less by less than the actual revenue given up by the Crown. This method of paying for the Crown is part of the idea of constitutional monarchy — the system of government under which we choose to live in Canada. As long as Parliament has the power of the purse, it cannot exercise a control over the Sovereign.

Pat Tyrrell in "A Question of Semantics" has been referred to as someone who "can improve his or her education even further by discovering that Britain and Britisher mean the same thing."

Anyone conversant with Fowler's "Modern English Usage" knows that "Britisher" was an American term that had currency in the U.S. in the late 19th and 19th century, but is practically never heard today. Miss Tyrrell knows that. I was fortunate to be one of her history teachers a few years ago.

Far from demonstrating her ignorance, she has proved her education, Miss Tyrrell is one of our thoughtful "new" revenue because in 1761 George III handed it over to be exchequer to be paid to him an annual payment modo by Parliament, which which all his successors have continued. This is known as the Civil List. It is less by less than the actual revenue given up by the Crown. This method of paying for the Crown is part of the idea of constitutional monarchy — the system of government under which we choose to live in Canada. As long as Parliament has the power of the purse, it cannot exercise a control over the Sovereign.

Education Without Religion Called Stupid and Wicked

By
Dr. Gordon C. Smyth

What should be the relation between a nation and God? It might seem that religion is so personal a matter that one cannot think of any kinship. But segregate religion and you have a character and characteristics. The individuals within them contribute largely to this.

I remember a time when I thought that all-patriotism was bigotic nationalism. I had to live a while and learn that if we cannot deal effectively with individuals, families and the national community to which we primarily belong, how can we expect to deal effectively with the whole human race?

When it comes to our own nation, the stamp of God's hand is clearly upon us. For example, in 1534 Jacques Cartier planted a wooden cross at Gaspe, claiming the land for France and for Christ.

Moreover, during the Confederation debates in the Province of Canada (1865), Hon. George Brown said that the goal was to establish a system of government which will endeavor to maintain liberty and justice, and Christianity throughout the land.

It is a fact of history that freedom will not last long if sustained except in an atmosphere where man knows his affinity and his accountability to God. His connection gives him dignity; his accountability gives him conscience. What, then, is the need?

First, Canadians should repent. The way children are being educated without knowing the deep wells of religious conviction from which their forefathers drank is as stupid as it is wicked.

Second, let Canadians return to their houses of worship. It takes courage to go where you may not have been for years. It takes sensitivity to realize that what you privately believe, or are searching for, has a counterpart in some public expression. I know the human faults of churchmen. I also know the divine power that still operates through the Church to human souls.

Third, it is high time for Canadians to act responsibly and unselfishly. We spend more on our pets than we contribute to feeding a hungry world. We are so busy forming unions to protect our own vocational interests that, should a desperate public decide to do likewise, we may well find ourselves in a Fascist state.

Jacques Maritain, the noted philosopher, has written, "Willingly or unwillingly, states will be shaped either by the totalitarian spirit or by the Christian spirit." Let Canadians ponder the truth of the Psalmist's words, "Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord" (Psalm 33:12).

Monastery Life Good For Tense

BOMBAY (CP) — When Patricia Shields, a young Canadian woman, arrived in India about two years ago, she was depressed and high-strung.

Mrs. Shields had consulted psychiatrists in Vancouver, Toronto, New York and other cities. But there was no improvement.

Then a friend suggested to the former school teacher to spend some time at a Himalayan monastery.

Mrs. Shields spent a year at Rishikesh, in the foothills of the Himalayan mountains. She lived in three Hindu monasteries. Her longest stay was at the monastery of Swami Prabhu Das where she lived for seven months.

"I'm now fully recovered," said Mrs. Shields before leaving for Paris, where she has a brother. "There is not the slightest trace of tension."

Seventy-year-old Das has no set formula for depression, hypertension and other psychological conditions. Mrs. Shields said patients are told to meditate and to relax.

Some are told to go for long morning and evening walks in the mountain air, do "social service in hamlets or fast sit on the banks of the Ganges River and drink in the beauty of the scenery."

'Sew-sew Inspiration!'

Fran Harvey-Smith made this elegant gown.

Thursday evening in Trenton, the dining room of the Officers' Mess echoed with "oohs" and "aahs".

The reason? The women attending the Officers' Wives Club "Sew-Sew" Fashion Show were expressing their admiration for the clothes being modelled, and their astonishment at the low cost of each item.

The show featured "homemade" clothes exclusively. Beautifully tailored suits with handbound buttonholes, evening gowns with embroidered sleeves, culottes and bathing suits were among the stylish outfits modelled by the women who had sewn them.

The purpose of the evening, besides being a social evening for the members of the club and their guests, was to encourage non-sewers to try their hand at making clothes.

For each outfit, commentator Jane McNichol gave the pattern number, the amount of fabric and where it was purchased, and the total expenditure — always considerably less than a similar ready-made outfit would cost.

Cindy Davis played piano music to accompany the women as they modelled their clothes. Convenors for the fashion show were Nancy Bourgeois and June Brace, assisted by the entertainment convener for the year, Shirley Wiseman.

Lena Dearborn, Secretary

Lena Dearborn considers her work a profession — not just a job. That's one of the reasons she was a founding member of the National Secretaries' Association Bay of Quinte Chapter.

"There's a difference between a clerk-typist and a secretary," Mrs. Dearborn says. She adds that her organization, begun here in 1968, is sponsoring Secretaries' Week next week.

"The NSA helps build up the confidence of the women in it and it promotes the secretarial profession," she says.

She's chairman of the national educational committee.

Mrs. Dearborn is the secretary to the executive director of Belleville General Hospital, Philip Rickard, a position she has held for nearly eight years.

As his secretary, she says she takes care of the "usual" correspondence as well as taking minutes at Board of Directors' meetings and arranging special events. Mrs. Dearborn also helps in the preparation of reports and "answers the telephone 100 times a day."

As an integral part of the department that "takes compliments and complaints", this secretary says her work is never humdrum.

"There's a lot of variety," Mrs. Dearborn adds that she thinks women should be encouraged to take positions in public life.

"I think if more women would get involved, they could present the women's side of things."

Joanne Moffatt models her chic pantsuit.

Mr. and Mrs. Kevin Schwager

Schwager—Morgan

The March wedding of Barbara Irene Morgan and Kevin Wayne Schwager was conducted by Rev. Fred Gosse in St. John's Anglican Church in Stirling.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Morgan of RR 3, Stirling, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Schwager of RR 2, Shannonville.

During the ceremony the bride's sister Peggy Lou Morgan sang a solo.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a princess-style gown featuring a wedding band collar trimmed with lace and a lace panel down the front of the skirt. A crown of lace and seed pearls held her four-tiered veil, and she carried a nosegay of red carnations, white mums and fern.

Maid of honor Barb Paramuk wore a salmon pink gown with a stand-up collar and puffed sleeves.

Bridesmaid Gail Schwager, the groom's sister, and junior bridesmaid Denise Morgan, the bride's sister, wore floral green gowns in the same style as the maid of honor's. All attendants carried a single feathered mum tied with a rainbow ribbon.

The groomsman was Roderick Akey of Shannonville and the ushers were Gilbert Morgan, brother of the bride and Stephen Schwager, brother of the groom.

The reception following the wedding was held in St. John's Parish Hall, after which the newly-wed couple left for a honeymoon in Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Schwager now live at 219 Coleman Street in Belleville.

Where Should I Buy?

Norma Bland, P.R.I.

The answers are as varied as the people's needs, and only YOU can know what is best for you.

What are your hobbies? What is your family formation? There are many questions to answer.

Experience tells a Realtor that the young family can live anywhere but when your children are from 10 to 16, it is better for all concerned if you are near Public Transportation. Independent children have to be able to get to the "Y", the library swimming on their own. Perhaps some parents like to run a taxi service, but they usually end up feeling like martyrs.

Consult your family, your friends and then get advice from a Realtor.

Egg Substitutes, No-Knead Bread

The Ontario Egg Marketing Board, understandably, is unhappy about a new product being marketed in Canada called Egg Beaters. It's considered an egg substitute and is being boosted, the Egg Board says, on the premise that cholesterol is an undesirable element in the diet.

The Egg Board is concerned about the hazards of cholesterol in the diet of a normally healthy person. Apart from that unresolved debate, however, it points out some facts about the egg substitute.

First, it compares unfavorably with egg in terms of price. One pound of the substitute costs about $1; the same amount of eggs costs 60 cents.

According to the marketing board, whole egg is an excellent source of balanced protein and vitamin A, phosphorus, all the B vitamins and a variety of other nutrients. The egg substitute lists these ingredients: egg white, corn oil, skim milk powder and 16 additives "none of which are vitamins and minerals."

If you're a low-profile non-smoker here's some information courtesy the Consumers' Association of Canada which may make you object next time somebody lights up in your breathing space.

According to a fact-filled article in Canadian Consumer, the excellent magazine published by the organization, non-smokers need to speak up for their rights to protect their health.

For example, in smoky rooms, non-smokers inhale as much pollutant in a day as if they had smoked from five to 15 cigarettes.

Cigarettes produce six times as much sidestream smoke as mainstream smoke and it contains baddies like cadmium, which may cause emphasyma; tar and nicotine; monoxyrene, which may cause cancer; carbon monoxide and ammonia.

A study at the University of Tennessee, the article says, showed that non-smokers may inhale enough nicotine from being near a burning cigarette.

Here's the kicker — one cigarette, smoked in a typical ventilated office, with the air exchanged every eight minutes, raised the tar count in the air to 36 times the level considered safe.

Organic Gardening Magazine, bless its public-ation, in February featured a recipe from Fitness House. The Fitness House is what's mean bread is justifiably famous if only because it needs no kneading.

I tried it and liked it.

No-Knead Bread

four tsp. yeast
two-third cup lukewarm water
one tbs. honey five cups whole wheat flour three tbsp. molasses
two-third cup lukewarm water
one-third cup wheat germ
one-third cups lukewarm water ½ tbsp. butter
one tbsp. sesame seeds
Sprinkle yeast over lukewarm water. Add two tsp. honey. Leave to work while preparing the dough. Warm whole wheat flour by placing it in a 250 degree oven for about 20 minutes. Combine molasses with two-third lukewarm water. Combine yeast mixture with molasses mixture. Stir this into the warmed flour, then add the salt and wheat germ and finally the 1 and one-third cups lukewarm water. The dough will be sticky. Butter loaf pan, taking care to grease the corners of necessary. Smooth the dough into the pan. No kneading is necessary. Smooth the dough in in the pan with spatula which has been held under cold water to prevent sticking. Sprinkle sesame seeds over top of loaf. Leave to rise to top of pan in warm, draft, — free place. Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Bake in preheated oven for 30 to 40 minutes or until crust is brown and sides are firm and crusty. Set pan on rack to cool for 10 minutes. Remove from loaf pan and cool completely on rack before slicing. This method produces a loaf of bread in less than two hours.

Ann Landers

Did He Smoke?

Dear Ann Landers: We are asking you to settle this dispute. The other party says he will accept your verdict.

My friend and I had a small wager going. I bet him he couldn't quit smoking cigarettes. Being a smoker myself, I knew how difficult it would be to quit cold turkey. I agreed to let him smoke a pipe.

One day, after two months of no cigarettes, he ran out of pipe tobacco. He unrolled a cigarette and put the tobacco in his pipe and smoked it.

I contend that by so doing he lost the wager because he did smoke a cigaret—even though it was in his pipe.

The encyclopedia says there is a difference between the curing of cigaret tobacco and pipe tobacco, but your word will hold more water, than the book. How about it? Did he lose the bet or not?—Burned

Dear B: In my opinion he did not smoke a cigarette. He smoked a pipe filled with cigarette tobacco. If, for example, he had taken pipe tobacco and rolled it in cigarette paper, I would then say he had smoked a cigarette. Sorry if I let you down, but I call 'em as I see 'em. (Did I hear somebody yell, "Kill the Ump"?)

Dear Ann Landers: Here I am with a problem that's been driving me crazy for years. I am finally getting one down on paper.

I am a wife, 26 years old, who is deeply troubled about the place of fidelity in marriage. A few months ago I discovered that my husband was unfaithful. Not a week goes by that I don't hear about another couple in our circle who is cheating. It's him, her or both. Almost every time my husband and I go out for an evening we run into a man we know who is not with his wife or a woman who is not with her husband.

What is unfortunately, existed occurred in our new marriage, my husband has told me he is very sorry for the hurt he caused but he let me know he doesn't feel he committed such a terrible offence. I am very confused.

I want to be fair and open-minded, yet I cannot accept this new-style design for living. Will you please tell me if, in the year 1975, faithfulness to one's spouse is out of date? Whatever your answer, I do not intend to leave my husband. I love him very much. We have had a happy years together and I want many more. My faith has been badly shaken. How wrong is it if most couples do it? Please help me sort things out.—Uncertain.

Dear Uncertain: Infidelity is as old as man and woman, but there is unquestionably more cheating in 1975 than there was 30 years ago. Opportunities and mode of travel, women in the business world, an increase in sexual stimulation excited by movies, TV and advertising are but a few of the reasons.

Nevertheless I do not believe everyone does it. Nor do I believe that if everyone did it it would then be "all right." Hang in there with your old-fashioned beliefs. Your marriage is bound to be stronger for it.

CONFIDENTIAL to Why Study In School?: Lord Chesterfield provided an excellent answer. He said, "Knowledge is a comfortable and commodious retreat and shelter in advanced age. If you don't plant it while you're young, it will give us no shade when we grow old."

IODE Backs the Monarchy, Fights Against Venereal Disease

HAMILTON (CP) — "We must speak out in favor of the monarchy every chance we get and back up our arguments with facts," Mrs. Morley Kragan told members of the provincial chapter of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire (IODE) at their 50th annual meeting Wednesday.

Mrs. Keegan, of Oakville, Ont., the IODE's Ontario representative on the national Crvenf and Canada committee, said that "the Queen of Canada must continue in accepting the central position in the Canadian government."

"I believe an overwhelming number of the people in this country favor maintaining the monarchy," she said. "But they must speak up, otherwise it could quietly slip away."

Meanwhile, Mrs. B. Christmas of Blenheim, Ont., said the campaign begun by the chapter two years ago to combat venereal disease is continuing as the need for education and treatment increases. She said 43,000 cases of venereal disease were reported in Canada last year.

Mrs. L. J. Currie of London, Ont., reported that the chapter's genetic counselling project in the 75th anniversary of the IODE in Canada will get under way this year.

Known as the Concern-for-Children project, it aims to establish a mobile genetic counselling service in an Ontario community, similar to services existing in British Columbia and the United States.

"We're proceeding slowly, but we're getting support from the medical profession and the public," said Mrs. Currie.

The delegates were served by Whisper Billy Walker, director of the Ontario Society for Crippled Children, in fight for the rights of the handicapped—including revision of building codes and updating of transportation facilities.

The former professional wrestler, whore ring career was ended by injuries suffered in a car accident, also asked IODE members to accept the handicapped as "full people."

"We discriminate against the handicapped. If we see someone who is blind, retarded or physically handicapped, we back away.

"They need our understanding. We've got to give of ourselves."

Members were told that the third phase of the IODE's work with the residents of Attawapiskat in Northern Ontario will start in June or July.

It calls for the construction of a centre, costing $4,228 plus electricity, water and foundation fees, to help residents of the Indian community to become more self-supporting.

The IODE previously built a community hall and established a home economics program for women in Attawapiskat on James Bay.

Designer Loves the Rain

MONTREAL (CP) — Marielle Fleury loves the rain.

She designs rainwear for Rainmaster of Montreal and weatherized coats and suits have become the mainstay of many wardrobes. Consequently she emphasis flas shifted from utility to fashion garments and the shift is mirrored in her working life.

When Mrs. Fleury joined Rainmaster in 1969 she worked only three days a week at home designing a comparatively small collection. Now she works all week at the plant designing a comprehensive line.

Montreal-born and bilingual, she always wanted to be a designer.

After a four-year fine arts course at l'Ecole des Beaux Art and two years at l'Ecole des Metiers Commerciaux, she worked for six months in a salon, doing everything from selling to designing.

With this experience behind her, she opened her own salon in 1955, specializing in hand-woven clothes.

By this time, a few farsighted Canadian manufacturers were hiring Chrcian designers. One of the top Montreal firms approached Mrs. Fleury and she produced four small collections, giving up her salon. Next came her connection with Rainmaster and a specialized field.

With her actor husband and son Richard, 13, and Marc, 11, she lives in a house in Boucherville, Que., 20 minutes' drive from the factory.

The floral designs painted on her antique armoires reflect Mrs. Fleury's instant success in 1973 with bird, flower, butterflies, vegetables and "le super frog" in her early Rainmaker collections.

Today her designs are more traditional, with less whimsy. Her classic weatherized velvet coats are a repeat item in every collection, varying only slightly to conform with the contemporary silhouette.

She usually designs and often makes her own clothes. She has an elegant flair but prefers to be comfortable in sweater and slacks or skirt and shirt when working. Often she loops her outfit with an enveloping smock in her workroom.

"Women continue to be interested in fashion but don't want to be dictated into 'accepting' just one viewpoint," she says. "Clothes and fashions are only fact of life. You mustn't be too serious about them."

Mrs. Fleury is one of the founding members of the Fashion Designers' Association of Canada, started by 18 of the top designers.

Manners Must Grow

is it fair to let children grow up not knowing how to perform elementary courtesies? Is more and more of child training being left to outside agencies?

One mother tries to remember to brief her youngsters before every contact. She even conducts rehearsals. The result is that when her Bobby (now 10) enters a room where mother has one or two guests for tea, he is ready to be introduced. He walks over to the guest, smiles and shakes hands while saying, "How do you do?" In a way that would do credit to a young man twice is age. He passes teacups and a plate of cookies with all the airs of a gracious host.

"There's plenty of time for these trifls when they get older," protests one mother. Is there? Habits, good or bad, are being formed all along the way and, if we wait too long, it would take a grand reversal to replace self-centred boorishness with well disciplined interest in the other fellow.

A child may forget to be as nice to the people he lives with or he is obnoxious he needs reminding. He is taught to get up when he is called — and he is called only once. He learns to wash himself and brush his teeth, without fussing and making faces. He learns to hang up his towel and to put his clothes away.

Youngsters need to be taught that mealtimes should be happy times. Anyone who spoils the fun is segregated. Talking with a mouth full of food is out. So is biting in when other people talk. "Please" and "Thank you" are insisted upon. A young person asks to be excused from the table and says thanks for the privilege.

Nerves Can Cause Early Baldness

By G. C. THOMPSON, MD

Dear Dr. Thompson: I read somewhere that nerves cause some people to lose their hair. Is this true? Is there any known medication to stop a rapidly receding hairline?

For the past few months I have noticed 20 to 25 hairs in the sink each morning after I comb my hair. I don't believe it's a family trait, because my father always had a full head of hair. I am in my early 30s and am quite concerned.—Mr. M. L. K.

Dear Doctor: I have an unusual nervous habit. When I am sitting around I pull hair out of my head. Now, after six months, I have a large bald spot in my head. I must know, will it grow back? I am a female. How long will it take to grow back?—Miss M. B.

I'll answer Mr. M. A. K. first. It is true that nerves can cause the patchy loss of hair, a condition known as alopecia areata. It is sometimes associated with extreme nervous shock. However, with your rapidly receding hairline you are probably undergoing a process called "male-pattern baldness," which often starts in the 30s. It is usually hereditary, and the fact that your father is not bald doesn't mean much. How about grandpa?

There is no remedy I know of to stop the process. One study did show that a reduction of salt intake helped somewhat. You might be checked for anemia or a thyroid deficiency, both of which can contribute to baldness. In such cases, hair returns with proper treatment.

Adequate protein in your diet is necessary to maintain a flourishing head of hair, but there is no evidence that increased protein beyond normal required intake will actually grow hair. It may prevent conditions in the body, though, that can lead to excessive hair loss.

I have to tell another reader (G. F.) that the vaunted virility of bald-headed men is a lot of hogwash, probably invented by a desperate baldy.

Miss M. B. has an obviously nerve-caused problem but a medical term for it is "trichotillomania," and its origin lies in neurotic anxiety. To overcome it requires self-control and sometimes counseling. But since hair grows in cycles—the rate varying from person to person—Miss M. B. can expect regrowth of her pulled-out hair in about three months. Fortunately for such people, hair follicles turn out to be pretty stubborn mechanisms.

The practice is analogous to nail-biting.

Dear Dr. Thostrup: Is using an ultra-violet lamp on the face dangerous in any way? I have heard that these lamps are good for acne if not overdone.

How does this type of lamp work, and what, if any, effects can it have on my face?—T. A.

The ultraviolet lamp can be dangerous in two ways. One is injury to the eyes if they are not adequately shielded. The other is in skin burn from overexposure. They are the same dangers, in fact, as be encountered with sunlight, a natural source of ultraviolet light. This is why the lamp you refer to is also called a sun lamp. The lamp, though, holds more dangers because the rays tend to be more concentrated.

Properly used, the lamp can be beneficial in acne, and for reasons that are not entirely clear. We do know that the condition often is alleviated during summer months, and one probable reason is that the victims are more relaxed at this time of year. With summer approaching, you may notice some improvement yourself.

I wouldn't rush into a self-prescribed ultraviolet-light treatment. Some persons are more sensitive to the rays, so I couldn't, not knowing your facial complexion, suggest any exposure time for you.

Ultraviolet treatment is usually prescribed in connection with other forms of therapy, and the best advice I can offer you, if you have a serious case of acne, is to practice scrupulous skin hygiene, and seek the help of a dermatologist who can evaluate your individual case.

LONDON (CP) — Members of MPs' complaints, the servant-at-arms has written to the press gallery saying that if an MP is waiting for a taxi every one else has to stand aside. Some journalists, waiting outside the House, had erroneously bought taxis were available on a first-come, first-serve basis. Not so, he said.

Hat-Trick

LONDON (CP) — A battle over hats came to a head in the House of Lords recently when some peers sought to do away with the custom of new peers having to doff their hats three times to the Lord Chancellor. "The ceremony looks utterly ridiculous," said one peer, but the House voted 106 to 31 to retain the tradition.

Bemis Gets Top Post

City industrial commissioner Fred Bemis this week was elected second vice-president of the Industrial Developer's Association of Canada.

The election took place at the association's annual convention in Halifax.

Mr. Bemis has been a director of the association for the last two years and this week presented a brief to the convention outlining association growth for the next five years.

Mr. Bemis said the aim of the group is to maintain a professional organization, "dedicated to conscientious economic development."

The association plays an active part in governmental affairs and has prepared briefs for both the provincial and federal governments.

Bancroft Gears Up

BANCROFT — As in the rest of the county, schools and educators in north Hastings are gearing up for the varied Education Week program to be held in the area from April 20-26.

The kick-off to the week is the traditional Education Week breakfast to be held in the cafeteria of North Hastings Secondary School.

The breakfast, which is open to the public, will have Father H. J. Mahoney as the keynote speaker.

Father Mahoney is a member of the board of Governors of Loyalist College.

On Wednesday, April 23, the North Hastings Happy Happenings, a concert of local school talent will be held in the auditorium of NHSS.

At North Hastings Senior Elementary School, the students are putting the finishing touches on displays of Art, gymnastics and curriculum material in preparation for the Open House to be held on Monday, April 21.

On Wednesday, parents are being invited to drop into the school and to observe the daily routine.

County Officials Fear Major Hike in Levies

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Hastings County council soon must grapple with what is shaping as a substantial increase in the cost of its local government services.

The root reason is an inevitable irritant plaguing every municipality in 1974: inflation.

In fact, admits county administrator-treasurer Carl Bateman, this is among the "toughest years" he has known in drafting county budgets since he first was assigned to the job 13 years ago.

"In terms of trying to use (financial) constraints, it's one of the toughest years," said Mr. Bateman Friday. "We're facing pressures we've never faced before."

County government has been in a fortunate position in recent times. There hasn't been an increase in the county levy since 1971, a time administration shared by its 27 member townships and villages — for three years, notes the county's top civil servant.

But now, "it's like everything else everywhere," said Mr. Bateman. "Inflation has caught up with us."

"There's no question there is going to be a substantial increase to be considered in the levies."

That consideration comes April 29-30 when county councillors assemble in Belleville and begin scrutinizing the proposed budget.

The financial document they'll pore over before making decisions now is in the process of being assembled by Mr. Bateman and his staff.

It consists of all the separate budgets for county services which now are complete after examination by various committees which oversee such operations for council.

The committee process of attempting to pare down expenditures against revenues and grants has been current for the past two months, said Mr. Bateman.

But in all agencies — planning, roads, social services — inflation has been the looming foreboding factor, he indicated.

Image Examined

Quinte area engineers Friday night examined their public image when Dr. R. C. Quitterton, president of the Association of Professional Engineers of Ontario, challenged them to get involved in the community. From left to right, retired Bell Telephone instructor Harry Cecomore, Dr. Quitterton and Dr. Harry Helmers, director of the Donald Gordon Centre for Continuing Education at Queen's University.

Quinte 'Think Tank' One Approach to Area Issues

By RON CARSON
Staff reporter

Engineers must shed their "hardhat, hardware" image and begin to assess their social and civic responsibilities to society," says Dr. R. C. Quitterton, president of the 39,000-member Association of Professional Engineers of Ontario (APEO).

Speaking in Quinte area engineers at the Four Seasons Friday night Dr. Quitterton said "engineers are known for their conservative approach to society's problems and I'm not proud of this image."

Dr. Quitterton, along with two other panelists, Dr. Harry Helmers, from Queen's University, and retired Bell telephone instructor Harry Cecomore, was participating in a discussion on the theme of Education Week "learning — a co-operative community enterprise." The 220-member Quinte Chapter of APEO now is attempting to develop a community project under the name of mission for mankind.

Dr. Quitterton, also president of the St. Clair College of Applied Arts and Technology at Windsor, Ont., said engineers can become "the best social workers in the world." He said in the western world engineers have solved the basic problems of food, clothing and shelter but that increasing environmental and sociological problems require the expertise of engineers."

The 54-year-old native of Toronto said engineers have the ability and knowledge to make technology work for man, "But they must realize they have a responsibility to get involved not to sit on the sidelines," he added.

He urged members of the 42 APEO chapters across Ontario to select a project, based on the mission for mankind concept, and participate in the individual communities. "Invite all types of engineers to help solve these problems," he added.

During the panel discussion a Belleville engineer Roger Harvey suggested the Quinte Chapter begin to develop a "Club of Quinte," based on the famous Club of Rome. The club would consist of area representatives from all phases of society. They would share ideas and solutions developed through brainstorming sessions, similar to the Club of Rome.

Magazines Seized

A 38-year-old Belleville businessman has been charged with possession of stolen and unlawfully imported goods following a combined RCMP and city police raid on two Front St. locations.

The seizure, which took place Thursday, April 10, uncovered 70 pornographic films and 300 magazines as well as two aluminum boats and a camper trailer.

Constable Jim Rouse, of the RCMP, said Mark Katchis, owner of Mark's Fish House, has been charged with possession of goods unlawfully imported into Canada. Inspector Ralph Blashford, of the city police, said Katchis has also been charged with possession of stolen goods in the incident.

RCMP said the magazines, films and stolen goods were found hidden in a barn-out building across from the Park Theatre on Front St. and a warehouse at 63 South Front St. City police said there were no other arrests in the seizure.

Awareness Seminar Includes 35 Speakers

Grade 13 Moira Secondary School students are holding a one-day study awareness seminar Wednesday, April 23, in which more than 35 speakers will participate in the theme Reflection of Man.

The day-long seminar will attempt to give students and the public a better understanding of themselves and the world he inhabits. Some of the topics discussed will be prison psychology, law reforms, penitentiary systems, relevance of religion, spiritual power, political realities in Quebec, Africa and South America and job-orientation education and many other areas related to man in society.

The speakers will include Jim Galbraith, Rev. Wes Herbert, Dr. F. L. Lander, Judge Clendenning, Dr. Joe Deming and Mayor Hubert Jeffery. The workshops and seminars begin at 8 a.m. and will run through the day until 4 p.m. Public are welcome to attend.

Education Beat

Closed Meetings Breaks New Act

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

The Hastings County Board of Education has got a problem on its hands and one that raises more than just legal questions.

The board now is contravening the new Section 54 by virtue of its own bylaw which prohibits the public from attending committee of the whole (closed sessions) and secretary of board's committee meetings.

The act says committee of the whole sessions "shall be open to the public except where a majority determines that certain meetings of the committee of the whole shall not be open to the public."

Although ambiguous, the new act implies that a majority of closed sessions should be open to the public if not all of them. The same applies to committee meetings.

The board has held a closed session after each regular meeting to discuss matters affecting personnel and property. Salary negotiations have also been held behind closed doors.

Few would argue with the board's right to discuss matters of personnel and financing in committee. Sensitive issues involving teachers' careers or performance standards are better served in private. But there is a built-in weakness under which the ministry of education has obviously acknowledged in its new legislation.

The public has no guarantee that only matters of personnel and finance are discussed behind closed doors. To no doubt, the trustee has a greater freedom to discuss issues but there is also an overwhelming temptation to discuss and deal with ... politically sensitive issues.

It is not to say the Hastings board is guilty of this but it is a real temptation that been reached behind closed doors.

Although legal opinions may vary on the interpretation of the new Education Act it is highly unlikely it could be expected to comply with the existing bylaws by the Hastings board.

The board now has a responsibility to challenge the new section act or amend its own bylaws to comply with the intent of the legislation. But first the board must come to grips with its own concept of "openness, trust and risk", faces all boards of education across the province. Democratic representation dictates that the public's business be conducted openly.

Public reaction should be a part of the decision-making processes. The input should come from the public and open debate by the elected officials and not after the decision has been made.

Underwater Work

Tug with project superintendent Bruce Posts approaches work barges now laying new city water pipeline in the Bay of Quinte off filtration plant. Work restarted this week after winter halt in laying 1,620-foot pipe being bolted in place underwater.

Poster Winners

The 1975 County Education Week Committee has selected its first place winners in the poster contest designed to stimulate interest in the activities. From left to right, winners are Carol Rosenthaler, senior winner from Harry J. Clarke Public School, Robert Avery, Senior winner from Trenton High School and Kim Ewin, intermediate winner from Bayside Public School. A spokesman from the committee said over 40 posters were entered in the contest.

New Pipeline to Increase City Supply of Bay Water

Getting water to Belleville is a meticulous, underwater job these days.

Laying of the new pipeline that will draw the city's water supply from the Bay of Quinte is back in operation after a winter work halt.

Work on laying the intake restarted Wednesday.

The 1,620-foot pipe — 38 inches in diameter — will replace the existing 30-inch pipeline which has pumped water through the city's filtration plant since 1910, said a Belleville Utilities official. The new pipeline will be 300 feet longer and since it is six inches wider will also increase the supply flow.

The project — contracted to Canadian Dredge and Dock Co. Ltd., Toronto — was launched last September and halted in December as the Bay began freezing. By then some 700 feet had been laid.

The pipeline is lowered in 40-foot sections from work barges, then bolted underwater, by a diver.

Many Students Want More Stress on '3Rs'

By RON CARSON,
Staff Reporter

In what could be a surprise to many county educators a majority of secondary school students have little hesitation or second thoughts when faced with the following question:

"Do you feel the schools place enough emphasis on the teaching of language skills, including spelling, grammar, reading and communication?"

Of more than a dozen brief interviews secondary school students in the Belleville district overwhelmingly said there is not enough emphasis placed on the learning of the basic language skills. During the interviews it became apparent that the older students saw a greater need for language skills.

Most agreed learning how to construct a proper sentence is as important as the thought or idea being expressed. There was little difference between male and female students' attitudes.

SHARON MOFFATT

Bayside Secondary School student Sharon Moffatt said she feels inadequate in grammar skills and would like to see a greater emphasis placed on the teaching of these skills. "I'm a fairly good speller but I do need more work in grammar . . . teachers differ in the amount of composition they teach," said the 18-year-old Grade 13 commercial student.

ANDY HAYWARD

Centennial Secondary School student Andy Hayward said he would definitely like to see more emphasis placed on language skills as well as a program to improve his vocabulary. "I'm now taking a composition course which helps but I'm still not a good speller and I think students realize it's important especially if they are considering university," said the 18-year-old Grade 13 student.

JO-ANNE SCOTT

Quinte Secondary School student Jo-Anne Scott said she's now just as concerned about the proper way to say things as she is about what is being expressed. "The grammar, or the mechanics of writing, is not being stressed, although I'm a good speller I still would like more confidence in composition," replied the 18-year-old Grade 13 student.

ROSS WHITE

Bayside Secondary School student Ross White said schools are placing enough emphasis on the language skills and that there are various levels of English courses students can take. "I'm a fair speller and teachers are doing as much as they can in the area of language skills," replied the 14-year-old Grade 9 student.

STIRLING WILSON

Quinte Secondary School student Stirling Wilson said there is not enough emphasis on the language skills and there seems to be less concern about grammar. "I'm not an adequate speller but I realize it's important. I also feel teachers should be placing a greater emphasis in the classroom on these topics," said the 17-year-old Grade 11 student.

VICKI CRAFT

Centennial Secondary School student Vicki Craft said there is enough emphasis on language skills in Grade 9 and 10 but that later years are inadequate. "I could be a better speller and I do think schools should stress grammar through all the years," said the 18-year-old Grade 13 commercial student.

lead in their best-of-seven World Hockey Association quarter-final playoff series.

The Saints' 4-0 victory put them in position to wrap up the series tonight in St. Paul, Minn.

The Whalers won at our rink and we've won twice at theirs," said Minnesota coach Harry Neale. "But I think our guys will be sky high for the game. We had the home ice advantage once but it ... we don't want to lose it again."

Centre Yvan Huck's goal at 17:39 of the second period got the Saints en route to victory and Wayne Connelly helped put it away in the final period with his fourth and fifth goals of the series.

Mike Walton also scored for Minnesota in the third period.

"This is as good a playoff series as I've ever had," said Connelly. "But I've had some real good chances to score. My first goal tonight was easy. I skate the puck at the blue line and went in alone."

Neale said "the Whalers had five power play situations against us and that was a big key to the victory."

"Our penalty killers did a fine job and John Garrett was superb in the nets."

Jack Kelley, Whalers' general manager-coach, said, "I'm not selling our guys short."

"We were down before and we came back. Winning once in St. Paul after 11 straight loses there did a lot for our confidence. I feel we'll come back."

In San Diego, Gene Peacosh scored his second goal of the game and sixth of the playoffs at 11:36 of the third period to lift the Mariners past the Toros. Toronto had taken a 2-0 lead on goal from Frank Mahovlich and Vaclav Nedomansky couldn't hold the advantage.

Mike Laughlin and Ron Grahovo got the other Mariner goals while Gavin Kirk also connected for Toronto.

Toronto coach Bob Leduc said the crowd of 4,000 played a large factor in San Diego's victory.

"We had pretty good control of the game until they scored their first goal midway through the second period. Then the crowd went crazy and it seemed to pick them up. If we play this well Monday night, in Toronto, I think we can even it up."

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Don Iverson broke out of a tightly-bunched field with a six-under-par 66 Friday to take the lead in the $125,000 Pensacola Open golf tournament.

But flamboyant Doug Sanders, a two-time champion here, has begun his move.

Iverson carried a nine-under 201 into today's third round, holding a two-shot lead over Jerry McGee.

Six players were tied at 138, and Sanders came in at 137 in a six-way tie for fifth place after a sizzling 64 in quest of his first victory since winning the Kemper Open three years ago.

"I've got to make $2,000 this week just to pay the doctor's bills," said Sanders, suffering from a severe cold.

Hull Is Doing His Job With Help from Friends

By JIM WATERS
Thunder News Service

TORONTO — Now that he has re-established himself as professional hockey's most prolific scorer in a single season, Bobby Hull has turned his attention to other aspirations.

He talked mostly of one, a World Hockey Association title for his Winnipeg Jets, on the evening here recently when the team lost its series for the "wild card" playoff berth, the dubious consolation awarded two of the also-ran finishing before the first two clubs in the three WHA groupings.

Since Jets' first set of owners fixed the price of gold at $2.3 million over 10 years, the Golden Jet has been expected to sell tickets first and win championships second. With more than a little help from some Swedish friends, the ever-popular Hull has accomplished the former. The franchise is thriving with home attendance surpassing 9,000 this season.

THE SWEDISH ASSIST

The Swedes comprised two-thirds of the WHA's most productive line. Anders Hedberg finished with 53 goals and 100 assists, the fluent skater and instinctive passer who Hull compares to Stan Mikita, scored 28. They complemented in fine fashion Hull's 77 which was one more than former teammate Phil Esposito collected four seasons ago.

Next in scoring among Jets was Veli Pekka Kelola, a Finnish recruit with 20 goals. His total indicated a chasm between the first liners and the rest which Jets must solve. Also relevant is his ancestry which verifies the management's contention that goals come in many languages.

"They play like seasoned veterans," Hull said of the European stock which Jets have more of than any other North American team. "It's been a joy for me to play with them."

The most active director of Jets, who now are community-owned, Dr. Jerry Wilson left a snowline expedition across the Atlantic which ushered many 70 players considered worthy of professional contracts.

Jets were prompted to plan a first in hockey, albeit a game not bantered in the game in this country at least. Arrangements now are being made to ice a team of Europeans signed by Winnipeg in a first division league likely in Sweden or Finland.

Winnipeg may also be the first WHA or National Hockey League club to hold its training camp abroad. Plans for such this fall are in the talking stage, according to Hull.

"We don't know exactly what's going to happen," Hull explained in the cramped quarters which Maple Leaf Gardens rent all as a dressing room for WHA visitors.

"We're certainly looking and hoping we can find some of the diamonds we found over there this summer. It all depends on how negotiations go."

The imported gems who shone despite Winnipeg's mediocre finish third in the Canadian division with a 39-35-5 record included defenceman Heikki Riihiranta from Finland and goalie Curt Larsson, another Swede. Jets bolstered their own lineup by acquiring Thommie Bergman, a Swedish-born defenceman who, jumped from Detroit Red Wings mainly to converse with teammates in his native tongue.

Offering more praise for the Europeans is Rudy Pilous, Jets' coach.

He was busy following the lens to Toronto with a broom retrieving players' coats which were dropped from pipes just below the ceiling.

"These Europeans brought some new ideas with them, at least they're new to me," Pilous said.

"Having those guys on his line has made Bobby ready to shake the seat of his pants to keep up. He's skating like he did 10 years ago."

Now 38, Hull confesses to no thought of leaving the player part of hockey and pursuing coaching. He has concerns on both chores, his game has suffered in the playoffs and he would prefer not to have coaching problems to worry about while he chases his next goal — the lifetime mark of Gordie Howe. Six more would place Hull fleshed 1976-75 with 753.

There he spoke Hull receiving rave notices, at least from his father. Two-year-old Brett plays in Winnipeg's minor-hockey system where he's tagged "Bobby Jr." as a budding player.

"He comes over to the rink and fools around with us. He seems to pick up a few things . . . mostly from Uffie," Hull grinned.

Habs Call Up 6 for Standby

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens Friday announced they have called up six players from Nova Scotia Voyageurs of the American Hockey League for standby duty with the National Hockey League club for the remainder of its Stanley Cup action.

The recall became possible when the Voyageurs were eliminated earlier this week from further AHL playoff competition.

Called up were defencemen Rick Chartraw, John Van Boxmeer and Bill Nyrop, along with forwards Ron Andruff, Glen Goldup and Greg Hubick.

The Canadiens currently lead Vancouver Canucks 3-1 going into tonight's fourth game in their best-of-seven Stanley Cup quarter final.

Poland Knocks U.S. to B Group

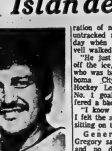
DUESSELDORF, West Germany (AP) — Poland defeated the United States 5-3 in the only Group A world hockey championship game Friday, knocking the American college team into the next Group B tournament.

The U.S. wound up the six-country, round-robin competition with no wins and 10 defeats, scoring 23 goals and allowing 84.

The Poles, who beat the U.S. 5-3 in the first round, played to a 2-2 record. The Soviet Union won the championship Thursday.

The tournament concludes today with the Soviets taking on Sweden and Czechoslovakia playing Finland.

The Soviet Union has a 9-0 record and Czechoslovakia 7-2. Sweden and Finland each have 5-4 records, and their final games will decide the bronze medal.



BERNIE PARENT
Record is Slight

delphia captain Bobby Clarke after the Flyers blanked the Leafs 3-0 Thursday night.

Bernie Parent has been a standout in the Flyers' nets and will be looking to be the Stanley Cup record of three consecutive shutouts, set in 1930 by Toronto's Frank McCool against Detroit Red Wings.

But Philadelphia's Rich MacLeish thinks the Flyers are winners before they even skate on the ice.

"I think we're better shape than anybody in the league," MacLeish said. "Our game is checking and counting for the breaks. It tires them out. It tires us out, too. But we're the ones that get them."

In the Toronto camp, the frustration of not being able to get untracked reached a peak Friday when goaltender Doug Favell walked out of practice.

"He just got upset and went off the ice," said Gord McRae, who was brought up from Oklahoma City of the Central Hockey League as the team's No. 1 goalie when Favell suffered a back injury Feb.19.

"I know how it feels because I felt the same way in Okc City sitting on the bench."

General manager Jim Gregory said "things are tight" and no disciplinary action is planned.

Tracy Pratt will return to the Vancouver lineup today after being out with a shoulder injury and Dennis Ververgaert, with damaged knee ligaments, may also start. Steve Shutt, absent from Thursday's game because of a sore hip, is expected to start for Montreal.

Forward Jim Roberts, who blasted the Canucks with a key goal Thursday that turned the game around, said the Canadiens have a tradition to live up to.

"They (Montreal management) want nothing but winners in the organization," he said. "Losers simply don't exist. They won't tolerate that."

Sabres coach Floyd Smith took his players back to the ice before he returns them to Chicago.

"We're going home briefly before Saturday's game," Stanley Cup fever in Buffalo and I want to get over our proud again," Smith said.

Home or away, the Islanders have been having their troubles, falling behind 3-0 in each of the first three games. Sunday, they'll try to break the ice first.

"You can't get behind like a hole," said New York coach Al Arbour. "We've got to play catch-up hockey and that's not our game."

Americans Take Opener

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Goalie Clark scored two goals and goalie Dave Reece had a shutout going until the last five minutes Friday as Rochester Americans defeated Syracuse 3-0 to take a 1-0 lead in their Calder Cup semifinal series in the American Hockey League.

The second game in their best-of-seven series will be played Sunday in Syracuse.

Dave Hynes, Craig Sarner and Steve Stirling each scored for the Americans in the first period to give Rochester a 3-0 lead. Clark made it 4-0 in the second with the only goal of the period, then made it 5-0 with his second of the night and fifth in playoff competition early in the third.

Mark Heaslip raised Reece's bid for a shutout at 15:13 of the third period. Angelo Ingrassi scored on a power-play at 19:57 to finish the scoring.

Rochester, which finished second in the North Division of the AHL with 95 points, plays the Springfield Indians, beat them once and tied them twice during the regular season.

The Indians finished fourth in the North Division, but eliminated the division champion Providence Reds in six games in the opening round of the playoffs.

Rochester eliminated Nova Scotia in six games in the opening round.

Marlies Hanging Tough

TORONTO (CP) — Craig Coulter's third-period shot keeps the Marlboros alive Friday as they beat Sudbury 3-2 win over Sudbury Wolves in the Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A quarter-finals before about 6,000 fans.

The eight-point series is tied at 2-2. The next game will be played today in Sudbury.

John Anderson opened the scoring for Toronto at 1:09 of the first period, his first of two goals, only to have Sudbury's John Walker tie the score 20 seconds later.

Richie Hansen gave Sudbury the lead on an unassisted effort but Anderson scored his second to tie the score at 3-3.

Gary Carr was outstanding in Toronto's nets as Sudbury outshot the Marlboros 45-34, 18-5 in the final period.

Ready or Not, Folks Look Who's Back At It

Circumstances alter cases, as old buddy of mine was fond of saying. I think it was his way of shrugging off the fingers of scorn when he was pulled to have been guilty of procrastination.

That's one way of offering a lame excuse for the fact that regular sports columns have been missing lately.

Returning to the role where I view with alarm; stiffe a yawn; administer a pat on the back or just plain bore you to tears, I offer the following . . . a collection of slices.

It occurs to me some readers may have wondered at one time or another where the term "slices" originated, at least for me.

The late George Carver, former sports editor of The Intelligencer, wrote well and regularly under the title "Sports Slices . . . Rare, Medium and Well done".

Since I was a George Carver fan, I use "Slices" as a way of salute to that gentleman of the fourth estate.

Now, to get to it.

SLICES — When the annual Canadian Press poll comes around next December or whenever, I've got to keep some daddies in mind when it comes to the section dealing with quotes of the year.

Take these for instance.

Following Philadelphia Flyers' 3-0 win over Toronto Maple Leafs, Thursday night, Flyer captain Bobby Clarke had this to say:

"... don't under-rate the Leafs. They gave it their best tonight".

Mad, Bobby. If that's the best Leafs can do, your guys should have won by 10 at least.

And how about this from Toronto coach Red Kelly?

"We worked hard and with a break or two, we could have won it."

Red, if that's hard work, I'm on my way to climb Mount Everest.

Show us a real effort, tonight.

Remember, I picked Los Angeles Kings to take Leafs two straight. And of the Toronto club's showing in Games 3 and 4 with Flyers, I'm beginning to think fate could have been kind to let it happen just that way.

* * *

On the plus side, guess who picked Chicago Black Hawks? Old lucky there, didn't I?

Someone asked the other day: "Why don't you mention Darryl Dickey or Toronto Toros' play-by-play commentator Mike Ahearne and his sidekick, Carl Brewer.

To be honest, I haven't seen Toros' play-by-play commentator Mike Ahearne and his sidekick, Carl Brewer.

The World Hockey League action I've seen on television to date, let's just say it ain't what it used to be.

Skeet Champions Pushing for a City Club

By DOUG JEFFRIES

For close to 30,000 members of the National Skeet Shooting Association,'' shattering clay pigeons is a way of life . . . exercise for the body, mind and soul.

And Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Ayrhart, and their son Bill are definitely hearthy ayres.

The term "skeet" is the Scandinavian term of the word "shoot", derived from its old language.

Skeet shooting involves firing at targets which are mechanically launched skyward. It is the greatest hazard, as its speed, velocity and direction increase the game's difficulty.

Unlike most sports, one word that never comes up is luck with a capital "L". Skeet shooting is strictly a game of skill.

It's like golf. If you're on, you're hot; if you're off, forget it.

There are two forms of the game: skeet and trap shoot. In skeet, within wind limitations, the shooter knows where the "birds" will come from. In trap, however the direction of the bird is unknown. It is moving away from the shooter at all times.

The Ayrhart family has a long history in the sport. Ernie was born in Stirling, and was mayor of Campbellford for six years. His business has been in milling and feed and development, which took him across Canada's northland.

The Ayrharts used to shoot at all times of the year. In mid winter they practiced at night with lights on in below-zero weather.

The "big time" for the family began in 1961-62 season.

At the World Championships, held in Montreal, Billy, then 15, placed third in the sub-junior division. He teamed with his father for the second place silver medal in the junior division competition.

To cap off a family sweep, Mrs. Ayrhart won the gold medal for first place. There were 35 ladies competing.

That same year, Mrs. Ayrhart was the New York State champ, and Billie accumulated hit 126 birds without a miss. Bill is 19 is a row.

Young Bill was the Northern Ontario winner. The following year Ernie was the Ontario champ.

The family competed in tournaments all over North America.

Canada was looking towards Billy in the 1968 Olympics but, as Billy put it "business came before pleasure."

As proof of Bill's skill with the gun, the Department of Lands and Forests once issued him a licence to hunt wild game when accompanied by a guardian. Bill was only nine years old at the time.

The Ayrharts feel there is too much concentration on killing of live game.

"I once killed a great deal, but I will never pull another trigger on wild game", they stated Ernie. "Game is just too scarce."

The Ayrharts feel Belleville would make great use of a skeet club. Local enthusiasts must travel to Gananoque or Napanee to the nearest club.

There is plenty of good land north of Belleville for the club, they feel.

The Ayrharts would be glad to talk to anyone singly, or as a group about any facets of the sport.

Anyone interested in learning more of the sport can contact any member of the family at their residence at 70 Flora Square.

Crests by the Number

Skeet shooting champions, from left, Bill, and mom and dad. Ayrhart family would like to see sport flourish in the city. The family has volunteered to help organize city skeet club and the enthusiasts are anxious to hear from others interested in the sport. Here, the threesome display some of the crests collected during years of competitive shooting.

Giant Arrives

Montefusco Proves Point

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

John Montefusco of San Francisco Giants has had a hard time convincing people he could pitch.

Friday night he made a believer of Los Angeles manager Walter Alston. He watched him beat his Dodgers 3-1 in a National League baseball game. "Give the kid credit," said Alston after Montefusco ended the Dodgers' five-game winning streak. "He pitched a fine game.

"He got the double plays when he needed them and pitched very well."

In other National League games Friday Philadelphia Phillies downed Montreal Expos 6-2, San Diego Padres beat Atlanta Braves 3-1, Cincinnati Reds trimmed Houston Astros 5-2 and St. Louis Cardinals nudged Pittsburgh Pirates 5-4 in 13 innings.

Montefusco, a 26-year-old right-hander was not even drafted when he graduated from high school, despite a 6-0 won-lost record.

So he went to work for the telephone company for two years. He quit that job, went to college and was 19-2 pitching for a junior college in New Jersey, but there were still no takers.

"I tried to hook on with anyone," he said Friday night after collecting seven hits for his second triumph in as many starts. "No one wanted me.

"Not even San Diego. I went there and couldn't get a thing. I worked out in front of Ralph Houk when he was managing the Yankees and they said I was too old. Finally the Giants offered a contract. No money, just a contract."

He gave up a run in the first inning—the only run he's allowed in 18 innings this season. Jim Wynn, extending his hitting streak to 11 games, singled and Steve Garvey drove him home for a triple.

But the Los Angeles lead lasted only until the third inning when losing pitcher Doug Rau walked Steve Ontiveros and two outs later Gerry Maddox homered.

Then Gary Matthews socked a homer, his third of the season, in the fourth inning to break the tie.

The Dodgers lost left-fielder Bill Buckner, who suffered a sprained left ankle when sliding into second base in the third inning.

Then Buckner's replacement, Tom Paciorek, suffered a severely bruised left hip when he fell into the seats after leaping high to spear a line drive in be seventh inning.

Tom Underwood's pitching and Willie Montanez' hitting helped disappoint the 31,274 spectators who turned out to watch the Expos lose their home opener.

Montanez broke up a fifth-inning tie with a homer while Underwood scattered 10 hits before he was replaced by Gene Garber in the ninth inning.

Joe McIntosh stopped Atlanta on five hits with last-out help from Dave Tomlin, and Mike Ivie singled home the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning as San Diego defeated the Braves.

Tony Perez ended his hitting slump with a two-run homer and Don Gullett fired a five-hitter as the Cincinnati Reds broke a four-game losing streak by beating Houston.

Alston – He's A Believer

Orioles Blast Way to Win

Lee May pounded two homers and drove in seven runs as Baltimore Orioles downed Boston Red Sox 9-7 to highlight American League baseball play Friday.

Elsewhere Hank Aaron's first home run in the AL as Milwaukee Brewers downed Cleveland Indians 5-1 left the former National League slugger only 707 home runs behind Babe Ruth.

Aaron passed the immortal Ruth last year and finished the season with 733 life-time homers. But these were all hit in the National League.

The record for most AL career homers is 19 by anyone other than George Herman Ruth.

In other action Kansas City Royals turned back Texas Rangers 5-3 Minnesota Twins edged oakland A's 5-4 and New York Yankees defeated Detroit Tigers 11-3. The California-Chicago game was postponed by wet grounds.

May, a right-handed slugger, obtained from Houston Astros last December got his first look at the friendly leftfield fence in Boston's Fenway Park and liked it. Boston had a 6-2 lead when May drilled a three-run homer to pull the Orioles to 6-5 in the fifth. His third homer of the season in the seventh clinched the victory.

"I try not to think about fences" said May. "If you think about is a ballpark can work against you. Sure I was trying to hit the home runs with two people on base. That's why I'm here."

Aaron lined his homer into the left-field stands off loser Gaylord Perry in the sixth inning just after John Briggs slugged third homer of the season. Darrell Porter's homer in the fifth was the first hit off Perry.

"I might have been pressing" said Aaron who added a run-scoring single and boosted his batting average to .167from .095."But I knew what I was doing wrong. I was dropping my hands. Hopefully I'm over that now."

Amos Otis and Harmon Killebrew homered for Kansas City while Steve Busby held the Rangers to seven hits. The Royals chased Jackie Brown who beat them four times without a loss—last year in the sixth inning.

In Oakland Eric Soderholm doubled home the tie-breaking run in the eighth inning and Steve Braun singled for what proved to be the winner.

The A's had a runner thrown out at the plate and another nailed at third in a wild bottom of the ninth. After Joe Rudi's leadoff homer cut the lead to 5-4 Angel Mangual doubled and Herb Washington ran for him. Gene Tenace's bunt rolled past the mound for a hit but Washington was out trying to score on a throw from shortstop Luis Gomez.

Tenace took second on the play and Claudell Washington grounded to Gomez who threw low to first for an error but Tenace was thrown out by first baseman Craig Kusick when he tried to go to third.

At Detroit Bobby Bonds drilled a three-run homer and Ron Blomberg followed with a solo blast in a five-run third inning fling. The Yankees who had dropped six of their first seven games pummeled Joe Coleman and Dave Lemanczyk for 17 hits.

Thunder Bay Keeps Playoff Hopes Alive

WINNIPEG (CP) — Thunder Bay Twins scored three third-period goals Friday night to defeat St. Boniface Mohawks 5-3 and keep their playoff hopes alive in the Western Canada Allstep semi-finals.

Dave Richardson's goal for St. Boniface at 7:10 of the first period tied the score at 2-2 before a crowd of about 1,100.

But Jack Hayley scored from a faceoff to the left of the Mohawk net just 25 seconds later and Tom Deacon added what proved to be the winner at 8:34. Russ Elliott, whose first tally provided the Twins with a 1-0 first period lead, scored an insurance marker into an empty St. Boniface net with just 33 seconds remaining. Brian Shapiero scored in the second period to keep the Twins ahead 3-1.

Ken Sutiya added a pair of goals for the Mohawks, who were assessed three of the game's five minor penalties. Referee Ken Wilks meted out a major to each team.

Terry Ross stopped 30 shots on the St. Boniface net, while Rocky Menard stopped 28 for Thunder Bay.

The Mohawks lead the best-of-five series 3-1 and will play the Twins in Thunder Bay tonight. A fifth game, if necessary, will be played Sunday in Thunder Bay.

Biltmores Top Bears

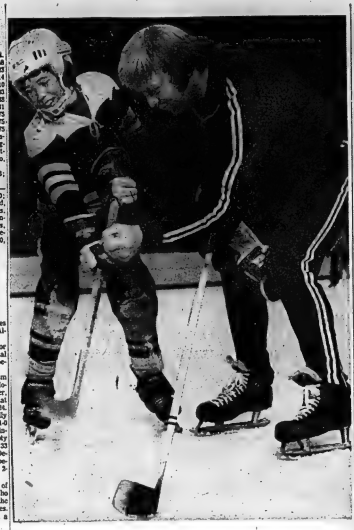
GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — A three-goal performance by Mitch Giroux sparked Guelph Biltmores to an 8-3 win over Smiths Falls Bears in the opening game of the best-of-seven Eastern Canada Memorial Cup final Friday.

The Guelph six ended an 11-game playoff winning streak for Smiths Falls.

Biltmores took a 3-1 first-period lead and opened up a 6-1 lead in the second. Wally Keeling, with two, Gord Duncan, Jim Joy and Tim Bolder got the other Guelph goals.

Dave Dizzie scored three Bears goals for Dave Bear, who outshot Guelph 38-33 before a crowd of 4,500.

Next game is scheduled for Guelph on Monday with further games Thursday, Friday and Sunday in Ottawa.



Honorary Big Brother of Canada and darling of the Winnipeg Jets-ect., Bobby Hull shares his time and interest with fatherless boys in his community. Here he shows Robbie Everard some of the secrets that have made him an all-time scoring great.

Almost 6,000 fatherless boys like Robbie enjoy the unique relationship of a Big Brother. Unfortunately, it is estimated that 90,000 do not.

This month marks the opening of the Big Brothers of Canada's first national campaign for funds. Many fatherless boys need the guidance of a friend and a big brother. Supports the Big Brothers.

Waste McAdoo's Effort? This Time, Braves Don't

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's not unusual for Bob McAdoo of Buffalo Braves to score 30 points in a National Basketball Association game.

But when the Braves also win the game, that's news.

"We usually win a low per-centage of our games when Mac takes 30 or more shots," explained added Buffalo coach Jack Ramsay. "We have to play good defense to win."

Friday night, McAdoo defied form, taking 32 shots from the field, making 38 of them and finishing with 80 points in a 106-102 NBA playoff win by the Braves over Washington Capital.

The win tied the best-of-seven Eastern Conference semi-final 2-2.

"When Mac gets 45 or more points we usually get beat," said Braves' forward Jim McMillian. "It happens seven out of 10 times."

Kansas City-Omaha Kings shaded the Chicago Bulls 106-105 in overtime in Friday night's other NBA contest, tying that best-of-seven Western Conference semi-final 2-2.

Washington built a 58-47 lead at the half but the Braves charged back behind a tough defence and a flurry of McAdoo jump shots to take the lead for good late in the third quarter.

McAdoo wound up with 21 rebounds in addition to his scoring and McMillian added 21 points for the winners. Nick Weatherspoon came off the bench to lead Washington with 22 points and Phil Chenier added 19. Wes Unseld contributed 17 rebounds for the losers.

In Kansas City, guards Jimmy Walker and Nate Archibald teamed for 58 points to get the Kings past Chicago. Walker had 13 points in the fourth period, eight in the overtime and 30 over-all.

Sunday and Monday Horoscopes

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Sunday, April 20

ARIES (March 21 - April 19) Although you'll be in a jovial mood, a pal won't be. It would be unwise to force him to frolic.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Normality, you enjoy sharing. Today, however, you'll be given something and you'll look for ways to keep it for yourself.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You have a tendency to overcook today. Once you see your prospect is in accord with your ideas, better quit.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't do anything erratic at this time to disturb a promising situation. The wrong move could be costly.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're better able to cope with important matters early in the day. Toward evening you get a little too careless.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) In a situation where another is to blame for you, let him proceed with his own methods. Those many suggestions could turn him off.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Before making any major financial move, consult one whose expertise can help guide you to a wise decision.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22) The course you're headed on will bring your goals within reach. Don't impatiently make any abrupt changes.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 21) Keep to your original plans today. They'll turn out to be fun. A last-minute change would mar your enjoyment.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19) You're luckiest today dealing with persons with whom you've had past ties. One met may find later the terms have been changed.

For Monday, April 21

ARIES (March 21-April 19) The way you'll manage a business affair will work to your advantage materially, but be careful not to create hard feelings simultaneously.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You don't have as tight a rein on your budget now as you should. Watch out or you'll buy so impulse things you have no pressing need for.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) In handling a matter of importance you're going to let could slip from your hands by yielding to outside pressures.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't let yourself be jockeyed into a position today where you have to defend views unpopular with some of your friends.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Business matters and commercial dealings must be managed with a firm hand today or else potential advantages will be chiseled away.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Others are not as sold on your plans as you think. Don't be too pushy about implementing them till assured of their support.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) In order to gain what you want for yourself today you must offer as much as some it begins to build.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be sure those you delegate authority to are capable of carrying out your wishes, without making changes.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) This can be a very rewarding time if you concentrate on your most important present goal. Ignore unrelated interests.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Early in the day you'll be quite sociable and easygoing. Toward late afternoon you get a bit too impatient.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Give serious thought before spending today for things outside your basic domestic needs. Stick to your budget.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Common sense will tell you how to handle a tricky situation that confronts you. Don't be swayed by others.

Opening lead—3 ♥

By OSWALD and JAMES Jacoby

"When will I ever make a defense?" groaned South.

"When will you ever learn to play the dummy?" grumbled North.

North was right to grumble. The contract had been bid, played back and forth like a ping-pong ball with South finally batting it out of reach.

South had won the heart lead and led a diamond. Dummy's queen fell to East's ace. South ruffed the heart return and led a second diamond won by West's king. Back came another heart. South ruffed with the nine, trump, led a trump to dummy's 10 and had the club finesse. West took his king and led a second trump. South could still ruff one club in dummy, but three tricks were gone and there was nothing he could do about his last club.

We can't blame West for not opening a trump. But each time declarer's whichever defender had the lead should have done so. Once a trump was led, the force clubs were played the contract was gone forever.

As for South, he suffered from astigmatism caused by bad queen of clubs. At trick two, South should simply have forgotten all about finesses and led a low club from his hand. The defence could lead one trump, but that would not be enough to worry South. He would have been able to ruff one club with a low trump and his last club with the 10 and wind up with game, rubber and a happy partner.

Ceasefire to Be Sought

Thieu Steps Down, Heir Is Uncertain

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam agreed today to resign, bowing to the military pressure of the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong and to the political pressure of the United States and his opponents in Saigon.

Thieu announced his decision at a special meeting of his cabinet before giving it to the National Assembly and then the country in a television address. Western diplomatic sources said.

The sources said Vice-President Tran Van Huong, 71, would succeed to the presidency. But there was speculation that Huong, in poor health and virtually blind, would resign along with the entire cabinet and that Tran Van Lam, 61, president of the Senate, would become president.

The first order of business for the new command will be to open negotiations with the Viet Cong for a ceasefire and political talks to end the military debacle that has cost Thieu's government three-fourths of South Vietnam's territory since the first of the year.

The 51-year-old president, who headed the Saigon regime for 10 years, is believed to be the inevitable will 10 North Vietnamese divisions surrounding Saigon, radio contact lost with South Vietnamese forces fighting a losing battle at Xuan Loc 40 miles east of Saigon, and the apparently imminent loss of still another province on the Mekong Delta farther east.

In his television address, Thieu blamed U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger, at the Paris talks three years ago, of accepting the presence of North Vietnamese troops in the South while Thieu had demanded that they withdraw.

Despite Thieu's decision to resign, some U.S. experts say that fighting in South Vietnam is not over.

Thieu told the South Vietnamese people that the U.S. government put pressure on him at the time of the Paris accord to sign the agreement, threatening so favors the Communist-led forces that it is doubtful they would be willing to negotiate even with Thieu gone.

Thieu said the South Vietnamese people that the U.S. government put pressure on him at the time of the Paris accord to sign the agreement, threatening to withhold any further U.S. aid.

Thieu particularly assailed Kissinger, saying:

"Kissinger didn't see that the agreement led the South Vietnamese people to death. Everyone sees it and Kissinger does not see it.

Life with Reds

Da Nang Looks Normal But U.S. Views Differ

SAIGON (AP) — Crucifixion, beheading, stoning? Or packed movie houses, open restaurants, and school as usual?

Those are the two views of life in the 19 provinces of South Vietnam occupied this year by the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese.

Depending on who you talk to, their life is either a blood bath or a love match.

U.S. embassy officials in Saigon tell reporters of horrendous crimes they claim are committed by the Communist occupation forces.

The South Vietnamese government will say only that it has "some confirming evidence."

Some foreign reporters stationed in Hanoi, North Vietnamese capital, have visited Da Nang, the second largest city in South Vietnam which was given up without a fight three weeks ago.

"The people are enjoying a normal life," Chiaki Hirabayashi of the Japanese Communist party newspaper Akahata reported.

He said most of the gas stations and auto repair shops were open, that five movie houses were operating, and children were going to school.

The city has returned to normal," he said.

A reporter for Agence France-Presse sent a similar report from Da Nang.

Many of the Vietnamese who fled from Communist-controlled regions tell the same story.

And refugees say life is returning to normal at Nha Trang.

But U.S. officials say a Communist takeover means the methodical, systematic execution of officials and officers who worked for the Saigon government.

Much of the embassy's case is based on killings in the columns of refugees who fled from the central highlands, Communist shelling of these people was common, and reporters on the scene wrote about it.

Other embassy reports include the beheading of a moderate political leader in Da Nang, and the killing of Vietnamese-American babies in Nha Trang. But U.S. officials were unable to produce witnesses to either of these alleged atrocities.

Viet Cong Demands Unchanged

PARIS (AP) — The Viet Cong today repeated its demands for a settlement in South Vietnam—total U.S. withdrawal and the establishment of a "national concord" regime in Saigon.

Trip to Rome Given Priest

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Rev. Walter V. Hamilton of the Church of St. Gregory the Great, Picton, will mark Holy Year with a visit to Rome.

The trip is a gift from his parishioners and was announced Sunday during a buffet dinner to celebrate the silver anniversary of Father Hamilton's ordination as a priest.

Approximately 250 persons filled St. Gregory's Hall following a special mass celebrated by Archbishop Joseph Wilhelm of the Kingston Archdiocese, to pay tribute to Father Hamilton.

Among those in attendance were Father Wayne Power of Marysville, Father Peter Murphy, Prescott, and Monsignor Stanley Lucey of the Kingston Archdiocese. Kingston.

Archbishop Wilhelm said Father Hamilton had "ranked among the best of our parish priests and added that he "outdone himself in Picton". He said there is no other priest in the Diocese more highly regarded by his colleagues than Father Hamilton.

Tom Hamilton, a nephew of Father Hamilton, attended the anniversary dinner. He was with approximately 50 other members of the family and briefly traced his uncle's work in the church.

Ordained in the cathedral in Kingston 25 years ago, at the age of 25, Father Hamilton's parishes included Perth, Gananoque, Bailey Canoe and Athens-Read and Picton, the latter since 1965.

The president of the Parish Council is Kelly Lucas. He presented Father Hamilton with several gifts from parishioners, among these a trip to Rome.

In expressing thanks to his parish Father Hamilton said he would be particularly happy if the gathering served as an inspiration for young persons "to share in that gift of God".

Form Your Own Opinions Of School, Parents Told

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

Ontario's minister of education, Hon. Thomas Wells, has asked parents to visit schools this week and form their own opinions of the system rather than depend on criticism from the media.

Mr. Wells made the suggestion Sunday during the official opening of the 1975 Education Week across the province. Hastings County is the focal point of activities but observance of the annual week is province-wide.

In response to this year's theme, "Learning — A cooperative community enterprise", Mr. Wells said growing parental interest in education is good but that parents should visit the schools during regular hours to see what and how children are being taught.

Most of the criticism we hear today is not valid and those who take the time to go into the schools usually come away with a strong feeling that education in our province is superior to anything we ever enjoyed in the past," said the 44-year-old minister, who was accompanied by his wife and family.

He said those who criticize usually deal with generalities and vague impressions — hearsay evidence at best — as opposed to objective information and assessment. "However, that doesn't make the criticism any less devastating," he added.

In defence of the students, Mr. Wells said "today's young people are more articulate, more aware and just plain smarter." He also said they are more self-confident and more adaptable than previous generations.

"Over recent years our schools have been doing a very good job indeed — and it amazes me that it is always the criticism that is played up, when so much of the evidence points the other way," he said. He again urged parents to visit the schools and make their own judgments, based on personal experience.

Mr. Wells attended a non-denominational service earlier in the day at Albert College and later had lunch at Loyalist College of Applied Arts and Technology. The minister opened the week at Centennial Secondary School here, then made a tour of displays in the school.

Egypt Will Not Talk With Kissinger Again

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy says his government will not take part in any further Middle East peace bid by U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger and is ready for resumption of the Geneva conference in June, say Egyptian news reports from Moscow.

Fahmy also said Egypt's only condition for the Geneva negotiations is that the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) must be invited as an independent delegation.

This raised the prospect of an Israeli boycott, since the Israeli government refuses to negotiate with the PLO. There have been suggestions that Israel might accept them as part of a unified Arab delegation.

Fahmy met for four hours Sunday in Moscow with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. Afterward he told correspondents of Egypt's Middle East news agency and the Cairo newspaper Al Ahram:

"Egypt refuses to return to the step-by-step approach or any similar formulas and does not object to holding the Geneva peace talks either before or after the Arab summit conference."

Fahmy did not specify a date for the resumption of the Geneva talks, but the Arab summit is tentatively scheduled for late June.

Ontario Floods Already Ebbing

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Many Ontario communities are trying to dry out today following storms and floods during the weekend.

Most water levels in the Grand River watershed area—including Kitchener, Guelph, Cambridge and Brantford — started to drop Sunday night and no further problems with flooding are expected, an official of the Grand River Conservation Authority said.

High temperatures, melting snow and ice and rainfalls of almost two inches also contributed to flooding of the Saugeen, Maitland, Saugeen and Beaver Rivers in the Owen Sound area, the Thames River southwest of Stratford and the Avon River in Stratford.

Also, during the weekend, winds caused damage in Metropolitan Toronto, Brockville and Ottawa areas.

Officials of most communities in the Grand River area said flooding was less extensive than during the flood last May.

Ottawa, Kitchener, Waterloo, Saskatoon Letter Carriers Walk Off Job Today

OTTAWA (CP) — Letter carriers, members of the Letter Carriers Union of Canada, walked off the job at 8 a.m. EST for an indefinite period, union spokesman Alex Edey said.

Carriers also are to go out in Kitchener and Waterloo, Ont. and in Saskatoon, he said.

Picket lines were set up at Ottawa post offices but inside workers would be allowed to cross them. Inside workers sort mail.

Couriers—workers who bring mail from mail boxes to post offices—also were off the job.

Mr. Edey said the union has been in a legal position to go on strike since April 14 and the men "were just exercising their right to strike."

Negotiations between the union and the post office are scheduled today, he said.

Although the Ottawa local of the union covers all eastern Ontario, carriers and couriers were not expected to be out in Ontario centres other than Ottawa and Kitchener-Waterloo.

Main issue in talks between the post office and union negotiators is a conciliation report which proposes wage increases totalling $66 a week over two years. Three-year letter carriers now earn an average $177.00 a week.

Increases in the conciliation report are 28 per cent the government has offered 25 per cent over two years.

News Briefs

Talks on Gas Arranged

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States has asked for — and Canada has approved — an immediate meeting in Ottawa to discuss proposed prices increases on Canadian natural gas exported to the U.S. One source close to the scene, who asked not to be identified, said the talks are set for this week, possibly as early as tomorrow."

Permissiveness Hit

TORONTO (CP) — The provincial government intends " to curb the tide" of permissiveness in Ontario society, Premier William Davis said Sunday. "Society, in my view, has become far too permissive in tolerating behavior and attitudes that belong to a less civilized age," Mr. Davis said. "Life in our province is still decent, is still civilized, and we intend to keep it that way."

Hostages Released

WASHINGTON (AP) — An assortment of headmade weapons was seized by guards after a 17-hour prisoner uprising in which a dozen persons were taken hostage and later released unharmed at the District of Columbia jail.

20 Die in Ship Fire

COLOGNE, West Germany (AP) — Rescuers refloated a burned-out Dutch excursion cruiser today and began to recover the bodies of passengers trapped when the vessel sank Saturday in the Rhine River. It was believed that 20 persons in all were killed.

Prince Arrives

OTTAWA — Prince Charles arrived here Sunday on an 11-day tour which will take him 8,000 miles through the Northwest Territories before his departure from Winnipeg, April 30 to HMS Hermes, docked in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., where he is a communications officer.

Officials Voice Support For EMO Service in Area

The committee representing municipalities covered by the Quinte Area Emergency Measures Organization (EMO) says the EMO is a valuable organization and should, if at all possible, be kept going.

The statement comes in the wake of an announcement from acting provincial solicitor-general John Clement that the province would withdraw its financial support of area EMO organizations and would phase out its own Emergency Measures Branch by the end of the year.

Quinte Area EMO covers Belleville, Trenton, Hastings counties, Picton, Trenton and Deseronto.

Cruiser Damaged

A cruiser berthed at March's Marina at 11 Water St. has been receiving attention of late from unknown thieves who find it an inviting target.

City Police Chief Douglas Crosbie reported the second occurance of break, enter and theft to the boat, owned by Kenneth Swallow of 88 Highland Ave., within a week today.

He said thieves stole a two-way radio and damaged a door window sometime between 5 p.m. Saturday and 8:30 a.m. Sunday. Total value and damage was estimated at $97.

Motel Operators Report Full House

TRENTON — Trenton vacant hotel and motel rooms in Trenton were generally few and far between this weekend as an estimated 2,000 Canadian Legion members congregated in Trenton for a two-day convention.

A random survey by The Intelligencer Saturday revealed most Trenton motels and hotels either were booked solid, or near full and expecting further arrivals.

Canadian Legion past-president, Carm Littlejohn said Saturday he was directing Legion members to four motels in the Trenton area that were booked solid. Of the four, 92 per cent of the 116 rooms available were either occupied or spoken for.

Both the Redwood Motor Hotel and the Pines Motel on Highway 33 were booked solid with conventioneers as of Saturday morning, according to motel spokesman. On Dundas St., Twin Pines and Bay Breeze motels were nearing capacity. When surveyed, the Dutch Mill Inn remained the only hotel to have vacancies.

Pines Motel manager Gerald Foster reported that Trenton was "pretty full up." He added that, even without a convention in town, especially in summer, the available hotel space is occupied.

This weekend, after referring people to other Trenton accommodation, he was suggesting accommodation be sought in Belleville. "Hotel space in Trenton is not really available," he said.

Mr. Foster and two other motel managers said Trenton hotel space is filled to overflowing when the Canadian Kennel Club sanctioned dog show in Frankford takes place in the fall each year. The three-day show brings people from as far off as California, and is one of the biggest in eastern Ontario.

This weekend's Legion District F convention was primarily a business session that drew members to Trenton from a total of 54 Legion branches as far away as Toronto.

Daylight Saving
CITY OF BELLEVILLE
1975

It is hereby declared under the authority of By-law Number 9819, passed by the Municipal Council of the City of Belleville on the 17th day of March, 1975, that all offices and departments under the jurisdiction of the City Council will observe Daylight Saving, when the time, for all purposes, will be advanced one hour ahead of the standard time as then observed, for a period from 2:00 a.m., Sunday April 27, 1975 to the hour of 2:00 a.m., Sunday, October 26, 1975.

I respectfully request all citizens of Belleville to observe the regulations as to time, enacted by the said By-law.

(Mrs.) A. R. Jeffrey
Mayor.

700 Pack Centennial To Hear Wells Speak

Hastings County was in the spotlight Sunday when Ontario's minister of Education Thomas Wells officially opened the 1975 Education Week at a Centennial Secondary School.

The county is the focal point of the activities held observance of the annual week is province-wide. Activities are being sponsored by the Hastings-Trenton Edward Separate School Board, the Hastings County Board of Education, Loyalist College, the Ontario Business School and Albert College and Sir James Whitney School (OSD).

More than 700 people attended the opening at Centennial. Earlier in the day a non-denominational service was held at Albert College chapel followed by lunch at Loyalist College of Applied Arts and Technology. Mr. Wells, his wife, and two children, attended the service and lunch.

Invited guests saw a multi-media slide presentation at Centennial depicting the various stages of education for children through to adulthood. Mr. Wells address was followed by a tour of the school and displays on exhibit.

The theme this year was "learning a co-operative community enterprise ." Exhibits and displays throughout the school depicted this theme.

Too Close a Shave

Belleville barber Jim Stalker, 37 Camilton Rd., thought the winds were high Saturday afternoon but not high enough to bring down this 75-foot maple tree onto his business-home residence. The tree damaged the chimney and the roof but missed the barber shop in the front portion of the house. Mr. Stalker's wife and two children were not home at the time or the crash. Jim said he just called his insurance company and kept on cutting hair.

Shotgun Kills Man

MARMORA — A 25-year-old area man died instantly early Saturday from a gunshot wound to his head following the accidental discharge of a shotgun in an unused barn on his property located just north of this village.

Ontario Provincial Police at Madoc said Gordon Brown of RR 2, Marmora was in the barn with a friend at about 11:00 a.m. when the 12-gauge shotgun he was carrying discharged as he straddled a beam while attempting to leave a lower row.

He was pronounced dead at the scene by Coroner Dr. H.G. Parkin and taken to Belleville General Hospital for a post mortem Sunday.

OPP investigators were Constable D.C. Bush and Cpl. Del Scott.

Mr. Brown leaves his wife, Linda and a small child.

Education One Issue

When Ontario voters finally get to the polls one issue they will be voting on is education, says Ontario's minister of education Thomas Wells.

Attending official opening ceremonies of Education Week here Sunday Mr. Wells said in an interview that education will be an issue when the election is called but he stopped short of predicting specifics.

However, 44-year-old cabinet minister did rule out separate school representations as the issue. He rejected the idea that the government would pass legislation prohibiting teacher strikes and then call an election asking the voters to endorse the action.

Strike Nears as Contract Talks Fail at International Hardware

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

The International Moulders and Allied Workers local at Belleville's International Hardware are expected to apply for a labor board conciliator today following the collapse of negotiations with the company last friday.

At a union meeting Sunday district representative Edward Whittames said "all areas of negotiation have been met to the satisfaction of the negotiating committee."

But, "we will not negotiate wages until the company's committee takes the cap off the cost of living clause," he said.

At present the escalator clause allows for one cent for every .65 per cent increase in consumer price index to a maximum of eight cents an hour.

"There is no sense continuing until this eight-cent cap is off," said the union representative.

In answer to the union's ju-

Alarm Box

Belleville firefighters responded to the following calls for assistance during a 48-hour period which ended at 8 a.m. today.

Saturday, April 19, 3:42 p.m. — fire in refuse container at rear of Murray's Foodmaster on Front St., no damage.

Sunday, April 20, 7:05 p.m. — grass fire at rear of Hugh Murray Ltd. at 75 West College St., no damage.

Monday, April 21, 6:49 a.m. — fire in refrigerator cord at 48 Murney St., no damage.

tial demand of a 75 per cent pay increase the company offered 30 cents in the first year and 25 cents in the second year for hourly-paid workers and 18 cents and 13 cents for incentive workers.

After hearing the offers, the membership voted 138 to 11 to strike when the current contract expires June 2.

When a number of members called for an immediate wildcat strike, Mr. Whittames warned," If you act illegally, you will be treated illegally."

Hourly-paid employees currently earn an average of $3.71 an hour, incentive workers — paid by the amount of work completed — generally earn at least 30 per cent more than hourly-paid staff.

Mr. Whittames said during an interview following the meeting, "there obviously is going to be a strike."

Howard Hanlon, general manager of the firm, said during a telephone interview he had no comments to make regarding the negotiations other than "I'm hopeful conciliation will provide a settlement."

Ferry Service Disrupted

GLENORA — Ferry service between Glenora and Adolphustown was interrupted Saturday during high winds that made docking difficult.

The ferry Quinte Loyalist was tied up for several hours and service suspended until the winds dropped.

The boat is operated by the ministry of transportation and communications.

Smith Top Educator

Hard-working, practical and down-to-earth Mac Smith has been named Educator of the Year and was awarded the Sir Mackenzie Bowell trophy at the Education Breakfast early today.

Mr. Smith, 51, retired last year from education after being a trustee for 22 years with various boards in the Belleville area. During the past two years he served as chairman of the Hastings County Board of Education.

President of Harry Smith Fuels Ltd., Mr. Smith first was elected trustee in 1952 with the Belleville Public School Board. He also served as chairman of this board for four years.

On the provincial scene Mr. Smith is a past-president of the Ontario Public School Trustees Association as well as a former executive of the Ontario School Trustees. He took a leadership role in salary mediating talks across the province.

Y's Men Gather Here For Weekend Seminar

About 35 Y' Men Club members from clubs in eastern Ontario and Quebec attended a spring banquet at the Four Seasons Hotel this weekend.

Working under the theme of service, the Quest (Quebec-Eastern Ontario) District Y's Men's Spring conference activities included club presentations Saturday afternoon followed by a volleyball game and then a banquet during which David Smith was guest speaker.

Mr. Smith is co-ordinator of community school programming services with the Hastings County Board of Education. In his talk to club members, he pointed out the best ways of undertaking a project involving some area of service to the community.

Following his speech, Y's Men members put into practice what they were told by breaking down into smaller workshop groups to discuss ideas and study solutions to problems through co-operation and the fabrication of ideas.

Sunday's session were given over to devotions in the morning led by Rev. Robert Henderson, a former Belleville Y's Men.

Attending the two-day sessions were members from the Y's Men club in Ottawa, Brockville, Kingston and Sherbrooke, Que.

Best Seat in the House

Elementary school students at Sunday's opening of Education Week at Centennial Secondary School left not a number while Ontario's education minister Thomas Wells had the best seat in the house for the concert. More than 700 attended the ceremonies followed by a tour of the exhibits at the school. The theme of this year's Education Week is "learning — a co-operative community enterprise".

Van Kills Two Ponies

THOMASBURG Two Tweed area residents were treated and released from Belleville General Hospital for minor injuries they received Sunday when their van collided with two Shetland ponies on Highway 37 about half a mile north of this village located about seven miles south of Tweed.

Ontario Provincial Police at Belleville said Joseph Goslab, 22, of RR 3, Tweed was the driver of a 1974 GMC van and his passenger was Monica O'Dale, 21, of Minnie St. in Tweed.

They were southbound at about 10.49 p.m. when six inches of snow covered the path of their van from the east ditch. The van hit and killed two of the ponies owned by Ray Coulson of RR 1, Thomasburg. The ponies were valued at $200 apiece.

Secretaries' Week

WHEREAS, in recognition of the secretary, the week of April 20-26 has been designated as Secretaries' Week; and

WHEREAS, in keeping with the best tradition of their profession, secretaries are accepting vital responsibilities and are performing important roles in commerce, industry and government; and

WHEREAS, the efforts of these professionals and their many contributions to the nation's progress are significant; and

WHEREAS, to recognize the secretaries now doing their jobs diligently and to encourage others to enter this worthy career, it is essential that rightful acknowledgement be given their talents;

NOW, THEREFORE, I Robin Jeffrey, Mayor of the City of Belleville, do hereby proclaim the week of April 20-26, 1975 Secretaries' Week and ask that all business and industry join in giving due recognition to this group, paying special attention to SECRETARIES' DAY on April 23, 1975.

Corruption Via Books

Books with heavy emphasis on sex such as a fresh crop now available on Belleville book shelves are a facet of the overall crisis of morals — and morals — across the western world.

It is not surprising that this is widely regarded as an aspect of the subtle chipping away at the fabric of our society by alien forces seeking to destroy it, by a corrupting and manipulating process that is constantly at work in our midst.

The corruption of the youth of a nation they seek to undermine is a known weapon of the Communists.

Through something so seemingly innocent, for example, as "unisex." From Britain there is word of increasing "androgyny" among girls of school age, and authorities are blaming it on unisex attitudes. And from South Africa, which almost inevitably has to be one of the prime targets of Communist subversion today, warnings are being heard that the country's "enemies" are employing similar tactics. Again, the unisex trend with its overtones of homosexuality and moral laxity are cited.

Drugs of course are another means of striking at the moral fibre of youth and there is no need to emphasize the ravages that these, together with alcohol and erotic film fare, have already wrought on this continent.

Among the many diseases that still militate against the population is VD which has reached epidemic proportions.

Health Minister Lalonde has said medical measures alone cannot conquer venereal disease: "It is not only a matter of just fighting it by treatment, like an epidemic of influenza. It is related to a revolution in social morals and sexual habits."

Unfortunately little is being heard at either the government or public level, by way of a counter-revolution of the old values, or encouragement of what once were called manly pursuits on the one hand, and traditional feminine qualities on the other. It's time we did hear from those who would have this remain a strong society, but are unwilling to speak out against the seeming rot all around. Some might see it in the proposed establishment of a Christian secondary school here, but it will take more than that — nothing short in fact of a moral revival, and citizens willing to work for it.

A School's Initiative

The students of Moira secondary school Grade 13 Contemporary English class really started something in educational programming last year with their "Future is Here — the Year 2000."

For one thing it attracted the attention of the Ministry of Education and the University of Toronto.

The result was invitations to English department teacher Fran Joshi and his students to make presentations on the day-long educational program.

On Wednesday, as part of Education Week, the Moira students, to whom India-born Mr. Joshi is quick to give all the credit, are holding another day-long series program featuring seminars and a concluding "Under Attack." This year it is entitled "Reflections of Man."

Among the speakers have been invited, including representatives of the Nigerian and South African embassies in Ottawa.

The range of discussion promises to be wide, lively too, with such stimulating topics as Indians and Francophones as 'Niggers' of Canada, South Africa and Human Relations, and Sexual Freedom and Awareness.

Also scheduled is a dinner at the Four Seasons and Mr. Joshi points out that the entire expenses of the day have been raised by the students themselves. This was accomplished by a dancethon in January which raised $1,500.

It is a fine effort by the students; indeed the program this week promises to be an educational experience of unusual significance. For one thing it will bring together many of the best brains in their field; this is a reflection not only of the Moira students' intellectual maturity but of the importance attached to the event outside Belleville.

Waiting for the UFOs

Doggone it, we have still to see our first flying saucer, or even more technical pariance, Unidentified Flying Object.

There have been all those sightings in recent years in Haliburton way, and we have read a good deal of the literature on this subject, marvelling as the apparently authentic pictures of the objects, and being impressed by the concepts of Eric van Daniken in his "Chariots of the Gods" which attribute all sorts of signs and portents — from wall carvings to the placing of ancient ruins — to mysterious visitations from outer space.

But none of these, in modern guise, has even remotely come within our orbit — none of the flashing lights in the sky, the cigar-shaped things making off always at fantastic speeds, sometimes leaving burn marks on the ground, or any of the ilk. Interfering too with electrical power, stopping car motors and even scaring the hell out of the animals.

No sir, we have missed it all; but now our appetite is whetted again by a reported sighting by Paul Smith of Ottawa — and confirmed by Oshawa Times managing editor Erik Watt and a city policeman. They all claim to have seen something with flashing red, green and white lights and that it was not an aircraft. This is given substance by the fact that Walt has done a lot of flying and as a writer has specialized in aviation.

Perhaps our turn will come to spot one of these critters in the sky. Meanwhile, let it be said that several Quinte-area residents have reported seeing UFOs in the past few years.

Metric Raises Some Hackles

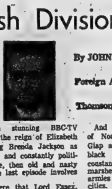
Taking the lead in any great matter can be unpopular, but it is an idea whose time has come then the lesson of history is that others invariably follow suit.

It is arguable of course whether there are advantages in Canada's conversion to metric while the United States still drags its feet. Yet if it is "madness," as Ald. Stu Meeks suggests, then postponing it after this initial start could occasion even greater grief.

We can anticipate horrendous problems with Canada and the United States on different systems. However, if it should be postponed further — and it is a graduated process anyway — it will be merely putting off the evil day.

Canada by adopting metric is falling into line with Europe and, for all the temporary chaos that lies ahead, the goal ultimately is a simplified system and common usage of benefit to all.

Irish Divisions a 400-year-old Political Headache



By JOHN D. HARKSON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

In the stunning BBC/TV series on the reign of Elizabeth I, starring Brenda Jackson as the young and constantly politically agile, (but old and nasty queen, the last episode involves Ireland.

It is here that Lord Essex, her last and doomed favorite, goes out to make his name by quelling the rebellious Irish once and for all. The year was 1599 or thereabouts. But the style was United States fire-power against the Irish peasant forces a la Vietnam.

And the Irish style was that of North Vietnamese General Giap and his little warriors in black pajama pads, receding constantly into the bogs and marshes, destroying the formal armies of Essex in the Irish cities.

But my God, this was in 1599, 379 years ago, far, far back in time, an Irish war, fought and planned by men who only nice years earlier had defeated Spain's super-fleet we call the Armada.

And as we analyze the end of a guerilla and people's war in Southeast Asia, which staggers us because it now is 30 years old, (having been spanned by the course of events during the Second World War), the Irish problem lingers and after years or decades, but after whole centuries.

This columnist recently read that former Conservative cabinet minister Reginald Maudling on his return in 1970 from a totally frustrating North Ireland visit is supposed to have said:

"For God's sake bring me a large Scotch. What a bloody awful country."

The Northern Ireland struggle today is no longer a colonial one, though the provisional IRA does not agree. They have added the insolences of a new Marxist jargon so that words like "imperialism" and "colonial status" have the same ring before recent "liberating" events in Lisbon or when leftwing Latin American countries talk about American "economic domination."

The colonial period when Englishmen ran roughshod over Ireland, conquered her, or tried to do so in the best brutal tradition of any imperial power has left an insanely prejudiced population in Ireland, who will never agree to a united Irish state in spite of the relative freedom experienced by the Protestant Irish who live in Eire.

Today Protestant militancy has all the marks of exceeding the historic Catholic record as practised by the IRA and the provisionals.

And the Protestants in the North, especially in key industrial towns like Belfast, with one of the world's largest shipyards, and Londonderry have discriminated badly against Catholics in the local industries and in management.

If there is any bias to be shown, as if Northern Ireland didn't have enough of it, for all time, it has to be on the side of the Catholic cause in the north.

The outward visible reasons for the enmity and civil war are as intensely incomprehensible and, to the outsider, as large differences in a Christian world largely lukewarm about its faith.

But the inward ones are those of social discrimination by Northern Irish Protestants against Northern Irish Catholics.

The British most nevertheless, solve the terrible problem since Northern Ireland is part of the United Kingdom and because the colonial legacy is the one which their best kings and Parliaments created.

Doubts About TV Violence Probe

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau
Thomson News Service

TORONTO — Royal commissions have been appointed in Canada over the years for a variety of reasons. A good many of them have been fully legitimate inquiries to produce information for governments from which they could plan courses of action.

In such a category would have been the McGhee commission on civil rights here in Ontario.

The main purpose of others has quite plainly been to take the heat off governments. The commission on organized crime here some years ago probably was in this category.

But as far as is known, the government's latest foray into the commission field — the McMurtry commission — is the first time a government has appointed a commission to appear to be taking action on something about which it really can do nothing.

The commission, under former federal cabinet minister Judy LaMarsh, is to study the impact of violence in the media, particularly television, on society.

Premier Davis said he felt that the portrayal of violence on television in turn leads to more violence in society.

And Miss LaMarsh is to study whether this is so and if she finds that it is to propose ways and means how it may be curbed.

All very laudable, perhaps, but the big conundrum for Miss LaMarsh will be what could the province ever do to stop it.

For she will be dealing with a problem over which the province has absolutely no control and which, even if it did have such control would defy efforts to control it anyway.

The fact is that there really is only one agency in North America that can effectively curb violence on TV. This is the United States federal government.

It presumably can tell the industry to cut it, out and patted it to see that it is done.

But there is absolutely nothing that Ontario can do. And little the Canadian federal government can do.

Ottawa might be able to control production in Canada and conceivably, though it doesn't look very practical, have a system that could cable television carried.

But as long as a third of the country's population lives along the border in direct range of U.S. stations what Washington let's go will be received here.

Opposition parties immediately said the commission is an election gimmick.

On the evidence they would seem to be more right than wrong.

Gold Retains Its Sturdy Amid Economic Uncertainty

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Just four months ago, speculators were bidding up the price of gold billion day by day.

American citizens were to be allowed to buy gold on Dec. 31, 1974, for the first time since the Depression years. Speculators in other countries were convinced that pent-up buying demand from Americans would bring about a big wave of gold purchases, sending the price of bullion to well above $200 an ounce.

It didn't work out that way. The record price was approximately $200, but the figure to which it had advanced because of speculative pressure before Dec. 31.

Since then, however, the price has fallen by about one-sixth, as more and more of the speculators have found themselves forced to liquidate their holdings.

But if the U.S. public's demand for gold bullion has been far more restrained than the speculators anticipated, the industrial demand for the most precious of all metals has remained just about as steady as ever.

Manufacturers of fine jewelry are the major industrial market for gold, as well as for platinum and sterling silver. They are also heavy buyers of diamonds.

Since 1968, their selling prices have been climbed to reflect the increased cost of their raw materials. For 34 years up until then, they had enjoyed the unique advantage of a fixed price of $35 an ounce of gold, thanks to the U.S. treasury.)

Some consumers have reacted to the price rises by scaling down their purchases to less valuable items, or by postponing them—precious-metal jewelry is not, after all, one of the necessities of life.

But gift-giving occasions—marriages, anniversaries and the like—keep coming around every year, and to the jewelry market has a good deal of built-in stability.

Neither Canadians nor Americans have developed the habit, widely held in Europe, of buying gold and other precious jewelry as an investment and hedge against inflation, war or other man-made calamity.

There are increasing signs, however, that the European practice may be taking hold among some North Americans, especially those who regard the stock market as no longer a reliable place to put one's investment capital.

The jewelry trade, in fact, has found interesting resemblances to the stock market—it operates largely on trust and personal relationships, and is concentrated in the heart of big cities such as New York and Toronto.

The advocates of each form of investment can trot out countless arguments to support their position.

But gold, and the jewelry made from it, can at least claim this: Gold has by far the better record—thousands of years—as a universally accepted store of value.

That role seems certain to endure, despite the fluctuations of the market.

A Clean Environment ?

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

For years Environment Minister William Newman and his predecessors have been using the same tune. Promising the people of Ontario legislation to control the use of non-returnable bottles and cans.

The record of the Ministry of the Environment is a contradiction of its concept. Could those who are responsible for environmental problems not pay for the clean up. Under the leadership of Environment Minister William Newman, the Ministry has allowed industry to continue making unrecyclable containers. Some retailers doing everything possible to encourage the recycling of returnable bottles, allowing limited shelf space, refusing to pay cash for refundables.

The present program of the Environment Ministry is costing citizens millions of dollars each year. Non-returnable containers using up valuable natural resources, power and energy. Littered highways and byways to be cleaned up. Thousands of dollars in unredeemable filling up valuable landfill sites. All to be paid for by the taxpayers. It looks like the only Ministry concerned with keeping Ontario Beautiful!

KENNETH PEOPLES.

Council and the Public

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Alderman Arthur Keegan is quite right — information is difficult to obtain from city hall.

I was given the grand run around last year when I tried to prise from the administration the amount and details of the request for a grant from the Chamber of Commerce and the final analysis, it came down to the fact that the request was available only to the Mayor's office. That is, of course, if the average person knew this.

Mayor Jeffrey has shown, over her year in office, both as alderman and Mayor, a interesting relationship with secrecy or, at best, a noticeable reluctance to make information readily available to the public.

I recall, when she first ran for office one of her main planks in her campaign was the abolishment of radio broadcasts of city council meetings. Another plank was sending subsidization of citizens briefs to enable them to be allowed to be presented to council.

Added to all the above was the hilarious discussion, in caucus about rabbits — what the devil is so secret about rabbits?

The clincher at Monday's meeting was Alderman Stu Meeks. Already the mover of motions to have minutes of any other council meeting, his notice of motion to stop the implementation of the metric system showed him to be the chief clown in the municipal circus.

Brothers, Tyler, 1, and Jason Bonin, 12, talk over the last ride they expect before heading out on the Trenton Memorial Hospital bike-a-thon Saturday. Bicyclists littered the ground before the start of the event organizers hope will raise $11,000 for new surgical equipment needed by the hospital.

Bike-a-thon a Success Despite Weather

TRENTON — Despite a windstorm with gusts up to 55 miles an hour, downed power lines and fallen trees, the third annual Trenton Memorial Hospital bike-a-thon Saturday was a success, says its co-ordinator Nora Ellis.

Both participation and the dollars raised through the events are up this year over last, she said. And, she added, other than a few scraped knees, none of the children bicyclists were hurt.

This year, about 300 people started the scheduled 25-mile ride at 1 p.m., Saturday. In 1974, when $8,000 was raised for X-ray equipment, only about 200 bicyclists started.

Mrs. Ellis estimated that $11,000 was raised for new surgical equipment needed by the hospital. The equipment, a gastroscope and labroscope, was valued at $12,000.

Considering the day, with rainfall ending just before the 8 a.m. start, and wind blowing steadily at 25 miles an hour, it was successful, she said.

One hitch did develop. Organizers were forced to cut the route by about half after it was learned downed power lines and fallen trees obstructed the intended route through Wooler and Frankford.

The shortened route jeopardizes the $11,000 estimated as the event's proceeds.

Organizers are hoping the people who pledged money will understand the route was shortened for reasons of safety and donate as if the full route was finished.

Robert Ward, hospital ward chairman, said "The people who came should get a tip of the hat for coming considering the weather conditions."

Mayor Bob Patrick, who started and finished the bike-a-thon after a challenge from from CFTO Trenton, said Saturday that with the high winds, the event was a "tough grind" and the children who stuck it out deserve a lot of credit.

"It was a lot tougher for them. Some were nearly blown over," he said, after estimating that he raised about $130 in his first bike-a-thon.

Although he started on a four-man bicycle, the mayer along with the rest of his team, completed the event on a one-man bicycles. His challenger, Col. Doepe completed the course in his four-man, bicycle and raised an estimate $500.

Ban on Power Boats Angers Area Sportsmen

BANCROFT — Ontario fishermen and hunters had their fears Algonquin Park confirmed at a recent meeting held here.

An employee of the ministry of natural resources, whose responsibility includes the implementation of the proposed Algonquin Park master plan, Andy Brethour, told the more than 100 sportsmen who attended the meeting By 1986, Opeongo Lake will be the only lake within the borders of Algonquin Park where an outboard motor will be permitted."

Mr. Brethour said the master plan will create," an area where man's wilderness, where solitude and an absence of the signs of our modern society will be available."

A representative of the Bancroft Fish and Game Club John Struik accused the provincial government of irresponsibility in forgetting," the fishermen and the senior citizens who want to use the park."

Members who attended the meeting also suggested that," the physically fit purist between the ages of 20 and 40 who enjoys canoeing have effectively managed a boycott of sportsmen, fishermen, senior citizens and the physically handicapped from the use of the park."

Cote New Commander Of Legion District F

TRENTON — Lindsay resident Cliff Cote was elected commander of Canadian Legion District F Sunday during the final day of a two-day convention held here at Trenton's Branch 110.

His election for a two-year term follows the single term he served as the district's deputy commander. He has served on the district council in various capacities since 1960.

The Legion's District F takes in about 35 branches and 1,400 members and stretches roughly from Toronto, east just past Belleville, and north and south as far as Bancroft and Prince Edward County.

Joining the district council as deputy commander is Merrill Dunn, of Branch 186 in Campbellford, north of Lindsay. Other positions on the 35-member council will be filled later.

Mr. Cote of Branch 67 replaces John Maw of Port Perry Branch 619.

Re-elected as Zone F3 commander is James Collen of Consecon and Zone F2 commander John Bevan of Cobourgh. The former will represent the Belleville branch and the latter the Trenton branch.

Schools Open to Public During Education Week

BLOOMFIELD — Prince Edward County schools will present a special program of activities during Education Week from April 20 to 26 and Douglas Caley, chairman of the Prince Edward County Board of Education has urged local residents to visit the classrooms.

"It is my sincere hope that residents of the county will take this opportunity to visit and carefully assess their local schools and the educational programs being offered. Come prepared to question," he suggested.

Mr. Caley said one of the most difficult problems confronting a school board is the obtainment of public input.

"Please visit your schools and then let us have your criticisms and your suggestions for improvement," he said.

Among the events planned in Prince Edward during education week is an Achievement Night April 23 at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute.

Also on April 23, Mildred Corke and Redneraville schools will co-ordinate a Metric Night at Redneraville School with an open house for the public.

Sophiasburg Central School will hold a Community Awareness Day on Friday, April 25 as well as other programs this week.

Athol and Sough Marysburg schools will adopt Pioneer Education in Prince Edward as the theme for intermediate students throughout education week.

Many other special events are planned at all of the county schools.

Principals Have Hand In Formulating Budget

BLOOMFIELD — Principals in the Prince Edward County school system recently met with trustees of the finance committee to discuss preparation of the 1975 budget in a conference board members suggest is probably "unique in the province of Ontario."

"It is only possible because of the ideal size of the Prince Edward County School system and the board's desire for better communications with the teaching staff," stated trustees in a press release.

"If teaching staff are expected to exercise responsibility in the use of public funds it is only reasonable that they be provided with the background information and the opportunity to participate necessary for them to assume that responsibility," observed the board.

Principals examined all aspects of the proposed budget in detail with trustees and were permitted to question all areas of the budget in addition to contributing suggestions.

In previous years, principals have been involved only in "the purely educational segments."

With this involvement, it is hoped principals will not only be in a position to provide worthwhile input and suggestions but will become completely familiar with every expenditure required to operate the school system and the limitations on funds available imposed by provincial grant regulations and the necessity to produce a reasonable and acceptable local tax levy," stated the board.

Three Hurt In Crash

PICTON — One man was admitted to Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital and two others transferred to Kingston hospital Saturday afternoon following a car-truck collision on county road five, four miles north of Picton.

Reported in satisfactory condition in Kingston hospital are Dennis Wannamaker, 19, driver of the car, and his father Donald Wannamaker, 49, a passenger in the vehicle, both of Demorestville.

The men were admitted to hospital with fractures and several lacerations.

A second passenger in the truck, Richard Istead, 23, of RR1, Bloomfield, was admitted to Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital with a broken hip and a broken arm.

Driver of the car, Ronald Valleau, 19, of RR1, Demorestville, escaped the accident with bruises.

Police described the Wannamaker truck as a "write-off" and estimated damage at $1,000. Damage to the Valleau car was set at $1,200.

Ann Landers

Kick Free-loading Sons Out!

Dear Ann Landers: We have two grown sons (mid-thirties) who could hardly wait to leave home and get away from their square parents. They wanted complete freedom to do their own thing. So off they went with our blessings but we loved them and they could always come home if things got rough.

That was five years ago. They have come home several times, separately, and a couple of horrible times when their "homecoming" coincided.

The first time they returned we were glad to see them—relieved that they were O.K. True, they brought their life-any longer." But we DO feel styles with them—TV from mid-this way and it is killing us. night until dawn and sleeping We thought we raised our past noon. They spent hours on boys not to stand on their own the phone (including long-dis-feet—church, paper routes, jobs tance which we paid for). We after school and savings ac-finally insisted they get jobs, both boys were highly insulted when we suggested they contribute something to the food bills. Eventually they took off again.

To date, they've been home four times after having travelled all over the country, holding some good jobs but quitting when they became bored with the straight life. They are both home at present, sponging off Mom and Dad.

We are sick of it. We never thought we could ever say to our own sons, "Keep moving. We can't stand your freeloading

Now that the safety net has been removed, your sons will have to make it on their own or starve. Home can be a port in a storm, once, but to let grown men feel they can fall in and counts. We tried to set a fir example by being good citizens. But something didn't take. What's the answer, Ann? — The Old Folks At Home

Dear Folks: What's the question? Should you feel guilty because you've told your sons the free hotel is no longer operating? Forget it!

Your mistake was not establishing the ground rules after the first "homecoming." To allow grown men to watch TV all night and sleep until noon doesn't square with the way they were raised.

In case you are wondering if I have another love interest, let me assure you I have not. I spend most of my time at home cooking, baking, cleaning and sewing for the girls. My husband is a great reader of books. He is average-looking, neat about his person and our good anywhere at night without me. We have a nice marriage—no fights.

I guess what I'm asking is this: Is it all right for me not to want any more sex? Please give me your opinion — Don't Need It

Dear D.N.I.: It's all right by ME. What does your husband say? If he's content, you have no problem. If he complains, however, you'd better see a doctor and find out why at 36 you have no sex drive. It could be physical.

Doris Clark

Hands Were Her Eyes

My hand is to me what your hearing and sight together are to you. All my comings and goings turn my hand as a pivot. It is the hand that binds me to the world of men and women.

The hand is my feeler with which I reach through isolation and darkness and sense every pleasure, every beauty. All my fingers encounter.

I, too, may construct my better world, for I am a child of God, an inheritor of a fragment of the Mind that created all worlds.

— Helen Keller.

Dear Doris: Being separated from my husband and with one small child, I know what it's like to be lonely, just like the elderly do. My fear of strangers is hidden behind a seemingly overconfident personality and a don't give-a-darn attitude.

You stated that if elderly people wrote in wanting friends you would connect them. If anyone from my city has written in, would you please follow through?

I am 27, my son is five. It certainly wouldn't do to link us up with someone who doesn't like small children. I

ALL YOU NEED

If a recipe calls for one-half cup of chopped dried beef, buy a 2½-ounce jar and you'll have all you need.

don't drive, therefore I could not take them places.

PEGGY.

Dear Peggy: So far I haven't had an elderly person writing in asking for a youthful penpal but you will hear from me if I do.

Meanwhile I'll send you the list of pen pal clubs. And I would also suggest that it is far more fun to meet friends face to face; and to do this you are going to have to overcome your fear with the love you want to give. You can go to your own local volunteer bureau, social planning council or family agency, to find out about older people who would just love to have a visit from you.

Flowers Thrive Under 'Pyramids'

TORONTO (CP)—While most gardeners are laughing at the first blooms to burst in their gardens, a photographer here is doing spectacular growing in his basement.

Gilbert Milne's secret to the abundant growth of his petunias, begonias and roses is electricities. He said the plants thrive under pyramids, they burgeon with nails embedded in the pot soil, they send out new shoots with pins stuck in their stems and they grow better in old salmon cans than fancy pottery.

"I heard about the pyramids," he said, when he was involved with an indoor light gardening group. "I decided to look into them. I guess I would never have done it alone."

The pyramids are metal rods which meet at an apex spread out to form broad angles.

Mr. Milne said that they are designed on the proportions of the Great Pyramid in Egypt and that the dimensions, for best results, have to be exact.

The theory is that some kind of energy is generated within the shape and around it which stimulates plant growth.

The energy is a great puzzler, Mr. Milne said. He has an impatiens blooming vividly under a pyramid-in his darkroom.

Plants don't have to be kept under the cone all the time, he said. In the Milne household, they are gathered up at night from the tables and sills, where they add color, and huddled together under the energy field.

Sometimes Mr. Milne tucks metal coat hangers into the pots and bends them to plants which are directly under the pyramids.

In the outdoor garden, he also practises electroculture. He said that to grow potatoes, he dig a trench which runs north and south.

The tomato seedlings are placed with their roots gathered and pointing to the north. Beside each one is a metal stake.

Mr. Milne said that before he had used the pyramids, he expected to fight while fly and there were grubs and slugs in the basement greenhouse.

But no more. The pyramids seem to keep them out. He said that he uses the soil out of his garden.

"And I never sterilize it," he said.

Shorter Quiz

LONDON (CP) — The number of questions to be put in the British census next year will be cut to about 18, instead of the 29 asked in the 1971 count. Ennis stated are all questions on whether a couple is living in sin or whether children are illegitimate.

Hot's Business?

LONDON (CP) — American Dorothy Ehright, who says she is financially "comfortable," dropped into an afternoon recently and bought seven Rolls-Royces and two Bentleys at a cost of $43,000 ($103,200). The former concert pianist from California said she will keep some and sell others to friends back home.

Quinte Cuisine

Pat Ball and her family — husband Bruce and sons Brian and Clark — recently moved to Belleville from Kitchener. Prior to that they spent several months in Japan, where Mr. Ball studied the Tokyo postal sorting system. Now back on home ground, Mrs. Ball is collecting and refinishing antique furniture. She also likes to cook, and has had several requests for this recipe.

Stuffed Mushrooms

one lb. large mushrooms (1½ inch diameter)
one medium onion, chopped fine ½ cup butter
two tbsp. parsley
one clove garlic, chopped and mashed (or three drops of garlic juice)
1½ tsp. oregano
¼ cup bread crumbs
¼ cup parmesan cheese

Wash and dry mushrooms. Remove stems and set caps aside. Chop stems finely, and combine them with onion, butter, parsley, garlic and oregano in a sauce pan. Cook and stir over medium-high heat for five or 10 minutes. Remove from heat, and add bread crumbs and cheese.

Stuff caps with above mixture. Place on a baking sheet and broil for seven or eight minutes, six or eight inches below the broiler.

These stuffed mushrooms are an excellent addition to a hors d'oeuvres plate, and are also good served with a main dish such as roast beef.

Mrs. Hall suggests that the stuffing can be prepared in the morning of the day you intend to serve the mushrooms, and then they can be popped under the broiler just before use.

Medical Secretaries Clinic Day Held

More than 80 persons attended the Quinte Medical Secretaries' Clinic Day held Saturday at Education Hall, Belleville General Hospital.

Chairman of the day-long series of lectures was Patti Sargeant. Members of the committee were Sheila Hunter, Pat Rawbotham, Linda Royle, Jeannette Farquhar, Eileen Conley, Diana Maxwell and Peggy Fascoe.

Mary Caberal introduced the guest speakers.

The day's program began with a speech by a man and woman who are alcoholics. Members of Alcoholics Anonymous they described their experiences with alcohol.

Other speakers were Dr. R. S. Morphy, Father Ken Slitt, Dr. Lionel Dorfeitt, Dr. J. Russell Scott, Mary Bailie, of Family and Children's Services, and Dr. T. C. Y. Wong.

'Joys of a Vasectomy' Described

The joys of a vasectomy were described to Quinte Medical Secretaries Saturday by urologist Dr. R. S. Morphy.

Addressing the group's annual Clinic Day, Dr. Morphy told the women that the term vasectomy is a misnomer.

"The vas, which carries sperm from the testicles to storage, is cut not removed," he explained. Dr. Morphy said the correct term is bilateral vas ligation.

The procedure, which usually take place in a doctor's office with local anaesthetic, involves two small incisions, he said, and most often results in only slight discomfort.

Dr. Morphy said the procedure is not a new one but that as recently as 1964 physicians were urged not to sterilize men unless there were sound medical reasons.

"Now we're aware of the cost of raising a child — estimated at $50,000 — and of the stress of large populations," he said.

"In 1970, the Canadian Medical Association said vasectomy is now a legal method of birth control."

Dr. Morphy said that his own records indicate the surge of interest in the operation from that date.

"Before 1970, I performed 15 to 30 ligations a year," he said. "In 1974, however, he pointed out, the number was 180. Dr. Morphy said the high figures in 1972 reflect a backlog of persons who had been considering sterilization.

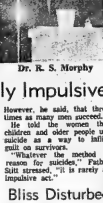
He stressed that couples are not questioned about the sterilization request.

"It's their God-given right not to have children. I don't go into the reasons. It's their business."

Both husband and wife are asked to sign a form giving consent for the procedure.

Dr. Morphy told the women that in 75 to 80 per cent of the cases where reversal of the sterilization is desired, it is successful. However he said that doctors prefer that patients undergo the operation with the idea that it is per manent.

A reversal operation, he said, must be done in the hospital and, interestingly, OHIP will not cover the cost.



Dr. R. S. Morphy

Suicide 'Rarely Impulsive'

Death by choice and death by chance were discussed by Rev. Ken Slitt Saturday at the Quinte Medical Secretaries' Annual Clinic Day.

Father Slitt, Belleville General Hospital chaplain, told the women that death was viewed with fear in an age when "being old is considered bad taste".

"But death is not strange or alien," he said. "It's a part of life."

In discussing death by choice, Father Slitt said that the causes of suicide lie in the mind of the person who has failed in his search for life and has gone through the agony of deciding to die. He said that suicide is not an event but a process which begins early in life.

"No one would commit suicide unless he got the feeling from those around him that the situation would be better without him."

About 75 per cent of those who attempt suicide are depressed, Father Slitt said, and twice as many women as men attempt suicide. However, he said, that three times as many men succeed.

He told the women that children and older people use suicide as a way to inflict guilt on survivors.

"Whatever the method or reason for suicides," Father Slitt stressed, "it is rarely an impulsive act."

Bliss Disturbed

LONDON (CP) — Sir Arthur Bliss, master of the Queen's musick has complained that the din from a neighboring school is such that he no longer can use his first-floor music room. Sir Arthur, 83, who was given the 11th century court title 22 years ago, has joined others in urging that the school be moved.

Impaired Drivers Face Jail for Second Time

OTTAWA (CP) — More than 100,000 Canadians have been convicted of impaired driving since the breath test ballooned into one of the country's toughest laws five years ago.

It's getting even tougher. Offenders, among them prominent politicians, lawyers, doctors, even judges and policemen, face an almost certain jail term if convicted a second time.

A recent Supreme Court of Canada decision makes it difficult for judges to escape imposing the mandatory jail term for a second offence.

In New Brunswick, judges have been asked to jail rather than fine first offenders. About 25 per cent of 382 offenders were jailed in 13 municipalities there in the first quarter of 1975.

Maximum penalty for the initial breath-test conviction is three months in jail and a $500 fine. However, few jail sentences have been imposed and fines for first offences are generally near the $50 minimum.

The Criminal Code says second offenders must go to jail for at least two weeks and third-time offenders for at least three months.

The Supreme Court ruled recently that judges no longer can escape imposing a first conviction by giving the offender a conditional discharge—meaning second offences were treated like first ones and no jail sentences were imposed.

Court decisions, plus toughening public attitudes, may mean some rude shocks this year for prominent citizens who so far have had to cope only with fines. They include a former provincial premier, a city solicitor, a judge, and the managing editor of a daily newspaper leading a crusade against drunk driving. All face at least two weeks in jail for a second offence.

Nova Scotia, cracking down hard on drinking drivers, keeps detailed figures that suggest judges somehow have avoided jail sentences for repeaters.

Last year 238 second offences and 44 third offences were recorded in the province but only two jail sentences were imposed. The rest, along with 2,407 first offenders, were fined.

All 298 persons convicted of impaired driving were fined, although 64 were second offenders and five were third offenders.

Banks Refuse to Cash Income Tax Refund Cheque

OTTAWA (CP) — Andre Poirier, 27, an epileptic who can't work, went to eight bank branches last week before finding a teller who would cash his $219.20 cheque from Revenue Canada Taxation.

The first bank he went to cashed his city welfare cheque but wouldn't touch the federal cheque. He was told that government-type cheques are too easily stolen.

The manager of the branch where he usually cashes his welfare cheques advised Mr. Poirier to open an account.

Mr. Poirier ran into former prime minister John Diefenbaker Friday.

Mr. Diefenbaker was indignant. "Such a bank practice is wrong. It was not an agreed policy with the federal government that recipients of ia cheques must have bank accounts before they could cash them."

Four Straight Central Ontario Championships for BCI Girls

PETERBOROUGH (Special) — Discus girls' gymnastics at the Central Ontario Secondary School Athletic Association (COSSAA) level, and Sue Davies, Belleville Collegiate Institute (BCI) team got rave notices.

It was no different at Thomas A. Stewart Secondary School here on the weekend when Mrs. Davie's BCI aggregation, champions of the Bay of Quinte district for five straight years, made it four in a row in COSSAA competition.

Suffering from the effects of a heavy cold, Mrs. Davie, obviously benefiting from the buoyancy another championship brought with it, announced that the title made her feel "very good".

The COSSAA crown was the best medicine anyone could prescribe.

BCI put together a team point total of 78.65, just a shade off the mark of 79.30 the Collegiates totalled to take the honors in the Bay of Quinte district.

Moira Secondary School of Belleville, coached by Valerie Paddon and Donna Patterson, perennial runnerup to BCI in the Bay of Quinte competition, finished third here with 72 points.

Second place went to Peterborough Collegiate with 75 points.

Judy White captured senior all round honors for BCI and Wendy Donovan was second to one of the top gymnasts in the province, Judy Lodge of Oshawa's Donovan Collegiate, in all round title.

Holly earned a first in the floor exercise and vault while taking second place in the uneven bars and fourth in beam. She scored an impressive 8.3 to perfect mark in 10 in the floor competition.

Wendy faced with a formidable opponent in Miss Lodge, was a strong second at the elite level, finishing second to beam, floor and vault. She was particularly skilled in the floor exercise where she chalked up an 8.5.

Another BCI gymnast, Fran White also excelled in the elite section, taking first place in bars; fourth in beam and fourth in vault. Centre Hastings Secondary School's Karen Kellar was fifth in beam and bars and sixth in vault.

Moira placed four in the top three positions in all round. Second in novice was Lynda Farnsworth and third, Michelle Harrison.

Leslie Caney was second in intermediate all round, and Sandy Gray, third, in senior.

Add to BCI COSSA Champs in novice events, Chris Yeates of BCI was second, Jo Ellen Jeffrey, BCI, third, and Linda Farnsworth, Moira, fifth, in beam.

Laurie Dahlkwitz of Centennial Secondary School was sixth in floor exercise; BCI's Brenda Wannamaker took first place in vault, and in the uneven bars, Eleanor Hartwick of Napanee and District Secondary School was first and Michelle Harrison, Moira, fifth.

In the Intermediate level, Napanee's Saana Restilloux took third in beam and Sarah Hatcher of Bayside Secondary School as fourth.

Leslie Caney of Moira scored an 8.1 in floor exercise to take first place while Anne Dofton of BCI was fifth. Centennial School's Joan Meagher was fifth in vault and BCI's Sue Wilson, sixth. Janice Empey, BCI, and Sue Cooney, Bayside, tied for fifth place in the uneven bars event.

Results of other Bay of Quinte competition in the various events where Holly White shone are:

Beam, Sandy Gray, Moira, fifth; vault, Sandy Gray, Moira, second; uneven bars, Sandy Gray, third; Mary Geen, BCI, fourth and Kathy Graham, Moira, sixth.

Ontario Federation of Secondary Schools Athletic Association competition is scheduled for York University, Toronto, Saturday.

BCI gymnasts taking part will be Wendy Donovan in senior all round; BCI's Holly White, senior vault and floor, and Chris Yeates, novice beam.

Moira's Leslie Caney will compete in intermediate floor and Michelle Harrison in novice bars.

Ontario Minor Hockey Association area convenor Doug Hearns of Picton presents O. M. Welchel Trophy to Trenton Birt's Handy Stand captain Scott Poole. Trenton team became first to win Juvenile AA title three straight years by getting past Oakridge Acres Charterways in a seven-game final.

Gas House Trophies Presented

Stanley's and Generals Reap Rewards

Stanley Structures and Belleville Generals finished on-two in the regular season and when the playoffs were over they finished in the same order. Stanley beat out the Generals 4-1 in the final series to capture the Gas House Hockey League title.

Saturday, at the annual awards and banquet night, the two clubs continued their reign over the league by monopolizing the presentation ceremony.

Three of the awards handed out went to Stanley players, while three others went to individuals on the Generals.

Hyalie Brant, a member of the second place Generals, captured the league scoring title and was named the league's Most Valuable Player.

Gary Goyer was the other Stanley player to take an award. He was named the league's Most Valuable Defenceman.

Stanley players Wayne Storms, Ray Summers and Vern Whalen each walked away with a trophy.

Storms was named the league's Most Sportsmanlike Player (his award combines ability with gentlemanly conduct). The bustling forward scored 20 goals for the season with 14 goals and 25 assists in 36 games. He did not have a single penalty minute. Storms was also a big gun in the playoffs, counting nine goals and 11 assists.

Summers was the Most Valuable Player in the playoffs as he pulled eight goals and drew seven assists in 10 contests. Summers was runnerup to Bryant for the scoring championship. He finished with 38 points on 29 goals, and the same number of assists.

Whalen was the only other player to finish with a 1.50 goals against average. He played all 24 contests. In all 16 of his team's playoff sessions he compiled a 2.50 average. In 34 total games over the year his average was 1.75 with five shutouts.

Goaltender Ralph Lowe finished with a 1.50 goals against average. He played all

Brighton OPP Team Evens Playoff Final

Two bus loads of fans and another large group of supporters who travelled in 27 cars were on hand to cheer Mitchell on here Saturday in the fourth game of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association Peewee C provincial final series.

But it was a long, disappointment - laden journey home for the Mitchell team and its supporters who had swelled attendance to near the 800 mark for the key match to the six-point final.

Relying heavily on the potential of Brian Berube, the Brighton OPP Peewee squad a convincing 8-3 win to knot the series at 2-2 in games. The fifth and deciding game is scheduled for Mitchell, probably on a weekend, but no official announcement concerning the date has been made.

Berubeck fired five of the Brighton goals, giving him a total of 10 for the last three games.

Single markers went to Allan Currie, Larry Reddom and David Cheer.

Each team has now won twice on its home ice.

Both Brighton losses in Mitchell were by one-goal margins.

The OPP team could bring this community its first ever OMHA crown.

Birt's Third Title in a Row Establishes AA Series Record

By DOUG WALSH
Sports Editor

TRENTON — Coaches drive for show and putt for dough.

Hockey players electrify the crowd with individualism and win championships with team work.

Trenton Birt's Handy Stand became the first team ever to win three straight Ontario Minor Hockey Association Juvenile AA championships with a 6-3 defeat of Oakridge Acres Charterways, here, Sunday night.

It was the fourth win of the series for Birt's who lost twice and settled for a tie in another match.

Owners of a 3-1 lead in games at one point in the title set, the Trenton skaters let Charterways off the hook in the fifth game when Oakridge pulled out a 5-3 tie with two goals remaining in overtime and then Birt's dropped Game 6, 7-4, in Allerton, Saturday night.

While his squad was fritting away its chances after climbing into the driver's seat early, coach Roger Drake was concerned by a disturbing habit his charges have developed.

"When we get behind, everyone tries to do everything on his own, instead of working as a unit," Drake analyzed.

The first-year coach had no such problems, Sunday.

While an observer could pick more than one standout from among the champions, it would be a more honest appraisal to give credit where it most certainly is due.

The O. M. Welchel Trophy, emblematic of Juvenile AA supremacy, is back in Trenton again because Birt's simply would not be denied.

In the final analysis, it was a case of every player giving everything he had, in a concerted team effort.

Down 5-3 with time running out, Charterways gambled when coach John Stoyanovich pulled goalie Ian Harrison for a sixth player. The move stewed in the penalty box.

The visitors had the pressure on but Birt's applied the crusher when goalie Gord Beall cleared the puck to Bruce Leedham who fired from his own zone and found the open net to set off a noisy demonstration in the packed arena. The clock showed 59 second to play when Leedham iced the clincher.

It was 1-1 after one period and 2-2, Trenton, heading for the third.

The home side increased its lead to 4-2 on a Harold Robert's powerplay goal but, instead of going into a defensive shell, Birt's continued to press and it paid off when Dave Lewis stole the puck inside the Oakridge blueliner and Bob Cameron connected for a 5-2 lead.

Charterways, having demonstrated their ability to rebound earlier in the series, were not out of it yet. Trenton's lead disappeared in two when Dan Crighton found the mark with just under three minutes to play.

But this was Trenton's night. Any hopes the visitors had of a comeback were ruled by dismissed by Birt's determined display.

Bruce Reddick missed a great chance to make it a 4-3 score early in the third when he was awarded a penalty shot after being hauled down with a clear path to the goal.

Beall stood his ground and Reddick shot wide of the net. Cameron's goal came seven minutes later.

The winners took 11 of the 18 minor penalties handed out. Leedham was a two-goal shooter for the champions. Checkers in with the others were Larry Doucette, Bob Thompson, Cameron and Robert.

Joe Henry, Peter Kennedy and Creighton looked after the scoring for Oakridge Acres, forced to the runnerup position by Trenton for the second year in a row.

OMHA area convener Doug Hearns of Picton officiated at the game. Trophy presentations.

Saturday in Ideston, Birt's fell behind 3-1 in the first period and Oakridge scored the only two goals of the second frame to make it 5-1. The Trenton team hold a 3-2 edge in scoring in the final 20 minutes.

Team captain Scott Poole's marker was all Birt's could muster in the first 40 minutes of play.

Charterways got singles from Craig Heliden, Dave Stoyanovich and Creighton in the first frame and added another from Heliden and one by Geoff Stevenson in the second.

Roberts potted two Trenton goals in the final 20 minutes and Cameron was the other Birt's subject.

The winners rounded out their scoring with one each by Brian Skrzynski and Reddick, as Oakridge upped its total to four against Birt's seven, in the eight-point series.

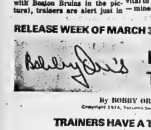
TRAINERS HAVE A TOUGH JOB



Professional hockey players understand all too well the importance of trainers.

With the rugged, demanding schedule in the NHL, it's very important to have efficient trainers. Consider this: When teams arrive in a city, generally the players go to the hotels immediately but the trainers board a van carrying the equipment to the rink.

Sometimes, they have to do this in the early morning hours. But despite the time, when the team arrives for the pre-game skate the following morning, their equipment is always ready; the locker room is stocked with tape, laces and any other necessities and the trainers are there to make sure they can help you with anything you might need.

During a game you'll notice Dan Campo, one of the trainers with Boston Bruins in the picture), trainers are alert just in case they have to hop over the boards and assist a player.

He's there with the gum, water, towels and, at times, even helpful advice on some items which are bothering the players. Quite simply, trainers seldom receive the recognition they deserve.

Not everyone can become pro hockey players. In the same way, not everyone can become a trainer because it takes special requirements. Maybe there's something you can or would like to do for your team such as be a trainer.

If you have any thoughts in this area, you would be wise to take a first-aid course. You might never know when someone might need urgent help. There was a case in the Toronto area this year where speedy work by a trainer saved the life of a goalie.

So you can see that trainers are vital to the operation of any team and their services are just in — minor league or pro.

John Garrett And Saints Upset Whalers

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Give Minnesota Fighting Saints a set of matching bagpipes and some plaids tickled and they'll conquer the world.

"We've played better away from home most of the year," said Minnesota coach Harry Neale, whose club advanced to the World Hockey Association semi-finals by beating New England Whalers 6-1 Saturday night.

The win gave the Saints, who barely made the playoffs at 4-2 edge in their best-of-seven three-game series. They picked up two of those wins in the three games they played at the Whalers' Hartford, Conn., home base.

"We seem to be a daze at home with everybody yelling for us, but when you get 10,000 or 12,000 people yelling 'crazy for the other team and the officials sticking it to us we get riled up and play better," said Neale.

The Saints will need that ability to win on the road in the rest of the playoffs. With the worst record among the playoff survivors, they'll be scheduled the only three home games in the semi-finals and in the finals if they make it. All series are best-of-seven.

They open their semifinal series with Quebec Nordiques on Tuesday night at Quebec City.

Houston Aeros will meet the winner of the quarter-final series between San Diego Mariners and Toronto Toros, which continues tonight at Toronto with the Mariners leading 3-2.

Saturday's game between the Saints and the injury-riddled Whalers at St. Paul was the only weekend contest in the WHA.

Mike Walton scored three goals and goalie John Garrett narrowly missed a second consecutive playoff shutout for the Saints. Garrett blanked the injury-riddled Whalers 4-0 Friday night at Hartford.

Neale said the Whalers deserved a lot of credit for playing as well as they did despite injury problems.

Coach Jack Kelly conceded injuries slowed his team down, but said Garrett was the big factor in the Minnesota win.

"He seemed to be in position to score and he'd stop us and then they'd go down and get one limited-duty assist."

Gary Gambucci, Wayne Connelly and Don Tannahill were the other Minnesota scorers. Mike Byers spoiled Garrett's shutout midway in the third period.

AHL Series Tied

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Brian Holderness, who had only shutout during the regular season, registered his second in the American Hockey League playoffs as New Haven Nighthawks defeated Hershey Bears 4-0 in one of two games Sunday night.

The two teams are tied 1-1 in the best-of-seven semi-final with the next game Tuesday at Hershey, where the Bears won Saturday night's opener 4-3 in overtime.

In the other game, Springfield Indians edged Rochester Americans 5-4 in overtime to tie their best-of-seven semi-final series 1-1.

The Nighthawks' first two goals, both on power plays, were by Ron Cook at 1:37 and Ron Wilson at 6:30, left Kenneth made it 3-0 at 17:34 of the opening period. Rod Norrish scored the only other goal on a rebound at 1:19 of the final period.

The 20-year-old Holderness turned away 32 shots. Holderness' first playoff shutout came in the quarter-final playoff series against Virginia Red Wings.

Peter Harasymo scored at 2:51 of sudden-death overtime to give the Indians their win Rochester.

Harasymo took Jim Nichols' pass at mid-ice and raced across the Rochester blue line before blasting a 40-foot shot past goalie Dave Reece.

The Americans made a spirited comeback to force the overtime after the Indians jumped out in front 3-0 in the opening period on goals by Bob Poffen-oth, Phil Hoene and Nichols. Defenceman Tay Matuta got Rochester on the board early in the second period, but Harasymo scored less than two minutes later to give the Indians a three-goal lead again.

Doug Gibson, the league's scoring champion with 118 points, and Rod Graham tallied before the second period ended to bring Rochester within one goal and Craig Sarner scored the only goal in the third period to tie the game and put the game into overtimer.

The series resumes Tuesday night in Rochester with the fourth game in Springfield on Wednesday.

Firm Offer For Seals

VANCOUVER (CP) — Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, says a group headed by Mel Swig of San Francisco, has made an offer to purchase the financially troubled California Seals.

"It's a firm offer," Campbell said in an interview Saturday. "I don't see how it can be turned down, but that's my opinion.

"Their offer will be for a franchise for an expansion team in 1975 if the league will go for it."

The California franchise has been in financial trouble for several years and the team's operation was financed by the league this year.

The California's next step is bankruptcy if they don't get their finances sorted out," he said.

Gilbert – "Talking Around"

All-star Winger Now Free Agent

NEW YORK (AP) — Is there a pro hockey team interested in an all-star right winger? If so, Rod Gilbert is available.

Gilbert, the 33-year-old vet, ran who collected 1,021 points New York Rangers this season, has become a free agent and is available to the highest bidder, it was learned Sunday.

"Yes, Rod Gilbert is a free agent," admitted Rangers president William Jennings. "He is a free agent because of the consent decree signed with the World Hockey Association 1½ years ago." The so-called consent agreement in effect did away with the option year of a pro hockey player's contract.

Jennings would not confirm that the Rangers had made an offer to Gilbert, who has played with New York for the last 13 seasons and was their first player to score 400 career goals. Gilbert is said to be after a four-year contract with a raise from his reported $175,000 annual salary. Sources said, however that the Rangers' top price was an offer of a three-year agreement and no raise.

"That information should come from general manager-Jennings said.

Gilbert, meanwhile, has been receptive to feelers from other clubs. One source said discussions had been held with New England Whalers of the WHA. Indianapolis has Gilbert going to Atlanta Flames as part of a deal that would bring goaltender Phil Myre to the Rangers.

"I know he's talking around," said one former team-mate.

Gilbert finished the 1974 year of a three-year contract with the Rangers this season, when he club finished second in the Patrick Div. on and was eliminated fir- -rnoffs by New York Islanders.

Marlies Take Opener

TORONTO (CP) — The university exhausted a form of elimination Sudbury Wolves and a long trip home Saturday night, put on a tremendous effort in defeating Hamilton Fincups 8-3 in Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A Robertson Cup final game Sunday.

Coming from a 4-1 deficit at the mid-point of the second period, Toronto netted five goals in the remainder to take a two-point lead in the eight point series.

After Toronto's Lynn Jorgenson tied the game on an unassisted effort, Don Wilson netted the winner at the 17:43 mark of the final period.

The uphill battle wasn't easy as Hamilton outshot Toronto 29-26 with goals going to Sean Sullivan, Danny Shearer, Greg Hickey, Joe Contini and Archy King.

John Anderson, Bruce Boudreau, Mark Murphy and Mark Napier scored the other goals for the Marlies.

Both Toronto's Gary Carr and Hamilton's Mike Clarke played well in goal.

Game two is scheduled for Tuesday night in Hamilton.

The Marlboros advanced to the final Saturday night with a 5-4 overtime win over Sudbury Wolves to win that eight-point, semi-final series 9-7.

John Anderson scored the winning goal at 15:52 in the first overtime period.

Bruce Boudreau, Mike McEwen, Mike Kasayka and Mark Napier scored the other Toronto goals. Napier's goal at 4:40 of the third period forced the sudden-death overtime.

Scoring for Sudbury were Rob Schutt, Alex McKendry, Dave Farrish and Bob Russell.

Flyers Sweep Set with Leafs

By NEIL CAMPBELL
The Canadian Press

Defenceman Andre (Moose) Dupont of Philadelphia Flyers can't see any reason for playing hockey games after which he won't be paid.

Anxious to save the Flyers from expending any extra effort in the Stanley Cup playoffs, Dupont scored in the second minute of overtime Saturday night to give the Flyers a 4-3 win over Toronto Maple Leafs and a sweep of their best-of-seven quarter-final series.

"We dont get paid playoff money by the game," said Dupont, "so why take this thing Philadelphia Flyers.

"They tell me we can win the Stanley Cup in four games too. That's all right with me."

Toronto's elimination left seven teams in the National Hockey League playoffs, but New York Islanders, Vancouver Canucks and Chicago Black Hawks all trail 3-2 in their series and could be eliminated Tuesday.

The Islanders, inspired by a pre-game pep talk by coach Al Arbour, beat Pittsburgh Penguins 3-1 Sunday afternoon to keep their hopes alive.

Buffalo Sabres crushed Chicago Black Hawks 6-2 Sunday night at Chicago and Montreal Canadiens blanked Vancouver Canucks 4-0 at Vancouver on Saturday night.

Toronto held the lead twice in the first period but needed a third-period goal by Ron Ellis to tie the game late in regulation time.

The goal was the second of the night for Ellis. Brian Stoughton was Toronto's other scorer as Reggie Leach added two goals and Bill Barber one for the Flyers.

For Dupont, who rarely scores in any situation, it was the second game-winning goal of the playoffs. Dave Schultz, who by the Toronto goal might be accused of his reputation as a policeman, set the goal after Toronto passive play misfired.

Some of the Islanders may have had doubts about "their" playoff futures before Sunday's game, but nobody left after Arbour's pre-game exhortation, reported by Islander veteran J. P. Parise.

"He said, 'If anybody here doesn't think we can win, you might as please just take your stuff off and go now,'" Parise recalled.

Billy Harris set up the winning goal for the Islanders in the third period. He got the puck in defensive zone Hart is the corner, then Hart spied Chris Gilles streaking for the net to the left of Penguins' goalie Gary Inness.

Hart threaded a pass through two Pittsburgh defencemen and Gilles ended the puck into the net for a 2-1 Islanders lead.

Rick Martin, Gil Perreault and Rene Robert scored third-period goals for the Sabres to break open a tight game at Chi-

"I'd say we're in the driver's seat now," said Buffalo coach Floyd Smith. "And we'll be sky high Tuesday night at home."

An abortive Montreal line change gave the Canadiens the goal they needed to break a scoreless tie early in the second period at Vancouver.

Guy Lafleur was supposed to be on the Montreal bench with his linemates but turned around and went in to score.

"I was going to the bench when I saw Yvan (Cournoyer) and he had the puck, so I just went behind the defenceman," Lafleur said. "I was all alone."

He waited for Vancouver goalie Gary Smith to make a move and went the other way and tucked the puck into the vacant goal.

Cournoyer, Peter Mahovlich and Serge Savard scored later goals for the Canadiens, who were outshot 37-24.

Quarter-final action resumes Tuesday with games at Pittsburgh, Buffalo and Montreal.

Kingman—Up to Old Tricks

Wields Big Bat; Porous in Field

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dave Kingman is giving New York Mets the kind of consistency at the plate that they had hoped for.

And he's giving them the kind of inconsistency in the field that they'd prayed against.

The erratic Kingman, acquired last winter from San Francisco Giants, won one game for New York with his bat but almost lost it with his glove as the Mets took a 4-3 decision Sunday to sweep a National League baseball doubleheader from Chicago Cubs.

After the Mets took an 8-4 victory in the opener, Kingman had his fourth home run of the season in the second game to help New York take a 4-0 lead.

Then in the ninth Kingman let a bases-loaded single get by him as the error and all three runs scored to cut the Mets' margin to one run.

Relief pitcher Rick Baldwin reverted to the sparkling form he showed earlier in the game to save the victory and enabled the Mets to win their first doubleheader at home since August 31, 1973 and stop a seven-game Chicago winning streak.

In Sunday's other National League games, San Francisco Giants beat Los Angeles Dodgers 6-3 in 13 innings, Atlanta Braves edged San Diego Padres 4-3, Pittsburgh Pirates blanked St. Louis Cardinals 5-0, Cincinnati Reds trimmed Houston Astros 5-3 in the first game of a doubleheader before losing the second 7-6.

Cold forced postponement of a game at Montreal between the Phillies

On Saturday, the Cubs defeated New York Mets and Philllies shut out Montreal 3-0, the Pirates trounced Atlanta 8-2, the Reds shaded Houston 9-8, the Pirates whipped St. Louis 7-1 and the Dodgers edged San Francisco 3-2.

John Evans' single capped a three-run rally in the first inning and Ed Kranepool doubled home two runs in a four-run second as the Mets built a 4-0 lead and went on to beat Chicago in the first game of their Sunday doubleheader.

Baldwin came out in the seventh inning of the nightcap for starter Randy Tate with men on first and third with nobody out and didn't allow a Chicago run.

Then came the ninth when Kingman made his untimely error. But Baldwin got the last batter to fly out, leaving Carmen Fanzone stranded at third.

Chris Speier's two-run single capped a three-run rally in the 13th inning, leading San Francisco Giants over Los Angeles Dodgers.

Darrell Evans' fourth home run of the season following Marty Perez' leadoff double in the ninth inning, gave Atlanta Braves the victory in the opener of a doubleheader with San Diego Padres.

Pirates right-hander John Denny's error helped Pittsburgh score four runs in the second inning and the Pirates went on to beat St. Louis with the aid of Ken Brett's pitching and hitting.

Brett, making his first start of the season, hit his 10th career double, a triple himself and allowed only four hits in the six innings he lasted.

Jack McKeon—Five Deep

Pitching Depth Royals' Secret

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kansas City Royals have the best won-lost record in major league baseball and manager Jack McKeon says pitching is the reason.

The Royals won their fifth game in a row Sunday when they blanked Texas Rangers 2-0 in an American League baseball game, improving their record to nine wins and two losses, the best start in the club's seven-year history.

Despite Sunday's win, the Royals' lead in the West Division was cut to 1½ games when Oakland A's swept a doubleheader from Minnesota Twins 4-1 and 5-1.

In Sunday's other games, California Angels trounced Chicago White Sox 8-4, Boston Red Sox walloped Baltimore Orioles 16-2, Cleveland Indians downed Milwaukee Brewers 7-4 and New York Yankees whipped Detroit Tigers 7-1.

In Saturday's games, California edged Cleveland 3-0, California edged Chicago 6-5, Detroit trounced New York 8-3, Oakland stopped Minnesota 4-1 and Kansas City defeated Texas 2-1.

A game at Boston between the Red Sox and Orioles was postponed because of rain.

"Nobody can match our five starters," said McKeon after Sundays game. "They might match us 1 and 1, but our five deep.

"We're winning with good pitching and that's 80 per cent of the game. We're not tearing the cover off the ball. We're just playing solid, consistent, aggressive baseball.

The Royals' starters are Steve Busby, Paul Splittorff, Pitzmorris, Nelson Briles and Bruce Dal Canton.

Kansas City got its runs in the second inning against Texas' Steve Hargan, who matched Pitzmorris' six-hitter. Hal McRae doubled, George Brett walked and Fred Patek hitting only .179 entering the game, tripled.

Dave Nelson, brought into the game in the first inning when starter Mike Norris had his elbow, combined with Jim Todd on a five-hitter and pitched Oakland to a double-header sweep. Vida Blue shopped the Twins with a six-hitter in the opener.

Bruce Bochte and Dave Chalk drove in three runs each, helping unbeaten Nolan Ryan post his fourth win. Ryan allowed five hits, including home runs by Ken Henderson and Jorge Orta, but walked nine and struck out only six.

Luis Tiant allowed four hits, including home runs by Bobby Grich and Lee May, as the Red Sox capitalized on Mike Torrez' wildness. Torrez gave up five hits, walked eight, threw two wild pitches and balked home a run before giving way to Wayne Garland in the fourth. He was charged with seven runs.

Home runs by Tom McCraw and Rico Carty and Frank Duffy's two-run single sparked the Indians, who scored five times in the second inning.

New York Mets used six runs in the seventh inning against rookie Vern Ruhle, two on Ed Herrmann's tie-breaking pinch double and three on a homer by Ken Blenberg and defeated Detroit behind Rudy May's three-hit pitching. Bobby Bonds homered for the Yankees' first run.

BROCKVILLE (CP) — A seven Sizz Masse of Brockville, who has been ill for some time.

The Warriors, once a power in the six-team league involving Pembroke, Smiths Falls and three Ottawa-area teams, this season finished in last place.

Jewell, who plans to move the team and establish a new entry, said there will be no major change in the team, would price, and there will be no change in the league participation.

Foolish Pleasure Nips Bombay Duck

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Jockey Jacinto Vasquez asked Foolish Pleasure to all he had in the stretch run of the $121,000 Wood Memorial on Saturday and Foolish Pleasure answered with a victory in the final strides and now it's on to the Kentucky Derby.

"I asked my horse for it, and he had enough to get it," said Vasquez after the Derby favorite rebounded from the only defeat of his career, a third in the Florida Derby, by winning the Wood by a head over front-running Bombay Duck.

Foolish Pleasure, who was reported to have suffered cuts on both front feet in the Florida Derby, overcame the outside post position to the 9-horse field and paid $3, $2.80 and $2.40 in winning for the 10th time in 11 starts.

Also at Aqueduct on Saturday, Derby candidate Bound Slake withstood a gelosing charge by Canuscan and a foul claim for a neck victory in a $25,000 overnight allowance.

Mike Hole put Round Slake in the lead as the turn into the wire was a duel with Canuscan in the eighth of a mile. Vasquez, aboard Canuscan, claimed foul against the winner but it was disallowed.

Roger Turcotte, from Grand Falls, N.B., and Robert Pincay were thrown from their mounts while leaving the starting gate in consecutive races at Aqueduct. Neither jockey was hurt.

Elsewhere Saturday, Navajo stood off a late challenge to win the $29,875 Ben Al Handicap at Lexington and Secretariat, the five-year-old son of Grey Dawn II edged Grand Jr., by a head. Hasty Fryer was third.

Telefonico took the lead after three-quarters of a mile and held it the remaining 1¼ miles to capture the $29,000 Green Valley Handicap at Gulfstream Park in Hallandale, Fla.

At Baltimore, Gulls Cry, last to the first half mile on soggy turf, came on to win a three-horse photo finish in the $52,800 Gallorette Stakes at Pimlico and reward backers with $7.

Laffit Pincay Jr., rode the favored Diabolo to a 4¼-length victory in track-record time of 1:46 3-5 over 1⅛ miles in the $100,000 California Derby at Golden Gate Fields in Albany, Calif.

Diabolo moved into the lead as the field of seven three-year-olds came off the final turn and won going away. George Vawter was aboard.

The winning time broke a record which had stood for 10 years at the Northern California track, a 1:46 4/5 by Irishbred Noor.

Czechs End Finns' Hopes

DUESSELDORF (AP) — Czechoslovakia scored nine times in the second period to defeat Finland 9-1 Saturday, ending the Finns' hopes for a bronze medal at the Group A world hockey tournament.

The victory put Finland clinched third place for Sweden. The Soviet Union finished first and Czechoslovakia was second in this 16-day event.

Jiri Novak gave the Czechs a 1-0 lead midway through the opening period, and they clinched the victory by scoring four of their 9 shots in the middle period.

Meanwhile, four members of the Soviet Union team were named to the tournament's all-star squad, as chosen by sports writers covering this event.

Forward Alexander Yakushev of the Soviet Union led the way with 73 of 92 votes. Also named to the team were goalie Vladislav Tretiak, Soviet Union; defencemen Valery Vasilyev, So-

FINISHES SECOND

COLUMBUS, Ohio (CP) — Eric Chapman of Toronto finished second Saturday in the 180-yard run at the 38th Ohio State track relays. Bob Skaggs of Chicago nipped Chapman at the wire in one minute, 22.1 seconds to take the race. Chapman had the same time.

Billie Jean Can't Stop Chris Evert

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Chris Evert, winning a third-set tie-breaker, beat Billie Jean King 6-4, 6-3, 7-6 Sunday and won first prize of $20,000 in the $100,000 World Series of women's tennis.

It was the largest winner's cheque in women's tennis history.

Miss Evert overcame a 3-5 deficit in the final set to force the match into the tie-breaker, which she took 2-2.

Earlier, Australia's Evonne Goolagong rallied to beat Olga Morozova of the Soviet Union 5-6, 6-3, 6-3 for third place.

Mrs. King was leading in the final set 5-5 when a dispute had angered Mrs. King and Miss Evert said.

Mrs. King was leading in the final set 5-5 when a dispute had angered Mrs. King and Miss Evert said.

Miss Evert smashed in more than three-quarters of her first serves throughout the match and swept the last three games of the second set.

The third set was even until Mrs. King shot into the lead by two games only to see her advantage disappear as Miss Evert began hitting winning backhand shots.

After the match, Miss Evert said Mrs. King was not herself in the tie-breaker. "She didn't have the spark in her eyes," Miss Evert said.

Mrs. King said she was the happiest she has ever been in her life over a tennis match and as far as she was concerned, had been cheated out of the match.

Sandra Winner

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Sandra Palmer made the $300,000 Dinah Shore Winners Circle golf tournament almost a total bore.

The Ft. Worth, Tex., native fired off three consecutive two-under-par 70s then finally slipped up a bit when she buogeyed the last hole for a 72 Sunday but still finished with a five-under-par 283, one stroke in front of Kathy McMullen.

She made three bogeys on the final round, one more than she had in the three earlier rounds combined.

Miss Palmer's three earlier rounds on the 6,547-yard Mission Hills course, a par-72, kept her ahead by at least a stroke from the outset and she took a three-stroke lead over Miss McMullen into the final 18 holes after her challenger charged in with a 66 Saturday.

Miss Palmer held a three stroke lead over Miss McMullen, but her closest pursuers going into the final nine holes.

But Miss McMullen, still seeking her first victory in the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour, birdied the 11th and 12th holes and quickly pulled to within a stroke of the lead. Miss Palmer, in the threesome behind her competitor, took a stroke back when she birdied the 13th hole and Miss McMullen fell to the pressure when she doubled bogeyed the 14th hole.

The two finished well in front of the rest of the field.

Miss Palmer collected $32,000 for the victory and $2,000 more for leading three rounds. Miss McMullen won $21,000 for second, more than she has ever amassed in any one of her five years as a pro.

Carol Mann, Chako Higuchi of Japan and Carole Jo Skala tied for third, four strokes off the pace at one-under-par 287, each winning $10,500, and a half-dozen including early challenger Jocelyne Bourassa of Shawinigan, Que. and Jane Blalock were tied for sixth at one over par.

The spunky Miss Bourassa, a favorite of the crowds, fell out of contention when she bogeyed three consecutive holes on the back nine Sunday.

Her closing 75 was good enough for $4,825 in prize money. Sandra Post, a native of Oakville, Ont., now living in Florida, also had a final-round 75 for a 292 total and $2,500.

Elvin Hayes Leads Bullets Past Braves

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Elvin Hayes poured in 40 points Sunday, his career high in National Basketball Association playoff competition, as Washington Bullets edged Buffalo Braves 97-95 for a 3-2 lead in their best-of-seven Eastern Conference semi-final series.

In a Western Conference semi-final game Sunday, Chicago Bulls routed Kansas City-Omaha Kings 104-77 for a 3-2 advantage in their best-of-seven series.

In the other semi-finals, Boston leads Houston 3-1 in the East following the Rockets' 117-102 triumph Saturday and Golden State and Seattle are tied 2-2 in the west after the SuperSonics' 111-94 victory Saturday.

In the only American Basketball association action of the weekend, Denver stopped Indiana 137-128 Sunday in the first game of their West Division final.

Hayes connected on 19 of 36 field goal attempts and added eight free throws in outscoring Buffalo's Bob McAdoo, who had wrenched the Bullets with 36 points in the fourth game of the series. McAdoo, the league's scoring champion for the second consecutive year, scored 34 points.

Chicago parlayed Bob Love's 30 points and an all-tight defence in crushing the error-prone, poor-shooting Kings.

The Bulls held Nate Archibald, the Kings' high-scoring guard, to 13 points, well below his average. Archibald hit only four of 18 shots from the floor.

The Boston-Houston series resumes Tuesday night at Houston and Golden State entertains Seattle Tuesday night in the fifth game of their series.

Pearl Changes McGee's Luck

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Jerry McGee figured this was his lucky week before the first shot was fired in the $125,000 Pensacola Open golf tournament.

"Wednesday night, I ate oysters on the half shell and the first oyster I ate, I got a pearl," an elated McGee said Sunday after ending more than eight years of frustration on the pro golf tour by capturing his first victory.

McGee appeared on the verge of blowing his shot at victory when he played the front side in 38, three-over-par. But he regained his composure and, together three consecutive birdies beginning at No. 10 and broke out of a deadlock with another birdie on 16 to win the $25,000 first prize with a 54-hole five-under par 271 total.

The closing 70 on the 6,675-yard, par-71 Pensacola Country Club course gave McGee a two-stroke victory over Wally Armstrong, a soft-spoken, 39-year-old who saw his dream of a first victory vanish with two bogeys on the final three holes.

The victory automatically qualifies McGee for next year's Masters, plus the Tournament of Champions in Las Vegas, which begins Thursday.

McGee was playing in the final threesome with his friend, Australian Bruce Crampton, who at one point was lodged in a three-way tie with McGee and Armstrong at 13-under before falling back with a bogeyn on 15 and 17.

Crampton, winless in 79 starts on the PGA tour, finished in a three-way tie for third with veterans Miller Barber and Dolph Hevil at 274. Nevil closed with the best round of the day, a 68.

Ben Kern, the only Canadian in the tournament, failed to make the two-round cut Friday.

Spanish Open Won by Palmer

MURCIA, Spain (AP) — Arnold Palmer shot an eagle-three on the final hole Saturday for a one-stroke victory in the $67,000 Spanish Open golf tournament's first triumph since 1975.

Palmer came to the 18th hole needing a birdie to beat Jose Fourie of South Africa, who had a final-round 74 and a 72-hole total of 284.

Palmer blasted a perfect drive on the par-five hole and followed with a spectacular four-iron second shot that landed three feet from the pin, then sank the putt for the victory.

Palmer had rounds of 72, 69, 69 and 73 for a total of 283, five-under-par. He earned $9,000.

Derby County Looking Good

LONDON (Reuter) — One point against last-place Carlisle next Saturday will make Derby County the new English League First Division champions.

And they may not have to wait that long. The only team which has a chance to catch them, Ipswich, could be eliminated if it fails to win a match at Manchester City.

Derby played a scoreless draw at Leicester on Saturday, but saw its opposition crumble in the second-last weekend of the season.

Second-place Everton lost 3-2 to Sheffield United after leading 2-0 at half-time on goals by Dave Smallman and Garry Jones. United came back to win on goals by Keith Eddy, Bill Dearden and Tony Currie.

Liverpool, which also held title hopes before Saturday's games, went down 1-0 at Middlesbrough where Alan Foggon scored the decisive goal in the first half.

Meanwhile Leeds was gaining some consolation for its quarter-final defeat in English Football Association Cup play by edging Ipswich 3-2.

Ipswich took the lead on a Brian Talbot goal and appeared certain of victory after Johnny Giles was forced out of the game with a rib injury.

But Trevor Cherry tied the score and 18-year-old Carl Harris marked his league debut as a replacement for Giles by scoring the winner in the 62nd minute.

Saturday's games confused the relegation situation at the bottom of the standings.

Luton scored a 4-1 victory at Birmingham which gives them an outside chance of remaining in the First Division next season.

Carlisle is certain of relegation but only two points separate Chelsea, Luton and Tottenham.

Chelsea's First Division survival chances dipped Saturday as it lost 2-0 to Tottenham.

Manchester United clinched the Second Division title with a 2-2 tie at Notts County, where police worked overtime controlling rioting fans.

Thousands of United supporters swarmed onto the field at the game's end and ripped huge lengths of wood from safety barriers to use as weapons against police.

Fifty people were sent into the crowd as fighting broke out and dozens of victims were left weary or carried out on stretchers.

A goal by Wilson Hoggan gave under a 2-1 upset win over third place Celtic in Scottish League First Division play.

Rangers maintained their nine-point lead over Hibernian by edging last-place Arbroath 2-1. Hibernian defeated Dumbarton 3-2.

CARTER IN HOSPITAL

MONTREAL (CP) — Rookie right fielder Gary Carter of Montreal Expos was in hospital Sunday with a cracked left rib suffered in the Expos' 5-0 loss to Philadelphia Phillies Saturday. A club spokesman said doctors did not consider the injury serious. The Expos game Sunday against the Phillies was postponed due to cold weather. Montreal opens a two-game series here again Pittsburgh Pirates Tuesday afternoon.

Bourassa Celebrates

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa delivered a glowing summary Sunday of his government's achievements since taking office five years ago.

Addressing more than 5,000 Liberal party supporters at a $500-a-plate benefit luncheon in a downtown hotel, Mr. Bourassa said the creation of an average 70,000 jobs yearly in the last five years was a proud accomplishment for the government.

As a result, he said, fewer Quebecers were leaving the province to find work.

About 200,000 Quebecers have been struck from the tax rolls, while at the same time the government has presented six consecutive budgets with no tax increases.

Attacking the "hypocrisy" of the separatist Parti Quebecois, the premier praised federalists for its economic advantages, especially in the field of oil-pricing agreements.

No Leave for Morgentaler

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail quotes Quebec Justice Minister Jerome Choquette as saying convicted abortionist Dr. Henry Morgentaler "got what he deserved" and will not be allowed leave from jail to accept his American Humanist of the Year award.

The newspaper quotes Mr. Choquette as saying in a Montreal interview that "I don't approve of that award."

Dr. Morgentaler began serving an 18-month term March 28 for illegal abortion after the Supreme Court of Canada rejected his appeal from a Quebec Appeal Court ruling that overturned a lesser guilty verdict in November, 1973.

The Globe and Mail says Mr. Choquette told its reporter that Dr. Morgentaler will serve six months without being allowed out to accept any awards and "we'll see about the second third (of his sentence), and if he has behaved he'll be out for the last third."

Vandals Burn School

WAWA, Ont. (CP) — Fire Chief Harry McClusky says arson was probably the cause of a fire Sunday that destroyed about one-third of the high school "in this community of miles north of Sault Ste. Marie.

No one was injured in the fire that took six hours to control. Damage was estimated at $1.1 million, the fire chief said.

Firemen, called to the school early Sunday when flames shot out of windows, found vandals had smashed chairs and knocked out windows.

Ellen Gets Tony To Match Oscar

NEW YORK (AP) — The Wiz, a swinging black musical based on The Wizard of Oz, and Equus, a British drama about a youth crazy about horses, are Broadway's champion shows of the 1974-75 season.

Top individual winners of all-star medallions for outstanding achievement, announced Sunday night, included Ellen Burstyn, receiving her Oscar-like statuette, and a pilot citation, John Kani and Winston Ntshona.

Ellen Burstyn said she was accepting her trophy also on behalf of Charles Grodin, the only other performer in Same Time, Next Year, who did not get a nomination.

The dramatic acting award to Kani and Ntshona, the first joint Tony citation, was for their performances in two plays which they co-authored with Athol Fugard—Sizwe Banzi Is Dead and The Island.

The two dramas examine aspects of black existence under the apartheid laws of their South African homeland, where the pair are able to work on stage only under an employment subterfuge as "house servants."

Angela Lansbury and John Cullum were named the year's star musical performers.

Miss Lansbury received the third Tony of her career for the revival of Gypsy. Cullum was honored for his part in Shenandoah. That show, about a peace-loving family during the Civil War, also received the award for best musical book, a collaboration by James Lee Barrett, Peter Udell and Philip Rose.

Peter Udell and Philip Rose, Tonys for supporting drama roles went to Frank Langella of Seascape and Rita Moreno in The Ritz.

Besides being chosen as best musical, The Wiz took six of the other 17 competitive trophies. Geoffrey Holder was the only double winner, taking both musical director—and costume designer awards for The Wiz. The show's other victors were Ted Ross and Dee Dee Bridgewater, for supporting actor and actress; Charlie Smalls, best score; and George Faison, choreographer.

Peter Shaffer's Equus, the best drama, also won a directing prize for John Dexter.

Sherlock Holmes, another British import, received two awards—Carl Toms was named for scenic design, Neil Peter Jampolis for lighting.

The Tonys, officially called the Antoinette Perry Awards, are voted upon in secret ballot by about 450 representatives of all branches of the stage profession, under the auspices of the New York League of Theaters and Producers in association with the American Theatre Wing. They are Broadway's counterparts of Hollywood's Oscars.

The League's executive board also selected a noncompetitive Tony to Neil Simon, author of 14 comedies and musicals; and a scroll to Al Hirschfeld, veteran theatrical cartoonist.

Even Opera Usher Has Rich Voice

LONDON (AP)—For resonance, dramatic impact and rich robust quality, it's hard to beat Victor Martin, Covent Graden's durable basso profundo.

At La Scala, he might be eulogized as Vittori Martini, but at the Royal Opera House, who's spend every night performance on the audience side of the footlights, he is known to regulars and patrons alike as The Sergeant.

For 26 years, Sgt. Martin has been Covent Garden's head doorman or, by official title, Head Attendant, the one who carries a torch.

"It pays back to your days when this theatre began," The Sergeant explained as the overture to Verdi's Un Ballo in Maschera cascaded across the lobby. "The public had to be protected from footpads and cut-throats by linkmen who led them up and from their carriages with a torch."

Now it is the public which quakes at the benevolent tyranny of the linkman, as they did when The Sergeant insisted con fuoco and fortissimo: "Will you take your seats please, ladies and gentlemen, this is the last bell. Anyone not seated by the rise of the curtain will have to remain outside for 20 minutes until the interval."

Goaded by the booming bass that echoed among the plaster cupids high up in the red velvet panelling, the audience deserted the bars and cloakrooms and hastened to their seats.

Covent Garden has a strict rule against seating anyone after the curtain has risen.

"In Wagner's Rheingold, which we do here without an interval, that means spending the whole evening at the back, which I like some American and Canadian gentlemen who don't know our rules and have paid nine quid (£2.50) a seat," Martin said.

Weighing in at 20 stone (280 pounds) Martin can't stand on either leg." The Sergeant has had to eject only 20 patrons in all his years at the opera house, mostly drunks, late-comers "and one or two who became what you might call overcome by reason of the quality of the performance."

A regimental sergeant major in the Coldstream Guards, Martin "got a lump in the head from an angry German at Anzio,"but was awarded the British Empire Medal last year for services in the front of the Royal Opera House.

He has more than a loving acquaintance with members of the Royal Family, especially Princess Margaret's children who came along to dress rehearsals.

On nights when there is a royal gala or a command performance, The Sergeant sheds his red frock coat in favor of tails, striped pants and an enormous sash while the 17 linkmen on his staff—ushers, ticket-takers, cloakroom attendants—are arrayed in peacock blue frock coats, velvet breeches and silver buckled shoes.

The royal red carpet is rolled out and the Queen abandons the non-gala royal box on the right side of the house facing the stage to occupy a centre box with the Government on her right, the Opposition on her left and the corps Diplomatique in the dress circle and below. All those adjacent to the Queen are in white tie, the rest in black tie.

Martin loves the glitter of a royal do," but his favorite audiences are "the long-haired kids in the blue jeans who pay 15 bob (£1.5) to sit on their backsides in the stalls after the seats have been taken out for one production Colin Davis' prom nights. They love every minute of it and you never hear a cough out of them."

Although tone-deaf, he can "tell a good house from a bad house blindfolded" just standing at the foot of the great staircase.

For all his love of opera, The Sergeant never has been called on to carry a spear or swell out a crowd scene as a supernumerary but he confessed with a blush to once having appeared as the fairy Brunhilde in a backstage Christmas spoof of Wagner's Walkures.

Showbiz Shorts

NEW YORK (Reuter)—The New York pornographic film industry, upset by its lack of critical recognition, announced plans Thursday for an awards ceremony June 6 called Eros 75.

An organizer told a news conference the festival was being offered to major television networks to broadcast as they do the Hollywood Oscars and Broadway's Tony awards.

He promised that the event would be tasteful.

NEW YORK (AP)—Actress-journalist Candice Bergen, who spent four days at the White House as a magazine assignment, says the only thing she did right as far as Susan Ford was concerned was to leave.

Miss Bergen, said the president and Mrs. Ford were amused that the virit touched off rumors of romance between the actress and David Kennedy, Ford's official White House photographer.

Both headlines as Clicking at the White House, she said, led Mrs. Ford to send Kennedy a memo with a red rose reading "Congratulations! Whom's the happy day?"

As for Susan the actress said she found the Ford's 17-year-old daughter "bright, composed, cool, collected—and unabashedly honest."

"For instance,she took no pains to conceal the fact that, for her, my arrival was less welcome than my departure," Miss Bergen says she found Kennedy was "Susan's White House friend and confidant," who had taken Susan out a few times and was giving her photography lessons.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Tuesday, April 22

ARIES (March 21-April 19) This is a good day to rid yourself of small distasteful chores you've been neglecting. Find a capable co-worker.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You have a knack today for managing others that will work to everyone's advantage. Call the shots as you see them.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) A small opportunity will arise. It could add to your resources if you handle it correctly. Be alert. It will take some quaneuvering.

CANCER (June 21-July 23) Positive steps can be taken now regarding a serious matter that's been on your mind lately. Get in touch with the other parties.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 23) Don't let any more time go by with one who is beloved to you. Try now to arrange a special settlement.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't make any abrupt changes in your routine today without first considering the consequences. Proven methods are your best bet.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Your chances of accomplishing what's best for you today are good provided you keep your reasons and motives to yourself.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A situation will arise with a friend that could be awkward, but if you handle it as you did formerly no feathers will be ruffled.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) The seed of something profitable that you had sown awhile back is about to bear fruit. Be patient a bit longer.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Review advice given recently by one you're closely associated with. It contains an answer you're now seeking.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Don't be called upon where work is concerned to perform duties outside your normal duties. You'll also receive extra diversions.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) A relationship with one you've not met socially will begin to develop into something more profound. You two have much to share.

Blue Blood Sign Oxygen Lacking

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What causes a cardio-colored fingernails? When my doctor discovered them on me he gave me a test for emphysema, which was negative. No other tests were made.

Someone told me cyanide-colored fingernails usually means insufficient oxygen for the heart. Would you please put me straight?—Mrs. M. J. W.

I think you mean "cyanotic," meaning blue — not "cyanide."

Testing for emphysema is rather useless when cyanosis is found because the condition often accompanies a lung or heart disorder.

Blood is normally red because of its oxygen content, and this is what gives the skin of Caucasians its characteristic pink hue. When, either because of impaired lung function or lack of sufficient blood circulation, the amount of oxygen declines, the pink turns into a bluish color—cyanosis. It is the same lack of sufficient oxygen which gives veins a bluish cast, a natural situation since the veins contain blood whose oxygen has been removed in the process of normal circulation.

Cyanotic nails can also be a symptom of a heart disorder, or they can signal faulty blood circulation. Some persons develop a bluish tinge to their feet after standing for long periods.

Since your doctor has ruled out lung problems (lung-function tests are pretty good indicators of general lung condition), it is important now to find out why you show cyanotic nails.

Chemicals can cause a dusky color in the nails and skin—for example, chemicals taken in excess. Fungus infection can also produce a blue-black coloration in the nails.

If you had a heart or lung disorder severe enough to have caused a blue nail coloration, there would probably be many other symptoms. Often, one of those is a "clubbing" or rounded thickening of the nails. And, of course, a lung problem would be accompanied by shortness of breath.

You might look for some more obvious causes, such as exposure to irritating household chemicals.

Dear, Doctor: My husband had prostrate surgery, and several weeks later he showed an infection in his urine. He had xrays taken of the kidneys and bladder. They showed diverticulosis of the bladder.

His urine is always cloudy. Can you discuss this?—Mrs. B.

It's not unusual to have a low-grade, chronic infection of the urinary tract after prostate surgery. It is often difficult to clear- up, and identification of the infecting organism is, of course, necessary in order to determine the appropriate antibiotic to use against it.

Since x-rays have shown your husband has diverticula (small hollow pouches) in his bladder, this area would be a prime suspect as a site of the infection.

Is his urine sample cloudy from beginning to end of a voiding? Often physicians can detect the general area of a urinary tract infection by examining a single voiding and separating the early portion from the later. If the urine is clouded at first, and then clears later, the kidneys are suspected in the lower tract. But if the sample is clouded from beginning to end, this can mean that the infection has spread to the upper portion of the tract.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In the morning, when I first look into the mirror, I notice that the thin skin over my eyelids. It appears to be quite dark. When I remove it, the area is sensitive to the touch. Could this be a vitamin deficiency? I use eye shadow very lightly. Could this be caused by it?—M. H.

You might suspect the eye shadow or perhaps your fingernail polish as causes of contact dermatitis, which you seem to have. The skin can often develop a sensitivity to one or more of the ingredients in these cosmetics even after years of continued use.

I doubt if a vitamin deficiency is involved.

Recipient Of Medal

LONDON (CP) — The leader of the recent Zaire river expedition, Maj. John Stanford-Snell, is to receive the Livingstone gold medal of the Royal Scottish Geographical Society. The award, to comes Dr. Livingstone, Blackford-Snell's part in the Zaire expedition but his organization and leadership of the Great Abbai expedition in 1968 and the Darien Gap in 1971-72. He recently returned to England after leading the Scientific Exploration Society's 1,800-mile expedition from the source of the Zaire, formerly Congo, river to the sea.

Jim: "I watched a young, up-and-coming good bridge player check the defense of a slam hand. He signalled with his 10 of spades at trick one. Declarer at West's queen and led the trick. West didn't have a second spade to lead and declarer had time to set up dummy's diamonds and secure 12 tricks."

Oswald: "I'm sure he was unlucky, but I can't go for that up-and-coming good bridge player designation. Didn't he see that it was up to him to put his king of spades right on his partner's queen?"

Jim: "He did see it. He moved his partner shifted to a club, he turned to me and said, 'I guess you think I'm a trifle worse than a normal bastard!'"

Oswald: "If he says it himself and was ready to blame himself that makes it pretty clear there is plenty of hope for him. Young players as well as old players tend to play carelessly. If this hand teaches him to be particularly careful in the early play there is plenty of hope for him to get into the expert class."

Jim: "I think he will. I remember you taught me that the way to improve was to be as hard on myself as possible."

Marijuana May Return As Therapeutic Medicine

OTTAWA (CP) — Cannabis, or marijuana, may be about to stage a comeback as a therapeutic drug after 40 years in the medicinal wilderness, says an Ottawa doctor.

"I think it won't be too long before we have established new rules for the treatment of glaucoma," says Dr. Ian Henderson.

May Hold Marks

OTTAWA (CP) — Teachers' assistants in the social science departments at the University of Ottawa have threatened to withhold student grades to back pay increase demands, says a spokesman for the group.

Social Sciences dean Denis Carrier has said that he will counter by withholding marks from the 33 assistants if they carry out their threat.

Aid Promised

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — The president of the provincial Legislature for Oshawa and Friday has promised a commitment from the province for $120,000 towards the cost of a sports and fitness hubbie proposed for a $280,000 city recreational project.

Dr. Charles McIlveen, a Progressive Conservative member, said he should have the commitment in writing Monday from Robert Welch, minister of sports and cultural affairs.

Six Slain

LOGAN, N.M. (AP) — A Logan banker killed his wife and four children, then shot himself dead, Quay County Sheriff James Knight said Sunday.

"That's about the only way it could have been," Knight said of the described the deaths of six members of the Robert McFarland family.

Hydro Strike

TORONTO (CP)—William Baker, president of Local 1, Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE), said 450 outside workers, members of Toronto Hydro, voted Sunday to strike and have set picket lines.

A spokesman for Toronto Hydro said that only hourly paid employees had walked off the job. He said that inside workers voted against a strike but he was unable to say whether they would cross the picket lines today.

Stay Aloof

SCORPIOS (AP) — The widow and daughter of Aristotle Onassis stood apart from each other during a memorial service Sunday on this Greek island for the late shipping magnate and came near only during a brief visit to his grave.

Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis arrived at her husband's private island Saturday from Athens and spent the night aboard his yacht, the Christina.

Onassis' daughter Christina, his principal heir, came Sunday morning by plane from the Greek capital for the memorial service held 40 days after the funeral in accordance with Greek Orthodox custom.

Fairer Distribution Of Resources Needed

LONDON (CP) — Wealthy refers to a widening gap in living standards between industrialized and underdeveloped countries amid a severe international financial crisis.

"This is neither decent nor sane," Smith says.

It is Smith's fifth and final report to Commonwealth heads of government, who meet in Jamaica for a week starting April 29. A Canadian, Smith retires in June after serving 10 years as the Commonwealth's first secretary-general.

While stressing the misery and dangers of persistent poverty among the majority of the world's people, Smith sees some room for optimism from the present problems.

"It is possible that our present troubles, by forcing us to re-examine the traditional assumptions of world economic life, will compel us to do what we have failed to do voluntarily: To reject the habits that have kept the rich relatively rich, and the poor absolutely poor.

Crashes Are Common

BELGRADE (AP) — Yugoslavia is Europe's most dangerous country to drive in, say experts who compute percentage of per-capita income spent to pay damages in auto accidents. The Yugoslavs average for this is 1.5 percent and for Yugoslavia, 2.5.

Lewis Says Irvine's Reports Misleading

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario NDP Leader Stephen Lewis said Saturday that Ontario Housing Minister Donald Irvine regularly issues misleading information on provincial housing figures.

The NDP leader said Mr. Irvine issued figures showing production under he Ontario Housing Action Program totalled 11,-273—4,104 housing starts and 8,-773 lots—compared to a target of 12,000. He added that of the 8,733 lots, 6,181 are in Brampton.

"The lumping of lots in a declaration misrepresentation of what was originally announced. In truth, of the 12,000 target figure set, only 4,104 housing starts were achieved. A sorry, dismal record.

Worth Crowing About

This water pollution control plant being built on the Crowe River in Marmora is one more attempt by Ontario to improve Canadian waters. An agreement, has been signed between Canada and the United States to jointly improve the quality of waters entering the Great Lakes, but the funds to do so were withheld by former president Richard Nixon, however Ontario has spent millions to date. When this pollution control plant is finished, all raw sewage from Marmora will be treated.

Battles Raging On Saigon Roads

SAIGON (AP) — Former president Nguyen Van Thieu met with his successor today to begin handing over the reins of the South Vietnamese government while his wife called the packers to crate her rare porcelain jars and vases.

On the battlefronts, South Vietnamese troops completed their retreat from Xuan Loc, 40 miles east of Saigon on Highway 1, military sources said.

Heavy fighting was reported on the other two major highways leading to the capital: Highway 4, the rice road from the Mekong Delta, and Route 22, the road to Tay Ninh, to the northwest.

About 2,000 Americans and an unknown number of Vietnamese dependents were reported still in the city, but U.S. Air Force planes were taking them to the Philippines at the rate of about 1,500 a day.

There was no official word on Thieu's plans. There was speculation that he and his family would leave the country, perhaps for Taiwan where his brother is the South Vietnamese ambassador.

His successor is ailing President Tran Van Huong, 73. The actual transition of power may take some time.

Retired General Duong Van (Big) Minh, the "neutralist" candidate to lead the Saigon government, called for a "new leadership" based on movements with popular support.

Minh met with leaders of four Buddhist sects, Roman Catholic anti-Thieu groups to draw up a proposed cabinet to be submitted to Huong.

French Foreign Minister Jean Sauvagnargues said the French government is making "considerated efforts" to get political talks started between Saigon and Communist representatives. But the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese appeared to be in no hurry to negotiate.

The Viet Cong said the entire "Thieu clique" must be removed to pave the way for political talks. The Viet Cong spokesman said Thieu's departure "cannot change the situation if the U.S. administration uses a policy of military involvement and intervention in South Vietnam."

Xuan Loc was the 20th of South Vietnam's provincial capitals to fall to the Communists this year but, unlike most of the others, the Saigon forces fought hard for nearly two weeks to defend it.

The Saigon command's daily communique made no mention of Xuan Loc. It said from Tuy Hoa, the coastal capital of Binh Tuy province 35 miles east of Xuan Loc, was under government control but facing a heavy attack.

Gen. Frederick Weyand, U.S. Army chief of staff and the last American commander in Vietnam, said in Washington that South Vietnam was no longer defensible.

Fate of Vietnamese at Issue

Ford Seeks Ceasefire Allowing Rescue Work

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford says the United States is seeking a Vietnam ceasefire that would permit evacuation of Americans and a large number of South Vietnamese.

Without a ceasefire or the approval of both sides in the Vietnam war, it would take "a sizeable U.S. military commitment" to evacuate South Vietnamese who have had close ties with American activities in their country, Ford said in an interview Monday night on the CBS radio and television network.

Many congressmen have said they fear such a step could lead to another U.S. involvement in the Vietnam war.

The Senate, which is considering today a $200-million fund for evacuation and humanitarian aid, would restrict U.S. authority to withdraw Vietnamese.

A parallel measure approved by the House of Representatives international relations committee, however, would give Ford the broader authority he seeks.

In addition, the House appropriations committee became the first congressional group to heed Ford's pleas for more arms aid. It approved $165 million in arms Monday and a similar amount for humanitarian aid.

The vote came after Army Chief of Staff Frederick Weyand told the committee that South Vietnam could win the war, but the aid would prevent an almost Communist takeover.

The House armed services committee meets today to consider approving an extra $422 million in arms aid.

Ford said the failure of Congress to provide additional aid provided "the initial kick-off" for President Nguyen Van Thieu's decision to abandon large portions of South Vietnam to the Communists.

On other subjects, the president said:

—The U.S. has not yet decided whether to take the Middle East situation to a reconvened Geneva peace conference, resume State Secretary Henry Kissinger's efforts to reach Arab-Israeli agreements, or attempt a combination of the two. He said a new Mideast war would "inevitably" mean a renewed Arab oil embargo.

—He opposes any effort to forbid covert operations overseas by the Central Intelligence Agency, saying "that would be like tying a prizefighter's hands behind his back in foreign policy."

—He is refusing to make a "categorical statement" that he will run in 1976, but that is his "present intent" is the reason why Vice-President Nelson Rockefeller shouldn't be his running mate.

—He doesn't think the economic situation "will be nearly so bad in the months ahead."

Russia And Egypt Seek Talks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Soviet Union and Egypt, calling for early resumption of the Geneva peace talks, said today the Middle East "remains explosive as a result of the aggressive policy of Israel and the imperialist forces backing it."

In Tel Aviv, Israeli Foreign Minister Yigal Allon said that during his talks Monday with State Secretary Henry Kissinger, the United States had raised "no obstacles" to shipping Israeli arms for which formal agreement already exists. But he said he received no word on delivery times for other promised arms for which no formal agreement exists.

Toronto Hydro Staff Won't Ignore Pickets

TOGONTO (CP) — Ralph Bishop, assistant general manager of Toronto Hydro, said Monday that most of the company's 2,000 salaried workers refused to cross picket lines set up by hourly-rated workers who went on strike Sunday.

Although the salaried staff, including draftsmen, estimators, clerks and meter readers voted against a strike at a meeting Sunday, they did not cross picket lines of fellow members of Local 1, Canadian Union of Public Employees.

The hourly-paid workers rejected a wage increase over two years that would have given them a 21-per-cent raise retroactive to Feb. 1, another four per cent in July and an added eight per cent Feb. 1, 1976.

News Briefs

Ouster Follows Bribe

TEGUCIGALPA (AP) — Oswaldo Lopez Arellano was ousted as Honduran chief of state today, the national radio announced. The ouster came two-weeks after United Brands Co. acknowledged paying $1.25 million to high Honduran officials to gain lower export taxes on bananas.

Pipeline Big Job

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (CP) — The consortium that wants to build a pipeline down the Mackenzie Valley in the Arctic presented 26 pages of testimony Monday on how the $7 billion pipeline would be built. Construction would take 17 months, spread over three years, the report said. During the peak building winter, 7,500 construction workers would be scattered in camps along the Mackenzie Valley.

Luxury Equipment Bought

DETROIT (AP) — Consumers in the United States are buying fewer and smaller cars, but they're ordering more optional equipment than ever before. Installation of extra cost items such as air conditioning, power brakes, vinyl tops, bigger engines and power windows is setting records despite the overall sales slump, the auto companies report.

Wants Toronto Abolished

TORONTO (CP) — Joseph Markin, a controller for the borough of North York, says he wants to abolish the City of Toronto. Mr. Markin said Monday he would like to see the downtown core governed by Metropolitan Toronto council and the rest of the city divided up to become parts of the boroughs of York and East York.

U.S. Embassy Protected

ATHENS (AP) —Battling police kept a mob of young Greek leftists from setting fire to the U.S. Embassy Monday night during a march by about 100.00 persons observing the "black anniversary" of the 1967 military coup. Hundreds of leftist youths chanting "Americans! Murderers!" and "Kick the embassy out!" poured gasoline on a U.S. flag and set it ablaze in front of the embassy.

Controls Opposed

VANCOUVER (CP) — Andre Raynaud, chairman of the Economic Council of Canada, said Monday he still opposes compulsory wage and price controls despite a continued slow economy. Mr. Raynaud told a news conference that the federal government's objective of voluntary restraint is still the best policy for Canada.

Warnings To Go Up On Bridge

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — "Class at Your Own Risk " signs on approaches to the Dundas St. bridge will be posted to warn truck drivers the bridge is unsafe for vehicles weighing six or more tons.

Posting of the bridge was agreed to by council Monday after town clerk Aubrey Sharp warned councillors to take precautionary measures "as the town would not be liable" if any accident occurred.

A study, results of which were revealed last week, showed the bridge was severely corroded in places. It recommended a 6-ton limit be placed on trucks using the bridge, now posted with a 15-ton limit.

In conjunction with the posting, letters will go out to all local truck firms to inform them of the potential hazards.

Truck traffic would therefore be routed to the D. J. MacDonald bridge.

Mr. Sharp said the posting would only be in the form of a recommendation, since the bylaw to authorize the load limit, passed Monday, still needs approval by the provincial government. Approval is expected in three weeks.

After precisely gauge the load limit of the bridge, council will call in the provincial transportation and communications ministry to conduct tests to determine what the bridge will bear. It is still not known when the study will be done.

Council further agreed to ask its Toronto bridge consultants to prepare a preliminary estimate of the cost of a new structure.

Now, the town plans to spend $72,000 to repair the bridge in a stop-gap measure that will prolong its life by one to three years. Complete repairs have been estimated to cost $1.25 million.

Eldorado Man Killed By Tractor

By JIM SMELLIE
Staff Reporter

ELDORADO — A 65-year-old Eldorado man hauling logs with a tractor was crushed to death Monday when the vehicle overturned on him while negotiating a side slope.

Charles Francis Griffin of RR1, Eldorado (Millbridge) was killed shortly before noon Monday while skidding cedar logs with a tractor about 100 yards behind his home.

The accident was first discovered by his wife, Mary, who alerted neighbors. The neighbors removed the man from under the tractor but he was later pronounced dead at the scene by coroner H. G. Parks.

The logs were apparently being hauled from bushland on his property and were being carried by a chain tied to a tractor when the tractor overturned on the side hill, landing on top of Mr. Griffin.

A similar accident occurred near Tweed in November, involving George Griffin, uncle of Charles Francis Griffin, who was also killed by an overturned tractor while working on his property in the Tweed area.

Letter Carriers' Strikes Spreading

OTTAWA (CP) — Letter carriers were off the job today in four more cities across the country as their union stepped up pressure on the government in an effort to find a favorable working agreement.

An estimated 4,000 letter carriers and mail truck drivers went on strike, with the Atlantic region hardest hit. There call in the provincial transportation and communications ministry to conduct tests to determine what the bridge will bear. It is still not known when the study will be done.

Council further agreed to ask its Toronto bridge consultants to prepare a preliminary estimate of the cost of a new structure.

Now, the town plans to spend $72,000 to repair the bridge in a stop-gap measure that will prolong its life by one to three years. Complete repairs have been estimated to cost $1.25 million.

Ancienne Lorette, Loretteville, Thetford Mines, Sept-Iles, Riviere du Loup, Chicoutimi-Jonquiere, Alma, Chicoutimi, Hauterive and Baie Comeau were on strike. Workers in Drummondville and Ste. Therese joined the strike today.

Letter carriers in London and Thunder Bay, Ont. were off their jobs as well as those in Edmonton and Vancouver.

In Ottawa, letter carriers who walked off the job Friday refused to work.

The union has been legally entitled to strike since April 14 but national government asked members to remain on the job until negotiations last weekend failed to produce a settlement.

The parties are said to be near a settlement and Postmaster-General Bryce Mackasey says the government has accepted the principle of a cost-of-living clause. The two sides are trying to settle on a suitable variation, he said Monday.

Construction Workers Seek Wage Increases

TORONTO (CP) — The 100,000 union tradesmen in Ontario's $8-billion construction industry are seeking wage and fringe benefit increases ranging from 20 to 36 per cent over the next two years, the president of the Construction Labor Relations Association of Ontario said Monday.

Claude E. Heywood told a news conference that "to grant demands like this would be economic suicide for the construction industry, not to mention the economy."

He said the demands would bring salaries of construction workers to between $24,000 and $28,000 a year by the end of the proposed contracts.

"When we start talking of wage and fringe packages in these amounts we're placing construction workers in the top bracket of the nation's wage earners." Mr. Heywood said, adding that fewer than four per cent of Canadians are in that bracket.

Mr. Heywood said the construction industry is negotiating contracts with labor unions representing electricians, carpenters, plumbers, roofers, sheetmetal workers and millwrights.

The association, which represents about 1,200 firms doing more than half the construction in Ontario, is acting as employer in this year's bargaining.

Mr. Heywood said the industry is in a "hopeless bargaining position" because more than 200 separate labor agreements are involved.

"Each local sits back and waits for someone else to settle," he said. "Then they take that settlement of so much per hour and try to improve on it for their local."

Calgary Dynamite Plant Blast Kills Six

CALGARY (CP)—A man who said he was the second man to reach the site of Monday afternoon's dynamite plant explosion which killed six men said a 1,000-foot fireball "blew the hinges out of the sky" as it rolled down a river valley away from the plant.

The man, who asked that his name not be used, also said employees of the Canadian Industries Ltd. (CIL) dynamite plant 15 southeast Calgary seemed to be in shock after the explosion and were slow to activate emergency procedures.

The explosion disintegrated a two-storey building in the centre of the 23-year-old plant shortly after 3 p.m. as a production shift change was in progress.

Three men, believed to be members of a safety inspection team working outside the building, were injured in the blast and are in serious condition in Calgary hospitals.

The dead were believed to have been inside the building when the blast occurred.

The man said he was driving toward the plant when it blew up. He described the explosion as "a complete sheet of flame.

"We watched the blast come down the valley," said the man. "We could see the birds blasted out of the sky ahead of us. It shook our car."

The man said he drove to the plant and was surprised that the gates were still open.

He said there was an alarm siren.

"Everybody there was in shock, and they were running around picking up bodies. Debris was raining down on our car and more people were streaming in."

A million pounds of dynamite was stored in five magazines at the plant and for a time it was feared they might explode.

Police, ambulance, and fire units had trouble reaching the blast site because of traffic jams created by sightseers.

Seven ambulances, including one company unit, were used to transport the dead and injured.

About 50 other persons were treated for minor injuries at the scene.

Eleven fire units were at the scene and six armed forces helicopters were used by the Alberta Emergency Measures Organization to supervise firefighting and evacuation.

The explosion could be felt or heard over one-third of the city.

The fireball and dense cloud of black smoke could be seen for 40 miles, the blast could be heard 20 miles away, and the earth shook as far as 15 miles from the blast centre. No property damage was reported outside the blast site.

Well-known Grocer Dies in Hospital

Funeral service for Thomas Joseph Irvin, for years one of the best-known neighborhood grocery store operators in the East Hill area, will be held Wednesday.

Mr. Irvin, of 171 East Bridge St., died Sunday at Belleville General Hospital. He was 62 and had been in failing health for some time.

For 32 years he operated his store on East Bridge between Charles and Albert streets before selling it about three years ago. Later, after several months he came out of retirement to work in the store for the new owners, Peter and George Zezgurras.

Born in Stanleyville, near Perth, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Irvin. He had lived in London, Ont., before coming to Belleville when he went into his own store operation, assisted by his wife, the former Madeleine Barry.

He was a member of the Belleville Sales and Ad Club for many years.

Mr. Irvin was a member of St. Michael's church.

He leaves his wife, two sons — Gary and Tommy, both of Toronto — a daughter, Mrs. Walter (Margaret) Zielke, of Orleans, and a granddaughter.

He is also survived by a brother, John, of Detroit, and a sister, Mary Irvin, of Gananoque.

Resting at the O'Brien-Steele Funeral Home, Funeral Mass will be held at St. Michael's at 11 a.m. Burial will be at St. James Cemetery.

BUYERS ARE NOT NAIVE

J. E. McKinney
Realty Ltd.

Your home represents an important financial asset. When the time comes to sell, put yourself in the buyer's shoes. He's in the same financial boat and will want the most house he can get for the money. Frankly, the stakes are too high to rely on do-it-yourself guess in this monetary arena. The best advice is — let an expert sell it.

But why a Realtor, when I can sell it myself and save the commission?" you may ask. "Right!" — WRONG!

The average buyer is far from naive. Before you even start serious negotiations, he'll expect you to deduct the Broker's commission for HIS benefit. Then you're on your own in critical areas of financing, mortgages, contracts and deeds, etc. Your home will be exposed to any and all unaccompanied strangers who knock.

A Realtor will save you these headaches and dangers. He'll protect your interest and sell your house at the best price. Statistics have proven this time and again.

Trenton to Appeal OMB Rail Overpass Ruling

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Mayor Bob Patrick will appeal to the Ontario Municipal Board and ask that it change its mind and include in Trenton's 1975 capital budget $300,000 for reconstruction of the Sidney St. CP Rail overpass.

The capital works project was killed by the OMB along with two other projects the town approved in its $1,363,935 budget for 1975. In so doing the OMB sliced by almost half the dollar value of projects Trenton wanted to undertake with borrowed funds.

Also cut of the works picture are land acquisitions for Trenton's greenbelt project along the west bank of the Trent River and the baseball diamond in Centennial Park. The two projects were priced at $8,700 and $20,300 respectively.

The appeal by the mayor was agreed to by council Monday after councillors George Greer and Bob Wannamaker said they feared for the eventual future of the Sidney subway.

"If we let it drop now" said Mr. Greer "I have my doubts that it will be started again." He said he was very desirous the matter not be dropped."

In refusing to okay permission for Trenton to borrow funds to finance the project the OMB termed all three projects as "less essential" than such projects as sewers, water systems drainage and housing programs.

It reasoned that "the steadily rising trend in unemployment and the increasing burden on the general tax levy caused by debt charges as a result of high interest rates" caused the board to give "careful and thorough consideration to all proposed capital expenditures."

Disallowing the $457,000 expenditure on the three projects the OMB slapped a $38235 limit on town capital expenditures. Exclusion of the projects could mean a 2.5 drop in the mill rate now set at 29.4, for retirement of the town's growing capital debt.

Chamber Request Tabled

TRENTON — Town council delayed immediate action Monday on a request from the Chamber of Commerce for an $8,000 grant to pull the Trenton group out of an expected deficit in 1975.

Chamber president Robert Prentice told council the request was being made because the group, is unable to support itself financially.

At $8,000 the grant is $2,000 more than the Chamber asked for in 1974, a deficit year, and double what council granted.

This year, the Chamber budget stands at $14,073 up by $2,257 over last year. The major portion of the budget is made up of the salary of the manager ($7,662), expenses ($1,800) and administrative costs ($2,411).

Anticipated is a $2,723 deficit for this year, down from the 1974 deficit of $3,296. On top of the deficits, the Chamber must stands at $14,073 up by $2,257 over last year. The major portion of the budget is made up of the salary of the manager ($7,662), expenses ($1,800) and administrative costs ($2,411).

Anticipated is a $2,723 deficit for this year, down from the 1974 deficit of $3,296. On top of the deficits, the Chamber must stands at $1,943 in mortgage payments. All would be covered by the $8,000 grant requested from town council.

Council is expected to study closely the Chamber request when it delves more fully into its current budget.

Little Response To Tender

TRENTON — Council will ask Fire Chief Bill Smith to look into the methods other fire departments use in tendering for new uniforms for its firemen.

Council's decision came Monday after it received only one tender for clothing for the fire department. Its cost was disclosed in the bid from Vic Auger and Sons Men's Wear.

In reporting to council, deputy clerk Avdon Boyce said only one tender has been received for clothing for the past two or three years. Several local firms asked for bids, he said.

Council will await a recommendation from Chief Ellis.

Chamber of Commerce Head of the Class

A teacher at Trenton High School for 40 years, Thorne Spear stands to address Monday's Educational Breakfast at the school after receiving the John D. Garrett educational Award. Mr. Garrett, seated, presented the second annual award to the former head of the school's science department as the person who has made a significant contribution to education in Trenton.

Commissioner Asks Trenton To Outline Growth Plans

TRENTON — Trenton council gave no indication Monday whether it will investigate the town's land needs and ambitions for growth into Northumberland County.

County restructuring study commissioner Donald King asked council to look into Trenton's future and present a brief to him for consideration by he makes recommendations for possible government change in the county.

Mr. King told council Trenton's involvement in the restructuring study though not official is important since it sits on the edge of the county.

His request was made he said because "whatever I recommend will have an impact on Trenton."

"I'd like to give you a chance to influence by thinking" said Mr. King.

The commissioner is charged by the provincial government and Northumberland County council with producing a set of recommendations to chart the pattern of government in the county. His power is limited to making suggestions rather than actually changing existing government structure.

In Trenton's brief, he asked for inclusion of the boundaries the town sees itself as occupying in the future. He also asked for some indication of whether Trenton sees itself as oriented west or east towards Hastings County.

If Trenton does draw up a plan enlarging its own boundaries he said "it'd be a pretty significant force in my thinking."

Under questioning by councillor Peter De Groot, Mr. King said he foresaw the years of the separated town as numbered. Trenton, in making any decision about its future, is caught between the county that is studying restructuring, and another (Hastings County) that is not.

A decision is therefore difficult, said Mr. King.

School Open

PICTON — Prince Edward Collegiate Institute will hold its open school night this Wednesday, an affair which attracted more than 1,500 parents last year.

Named Achievement Night '75, the schedule will cover the highlights of most school departments with doors opening at 6:30 p.m.

This year's open house marks the 18th consecutive display presented by the school, which will include metric presentation and film on antique cars.

Five Students to Study Lake Ontario Shoreline

FRANKFORD — Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority officials will be beginning out 150 student applicants this week to find five that will undertake resource investories of the Lake Ontario shoreline and the Cold Creek watershed this summer.

All five will be working under the provincial government Experience '75 program through which the authority has been granted $31,250.

Resources manager Bryan Boyce said recently the students will be conducting resource oriented socio-economic surveys of both waterbased areas.

The reports, he said, "will give an idea where we're going to go in development in future".

Two other reports — for Rice Lake and Shelter Valley Creek — are already being used as groundwork in developing the authority policy decisions. Both were created through work done by students in the SWEEP (Students Working in an Environmental Enhancement Program) program last year.

Experience '75, said authority technologist James Kelleher, is a program with a similar aim to SWEEP, now discontinued. He said it was to provide summer jobs for high school and post-secondary school students in areas in which their interests and studies lie.

Manpower Official Says Most Pupils Have Jobs

PICTON — Almost every student in Prince Edward County will have a job this summer and the ones that don't will receive help finding one, says John Cameron, a spokesman for the Canada Manpower Centre.

Many different types of jobs have been offered to the students in the county and the most advertised jobs are the government jobs. Opportunities for Youth, the federal sponsored program that offers students the chance to create their own jobs will have at different groups working to promote the County.

"Experience '75" is a provincial program that offers young people a wide range of employment opportunities in the areas of culture, recreation, social service, education and the environment. The Retarded Summer Volunteer Program (RSVP) is back again employing students to help work with the retarded at Prince Edward Heights. Project Sweep will again be employing about 20 people to help improve the appearance of the county. The tourist resorts like the Outlet and Sandbanks Provincial Parks also will be seeking help.

Along with the government jobs, factories and stores will be seeking students to help out this summer. Farmers in the county will especially be looking for eager students.

Mr. Cameron said that summer is the best opportunity for students to find temporary jobs. "There's not happening in the summer that won't happen in the winter," he said.

For those students who have not found a job yet or are in some doubt they'll even get one, all is not lost. Manpower is hiring a student councillor to help find jobs for students and students for jobs.

Mr. Cameron ended in saying that if a student is forward and goes out and looks for a summer job he usually gets one and if he gets a reputation for being a good worker, chances are he'll get the same job again the following summer.

Library Explains Services to Public

PICTON — The Picton Public Library has circulated a "your tour library" pamphlet in the mails to inform Prince Edward residents of full library services.

The library has a book stock of approximately 30,000 adult, children's and reference books and adults may borrow up to six at a time. Children are limited to four books at each library visit.

Library membership is free to residents of Athol, Hillier, Hallowell, North Marysburg, Sophiasburg and Picton.

Loan periods extend for three weeks for adults' books and two weeks for children's books and may be renewed by telephone for convenience.

An inter-loan service is provided at the Picton library through the Lake Ontario Regional Library System, affording access to books from public libraries across Canada.

The library also offers over 60 periodicals and newspapers for current reading.

Large print books are available for persons with vision problems and blocks of books are offered to schools, nursing homes and adults working with children.

Special circulating collections from the Lake Ontario Library System are available such as the Dutch and Fine Arts books now offered.

The library has 16 mm projectors, films, filmstrips and a slide projector available for organizations and individuals. Charges are nominal.

The Children's department of the library features a story hour each Saturday morning beginning at 11:45 a.m. There are also films, puppet plays and finger plays.

Most recent in the list of library services is a book drop located in front of the main entrance. This permits borrowers to return books at all times instead of waiting for opening hours.

Burning Rectal Itch Relieved In Minutes
One of the most common afflictions is a condition known as "itching piles," it is most embarrassing for the sufferer during the day and agonizing and aggravating at night.
If you want satisfactory relief—here's good news. A renowned research laboratory has found a unique healing substance with the ability to promptly relieve the burning itch and pain, it also helps to shrinks hemorrhoids. This substance has been shown to produce a most effective rate of healing. Its germ-killing properties also help prevent infection.
In one hemorrhoid case after another, "marked healing improvement" was reported. "This improvement was maintained in cases where clinical observations were continued over a period of many months. Furthermore, these tests and observations were made on patients with a wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions."
All this was accomplished by a healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — developed by a world-renowned research institution. This substance is now obtainable in ointment or suppository form known as Preparation H. Ask for Preparation H Suppositories (convenient to carry if away from home) or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Available at all drug counters. Satisfaction or your money refunded.

O'Sullivan Nails Youth 'Shadow Cabinet' with Legal-'pot' Buff for Its Chief

BY RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — We always seem to be reaching out to prune the self-destruct button, says Sean O'Sullivan, two-term Conservative MP for Hamilton-Wentworth.

He is talking about one of the neither campaign game plans thrown by Conservative Party Headquarters.

It is the creation of what the Conservative Backroom Boys call "the Youth Shadow Cabinet."

And its assignment — R says here in an official news release from Conservative Headquarters — is to "criticize each government department," offer its criticism to Mr. Stanfield's appropriate critic in the Commons and provide valuable aid to the Members of Parliament themselves." In a sentence, the Conservative Youth Cabinet of the party's Parliamentary Shadow Cabinet.

Or, putting it another way, the Youth Shadow Cabinet is to keep tabs on the Commons Shadow Cabinet keeping tabs on the real non-Shadow Cabinet.

And if that confuses you — try it this way — the Tory kids will monitor the Tory MPs who are monitoring the Liberal Cabinet Ministers.

Okay, so far so good, if a little on the screwy side.

But what has the Tory MPs wondering — again — what on earth Conservative Headquarters thinks it's doing — has been the selection, nomination, posting or whatever of Rob Solomon of Winnipeg as Youth Shadow Cabinet Chairman.

It is an appointment, if you think about it in terms of how the Conservatives are structured in the Commons, that makes him Youth Opposition Leader.

And, of course, not to belabor the point, except that Rob Solomon himself conceded in the same Rob Solomon who campaigned at national Conservative Party conventions for the legalization of marijuana.

Over at National Headquarters here the day they put out the press release, officials, obviously caught off guard and just as obviously a bit embarrassed, were not exactly sure this was the same Rob Solomon.

But among other Headquarter officers, Michael McCaffery, who was in charge of information on this particular press release, said he "guessed" it was, and under pressure, came through with Rob Solomon's phone number in Winnipeg.

Yes, agreed Mr. Solomon, speaking from Winnipeg, he was the one, and yes, he had pushed for legalization of "pot" when the Conservatives, meeting in national conclave, had been debating party resolutions that sometimes become party policy.

He had failed, he had tried, he said, and he still believed that legalization of marijuana would be a "good social thing," as he put it, and a "vote-getter among young people."

Why Sean O'Sullivan is goofy, only 23, the youngest MP ever elected by the Conservatives when he first entered the Commons at 20 back in the 1972 election.

And he thinks it is "a little crazy, but in the usual screwball style of party headquarters," first to set up a bunch of kids to second guess the Conservative MPs in Parliament, and secondly to put somebody in charge who had been identified with a campaign to legally approve pot.

Now Sean O'Sullivan may be young, but he is dry behind his parliamentary ears, dry-enough to win two successive federal elections, and dry-enough to be a bill of his own — the "Beaver Bill," officially extending the Beaver as the symbol of Canada — through Parliament.

Maybe one in a thousand such "Private Member's Bills" ever makes it — 999 are "stalled to death" — and the odds against an Opposition MP pulling it off are even longer.

So Sean O'Sullivan can be taken as the true voice and spirit — the emblem of youth success of Young Conservatives.

And he thinks the idea of a Youth Shadow Cabinet with a two-marijuana advocate as his Opposition Leader is about as nutty as Conservative Party Backroom Boys at National Headquarters so far have created.

But then, Sean O'Sullivan is only an elected Conservative MP, and as most Tory parliamentarians have learned to their sorrow, the boys at Headquarters always know best.

A Community's Spirit

Community spirit is an illusory thing, hard to put the finger on.

The Brockville Recorder and Times believes it is present in good measure in that city and cites examples.

There was the disastrous fire at the Revere hotel for instance which nevertheless afforded citizens an opportunity to display practical aid and concern. All guests rushed to have been provided with temporary shelter in a matter of hours.

The newspaper says community spirit is also exemplified in the manner in which financial support is freely given.

"When the YM-YWCA announced plans for a campaign to raise funds to build a centre of their own, it was felt in some quarters that the target was impossible. It turned out that support was readily given and the goal more than achieved. Earlier the Memorial Centre was one of the great examples of all time.

"Following on the YM-YW campaign," the editorial continues, "was the plan to raise funds for improvements and an addition to the Civic Auditorium. With a goal of $450,000, it was considered by some as an ambitious project that lacked sufficient interest. Again the interest of the community was such that the campaign has been an amazing success to-date. . ."

At the time of writing, more than $430,000 had been raised and in the strength of that the committee was prepared to ask city council for tenders. Their confidence, the editorial suggested, was well-founded and rooted in the community's history.

A successful telethon was held, in which nearly all pledges were honored. "Experience in many other centres," the editorial notes, "has shown that pledges are more easily made than honored."

Given a public response that is as eager and generous as this, Brockville can rightly claim to be a community that pulls together in the interests of all. The effort documented here is all the more remarkable for the range of projects involved — any one of which alone could have been considered a good community effort.

There is a lesson here which should not be lost on Belleville.

Quebec's Language Bill Is Riding Out the Storm

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

The turmoil over Quebec's Official Language Act—Bill 22—is far from over, despite all the soothing reassurances from Premier Robert Bourassa's government.

If the intent of Bill 22 is to preserve and protect the French language, no one inside or outside Quebec could find fault with that.

But serious criticisms of the Act continue to be made on such grounds as these:

—The bill is unimaginably rigid. One major Canadian manufacturer recently has estimated that it will have to spend an extra $4 million a year in Quebec to conform to its requirements.

One example of the cost burden: A lengthy technical service manual had to be translated from English to French at great expense, although it will be used by only three persons.

The decision, spelling out the detailed application of Bill 22, have not yet been promulgated. The uncertainty is, in some ways harder to deal with than the new law might be.

Quebec Minister of State Forand Lessard, it is hinted, at a recent Financial Post conference in Toronto on Bill 22, said the regulations would be made public.

"When they are ready," he quipped—indicating that the more important regulations are "well on the way" to completion.

Charles Perrault, president, Conseil du Patronat du Quebec, and a member of the ECONOMIC Council of Canada, pointed out at the same conference that such a law—one that depends on regulations to be drafted later—lets everyone fear the worst.

Bill 22 contains far too much ministerial discretion, Mr. Perrault added, as well as bureaucratic gimmicks such as the clearly inoperable language test to determine the admissibility of children to the English-language school system.

But Aime Gagne, manager of public relations for Aluminum Co. of Canada Ltd. — and a member of the Gendron Commission, whose studies from 1968 to 1972 laid the groundwork for the Official language Act—warned that it would be better for the English to try to accept Bill 22 as it is.

If they ask for a change, he said, the result would be a still more radical law—at least in the political climate likely to prevail during the next few years.

The message of Bill 22 for business is to make room for French-speaking people in the top jobs.

"This is not tokenism," Mr. Gagne emphasized, "It refers to those French-Canadians who actually are top qualified."

The success of the bill will depend primarily on the willingness that business has in recruiting competent.

There is considerable and understandable reluctance on the part of many young francophones to go into firms where they feel culturally alienated, Mr. Perrault noted.

"Much will have to be done to make corporations more hospitable to francophones—and as they in turn will have to go part of the way to close the gap."

Trees and Fungus

Trenton's new program of tree-planting on private property — on homeowners' lawns — instead of close to the road as in the past, with consequent wear and tear has merit.

As reporter Al Zebas pointed out recently Trenton in due course should have more trees and shade and grass, free of such debilitating factors as salt in winter, dry summers, and even vandalism.

Let's hope the program won't be thwarted by a fungus problem called wilting maple disease for which there is no known cure and which is becoming more common in southern Ontario.

The disease, discovered in the United States, was first seen in Ottawa only three years ago.

As a fungus it is in the same category as Dutch elm and the only treatment is amputation of affected branches or cutting down or burning a wholly-diseased tree.

"Family viewing time" on American television. Will this one small step by the broadcasting industry be the big nothing for the American family?

Yes — unless broadcasters take the concept as a positive commitment to improve the quality of family shows instead of leaving it with the present negative thrust onward prohibiting "entertainment programs inappropriate for viewing by general family audiences."

Ottawa Journal

Premier Davis's perception of a wide-spread public concern "about violence in the media, notably in film and television" is undobtedly valid. Who has not wondered if the exploitation of violence was not at least as deplorable and dangerous as sexploitation?

Introducing... the 'Fourth World'

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

We are bombarded with slogan words, creatures of the press and advertising agencies in efforts to simplify complex issues, or sometimes to avoid really studying them.

In foreign affairs, labels are attached to large, diversified and complicated regions and cultures, not the least of which are "Latin America" and "Southeast Asia" and more recently, "Third World."

We have been being told a "Fourth World" is emerging when some newspaper readers wouldn't be sure what we see the "First" and "Second" Worlds picked.

"Middle East" is another all-embracing expression, and the commentator's in the region start, to break it down, in some instances perhaps, confusing us even more.

We are told that not all the Moslem nations are "Arab," that Turkey is uniquely Turkish and the Iranians, though Moslems are not Arabs. The impressions in the first instance is that Turkey rejected Islam as a state or prescribed religion, making that country a genuine secular state, in many ways more European-oriented than Eastern.

And in Iran with its devout Moslem Shah-in-Shah, the difference is based on a major split in Islamic belief, something like a Swedish Lutheran being different than a Spanish Catholic, though both, you are Christians.

"Third World" is the phrase raising the most confusion. It is a term imposed by us in the industrialized and more or less self-satisfied Western world. Self-satisfied because, you see, we in the West, though we have thrown in industrial Japan, are the "First World."

The many Communist countries even through Russia, Poland and East Germany are also industrialized, are the "Second World" while the so-called under-developed nations are therefore the "Third World."

But then who is "under-developed" and who is entitled to say so? Brazil, with the world's fastest-growing gross national product in a world of deep recession, violently disagrees she is "Third World" but rather another emerging industrial state.

And when we in Canada buy Brazilian shoes and boots, scissors, cars with Brazilian-made parts, even the possibility of a multi-billion tank for our military, can we truly call that vast nation "Third World?"

The Brazilians in turn, (who may incidentally with self-assurance "God is a Brazilian"); see all of Africa as jungle-bound and filled with underdeveloped state states of the "Third World." But do they include Australia-settled and modern South Africa which rests its northward black neighbors also as "Third World?"

Brave yourselves for more labels and games because the "Fourth World" is emerging. And it's hard to say whether the Moslem genuine "Third World" countries which are struggling and may always be so, like the African states of Chad, Guinea, Niger and the Gabon, or the big — like Brazil, Nigeria and Indonesia who don't want to be identified with the large struggling nations.

And maybe if and when we build communities in outer space on the moon and Mars, we will go for the "Fifth World." The end is not yet in sight.

Civil Service 'Cuts' Are an Issue

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau
Thomson News Service

TORONTO — The Liberals have been quarrelling with the government over its promise to cut down on the civil service.

In his budget Treasurer Darcy McKeough announced a 10 per cent cut in the 69,500-member public service.

Liberal financial critic James Breithaupt says this is an illusion.

The figures the treasurer has been citing, he says, do not include the large number of project workers, temporary employees and contract workers that the government uses.

There are suggestions that the government does over the year have a large number of such employees working for it.

On contract there are people such as professionals (doctors), executive consultants, researchers, and groups such as a pool of 1,000 typists and stenographers kept by the Civil Service Commission itself.

Then during the forest fire season in the summer and the winter season on the highways there can be hundreds and sometimes thousands of daywarkers hired.

At times the total number of people working for the government can probably top 75,000.

Breithaupt says superficial inquiry tool much more can be made as no central records are kept it would appear that the number of these employees has been remaining more or less constant.

And Mr. McKeough probably can achieve his 10 per cent objective!

Not that this will remove the fat in the civil service.

Just how much is really there nobody knows, but at the same time there is no doubt that it is there.

One reason for it is that in most cases nobody gets fired from the civil service. To get the bounce you practically have to sock your boss or dip into the till.

If an employee powers inefficient what most often happens is that he or she is moved to another job, and it is surprising the number of times this comes down to a kick upstairs.

Personally, what this one observer would like to see is an inquiry which would take a long, hard look at the entire civil service and see where cuts could and should be made.

Tourist Operators Want Change in Council Makeup

By NAN WHITLAW
Staff Correspondent

BANCROFT. — The nine northern townships of Hastings County continue to be the source of controversy in the establishment of regional travel associations in the province.

At the annual general meeting of the Highlands of Hastings Tourist Council held in Bancroft this weekend, members heard George Lyons, reeve of Desoronto and incoming president of the Highlands of Hastings Tourist Association say, Hastings County council must certainly support the Highlands of Hastings and the tourist industry in the county in general, but they want to see all the county under the Highlands of Hastings Tourist Council."

At the moment the nine northern townships including Bancroft belong, by provincial dictate to the Madawaska Valley Regional Tourist Council (MVRTC).

The Highlands of Hastings council now is affiliated with the newly-formed Central Ontario Travel Association (COTA) while the north of the county, because of its alignment with the MVRTC must belong to the Eastern Ontario Travel Association (EOTA).

COTA takes in areas of Peterborough, Ontario, Highland of Hastings, Haliburton Highlands and Land of Lakes regions while the EOTA extends from Bancroft through to the Quebec border and takes in the Eastern Seaway area.

Representing the ministry of industry and tourism at the meeting was Doug Jarvis, travel association liaison officer who said, "This question has already been posed to the minister (Claude Bennett) and its our interpretation that the MVRTC is the MVRTC and that's what we are right now. We're in a very difficult position about this and I think that all the groups concerned should sit down and see if it can be ironed out."

The past president of the Highlands of Hastings, Vera MacMurray said, "It's a free country and I think that people should be free to join the group that they want to, not the one that they're told to."

Mr. MacMurray also indicated in his president's report that "$2.8 million was spent by tourists in Hastings County in 1973, surely our industry warrents more support than it is getting at the moment."

"The sole purpose of our group is to advertise and promote tourism in Hastings County," said Mr. MacMurray.

In speaking to the 70 members present, Mr Jarvis said, "The ministry has lived up to its commitments and has taken the initiative to reorganize tacsism in the province from a position of casualness to one of professionalism.

Former Resident Now Minister in Korea

BANCROFT — North Hastings residents are being invited to attend a special church service on May 4 at St. Paul's United Church to re-acquaint themselves with a local man who has served as a minister in Korea.

The Rev. Walter Beecham has been involved in the work of the United Church in Korea since 1958.

In April of that year, Mr. Beecham was appointed by the board of World Missions to Korea where he was an associate minister in a church in Taejon, a city of 250,00.

In 1960, he obtained his Master of Social Work degree in Toronto and returned to Korea where he and his wife Lenore now include social work and social action in their tasks.

They are also involved in an urban mission work program.

John Weese, minister of St. Paul's Church, said the Beechams are involved in a program of helping "people to help themselves."

The Bancroft service will be at 11:00 a.m., May 4.

Community Announces Keep Station on Air

BANCROFT — Members of the North Hastings Community Radio Committee accepted a challenge of "trial by wind" Saturday and kept the new North Hastings Radio Station, CJNH, on the air.

Power Failures in the Madoc area disrupted the usual feed from CJBQ in Belleville to the satellite station CJNH from early Saturday morning until 2 p.m. in the afternoon.

By working in one hour shifts, announcers and producers of the community group, who normally broadcast in the evening kept local residents amused with music, information and interviews, through the five-hour disruption.

Frank Murray, general manager of CJNH—CJBQ said, he was delighted with the response of the volunteer radio group.

Ontario Hydro reported the high winds caused considerable damage to power lines and caused issues of power in the Cardiff, Coe Hill, Gilmour and Purdy areas.

Stirling Council Rejects New Arena Funding Request

By CHRIS ALMEY
Staff Correspondent

STIRLING — Councillor Wayne Martin lost his second bid this year to get Stirling council to make a financial commitment to a new arena at a regular council meeting Monday evening.

Councillor Martin pointed out that nearby municipalities will be drawing up their budgets, and Stirling should declare its intention in time for others to consider supporting the proposed Stirling district arena. He suggested that $25,000 would be appropriate.

Reeve Ray Shortt noted that a new ice plant costing about $30,000 had to be paid for. It was put in the old arena, with a view to moving it to a new arena. The reeve proposed paying $15,000 towards it this year, and the balance next year.

Councillor Martin said he had no objection to $25,000 being raised and allocated to wards the ice plant in lieu of the arena, since it was the same thing.

A discussion by council followed but the arena financing question was put aside once again.

In other business, Lower Trent Conservation Authority manager Brian Boyce presented a draft flood plan. Council decided to shelve until it's next meeting a decision regarding payment for it.

Reeve Shortt called the flood plan a waste of money. Last year's council in June had asked for the study so it would know what lands were hazard areas.

Mr. Boyce said the plan was drafted using Hurricane Hazel flood waters as a guide, but a change in storms had been made Monday, he said. The new guide was the Timmins Storm in the 60s, which would make the flood plain about 200 feet narrower, he said.

Council pointed out that the amount of water going down Rawdon Creek through Stirling "after Hurricane Hazel was no worse than each spring. Mr. Boyce at the end of his presentation said the flood plain is based on the storm centre being near Stirling. Members of council pointed out that water had never, to their knowledge reached anywhere near the marks the plan outlined.

Councillor Wayne Martin moved that the village's share of $2,313 out of $5,329 of the cost of the plan be paid when the study was finished, but he could not get a seconder.

In other business, Councillor Martin lost another motion seeking a study of a pension plan for municipal employees. He said it would cost the village $1,500 a year to provide half the cost of a pension scheme if all employees participated. Other members of council, however, spoke against it.

Council, however, did support councillor Martin in seeking an appointment with Ontario Housing Corporation representatives to come to Stirling and outline any plans that would be available to spur building new homes in the community. Two dates, April 28 or May 5 were to be suggested and one agreed to by OHC.

High Winds Lift Roof

BANCROFT — Winds with gusts up to 60 miles an hour really lifted the roof at the Bancroft Airport this weekend.

The wind caught the back third of the roof of the club hangar and tore the sheets of corrugated steel off the only flat roofed hangar at the airport.

The flying pieces of steel barely missed hitting several small planes which were parked nearby.

None of the planes were damaged during the episode, however, one private craft was tipped over by the force of the wind.

The flying pieces of roof also caused damage to the hydro lines at the airport and a shorted wire caused a small fire in the club house.

The fire was brought under control by the Bancroft fire department and temporary repairs were made to the hangar roof by members of the club.

There was no estimate of damage.

Open House Offers Look Into Education System

CLOYNE — The North Addington Education Centre, located in this village on Highway 41, will hold its open house today beginned at 7:15 p.m.

Visitors will have the opportunity to view both work already done by students and projects being worked on by students during the event.

Included among area community organizations involved in the program are the Lions Club, Boo Echo Park, Adult Crafts, 4-H clubs, area clergymen, piano students, district health unit, Cloyne Art Guild and fashion show buffs.

An "early leaving for work" policy will be available for scrutiny by visitors, introduced in October, it is a reward to the more successful students who have worked hard all year, have had good attendance and wish to gain out-of-school experience during the last few school days while review is occuring in classes.

To participate, a student must be well above average in achievement, have a definite job offer and secure permission from both parents and teachers.

Footings Finished

TWEED — Footings have been completed for the second senior citizens' home in this village. A survey is currently under way to determine the need for a third housing unit.

Concerts Scheduled

North Hastings residents will have an opportunity to hear music" and two treats in the area this week. On Wednesday, those living in the Tweed area can attend a concert entitled Music — the International Language in the Tweed - Hungerford Senior School gymnasium from 7:30-10 p.m. And on Friday at 7:30 p.m., northern country residents can hear a recital performed by piano students in the North Addington Education Centre cafeteria in Cloyne.

Buskirk Top Musician

BANCROFT. — The auditorium of North Hastings Secondary School in Bancroft was packed with more than 700 proud parents and relatives last week, as 35 different winners from the North Hastings Music Festival demonstrated the talents that led them to the prizes.

In a three-hour concert that included piano, vocal and instrumental selections, the North Hastings Music Festival Committee presented trophies and awards to the winners.

The highest festival mark was given to Don Buskirk for his skilled handling of the clarinet.

Mr. Buskirk received 92 marks last week from adjudicator Dawson Woodburn.

Campaign $307 Richer

The city cancer campaign received an added boost Saturday as all proceeds from the sale of beverages sold at the Ponderosa Steak House that day going to the campaign. Before the day was out, a total of $307 was brought in. The even coincided with the sale of daffodils sold in the city Saturday by volunteers with the Belleville and District Unit of the Canadian Cancer Society.

Genetic Counselling Needed for Parents

HALIFAX (CP)—About six per cent of all newborn children have some genetic disability and parents should be aware of genetic problems, the risk parents run in having genetically-disabled children and the options open to them, says Dr. Philip Welch, a geneticist at Dalhousie University.

Genetic problems are more widely recognized today because of the tendency towards small families and "people are more concerned with the quality of their children," Dr. Welch said in an interview.

The wider recognition of such problems, however, has not helped much in Nova Scotia in terms of communicating about them.

"There is a desperate need for the education of physicians, public health nurses, social workers and the general public, and regional centres are needed to provide genetic counselling," he said.

Dr. H. C. Sill, a Halifax family physician, said doctors have to know more about genetics.

The problem is greater than is sometimes realized, Dr. Sill said. He noted that up to 30 per cent of cases handled by the Izaak Walton Killam Hospital for Children here deal with genetic abnormalities in the young patients.

He added that few, if any, physicians who graduated from medical school 10 years ago or more have had much instruction in genetics and counselling.

Dr. Sill said misinformation given to parents or prospective parents of genetically deficient children may be harmful. If a doctor doesn't know the problem thoroughly, he should refer the parents should be referred to a specialist.

Most important, said Dr. Sill, is accurate diagnosis and a thorough investigation of family medical history.

Wants to Hire a Mother

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Several women have responded to a Sunday school teacher's newspaper ad offering up to $10,000 to anyone who will rent his baby by artificial insemination, then turn over the child to him.

The San Francisco Chronicle said Saturday that it received a number of phone calls and one employed woman for the education of physicians, public health nurses, social workers and the general public, and regional centres are needed to provide genetic counselling," he said.

The man who placed the ad Friday asked that his name not be used but said he was the last in his family line and wanted the child so the line would not die.

"I'm a very moral man," he said in a telephone interview. "I don't want to meet the woman face to face, much less have sexual relations with her."

Definition

William Dyson, executive director of the Vanier Institute of the Family, says the institute has changed its definition of a family since its inception 10 years ago. In 1964, it pictured the "ideal" family as mother, father and about two children. Today, the institute works with all types of "family" units — fishermen, poor people, single families and communes. Only today's definition families are groups that encourage their members to "live and love fully as responsible persons in community with one another."

The Vanier institute is financially independent after working on an endowment fund of $6 million between 1964 and 1972. It operates on a private-funding basis, using interest from the fund, Mr. Dyson said.

Its programs are mainly in the social development area. They include:

1. Family-love reform.

2. A search for alternate ways to provide the professional help of psychologists, psychiatrists, family workers, social workers and other "human services."

3. Research on contemporary family life-styles, through community contacts.

4. Maintaining an information centre for textual and audio-visual material on family issues.

5. Publishing a bi-monthly booklet called Transition which outlines the institute's latest work.

6. Producing working papers for government policymakers outlining new ideas or issues affecting the family unit.

The institute was conceived by Gen. Georges P. Vanier during his term as governor-general between 1959 and 1967.

His widow now lives in Prouly Breull, France, where she is secretary patron of L'Arche, a village-style learning concept for retarded persons founded by her son Jean, now 45.

"There was a vague idea in 1959 that Western society was in a state of crisis and a more critical state was looming very rapidly," said Mr. Dyson.

"Governor-General Vanier viewed this from his experience as a wartime general, his years in London, as an ambassador to France, from France's upheavals and in that nothing he read existence."

Williams, the rejection of moral and religious values, and the resulting crisis he saw in Western society, Mr. Dyson said.

Today, a "worsening, many-sided crisis has persuaded numerous Canadians to wonder . . . whether this society is, after all, the best of all possible social arrangements."

"The governor-general saw we needed a better family and he's confirmed in spades."

The old idea was to apply science to problems facing the family and, through it, seek to correct social deficiencies. The rational man would lead to a rational society.

That approach lasted for centuries, Mr. Dyson said, "but those assumptions have given way to a different perspective."

For example, the Law Reform Commission, in a 1974 working paper on family courts, suggested that if the "urban nuclear family" found itself in trouble all that was needed was some new court services. This sort of solution, the institute contended, would only prolong things and create more difficulties.

Today, there are new kinds of familial relationships, Mr. Dyson said but none of the sciences nor the Law Reform Commission "have a handle on what's going on."

"Science is all soft data, an inadequate tool to deal with change. This mindless technology, science, is apparently a contributor to social problems."

The institute questioned "only accepted assumptions" about the nature and goals of social development and examined and tested alternative approaches.

Canadian family forms included the urban nuclear family, the extended family with aunts, uncles, nephews and nieces and the traditional family.

There were other deviant forms—the single-parent family, widows and widowers, common-law families, people living together and "de facto" marriages.

"All families require love and a community . . . but what's the ideal?" asked Mr. Dyson.

"A survey shows that maybe two or three kids in a class of 30 at school might come from a really stable family.

"There are others who decide they want to abandon the family unit and live in communal forms. There are economic co-operative forms in which the financial base is shared." These might include as many as 15 people living in support of one other.

This "functional family" exists in a broader net of closeness than the nuclear family. Here is an important fusion of recreation and economics. Even chores, such as cooking, earning incomes and child-rearing get spread around."

Mr. Dyson said a "shift" is necessary to help our colleges of the essential family units.

"Cars, people, towns, the unemployed, these as welfare, food, containers, even familial relations are being altered or thrown away."

Every time a family moved—two, three or 20 times in a lifetime—its links with community, the school and local economics were disrupted.

"What we're doing is taking a position to assist in the preservation of the family unit. . . . All our services have not slowed the divorce rate or reduced the number of ghetto-ized aged or the number of disinclined children."

The "nuclear family" can't defend itself against the burden of ordinary life, he said, and the Vanier Institute is looking for the quickest course to "straighten things out."

Ann Landers

Returning Tip 'Beautiful'

Dear Ann Landers: I'm the wife who took the $5 bill from under the plate. My husband left it as a tip for the waitress. I needed that $5 to get some fabric. I always thought waitresses should be paid a living wage. Lord knows people who live on tips don't get enough to pay base days without having to come up with a big tip.

After reading all those letters in your column from waitresses who said they depend on tips to live, I talked it over with my daughter. We shed a few tears together and decided to save up $5 and give it to that waitress.

I personally took the fiver over myself, apologized to the girl and handed her the money. She took it, looked me straight in the eye and said, "You're nuts!" Then she walked away without another word. It was humiliating that she expressed no appreciation whatever.

What do you think of this, Ann Landers? — Foolish Samaritan

Dear Samaritan: I do not agree that the waitress showed no appreciation whatever. Her comment, "You're unreal," may have been her finest compliment you've ever received. What she was saying is this: "You are so marvelous, I can't believe you exist."

The greatest human problem in today's world is the failure of people to communicate. Take my word for it, you did a beautiful thing. That waitress was so stunned by your generosity that she couldn't express herself.

Doris Clark

Learning Disabled Not Retarded

Dear Doris: I have become involved with learning-handicapped children.

Could you please tell me what facilities are available? What do they do at these places? Would you recommend sending a child there?

Dear Disturbed: The existence of learning gaps is otherwise normal children has been disturbing us for quite a while now. It used to be that many children thus handicapped were identified as retarded, and therefore given the wrong kind of treatment.

The symptoms may be such things as reading backwards, inability to print letters properly, confusion with numbers and other reading hazards. A good many of these can be traced to unhappy home situations or unfortunate experiences during very early childhood. Sometimes the fact that a tiny tot does not move from one learning experience to another in the proper sequence, means a gap in learning and therefore a learning disability.

As we learn more about it, the facilities have become more efficient at identifying just what is wrong with such a child and then — and only then — prescribing and undertaking treatment.

An organization called the Association for Children With Learning Disabilities, 88 Eglinton Ave. E., Toronto, Ontario, can direct you.

Confidential to Marzy: Growing up is often a succession of friendships, as you gradually learn more and more about the world and about yourself. Each of us has preference and certain natural affinities.

It looks to me as if you have reached the point in this friendship of yours with Jessie where it needs to cool off a bit. Don't let her make you feel "brushed off" because Jessie herself is learning things these days. She may be back to you when she misses your friendship, but this does not mean you should not make others.

Relax. Real friends are people whom you like and who like you a lot in spite of faults and shortcomings.

Today's Child

By Helen Allen

Helen Allen, in her continuing endeavor to help children, has been in Hong Kong making arrangements for orphaned Vietnamese children.

Therefore, her regular daily Today's Child column for release April 22 will not appear.

Ms. Allen feels that although there are many Ontario children who are in need of her assistance, the Vietnamese orphans have an urgent need and she wants to help.

When there are children in need of her help, Helen Allen wants to be there.

The column will resume as soon as she returns.

The Nuclear Family Isn't Enough

OTTAWA (CP) — Do our social systems really serve the people or are people manipulated into serving the system?

Do the systems encourage free and responsible behavior or do they tend to limit and control various forms of living?

Workers for the Vanier Institute of the Family ask these questions as they search for social patterns that put human relations, especially family relations, first rather than second.

"Traditional procedures are inadequate to deal with present problems," said William Dyson, the 60-year-old executive director, as he explained how the institute has changed its definition of a family since its incorporation 10 years ago.

In 1964, it pictured the "ideal" average family as mother, father and about two children. That was the unit to be "supported, encouraged and held up as a model to follow."

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Hanley

Hanley — Chivers

Margaret Josephine Chivers and Michael Lawlor Hanley exchanged wedding vows March 31 during an afternoon ceremony at St. Joseph's Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Chivers, Limavady, Northern Ireland. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Hanley, Belleville.

Rev. Paul McAvoy officiated at the ceremony. Rev. John Ward, the bride's cousin, also attended.

The bride was given in marriage by Brendan McCormick.

The bride wore a full length white jersey gown with soft train. The bodice was accented with gathering from waist to yoke and the neckline featured a mandarin collar. Her veil was a waist length lace mantilla. She carried pink and white daisies.

Celine Chivers, the bride's sister, was maid of honor. She wore a bottle green and turquoise jersey skirt with matching turquoise top. She carried white mums. Ethna Chivers, the bride's sister, and Alice Fitzgibbon, the groom's sister, also attended in similar ensembles.

John Hanley was groomsman assisted by Richard Hanley and Robert McGibbon.

A dinner and dance at the Knights of Columbus Hall followed.

The couple resides in Belleville.

People and Events

COUNSELLORS APPOINTED

Loreen Ellis, Belleville, and Rosa Spry, Stirling, were elected provincial counsellors of the Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire last week at the IODE's annual meeting in Hamilton.

Mrs. Ellis is a member of the St. Julien Chapter; Miss Spry is a member of the Hon. J.R. Cooke Chapter.

SECRETARIES' WEEK

Minding everybody's business everywhere is the theme of National Secretaries Week being recognized in Belleville this week with several events.

Monday members of the association's Bay of Quinte Chapter toured the Education Centre.

Tomorrow the members will entertain their bosses at a Executive Night, an annual event where the Boss of the Year is announced.

Dorothy Aitchison, president, will entertain the members and their guests at a wine and cheese party.

During the week, members of the group's Speaker's Bureau will address commercial classes in the secondary schools.

UNIVERSITY WOMEN

Isabelle Johnston, Vice-President for Ontario of the Canadian Federation of University Women brought the Belleville and District Branch her impressions and slides of the International Federation of University Women conference held in Japan last summer.

Besides the business sessions the conference featured interest circles and panel discussions. One of these was led by Mrs. Johnston. The Canadian Federation is the second largest in the International Federation. We have a member on the standing committee for standards and one on the standing committee for the status of women. It has been suggested that the 1980 conference be held in Canada.

Seminars discuss broad goals first, then considered the means of achieving them. Projects for local groups were considered.

After the conference Mrs. Johnston enjoyed a stay at a Japanese inn. Here she tried a Japanese bath and slept in a traditional Japanese bed, a mattress on the floor which was surprisingly comfortable.

She noted that among Japanese dolls the females were always half the size of the males.

Mrs. Johnston also visited Seoul, Hong Kong, Bangkok, Penang, Kuala Lumpur, Singapore and Manila. Everywhere she was impressed by the contrast of very old and very new. Seoul was remembered for its rich street life.

This meeting was held in the Hastings County Board of Education Centre, and was preceded by a tour of the building. Travelling with Mrs. Johnston was Marie Lindsay, Provincial 2A ector from Ontario East. Conie Burns introduced Mrs. Johnston.

HOME AND SCHOOL

A meeting of the Parkdale Home and School Association will be held at the school on Monday, April 28.

There will be a guest speaker who will give a presentation on gardening and an election of officers for the 1975-76 term will be held.

AUDITORS' REPORT

TO THE HASTINGS - PRINCE EDWARD COUNTY ROMAN CATHOLIC SEPARATE SCHOOL BOARD

We have examined the Revenue Fund and Capital (Building) Fund Balance Sheets of The Hastings - Prince Edward County Roman Catholic Separate School Board as at December 31, 1974 and the statements of Revenue, Fund Revenue and Expenditure and Source and Application of Capital Funds for the year then ended. Our examination included a general review of the accounting procedures and such tests of accounting records and other supporting evidence as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

We wish to report that the Board has got complied with a directive from the Department of Education, which set out the basis on which certain items of revenue and expenditure should be apportioned between school boards and private schools. However, we have examined the records of both the Board and the private schools and note the allocation for teaching salaries was not in accordance with the directive, we do find that the overall distribution of all costs was done in an equitable manner.

Subject to the above qualification, in our opinion these financial statements present fairly the financial position of the Board as at December 31, 1974 and the results of its operations and the source and application of its capital funds for the year then ended, in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted for Ontario School Boards applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

2. MORTGAGE PAYABLE

The mortgage is secured by a charge on portion of the Board's land and buildings, bears interest at 7.5% and is repayable in monthly blended instalments of principal and interest of $596 in December 31, 1996.

3. LOCAL TAXATION UNDER (OVER) REQUISITIONS

Local taxation under (over) requisitions represent the differences between the amounts requisitioned from municipalities and the amounts that should have been requisitioned based on the actual level of expenditures for the year ended December 31, 1974. The local taxation under requisitions will be recovered by the levying of additional taxes and the local taxation over requisitions will be returned to taxpayers by a reduction in taxes during the year ending December 31, 1975. The composition of this amount is as follows —

| | 1974 $ | 1973 $ |
|---|---|---|
| Amount over requisitions as at December 31, 1973 (net) | — | (3,954) |
| Add: Adjustment to 1973 Education Aid Rate subsidy and General Legislative Grant | (494) | |
| Less Amount returned to taxpayers during 1974 on account of 1973 local taxation over requisitions (net) | 3,064 | 2,388 |
| | (494) | |
| Add: Local taxation over requisitioned for the year ended December 31, 1974 | (13,384) | |

4. LOAN RECEIVABLE - NICHOLSON CATHOLIC COLLEGE

This loan represents the Board's contribution to the College since that time and the annual repayments of $3,000 in terms of the agreement have been received.

5. SICK LEAVE BENEFITS

Under the Sick Leave Benefit Plan presently in existence, unused sick leave can accumulate and employees may become entitled to a cash payment when they leave the Board's employment.

These accumulated days, to the extent that they may be used to determine the cash payment to an employee on termination, amount to approximately $40,000 at the end of the year. No provision has been made on account of the sick leave benefit plan.

Cuba Keeps Its Old Style Though Services Improved

By JOHN D. HARRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

(NOTE: Mr. Harbron who attended the University of Havana in the late 1940s and covered the Cuban Revolution in 1959 returned to Cuba recently and reports on Castro's 16-year-old social revolution. Mr. Harbron, who is fluent in Spanish, writes four articles on modern Cuba.)

HAVANA — The most distinctly Cuban and somewhat casual style of the only Marxist society in the Western Hemisphere is evidenced by the fact 18 years have not removed the many symbols of the old Cuba.

Everywhere I walk in downtown Havana of 1975, almost a generation in time from the day in early January, 1959, when Fidel Castro entered this city in triumph, the signs, symbols even the currencies of what the Castro Cubans call "el imperio" ("the empire") when Cuba was an appendage of the American economy, still abound.

Surely in any other complete social revolution, the concrete reminders of the old order would be swept away or replaced.

The Bakhevik Revolution stopped short of destroying totally the symbols of Imperial Russia when it first turned Russia's magnificent palaces into government offices, then restored them as museums of the state.

The so-called "palaces" of the rich of the old Cuba (their huge homes) were not gutted and in most cases remain in varying conditions of external decay. But inside they are busy government offices, boarding houses for the thousands of refugee Cubans whom the revolution brought to town to learn to read and write and to participate fully in the new Marxist Cuba.

A short walk along once familiar streets for me and I am, passing the former Western Union office of 23rd and L Streets near the Havana Libre hotel tall now shortly called the Havana Hilton before the revolutionaries took over the newly-opened luxury hotel in 1959).

The Western Union corporate transfer is still there in the window, the kind of label the company has not used in perhaps fifteen years. But a many palace inside shows Cubans are lining up for classes in English, with simple English sentences already scribbled on a blackboard and the familiar classroom chaos of chairs and desk in what was once an office of a window.

Where resident American businessmen once sent cables back to the U.S. about another big business deal or school kids asked Dad for more money to live it up in the old Havana, the once illiterate rural folk of Cuba learn English, now, before learning Russian.

Perhaps learning English first says something already about the inevitable future orientation of Castro's Cuba, back to some kind of rapprochement with the nearby United States, hence the need to put English before the now familiar but unpopular Russian.

Across the street from the Havana Libre, still a fine hotel with good service, solid if not fancy food and comfortable rooms, I see the lettered remnants of the names of once-famous and pretty rich Cuban doctors, still clinging in rusted elegance to the wall of one of Cuba's posh clinics.

I can read the full name of Dr. Agramonte and most of what has be Dr. Argüelles, famous Cuban specialists, who went to Miami to take medical exams all over again, becoming more famous and presumably even richer doctors again for the privileged few.

There are 800,000 Cubans like them but also including lower middle class, who have left this island and with whom an Fidel Castro told me a few days later there will be "no reconciliation".

"There is only one Cuba people," he said, "the people who live here." The others who left are now Americans and are outside the struggle of the revolution to survive, he also told me.

Today the former clinic for the eliminated bourgeoisie is a state clinic where lights burn night and day in one office, but are never on in another, another x-m of the casual Cuban way of doing things which personalized much of what you see, making almost every memory of the old Havana come to life again.

But where the wealthy doctors of an earlier urban Havana once served the few, and a hypochondriacal few they were, with clinics proliferating in a rich city, but few in the countryside, one of the truly great accomplishments of Castro's revolution is "salud publica," public health for every Cuban.

Not far from Revolution Square is the modern orthopedic hospital where Cuban doctors who slaved, relying on the world-renowned Soviet and East German experience in specialized aspects of medicine, have built up one of the many specialized hospitals of Castro's Marxist society.

And on the road to the International Airport, there is a modern clinic for the mentally disturbed and the insane, a former country estate where the best in Soviet psychiatry is put to use.

Before the revolution the mentally ill were often treated like the abandoned creatures we have seen in Hogarth's horror paintings of 18th century London.

Among the 800,000 Cubans who fled Fidel's socialist society, largely the doctor-rich brought the greatest professional loss to the new society. Castro could exhort city Cubans to go out and cut sugar cane to meet his annual quotas for the sad-n sugar harvests and thousands did. But learning to be a doctor takes time, needs other trained doctors to teach and not just exhortations.

Among the many contributions made by Soviet science and technology to Marxist Cuba, some of which don't work very well (like Soviet tractors and trucks and steel mills), the role of Soviet medical science has been close. The doctor gap and made possible the basic promise of the revolution of global health services paid for by the state.

As I move elsewhere to other places here I remember, like Dr. Celia Sánchez Manduley (Batista's) College) in its day the largest medical research school in Latin America with 3,000 boarders and among them long ago Fidel Castro, son of a wealthy plantation owner near Santiago de Cuba.

It's still a vast institution, renamed called the Lenin School, showpiece of Marxist education, but, a model for other schools of its kind, built on a lesser size and scope.

Its students are mainly from the land and the farms, even though it's verse in the partly-abandoned Havana, the city where other bourgeois institutions of little use to the revolution have been transformed for use by the people at large.

But I am more impressed with the likes of the Cuba-Canada school, standing and bright, built partially with Canadian construction equipment sold to Cuba, among the flat and green fields of mixed vegetables which Cuba is determined to grow along with the omni-present sugar and tobacco.

"It is a model for about 1,000 more to come as called for by the ambitious Five Year Plan (1975-1980), a prototype rural school in the countryside where Fidel has concentrated many of the goals of his social revolution.

The Canadian Trade Mission Industry, Trade and Commerce Minister Alastair Gillespie) took time out from high-level talks with Fidel's key Marxist ministers to officially visit this school, built with Canadian technical assistance, not close to the Isle of Pines, far enough away from Havana that teachers and students talk more about rural roles than city life.

The greeting for us is in the now classic style of socialist countries, reminding me of the simple lines of well-dressed, well-disciplined school children in the People's Republic of China who chanted slogans and greetings in unison for the important foreign visitors.

The school, hospital, factory and in China the communes! Built on the concept of bi-lateral friendship with another state, capitalistic as well as socialist, is a feature of showmanship in Marxist countries. The Chinese-Canada Friendship Commitee I visited in rural China in October, 1973 was opened to us in much the same way as the Cuba-Canada School in Matanzas Province.

But if the Chinese motions were too artificial, too ordered, these Cuban school kids were not. Their spontaneity is part of the old Arder, lively, exhuastic, truly spontaneous (except few of them in the old Cuba would have gone in any kind of school in the depressed and neglected rural regions).

The school uniforms I remember from the posh private schools or pre-revolutionary Havana had not been expunged by the revolution, but the contained use of them has been borrowed by the revolution for these healthy and, where the young teenagers were concerned, still very sexy young Cuban girls.

Again, a reminder of the inherent Cuban nature of things, in this island. "La sangre cubana es siempre la sangre cubana." a Cuban official said to me with a knowing smile. "Cuban blood is Cuban blood."

Everywhere the pretty women and girls of Cuba, not so enticingly dressed as in the past, but rich womanhood not having trouble hiding itself beneath simple white blouses and para-military uniforms.

Castro did tell me during his supries visit to the Canadian Embassy residence and reception for our trade mission that there would be no "revolutionaries" between Cubans inside the revolution and those who abandoned it.

But it is the essential sameness of the Cuban style inside his revolution, as beyond it where Cuba relies less, which impressed me the most, a style which makes one wonder, as in Poland, Hungary, perhaps even China, how basically Marxist a national revolution can remain?

Hawaiian Geese Breed at Guelph

GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — The NeNe of Kortright Waterfowl Park may not be the only goose in Canada but they are the most fertile.

Three NeNe, or Hawaiian geese, were loaned to Kortright two years ago and have since five offspring since. NeNe in Calgary, Shubenacadie, N.S., have yet to lay an egg.

The NeNe almost went extinct in the mid-1950s because the species declined — only some December and January coincided with the Hawaiian Christmas season. Hunters, wild dogs and mongooses reduced the population to 33 in captivity and 31 in the wild.

A man named Shipman, after losing half his flock of geese in tidal waves dispatched them to Sir Peter Scott, a director of Kortright and Wildfowl Trust in England.

At Kortright biologist Rob Wenting says, Mr. Shipman decided not to put "all his eggs in the same basket."

Tighter environmental protection laws and British efforts helped the NeNe re-establish. There are about 800 in captivity now and another 200 roaming the mountains of Hawaii.

Kortright requested a pair for breeding but the British refused to part with any of the birds. Finally, a rare bird sanctuary in Slimbridge, Engl., obliged with a male and two females.

Kortright's first gosling was born last year and last June 26 four more eggs were successfully hatched. This is rare since years of inbreeding make many NeNe eggs infertile.

The birds will be on public display at Kortright until late September, or unless it is stand the cold. They are staying in a room which is warm although it cannot match Hawaiian humidity.

Alberta House Finds Two Swiss Pictures

LONDON (CP) — Two important paintings by the 18th-century Swiss artist Angelica Kauffmann have been discovered at the newly-renovated Alberta House here and have been sold by the Alberta provincial government at Christie's, the fine art auctioneers.

During the conservation work Christie's picture expert Simon Dickinson was called in to identify two mysterious portrait paintings found incorporated in an overmantel fitting in the elegant, 200-year-old Mayfair house which was formally inaugurated as Alberta's home in London.

Dickinson immediately recognized them as being important Kauffmann works, and subsequent researches disclosed that the painter had completed them in Naples in 1783 as part of a commission for a Mr. Bowles of London. A third painting in the set now is at Princeton University's art museum.

Both pictures have classical themes. One shows the poet Virgil on his deathbed and the other depicts Cornelia, mother of the Gracchus brothers who was a political reformer in ancient Rome.

Retroactive Feature of Raise For MPs Still Being Opposed

OTTAWA (CP) — Tax-free allowances and retroactivity shape up as major debating points as the House of Commons parliamentary salaries a basic $3 1/3 per cent returns to the Commons today.

The bill, which would increase MPs' annual income to $34,000 retroactive to last July 1, received committee approval last week, now goes through Commons approval, Senate approval and routine royal assent.

Although it is understood to be finished with the embarrassing process of setting its own salaries while the government calls for economic restraint, the pay proposal still faces some tough Commons debating.

Braced for a final assault on the bill are all but three of the 16 New Democrats and some of the 17 Conservatives who opposed it on second reading.

Stanley Darling (PC—Parry Sound-Muskoka) said Monday he will continue to fight the retroactivity clause. He could not speak for the other dissident Conservatives, but he'd be willing to bet most of them still feel the same way.

The bill has been amended to limit the proposed annual cost-of-living increases to seven per cent. The proposal originally has been changed to 33 1-3 per cent from 50 per cent because of a public outcry about the original proposal.

Stanley Knowles, New Democrat House leader, who is preparing proposed amendments, said Monday the NDP opposes the retroactive pay and tax-free increase in expense allowances.

The latter proposal, $24,000 total annual pay, $10,000 would come in the form of tax-free allowances. MPs now get $8,000 of that annual $24,000 as an allowance.

Ed Broadbent, NDP parliamentary leader, has said his party would try to stall, it can to stop the bill, but Mr. Knowles backed away from the suggestion that a filibuster already has been planned.

"We'll just have to see what happens and how things develop."

Although the NDP seems resigned to the one-third basic increase for salaries, Mr. Knowles said it should not apply to the allowances. New Democrats oppose any increase in government assistance for travel, constituency offices and staff has eliminated the need for more tax-free expenses. They were granted in the last increase, 4½ years ago.

Charles Caccia, deputy government whip, said he will ask Liberal to oppose the bill on second reading, as he said backbench MPs does not intend to participate in the remaining debate. His position is well known and does not need further exposure, he said.

With little doubt that the bill will pass eventually, MPs and senators stand to reap about $4,300 in back pay when royal assent is given.

Senators, who now receive $18,000 in salary and $4,000 in allowances, would get $26,000 and $5,300 annually.

Hockey was a short day for MPs who normally sit until 10:30 p.m. They rose at 6 p.m. for a gala concert in honor of visiting Prince Charles.

Before scrambling, the Commons gave final approval to a bill to establish a new federal agency with wide powers over telecommunications.

The proposed Canadian Radio - Television and Telecommunications Commission (CRTC) would replace the Canadian Transport Commission (CTC). It also would take over some duties of other federal organizations such as the transport commission, which regulates transport rates.

The bill was hailed by Social Credit Leader Real Caouette as a necessary step to ensure that Ottawa has the final say in telecommunications policy.

He said the CRTC would strengthen the federal position in jurisdictional disputes with the provinces over the communications industry.

Fail to Extend Tax Cut

TORONTO (CP) — Opposition members of the Ontario legislature failed Monday in an effort to extend beyond Dec. 31 the reduction of the retail sales tax in five from seven per cent.

The members lost by a 77-to-44 vote on an New Democratic Party amendment to eliminate the December expiry date from the tax bill. Liberals supported the NDP move.

They repeated charges that the April 7 budget measure was a political move aimed at making the Progressive Conservative government popular, were on hand when the prince

Beaming Prince Spends Busy Day

OTTAWA (CP) — A beaming and informal Prince of Wales left happy and applauding crowds in his wake Monday as he sped through a tightly-scheduled first day of his 11-day visit to Canada.

Prince Charles, tanned, slim and athletic, captivated young and old alike with smiles, chats and waves to the crowd as he swept, unfazed, through a hectic schedule.

Today, the 26-year-old prince is to meet the justices of the Supreme Court of Canada, tour the Parliament Buildings, lunch with Prime Minister and Mrs. Trudeau, tour the National Museum of Man and finish the day privately at dinner and ball at Government House.

Monday, the heir to the throne began the day with a meeting visit to a maple sugar bush operated by the federal government's National Capital Commission (NCC) in Gatineau Park, Quebec.

Several groups of children were on hand when the prince arrived by helicopter and although most seemed more entranced by the sticky maple candy than by the prince, he chatted briefly in English and French with them as he toured the site.

After sampling the maple sugar, Prince Charles observed "it would mix nicely with vodka."

His next stop was apparently across the river, a naval officer and accomplished pilot, he circled through the national aeronautical collection, an exhibit of vintage civil and military aircraft dating from the First World War.

From the air collection the prince rushed to a bilingual meeting with the city council of neighboring Hull, Que., just across the Ottawa River and then was whisked back for a civic reception and luncheon at Ottawa city hall.

Discussing the remainder of his trip, which will take him to the Far North, he assured the city hall luncheon: "I shall be very careful whose nose I rub."

Marchand Limits Probe Of Airline to One Item

OTTAWA (CP) — Transport Minister Jean Marchand refused Progressive Conservative attempts Monday to gain an inquiry into a wide range of Air Canada activities.

He said in the Commons that an inquiry into a $400,000 payment by the airline to a Montreal travel agent "will not a particular inquiry into something abnormal."

"I don't think we should mix everything up," he told Alexander Cameron (PC—Middlesex-Monteith) and Elmer MacKay (Central Nova).

Mr. MacKay, who last week made public the $100,000 payment, said that inquiry also should deal with labor relations, accounting procedures and "the prerogatives of upper management" at the airline.

"If the honorable member wants an inquiry into all of the Air Canada organization, I don't think that would be in the public interest," Mr. Marchand replied.

Mr. Hamilton said the former auditor-general Maxwell Henderson, made statements about the airline's financial management during a Sunday television show and these should be considered for inclusion in the inquiry.

Mr. Marchand said the Commons through its transport committee will have ample opportunity to investigate Air Canada's operations and the question of Yves Pratte airline chairman and chief executive officer.

He repeated his statement of Friday that "there's no charge against Mr. Pratte, . . . If someday we think there is reason to remove him the government will do it."

Meanwhile Mr. Pratte was free to appear on television. During the Sunday night WS program on CTV he refused to answer questions about the $100000 payment saying that would be improper with an inquiry pending.

Election Costs Bill Bogged Down

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's proposed act to regulate political party financing and election contributions remains bogged down in committee.

Bill 3 given first reading March 13 is acceptable in principle to all three political parties but one section of the bill displeases the NDP.

The administration-of-justice committee began to strip scrutinize and redraft the bill last week had another whirl at it Monday and resumes its task Thursday.

The chief bone of contention is article 31—trade union check-off for affiliation payments to political parties.

Article 31 states:

"Contributions of not more than 10 cents per month by any member of a bargaining unit represented by a trade union through payroll deductions shall not be considered contributions from a person for the purposes of this act but any amounts contributed to a political party constituency association or candidate registered under this act from such funds shall be deemed to be a contribution from the trade union."

Article 31 represents a misunderstanding of the relationship between the trade union movement and the NDP Gordon Vichert of the party provincial secretary told committee members Monday.

He said the bill errs in classifying the monthly check-off a "contribution" since it is more accurately a means to purchase membership in a political party.

"Affiliated membership is individual rather than collective" Mr. Vichert said. "Our constitution clearly states that a member of an affiliated organization may notify his organization that he does not wish a per capita payment made on his behalf to the NDP."

At 10 cents a month the affiliation due for each unionist amounts to $1.20 a year. Locals with more than 800 members participating in the check-off program would exceed limits on contributions during an election campaign.

Richard Smith (L—Nipissing) said that by dropping Article 31 the committee would be giving trade unionists participating in the check-off system opportunity to contribute two-or-so as individuals and a second time as members of a union local.

John White minister without portfolio who is steering Bill 3 through committee said he seemed unfair to him to let a large union lead give more to a candidate than the company which employs the union's members.

Boy Tempted

TORONTO (CP) — Joseph Sharrow of Thunder Bay, Ont., created an unusual temptation for his son Clyde, then 13, by leaving rifle ammunition around his son could easily find it, Mr. Justice Robert F. Reid of the Ontario Supreme Court ruled Monday.

He found Mr. Sharrow 85 per cent negligent in a shooting accident that left Clyde, now aged 15, suffered injuries to his right hip, Aug. 9, 1972.

Mr. Justice Reid said the boys were playing with a .22-calibre rifle and Edward apparently put a bullet in it without Clyde's knowledge. Believing it could remove it, Clyde snatched the rifle and pointed it at him.

"Edward screamed that it was loaded and ran down the hall to escape, Mr. Justice Reid said. "Clyde laughed and pulled the trigger."

Enjoyment of Health Is Privilege . . . Davis

LONDON Ont. (CP) — Ontario Premier William Davis said Monday the provincial government is trying to place the emphasis in health care on "health maintenance sickness prevention and injury avoidance" instead of costly treatment.

Mr. Davis told a meeting of the Association of Ontario Boards of Health that government spending for health care is high because too many people rely on treatment and are not cautious enough about preventing health problems.

The premier said he considers universal low-cost health care to be a right but "I think too many people have forgotten that the enjoyment of health is a privilege."

Mr. Davis said excessive smoking, drinking, eating and lack of exercise cost the province hundreds of millions of dollars each year.

Shulman Seeks SIU Report

TORONTO (CP) — Morton Shulman (NDP—Toronto High Park) challenged Warren Almand, federal coordinator, to make public the report of an RCMP investigation into the Seafarers International Union (SIU).

Dr. Shulman said in an interview Monday that Mr. Almand, coordinator general was "gilding the lily" in returning to the Commons that the RCMP found no evidence of wrongdoing.

He said it was "somewhat like the fellow who tosses the dice in his hat and says he won't say 'I won.'"

Dr. Shulman said RCMP findings contained the statement of one SIU member concerning payment of some $55,000 to three cabinet ministers.

He said Mr. Almand was determined from the beginning in the investigation to find nothing wrong.

There was "too much that's too embarrassing to too many cabinet ministers, including Mr. Almand" to make the report public.

He said he would await the outcome of charges against senior SIU officials now before the courts prior to bringing the matter up again in the Ontario legislature.

Won't Release SIU Report

OTTAWA (CP) — Another inquiry commission on grain transport was established by the government Monday, this time to study rates and revenue of grain traffic.

The commission to be headed by U.S. economist Carl M. Snavely, will hold hearings and accept evidence on costs issues.

Last week, the creation was announced of a commission to study rail line abandonment in the West, to be headed by Mr. Justice Emmett Hall, a former Supreme Court of Canada justice and former chief justice of Saskatchewan.

Fear Grows For Safety Of Pair

HAMILTON (CP) — Fear is mounting for the safety of two Hamilton missionaries believed captured last month by the Viet Cong during an offensive near the South Vietnamese city of Ban Me Thuot.

Norman and Jean Johnson, both 39, missionaries with the Christian Missionary Alliance, apparently are being held with six Americans.

A letter from Eugene and Crol Fuller of the Wycliffe Bible Translators in Saigon, received Friday, said the group was captured during the week ending March 22.

Staff Alive

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The UN received word Monday that six of its staff men in Cambodia, including a Canadian, are alive and well in the French embassy in Phnom Penh. The Canadian is Paul Ignatieff of Toronto, head of the UNICEF office in Phnom Penh and a nephew of George Ignatieff, former Canadian ambassador to the UN and now provost of Trinity College at the University of Toronto.

Fight Pollution

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government will contribute up to $30 million over the next 10 years to help industry develop new pollution abatement programs, Environment Minister Jeanne Sauve said Monday.

Won't Use Soldiers

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister James Richardson said Monday that Canadian peacekeeping soldiers will not have to be brought home from abroad to help with security for the 1976 Olympics in Montreal.

There have been reports that as many as 1,000 troops will be used in Montreal and that Canadian peacekeeping forces in Cyprus and the Middle East will be reduced.

"The information is not correct," Mr. Richardson told the Commons.

Paper Moves

RENFREW, Ont. (CP) — The Mercury, burned out of its offices in this Ottawa Valley town last Thursday, has moved to the basement of a local motel, one of many places which offered space to the newspaper.

Police say they suspect arson in the fire which destroyed presses, typesetting facilities, files and other equipment and material of the weekly newspaper.

Prices to Fall

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — Housing prices will decrease later this year because of an upsurge in Ontario's economy, Deputy Minister of Municipal Housing minister, predicted Monday.

He told about 400 delegates at a housing conference that he does not believe Ontario's $1,500 grant to first-time home buyers will drive up prices.

May Appeal

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Col. M. J. F. Bruns said Monday he probably will spend considerable time on an official review and possibly appeal of a court martial decision that found him guilty of refusing to obey an order.

The colonel said an appeal to civilian courts would be a "last resort." He would prefer the review to clarify the "critique of the chain of command" that led to his court-martial.

On Probation

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Robin Philip Nicholas, 20, who pleaded guilty last month to setting fires at Westminster College student residence fair, was placed on three years probation when he appeared before Middlesex County court Monday.

Pickerel Spawn

GAMEBRIDGE, Ont. (CP) — Pickerel are spawning in the Talbot River in this community about 10 miles southeast of Orillia, says Ken Cheeseman of the Ontario ministry of natural resources. The spokesman said the runs began last Friday after a warmin' trend ended a freezing Monday in the Severn River at the tip of Lake Couchiching.

Charge Reduced

WHITBY, Ont. (CP) — A 25-year-old Oshawa man was remanded to May 26 for sentencing when he appeared in Ontario Supreme Court Monday and pleaded guilty to a charge of possessing a dangerous weapon.

Edward Lloyd McGaughey also had been charged with attempting to murder a Dunbinton real estate salesman with dangerous use of a firearm, but when the Crown did not offer evidence on the charges, Mr. Justice Edson Parker directed that verdicts of not guilty be returned.

Food Delivered

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — The 50 tons of food paid for by Kingston area residents has arrived in Bangladesh and been turned over for distribution to World Vision, an international relief agency. Pat and Terry Leonard, local organizers of the plan, announced Monday.

Oil Firms Jostle In Takeover Moves

OTTAWA (CP) — Some leading for position in the oil and gas industry is apparent in the latest 11 takeover proposals to come before the Foreign Investment review agency for scrutinies, a statement from Industry Minister Alastair Gillespie indicates.

The agency allowed seven foreign takeovers of Canadian businesses and turned down two others.

One of those turned down was a proposal by Sun Oil Co. Ltd. of Calgary, controlled by a U.S. parent, to take over Baker Petrolenms Ltd., also of Calgary, a privately owned oil and gas company.

However, a proposal was accepted from Hudsons Bay Oil and Gas Co. Ltd., controlled by Continental Oil, Co. of Delaware, and from Pacific Petroleums Ltd., which is controlled by Pacific Petroleum Co., of Oklahoma, to take control of the interest in the Athabasca oil sands project in Alberta held by Candel Oil Ltd. Candel is also U.S.-controlled.

The other takeover bids that were refused by the federal screening agency were:

—A proposal by Chia-Gulp Canada Ltd. of Derval, Que., a Taiwanese company, to take over Stewart Seeds Ltd. of Alma Craig, a cereal and corn seed producer.

—A bid by Kibun Co. Ltd. of Japan to acquire control of North Sea Products Ltd. of Ontario, a fish processor.

—A proposal by Turbex Ltd. of Toronto, controlled by Toronto-based Sun Oil Co. Ltd. which is in turn U.S.-controlled, to acquire certain assets of George Laird and Son Ltd. of Toronto, a fuel oil sales company.

Among the remaining six takeovers the review agency approved is one that is expected to produce 2,700 new jobs in Northwestern Ontario.

British-controlled Reed Paper Ltd. was allowed to take control of Abitibi Industries Ltd. of Toronto, a wood products company, after saying it will extend its forest industry operations in Ontario.

Woman Tells Court About Spying for FBI

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A young woman testified in court Monday that she acquired the FBI with information about the Attica Defense, a group of lawyers defending prisoners charged with crimes during the 1971 Attica prison rebellion.

Mary Jo Cook, 26, of Buffalo, told State Supreme Court that she made oral and written reports—as many as 40 a month—to an FBI agent she described as her control agent.

She said she began work as a paid informer in June, 1972, while sharing an apartment with a man named Ivan Machuch, who she said had worked undercover for the FBI and state police and introduced her to the FBI and her control agent.

Lewis Says Violence Study Already Made

TORONTO (CP) — Education officials tried Monday to refute an allegation by Stephen Lewis Ontario New Democratic Party leader that the ministry is silencing on a study containing findings that would be repealed by a committee inquiry into violence in the communications media.

Mr. Lewis told the legislature that a study of violence absencity and censorship of the news media had been commissioned by when Premier William Davis was minister of education.

He called on Education Minister Thomas Wells to make public the report to show how much "preliminary work" had been done in the field of the recently-appointed Ladarsh Committee on violence.

Mr. Wells said he had no knowledge of the study by Ryerson Research Group Ltd. of Toronto.

Mr. Wells told a news conference that a study had been commissioned by James Auld then minister of tourism and information to look into pornography in films and their advertising.

The $17000 study entitled Perspectives on Pornography was presented to the former ministry in November 1971 he said.

"It had nothing to do with education and it had nothing to do with Mr. Davis."

Mr. Wells said he believed the study was commissioned as a basis for reviewing possible changes in theatre legislation.

"I haven't even seen it" he added.

The NDP leader has asked the government to end the commission headed by J. LaMarsh a former federal cabinet minister be a [illegible] saying it will be a waste of public funds.

High-rise Fires Fought Bucket Brigade Style

VANCOUVER (CP) — "It's something like an old-fashioned bucket brigade," was the way city Fire Chief Armand Konig described fighting a fire in a high-rise building.

"We have to send all our men and equipment up the stairs. Some of the men pack the equipment. Some of the men are designated firefighters and don't pack anything," said Chief Konig.

"They have to conserve their strength so they can fight the fire after climbing, maybe, 15 flights of stairs."

Not very comforting if you happen to live or work in a high-rise.

And there are more problems:

Chief Konig said it takes 3½ minutes before the first fire truck reaches any call in the city.

"Water can be put on a dwelling fire in approximately 30 seconds after arrival but a delay of 15 minutes or more is not unusual before firefighters reach a fire in a high-rise building," said Chief Konig. And then the bucket brigade begins its work.

The problems facing firefighters attempting to contain and put out a high-rise fire may be somewhat alleviated by legislation passed by city council, Effective Oct. 1, 1974, buildings more than 75 feet high had to have a built-in sprinkler system as part of the building's fire and smoke protection system.

The fire chief convinced city council of the value of such legislation on the basis of statistics issued by city council.

Nine-month Walk Won Many Friends

SURREY, B.C. (CP) — Jim Clarkson lost 20 pounds, wore out four pair of shoes and collected one traffic ticket when he walked to St. John's, Nfld. He also made hundreds of friends.

Mr. Clarkson, 21, said he is going to stay put for a while, while he writes a book about his nine-month experience.

He left Victoria on April Fool's Day last year and was welcomed in St. John's by the mayor on New Year's Eve.

"The highlight of the whole thing was the friendliness of all the hundreds of people I met along the way," he said. "A year ago I really didn't know what Canada looked like, and I didn't know anybody outside of B.C."

"Now I have friends all across the country—people who gave me shelter when it was cold, fed me and just talked to me. Often, police would take me into town, warm me up and feed me, then take me back to my camp by the road."

The traffic ticket—just a warning—came on the Trans-Canada Highway, east of Vancouver.

"I saw a sign saying no hitchhiking and another warning away vehicles incapable of 40 miles an hour. I don't know where I failed in, but the policeman was nice about it and drove me over to the Lougheed Highway where it's ok to use your feet."

He said it toughened two weeks to harden his feet. When he stopped in Surrey on his way east from Victoria, after two days of walking and a ferry ride, his mother refused to look below his knees.

"I just gave him some disinfectant and bandages," said Annie May Clarkson. "I knew I'd try to stop him if I saw how sore his feet were."

Mr. Clarkson said he kept a careful log, complete with the names of all the people he met.

"I sent off postcards from every town big enough to print the things."

Mr. Clarkson said he was keeping all four pair of worn-out shoes, supplied by a shoe firm, but particularly a pair plated in silver and mounted on a plaque.

Jewelry Missing

City police are investigating the theft of a diamond ring and three watches, valued at $1,580, from a Belleville residence between 5.40 p.m. Sunday.

Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said today there was no sign for forced entry at the home of Mrs. Mackie Albert of 284 MacDonald Ave.

Cash Taken

City police are investigating the theft of a quantity of cash sometime between closing time Saturday and 9:15 a.m. Sunday at Doug Rollins Shell Services at 418 East Bridge St.

Police Chief Douglas Crosbie reported between $40-$80 was stolen. Entry was gained by breaking a window on the west side of the building.

Commission Defined

The role of the St. Lawrence Parks Commission in developing parks and historic sites along the St. Lawrence River and in Eastern Ontario was outlined to Rotary members Monday by Ron Johnson of the parks commission.

Mr. Johnson told Rotarians the commission dates back to 1921. He said that it was in 1955 when the Ontario St. Lawrence Development Commission Act came into being that gave the commission its actual start.

Mr. Johnson said that the St. Lawrence Parks Commission takes in seven counties in Eastern Ontario. He involves an area from Adolphustown to Gregory Park.

Mr. Johnson said that since it began operating 23,000,000 visitors have been to the parks and historic sites which include such tourist attractions as Upper Canada Village in Morrisburg and Old Fort Henry in Kingston.

Students Display Fitness

AMELIASBURG — Physical Fitness Day will be held at Kente School in Ameliasburg, Friday, April 21. This special event will be presented in conjunction with other Education Week activities.

Medic Alert Bracelets Save Countless Lives

A medic alert tag is one way of keeping your life out of jeopardy and it only costs $6 for a lifetime.

The month of May has been proclaimed medic alert month for Belleville — a step to increase awareness of the need for tags for those people with personal problems such as allergies.

Based on the most recent statistics provided by the Canadian Medic Alert Foundation, some 150,000 Canadians wear identification tags. Another four million Canadians are conditioned that require special medical attention that could be facilated by medic alert tags in times of emergency.

The Bay of Quinte Chapter of the Life Underwriters Association is sponsoring the campaign locally and has distributed pamphlets in most public meeting places throughout the city.

Bill Yeates, who is organizing the local drive, says complete information on medic alert can be obtained by contacting your family physician and by calling the foundation at 416-293-3451 in Toronto.

Shakespeare Loved

Daniel N. Fader, professor of English at the University of Michigan, told Quinte area educators last week he teaches Shakespeare so his students will derive pleasure out of reading the playwright's plays. He says he wants them interested in Shakespeare after they leave school. Present overall teaching methods, involving detailed analysis, produce adults who learn to hate Shakespearean works, he says.

College Opens Doors

Accepts Watercolors

Hastings County director of education Eric Runacres accepted seven watercolor paintings Monday from Belleville freelance artist Brent Rumbles (left). The 19-year-old Loyalist College Graphic Arts student was commissioned by the board to paint seven watercolors representative of the county.

Teachers Setting Sights On New Round of Talks

Ontario's 5,500 community college teachers, still in the midst of negotiations on one contract, are drafting plans for a new set of talks on their next contract slated to begin Sept. 1.

Paul Wall, president of the Loyalist College teachers' local of the community college academic division of the Civil Service Association of Ontario (CSAO), said Monday, "we have the ridiculous problem that we're talking about the new negotiations before the old contract is even settled."

Present negotiations involve workload and job security provisions in a contract which should have gone into effect Sept. 1, 1975, and when finally implemented, will expire this Aug. 31.

Salary provisions for this contract have already been implemented. They were handed down in a March decision by Justice William Estey, head of the arbitration board.

Mr. Wall said talks between the CSAO and provincial management on the out standing issues have broken down. Those issues were outlined in principle by the arbitration in March and sent to the negotiators.

"The arbitration board will have to be called again to quantify these decisions," he pointed out.

Mr. Wall said he attended a Saturday meeting in Toronto where the 22 college academic branch presidents discussed plans to enter into negotiations on the new contract.

He remarked he doubted if a new contract can be settled by Sept. 1, "because there isn't enough time. By law, the next round of negotiations cannot begin until May 1."

The presidents have requested all locals to vote on negotiating plans as a confidence measure for entering into the new talks. Mr. Wall said he did not think his local would hold a vote since members here generally support decisions made by the negotiating team.

Schools Entered

Vandals caused just enough trouble to be annoying at two city schools during the weekend.

City Police Chief Douglas Crosbie reported a break-in was discovered at Quinte Secondary School at 8:10 a.m. Sunday by a patrolman.

Entry was gained by kicking a hole in the front door, he said. Nothing was missing and no damage was found inside the school.

A smashed door at Queen Mary Public School was discovered at 1:40 p.m. Sunday but the building was not entered, said Chief Crosbie.

The window in the door was broken by a handle pried from the outside of the door, he said.

Moira Seminar Covers Wide-ranging Topics

A Grade 13 class will assemble more than 35 national and international speakers Wednesday for a day-long series of seminars at Moira Secondary School.

The class, along with English instructor Praz Joshi, has scheduled four seminar sessions at 9.30 a.m., 10.40 a.m., 12.00, and 1.20 p.m., followed by an under attack session in the afternoon.

The students have chosen the theme of "Religious of Man" and have attracted names like Gerry McAuliffe from the Globe and Mail speaking on police brutality and George Russell from Time Magazine speaking on mono poly and the media.

Local speakers will include Judge J. L. Clendenning, Dr. Joe Dezsma, from Sir James Whitney School (SSD) and Dr. J. L. Loudon, of the Ontario Medical Association. Guests will also include an inmate from a nearby penitentiary.

Women speakers will include Lanny Morry from the Canadian Radio Television Commission, Mary Fryer, author and historian and Marlene Catelinas, department of native studies at Trent University.

The public is welcome to attend the day-long series of seminars.

Higher Learning

Students at Prince Charles School in the city were shown first hand about higher learning . . . by taking a tour of the Belleville Airport. About 20 students were taken around the site Monday by flying instructor Gus Morin getting a close-up view of gliders, twin-engine planes and other points of interest.

Trenton Increases Dog Patrols

TRENTON — Councillors will wait a month to see if an increasing number of complaints about dogs running loose taper off under more frequent patrols by the town dog catcher.

The informal decision was made Monday after council learned town clerk Aubrey Sharp was assured by dog catcher Don Tucker of Stirling patrols of town streets would be stepped up.

Officials have been subjected to a rising tide of complaints that dogs are running loose in the town.

Councillor Bob Wannamaker questioned the competence of the dog catcher. He said an increase in fines suggested by Mr. Tucker as an answer to the dogs running in packs was too steep.

Mr. Tucker, in a letter, said, "Most of the dogs come in a number of dogs coming into the town or dogs running in packs is because of females that are not spayed and the excess number of males."

He suggested licence fees be increased for some dogs (from $6 to $25 for unspayed females).

The request met with clerk Sharp's objection. Mr. Sharp said the fees would "indeed be making it hard on those who care for their dogs."

Loyalist Teachers Not Affected By Community College Layoffs

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

While some community colleges have experienced faculty in salary implementation and teacher layoffs, the situation at Loyalist College is stable, says Paul Wall, president of the teachers' local here.

Mr. Wall noted many community colleges, notably Algonquin and St. Clair, have laid off teachers and other layoffs throughout the college system are threatening.

He said this has developed at an inopportune time as the teachers, members of the college academic branch of the Civil Service Association of Ontario (CSAO) and the provincial government are in the midst of talks on job security and workload provisions in a contract which should have gone into effect Sept. 1, 1975.

When asked about layoffs occurring at Loyalist, Mr. Wall replied, "in quantity, no. Layoff indications so far are minimal."

He said some colleges have not implemented the new salary provisions handed down in a March decision by Justice Willard Estey of the arbitration board.

However, the Loyalist administration has moved to implement the provisions, remarked Mr. Wall. "We got our's on the April 11 pay . . . the first pay after it was implemented."

He added Loyalist has held back new teacher timetables for 1975-76 while awaiting agreement on workload provisions in the outstanding contract. "There isn't any indication workload will be increased at Loyalist this fall," he commented.

Mr. Wall said he blamed the provincial government for slowness in salary implementations in the college system. "I don't see why there can't be an arbitrator's decision. He (Estey) is a justice of the Appeals Court of Ontario."

Two Hurt In Crash

TWEED — A 21-year-old Scarborough man has been charged with careless driving in connection with a single-car accident near here Monday.

Police said a compact car, driven by Frank Merten, of Scarborough, was southbound on a township road just north of March Corners when it lost control, struck a fence and rolled several times. Both Merten, and a passenger, Barbara Reid, 21 also of Scarborough, suffered minor cuts in the mishap.

Monday, the CSAO sent a telegram to James Auld, minister of colleges and universities, asking the government to impose layoffs of teachers and other personnel until the arbitration board has spoken on the issue.

It also asked for a meeting between the association and the minister to discuss reports that the government is cutting down its funding of the colleges.

MP Stresses Women's Role in Government

Flora MacDonald, MP for Kingston and the Islands, passed up a chance to meet Prince Charles Monday night to speak to the annual meeting of the Quinte St. Lawrence Branch of the Canadian Manufacturers Association (CMA) at the Four Seasons Hotel.

Chairman Fred Ebbet introduced Miss MacDonald, who delivered a wide-ranging address largely concerned with the role of women in government and the business community.

She stressed the valuable contributions women could make if their assets were utilized and if women themselves had the confidence to assert themselves.

More than 50 CMA members and their wives heard the Progressive Conservative housing and immigration affairs critic call for a slowdown in spending by labor, management, business, government and individuals. "This continued grasping can't go on indefinitely," she said.

The Quinte - St. Lawrence Branch of the CMA extends from Gananoque to Trenton.

Kiwanians Told Sobering Facts

The sobering facts about alcoholism were vividly presented to Quinte Kiwanis members Monday by a man who has been through it all.

A 28-year-old construction worker was the speaker at the regular meeting of the Quinte Kiwanis Club.

He told members how he took his first drink at 16 and how he realized that he was an alcoholic from that point on and said he has been with the Cannifton branch of Alcoholics Anonymous for over a year.

Speaking frankly and concisely about his personal experiences with drinking and how he came to the point when he realized he needed help, the guest told members that it wasn't any one thing that brought on his problems.

He related his stress and strain that his family had to endure as well as his own heartbreak when he came to realize that he was losing those he loved by his behavior.

"Alcohol is cunning baffling and powerful," he warned club members, "and the realize how much you hurt those you love until it is too late," he said.

Talking about his success with Alcoholics Anonymous in coming with his problem, he said, "it's good to have a second chance. I'm not afraid of what tomorrow brings and take each day at a time."

Fashions On Display

May 12 to 17 has been dubbed Sering Thing by the Belleville Downtown Association.

Highlight of the week will be a fashion show May 16, 8 p.m. with a walk off type show, the association has announced a full entertainment spectacle including singing and dancing complete with professional models displaying the newest clothing.

Other week attractions will include tea cup reading, barrel organ music on the street and more. Local merchants participation have been extended to the Quinte Arts Council and its historical society.

Teacher Involvement

Judie Carty, Hastings division president of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation (OSSTF) talks about teacher involvement and the role of the federation on a local level.

The Educators

Teachers' Role Concerns Educator

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the sixth of a series featuring county educators. The personality sketches feature this week's administrators and trustees.

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

If you criticize teachers in front of Judie Carty she gets angry. But if you ask her about teachers she's often the first one to tell you their faults.

It's part of her personality for it's also part of her executive position with the Hastings division of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation (OSSTF). The 39-year-old Centennial Secondary School teacher now is the Hastings division's first woman and will seek re-election this May.

Born in Ottawa, Mrs. Carty came to Belleville with her family in 1961. She attended Quinte Secondary School and upon graduation went to Carleton University where she obtained a BA in history. Her first teaching post was in Sudbury where she stayed for a year before returning to Belleville to join Centennial's staff.

Mrs. Carty, who met her husband Pat, also a teacher, at Centennial, is a history teacher and also handles a man in society course for Grade 9.

She said she feels strongly about the role of teachers in the school, community and federation.

"There are too many teachers who just sit back and criticize. Teachers should get involved either in the schools, the community or the federation," she said.

"I'm afraid there are more teachers interested in what we have to admit," said Mrs. Carty, who also is hostess of a television program called Education Why Gives A . . . aired every second Wednesday at 8.15 p.m. on Cable 4. The program is designed to inform and educate the public about today's education.

Concerning the OSSTF, Mrs. Carty said there is more to bind the scenes work that goes on than just teachers or members realize. She said the network of branch associations in each secondary school is designed to keep the OSSTF in touch with each teacher.

With branch associations teachers can bring their professional problems to the president," she said.

Mrs. Carty said while the OSSTF is essentially an organization which protects its own members the federation should also take a more active role in educating the public about teachers and their views on education.

Mrs. Carty, who is also president of the Hastings County District Teachers' Society, said "teachers have to get back to being involved . . . and they must keep learning themselves."

The OSSTF represents about 530 teachers in Hastings and about 34,000 across the province.

Cyclist Hurt

An 18-year-old · Belleville youth suffered bruises but did not require medical treatment in a car-bicycle collision on the corner of East Bridge and Herchimer streets Monday.

City police Chief Douglas Crosbie said today both the car, driven by Michael M. Chave, 17, of 43 Hyde Park Ave. and the bicycle, ridden by Clair P. Canty of 542 East Bridge St. were eastbound when the two collided while the car was making a turn, knocking Miss Canty to the ground.

He said there was no damage to the car in the 3:50 p.m. mishap. Damage to the bicycle was unavailable.

Sidney to Contribute To Recreation Budgets

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Sidney Township will subsidize the recreation budgets of at least four of its neighboring municipalities if Reeve Gordon Wilman said Monday night.

In the past Trenton, Belleville, Stirling and Frankford have applied to the township for recreation funds to offset recreation deficits.

As pointed out Monday in a letter from Belleville's recreation department it costs the child's registration fee never covers the actual per capita cost of the program. Because city tax payer pick up the difference, subsidizing the program for the city youngster, township council has been told it should pay the difference for township youngsters in city program.

Figures released by Belleville's recreation department show the per capita cost for baseball is $13.25 compared with the child's registration fee of $5.

Reeve Wilman said that while the township would have to participate on the four municipalities' recreation budget for now, the township is moving towards its own recreation program that one day will erase the need for township youngsters to travel to the other urban centres.

Reeve Wilman could not say exactly how many children participate in other community recreation programs — only that the number is substantial.

The reeve said some programming has begun for the summer but that is among those which give the municipality its greatest shot at sport independence — is financially out of reach.

Where There's A Will There's Always A Way

Dedication is the key word in many sports endeavors.

And it is especially so in the demanding sport of weightlifting.

As if the regular training grind weren't enough to challenge Apollo Barbell Club's Gary Walt, the veteran lifter decided early this year to return to competition at the middle-heavyweight division after several years as a heavyweight.

And saying it, writing it or promising yourself to do it, is far easier than accomplishing the feat.

While competing in the heavyweight class (242 lbs.), Walt usually carried about 230 lbs.

Middle heavyweights are 196 and one-quarter lbs. . . tops.

Determination and a high protein diet helped Gary carry out his plan to qualify for the upcoming Ontario Weightlifting Championships in Ottawa.

He qualified at an Apollo Club meet, Friday.

GARY WALT

There are three Walt brothers in the lifting game.

Twenty-five-year-old Bob is a heavyweight and now Gary, 28, joins brother Art, 23, in the mid-heavy event.

The brothers will be competing in the Ontario meet, May 10 and the friendly rivalry that has developed between Art and Gary should prove interesting once the two start matching skill and strength where it really means something.

"We push each other all the time and it helps both of us," offers Gary.

Apollo's Ron Hayes will also see action in Ottawa. A light-weight at 148 lbs., Hayes has proved himself in many competitions.

Chalmade Paul Barrett, lifting in the light heavyweight division will have to miss the Ontario Championships. He's nursing an injured thumb but expects to be ready for the Canadian Championships late in June.

SLICES — The proper mental attitude and a great deal of self discipline helped Gary Walt in his successful bid to pare off the pounds.

He went from a 38" to a 32" waist; 52" chest to 46", and 21" neck to 19".

Needless to say, all this put a strain on the clothing budget.

The Carter tournament time again at Brunswick Belleville Bowl.

The annual event opened on the weekend and runs Saturdays and Sundays until May 18.

Belleville Bowl manager Ron Swatuk expects 1,000 entries will take part in the men's and women's handicap event.

About half of the entries usual come from out of the Bay of Quinte district with Kingston, London, Oshawa, Toronto and communities in New York State represented.

There's a great prize fund for team, doubles and singles sections exceeded $5,000.

Most of the coaching and managing positions with Belleville Minor Baseball Association's representatives in the Eastern Ontario Baseball Assoc! ation have been filled.

Bantam and midget entries have yet to name managers and the midgets are so far without an assistant coach.

Coaching the tyke team is Jim Crockman; assistant coach, Bill Anderson and manager, Debbie Christopher. Peewee coach is Lorne Crosswright who will be assisted by Carmen Daloe with Phyllis Crosswright the manager.

Mark McDonnell will coach the bantams, assisted by Doug McGrory. Midget coach is Darrell Sabesh.

Toros Close but That's All

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Les Binkley's 36th season as a hockey mercenary came to a surprising finish Monday night.

The 40-year-old native of Owen Sound, Ont., who hadn't played much this year, found himself the man on the spot for Toronto Toros in what turned out to be the deciding game of teir World Hockey Association playoff series.

The Toros' third-string goaltender was thrown into the breach when scheduled starter Jim Shaw came up with a muscle spasm during pre-game warmups and played the full game in a 4-3 loss to San Diego Mariners.

The win gave the Mariners a 4-2 victory in the best-of-seven quarter-final series, giving them a semi-final berth against Houston Aeros.

Although Houston had the best regular-season record in the league this year, the series opens Friday in San Diego. The middle three games of the best-of-seven series are to be played in Houston.

The other semi-final gets started tonight at Quebec, with the Nordiques playing Minnesota Fighting Saints.

Binkley, who broke into the Ontario Hockey Association junior A series with Galt Black Hawks as a 16-year-old in 1951-52, hadn't played in more than a month before Monday's game. He got the start because Toronto's other goalie, Gilles Gratton, was away from the Toro bench and didn't know Shaw was injured.

It wasn't until the start of the second period that Gratton appeared in uniform on the Toronto bench. Binkley had been listed as Toronto's reserve goalie for the game before Shaw was hurt.

Binkley looked shaky at first but settled down to make 34 saves. San Diego's Ernie Wakely was brilliant at times, making 40 saves.

"Shaw's injury was a bit of a setback for the guys," said Toronto coach Bob Leduc. "It's disappointing for me because I thought we would finish first and then go to the finals.

"But the Mariners put it together. We gave it all we had in the last 30 minutes, but they didn't let up."

After the Mariners built a 4-1 lead midway in the third period, the Toros mounted a comeback that kept failing short as they outshot San Diego 17-12 in the last period.

A goal by defenceman Jim Dorey, a Toronto standout in the game, cut the San Diego lead to 4-3 early in the third period. Later Tony Featherstone reduced San Diego lead to 5-4 but Bob Lacroix scored in the final minute to clinch the win for San Diego.

Lacroix also had a hand in two San Diego goals scored by Norm Ferguson. Kevin Devine and Gene Peacock had the Mariners' other goals. Lou Nistico and Wayne Dillon had Toronto's other goals.

3 Teams Face Elimination

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

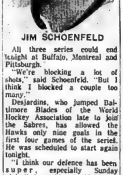
Buffalo's Jim Schoenfeld fig ured he might have stopped two shots in many to have Boston 6-3 win by the Sabres over Chicago Black Hawks.

But Sabre goaltender Gerry Desjardens thought the number two defenceman edged out the National Hockey League playoff game was just about right.

Schoenfeld, who was diving all over the ice to block Chicago drives, was hit by a stick above the right eye and needed 10 stitches to close the wound.

"Later, he had four teeth loosened when he stopped a shot with his chin. He said he may lose two of them.

Sunday's win gave the Sabres a 3-1 lead in their best-of-seven quarter-final, the same lead Montreal Canadiens hold against Vancouver Canucks and Pittsburgh Penguins hold against New York Islanders.



JIM SCHOENFELD

All three series could end tonight at Buffalo, Montreal and Pittsburgh.

"We're blocking a lot of shots," said Schoenfeld. "But I think I blocked a couple too many."

Desjardins, who jumped Baltimore Blades of the World Hockey Association late to join the Sabres, has allowed the Hawks only nine goals in the first four games of the series. He was scheduled to start again tonight.

"I think our defence has been super, especially Sunday night," he said. "I think they blocked more shots than I did."

A win tonight would give the Sabres the first playoff series victory in their history but Buffalo coach Floyd Smith wasn't about to let anybody think he was over-confident.

"It's always tougher to win the last game of the series than the first one," said Smith.

Instead of taking comfort in his team's 3-1 advantage, Montreal coach Scotty Bowman looks at past performances and worries.

"We had a 3-1 lead in two of the three series we played when we won the cup two years ago," said Bowman. "Buffalo beat us here in overtime and Chicago beat us 8-7 in games here.

"We had to go back to their rinks to win the series."

The Penguins have a chance to set up Turnpike Series with their cross-state rivals, Philadelphia Flyers. The two Pennsylvania cities are linked by the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

The Islanders forced the series back to Pittsburgh with a Sunday night win at Uniondale, N.Y. Now the Penguins have an imposing home record on their side.

Their only defeat in their last 33 games was a 3-1 loss to Detroit Red Wings on Feb. 23

"We started to win at home and never realized we had a streak going until somebody pointed it out to us," said Pittsburgh goalie Gary Inness. "We got the idea that nobody was going to beat us at home."

We've got something fish have never seen, or heard before. The Panther Martin Sonic lure. It's revolutionized fishing because it works on a totally new principle. Continuous hydrosonic waves originate from its concave, convex curved blade that fish find too much to resist. Never has there been a lure that has worked this dependably.

There's a Panther Martin Sonic lure for every fish and fisherman. They attach directly to shaft without swivel, and are always at a 45° angle for super action, easier casting. Try one out on your next fishing trip.

First Basketball Clinic Success Beyond Hopes

"Success breeds success," says Morgan Wootten. And he should know. He's one of the most successful secondary school basketball coaches in the United States. This past weekend he was a lecturer at the first ever, Belleville Basketball Clinic.

With the success of local secondary school teams in Ontario playdowns this year ( three senior central-Ontario champs and one all-Ontario title) the clinic had to be successful.

Almost 130 coaches from various parts of the province registered for the weekend affair.

"We felt if we had 75 turnout we'd be happy," said one of the clinic's directors, Jim Murray, "and if we had 100 we'd be doing great.

"But a turnout like this is just fabulous," he said.

The three day event featured Wootten, Dr. Paul Thomas, the president of the National Association of Basketball Coaches of Canada and the coach of the Canadian Olympic team, Bob O'Billovich, coach of the University of Ottawa Gee-Gees, and Bill Scanlon, head coach at Union College Schenectady, New York.

BOB O'BILLOVICH

Wootten, in 19 years of coaching at DeMatha Catholic High School in Maryland, has racked up 502 wins and suffered only 75 setbacks. He has been named Coach of the Year seven times in the Washington area and while DeMatha only has an enrollment of 740 he has guided his teams to 37 major championships and five national Catholic championships. The little school has been number one in the Washington D.C. area 13 of the last 15 years.

Wootten concentrated on the fundamentals of basketball and how important knowing the very basics of game was to building a championship program.

"I've had a lot of success," said Wootten, "I'd certainly have to attribute it to some very talented players and the fact that we have made a tradition of winning."

His appraisal was far to modest. Once Wootten began his lectures it was easy to see why the tiny school had overwhelmed the basketball scene in the Washington area for so many years.

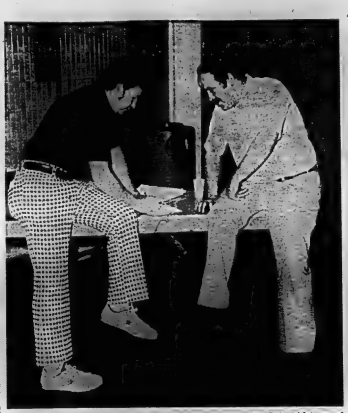
But the Washington coach wasn't alone in making impressive presentations at the clinic. Thomas, O'Billovich and Scanlon were all just (highly) informative.

All the clinicians had one thing in common. They stressed strong defences. O'Billovich and the Gee-Gees were the number one defensive university team in Canada in 1974.

Scanlon and Union College were ranked number two defensively in the United States in 1974. The College has an enrollment of only 1800, but through strong defence, compiled a 20-4 won-lost record.

The clinic, run by Murray, from Quinte, Bill Miller, from Belleville Collegiate, and Pat Carty and Doug Irvine from Centennial, was sanctioned by the Bay of Quinte Secondary School Athletic Association in College.

Bill Scanlon (right) head coach at Union College in Schenectady, New York, discusses some of the finer points of defending against the wheel offence with Port Hope's, Eric Rose. Scanlon, though his small college doesn't give any athletic scholarship, created a defence that was ranked fourth in the nation in 1974. He was one of the lecturers at the Belleville Basketball Clinic held at Loyalist College on the weekend.



Pat Carty (right), one of the Belleville Basketball Clinic's directors, watches with great interest as Morgan Wootten, one of four clinicians at the weekend event, gets his point across on paper. The clinic, conducted by the Bay of Quinte Basketball Coaches Association under the sanction of the Bay of Quinte Secondary School Athletic Association at Loyalist College, was the first ever for the city.

Rodgers Wins Marathon

A Little Water Goes a Long Way

BOSTON (AP) — Will Rodgers, the Boston Marathon's new record-holder, is a stylish long-distance runner with a most unorthodox habit.

He makes brief stops to quench his thirst in a race, then picks up where he leaves off.

"I can't run and drink at the same time," Rodgers said Monday after dominating a field of more than 2,000 in the annual Patriot's Day race.

Despite stopping three times to accept drinks of water—and once to tie the lace on his right shoe—the 27-year-old Boston College graduate student ran one of the fastest marathons in history, covering the 26 miles, 385 yards from Hopkinton to Boston in two hours, nine minutes and 55 seconds.

That broke the 1970 record of 2:10.30 set by England's Ron Hill in rain and cold. There is no official world record for marathons because of variations in courses. One of the fastest, though, was 2:08.33 by Derek Clayton of Australia in 1969.

Although he finished 14th in this marathon last year and later won the national 20-kilometre championship, Rodgers was a virtual unknown among many of the top distance runners from all sections of the world.

Former Canadian champion Jerome Drayton, third in 1974, tried to keep up with Rodgers but faded and finally gave up the chase with two miles to go. Steve Hoag, 28, of Minneapolis took second with a late spirt, finishing in 2:11.54, 11 seconds ahead of Tom Fleming of Bloomfield, N.J.

Tom Howard, the current Canadian champion from Vancouver, was fourth in 2:12.20 with Hill right behind. Hill, 36, was not a contender after the early stages of the race.

Andy Bergbaum of Sarnia, Ont., was 10th in 2:16.15. Names of only the top 100 finishers in the field of 2,400 were made available and the fate of many Canadians entered was not known.

Germany's Liane Winter easily won the women's race with a race in 2:42.54. Kathy Switzer of New York was runner-up in the women's field of 56.

Things Look Up For Padres' Lefty

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

This season the breaks are going Randy Jones' way.

While losing a major league-leading 22 games for San Diego Padres last season, Jones was shut out seven times.

The Padres provided him only one run in four National League baseball losses and two runs in six others—a whopping total of 16 runs in 17 setbacks.

"I don't even like to think about last year," Jones said Monday night after running his 1975 record to 2-0 with a six-hit, 4-0 whitewash of Houston Astros.

In three starts, the 25-year-old lefty has allowed only 12 hits and one unearned run in 25 innings.

In Monday's other National League games, Los Angeles Dodgers edged Atlanta Braves 3-1 and San Francisco Giants topped Cincinnati Reds 4-3 in 10 innings.

Twins Outlast Williams' Angels

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Luis Gomez threw his helmet in anger Monday night, and the only thing that was Dick Williams' good homer.

And the eighth runs Minnesota Twins scored against his California Angels didn't do his disposition any good, either.

Larry Hisle knocked in four of the runs with a homer and a triple and Rod Carew hit a tie-breaking sacrifice fly in the eighth inning to carry the Twins past the Angels 6-4 in an American League baseball game.

In the only other American League games, New York Yankees beat Boston Red Sox 13-1 and Oakland A's defeated Texas Rangers 11-6.

Rain washed out games at Milwaukee between the Brewers and Baltimore Orioles and at Chicago between the White Sox and Kansas City Royals.

Bears Tie Final Set

GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — Smiths Falls Bears scored a 4-3 comeback win Monday over Guelph Biltmores to tie their best-of-seven Eastern Centennial Cup final at one game each.

Trailing 3-0 early in the second period, the Bears shaved the margin to 3-2 by the end of the period and scored two unanswered goals in the third period for the victory before a crowd of 3,137.

Dave Dirle, who scored all three Bears' goals in an 8-3 opening game loss, scored twice Monday. Single goals were by Barry Kerfoot and Darryl Traer.

Wally Keating, with two, and Dave Kennedy replied for Guelph.

The Biltmores outshot the Bears 34-33 and drew 13 of the 18 minutes in penalties.

The next three games are in Ottawa on Thursday, Friday and Sunday.

A Borrowed Stick Does the Trick

By GLENN COLE
The Canadian Press

Dale MacKenzie borrowed a stick from his team captain Monday night and it worked wonders.

MacKenzie, a second-team all-star in the National Lacrosse League last season, used John Davis' stick to score three goals and help Montreal Quebecois to a 16-13 win over Philadelphia.

Meanwhile, the NLL enjoyed a successful debut in Quebec City as 14,134 fans saw the Carribous drop a 14-12 decision to Boston Bulls.

"John gave me a leather stick," MacKenzie explained. "Before, I was using a nylon stick. The leather gives you more control. . . I was more confident shooting with it."

Montreal snapped a nine game losing string against the Wings with the win. The Quebecois were 0-3 against Philadelphia last season and dropped a 13-13 verdict last week in Philadelphia.

Michel Blanchard also had three goals to help pace the Quebecois offence with Davis, Sandy Lynch and Billie Nunn each adding two. Gary Bressany, Gord Fl'g'd, Jim Lynch and Gerry Pinder got the others.

Terry Lloyd scored three goals for Philadelphia with Zeny Lipinski, Larry Lloyd and Jim Wasson each getting two. Jim Rickbell, John Grant, Ross Jones and Peter Guerin added singles.

A crowd of 9,984 saw Montreal fire 53 shots at Philadelphia goaltender Marcus Platt. The Wings had 67 drives at Montreal's Dave Evans.

At Quebec, the Bulls moved into a 5-3 lead before the Caribous rallied to tie the score at 10-10 in the second. Bot Boston spoiled the Caribous' home opener, outscoring Quebec 4-2 in the final 30 minutes.

Joe McCrea's second of three goals at 15:07 of the third period broke a 12-12 tie and the Bulls went on to the win. Chris Hall had four goals for the Bulls with Brian Thompson and Duffy McCarthy getting two. Irvin Thompson, Al Lewbeskie, Bill Squires were the other Boston scorers.

Brian Evans, Pat Diller, Paul Cioci and Ken Alexander each had two goals for Quebec with Dave Durante, Glen Mostier, John MacDonald and Mike Smith adding the others.

Tonight, Maryland Arrows are at home to Long Island Thunderbirds.

The Arrows completed a deal with Montreal Monday, acquiring centre Joe Todd in exchange for forward Nick Dobrindos, who did not play in Monday's game.

This is no year to fool around.

Claims of price reductions can be misleading.

Before you choose any compact car, compare. Compare price, and what you're getting for that price, and you'll see that Plymouth Valiant and Dodge Dart give you a lot for your dollar.

Over the past 16 years, Chrysler compacts have earned a reputation for giving Canadians what they're looking for. A reputation that's paid off by helping make Plymouth Valiant and Dodge Dart Canada's most popular compact cars.

Five solid reasons to trust us with your compact car dollar.

1. Slant Six Engine
Proven to be one of the toughest, most economical engines ever put in our passenger cars. No other compact has it. Plymouth Valiant and Dodge Dart give this gas miser to you standard.

2. Plenty of Room Inside
We may describe the outside as compact, but inside the word is big. Big enough for five adults to travel in comfort, and with a trunk that should comfortably handle all their gear. Plymouth Valiant and Dodge Dart have more trunk space than a lot of full size cars.

3. Electronic Ignition System
No points, no condenser, this ignition system is practically maintenance free. You can count on sure starts in any weather with the electronic ignition system that comes built right into every Plymouth Valiant and Dodge Dart.

4. No Special Gas Needed
Plymouth Valiant and Dodge Dart engines are designed to run on any gas, leaded or unleaded. So there's no frantic searching for the right gas pump.

5. The Chrysler Warranty
Like every 1975 Chrysler passenger car, Plymouth Valiant and Dodge Dart are well covered by a 12 month parts and labour warranty that puts no limit on mileage. (Taxis and police cars excepted). So drive as far as you like.

The first year's on us.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Wednesday, April 23

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Usually you have your direction and target firmly in mind and head straight for it. Today, however, you're apt to be unproductive tangents.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You tend to rationalize your responsibilities today; rather than meet them head-on. You'll end up making more work for yourself later.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20) Lady Luck can't be relied upon to help you out of tight spots. Don't take unnecessary chances or risks today.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't be overly influenced by an outsider's opinion regarding a family matter. Settle things within your close circle.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You have a tendency today to embellish facts a bit. Don't tell "fish stories" you'll later have reason to choke on.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Lock up the piggy bank and throw away the key for the next couple days, or you'll try to tap it for silly expenditures.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You may find yourself in a position where you must make a compromise it might be difficult to keep. Best you level with the other party now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't you're depending on today will transpire as you want. Be sure to look at the last minute, using a flimsy excuse.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't let your generous nature be taken advantage of by a friend who has been led to believe you have more resources than you really do.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be sure a goal you're actively seeking is worth the effort and the type of tactics you'll have to use to gain it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) To impress another today, you're likely to pretend to be an expert in something about which you know very little. It's best to be honest.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) The next few days don't rely upon the resources of others for your needs. Such aid won't be forthcoming at this time.

Win at Bridge

Play makes dull hand lively

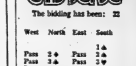
By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

At first glance today's hand presents little of interest. The defence starts with two heart tricks. Later on, declarer will lose a trump finesse, but win a club finesse and wind up making exactly 10 tricks.

Now let's watch the same hand played in a very tough rubber bridge game. East wins the first heart and promptly shifts to his singleton diamond. South wins in his own hand and tries the spade finesse. Call will also win his king, lead a heart to his partner and cull a diamond for the fourth trick. If South refuses the trump finesse and plays low and one spade, the same thing happens since East holds three spades.

Nevertheless the expert declarer can handle this defense. He assumes that East holds both black kings for his opening bid so he wins the diamond in dummy and takes a club finesse. When that loses, his ace of clubs, enters dummy with the ace of trumps, leads dummy's jack of clubs and discards his losing heart on East's high club.

This bear-on-loser play leaves East all ready to ruff a diamond, but with no way to get the lead over to his partner.



The bidding has been: 22

| West | North | East | South |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pass | 3♦ | Pass | 3♠ |
| Pass | 4♠ | Pass | 5♣ |
| Pass | 5♠ | Pass | 7 |
| You, South, hold: ♠KQJ85 ♥A3 ♦K4 ♣QJ87 | | | |

What do you do now?

A — Just bid four spades. When you bid three hearts you were showing all the slages of life your hand has warranted up to now.

TODAY'S QUESTION

You do bid four spades and your partner bids five hearts. What do you do now?

Sets Up University

MILTON KEYNES, England (CP) — Iran is buying more than $200,000 worth of British know-how by placing a contract with Britain's Open University to help set up the Free University of Iran. Like the Open University, it will teach by correspondence and broadcasting. This is the first major contract by the Open University's consultancy service, which was launched last November to sell "distance-teaching" methods overseas.

To Your Good Health

Low Blood Sugar Needs Treatment

By G. C. HOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I was told I had hypoglycemia. I was given cerve pills and advised I would end up in a hospital for a nervous breakdown in a year. That was three years ago, but I have been told it is natural for some people like myself to pass out, be moody, etc.

I dread seeing another doctor only to be treated like a neurotic housewife, who is making a big deal out of a little low blood sugar. I do not want to be doped up on pills, but I want to be helped.

I haven't seen a doctor for two years. I am 25 years old—Mrs. C. R.

It is unfortunate that you are discouraged from seeking the help you obviously need. You are going to have to see a doctor again. May we suggest one later?

The "big deal" out of a "little low blood sugar" can be big enough to make an otherwise normal person act like a psychotic.

There are several possible causes for your hypoglycemia. Some doctors contend that too much can be made of the matter of functional hypoglycemia, and I must say I am inclined to agree. For one thing, it can mimic symptoms of other disorders — hypothyroidism and anemia are examples.

Nevertheless, we cannot ignore symptoms and treatment. ailment, which is what hypoglycemia is. If appropriate diagnostic tests show the condition present, relief can be obtained, and it could change your life. So you see why you should not be discouraged or avoid getting treatment.

Taking a bit of candy will raise your blood sugar (as you mention in your letter, which it could not print is its only way), but this is only a temporary measure and does not get at the cause. It is not accepted as a treatment. Also, patients with a mild low blood sugar condition do tend to be of the nervous type, as I indicated earlier.

Thus a mild variety is often on a diet. But that doesn't mean you would be "doped up on pills" at all.

The sooner you get this notion out of your head the better off you will be. Intelligent use of drugs in alleviating the nervous symptoms that often accompany such conditions as hypoglycemia is quite in order, especially when you consider the alternatives.

The sooner your hypoglycemia has been evaluated, the sooner you will be on the road to feeling well, both physically and mentally. A doctor, appraisal of your situation, may want to prescribe a diet high in protein and low in carbohydrates (starches). This would also involve frequent feedings, as many as six a day.

I fee if you can restore your faith in your doctor. Your present attitude could be self-defeating.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I need your help to settle an argument. My in-laws say there is no way you can get lead poisoning from a pencil. No matter what we say they still let my two-year-old niece play with them.

Could you tell us whether or not she can get lead poisoning from chewing on a pencil?—K.

Pencil "lead" is not lead at all. It's carbon. The greater danger of poisoning would result from chewing on the pencil's painted surface, if that were the case.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Will you please settle this? Is anything lost by draining off the liquid in which vegetables are canned?—Mrs. R. W.

Yes. It has been estimated that as much as a third of the water-soluble vitamins and minerals are lost when the liquid is drained off. Use as little water as possible when cooking fresh vegetables.

New Diving Techniques Developed

LONDON (CP) — As North Sea exploration ventures farther offshore, new diving techniques are being developed to take men to work more than 600 feet under the sea.

Siebe Gorman, one of europe's best-known underwater equipment specialists, has developed details of equipment which combines deep-diving and a built-in rescue system which can support life on the seabed for several days. The system, carried aboard ship, was developed and built in two years for an overseas navy and cost more than £200,000 ($500,000).

The unit weighs 72 tons and consists of a deck-mounted decompression chamber which can be fitted to a submersible for normal diving operations or linked with a submarine rescue module.

Carrying two divers and an accompanying submersible is powered over the stern of the ship and fed with gas and electricity through an "umbilical cable." The submarine rescue unit can be fixed to the bottom of the submersible and has a separate hydraulic winch for lowering the chamber on "D" or submarine escape hatch.

Siebe Gorman describes the unit as "probably the most hyperbaric diving complex in the world" and says it can be specially made to suit customers. With 100 companies in the United Kingdom and 16 overseas, Siebe Gorman began manufacturing diving equipment 155 years ago.

Barriage Team Loses in Final

BRAMPTON (Special) — Making their fourth tournament start and second of the day, Belleville Barriage's dropped a 3-0 decision to Tavistock Sunday in the C Major final of the annual Women's Dominion Hockey Tournament here.

It was the first loss of the tournament for the Belleville team which earlier Sunday got by Little Britain 3-1 to advance to the final. Tavistock got a bye in the finals.

A Barriage team spokesman said the Belleville squad saved its best hockey of the season for the tournament.

With goalie Karen Nokes playing a precipitous role, Barriage's made an excellent showing.

In the semi-final, Belleville got goals from Carol McFarlane, Geraldine Westerveld and Sue Fobert to stop Little Britain.

Saturday night, Barriage's upset Ove Jets 3-1 on Sandra Clam's goal which came on a contest of penalty shots when the teams finished regulation time in a 1-1 tie.

Carol McFarlane combined with Joanne Tilmarsh and Sue Morton for the other Belleville goal.

Matched against Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania in their first tourney start, the Belleville girls scored a 8-1 win.

Looking after the Barriage scoring were Sue Fobert, Carol McFarlane, Sue Morton, Joyce McFarlane and Joanne Tilmarsh.

Mississauga Indians won the A section while Agincourt took B honors; Niagara Falls, Ont., C; London, midget; Brampton, bantam and peewee.

League and Playoff Champs

League and Playoff Champs — Custom Auto Body captured first place during the regular Trenton Broomball League season and then added the playoff title to its honors. Members of the team, from the left, are, front row, Ron Cameron, Brian Hadwen and Grant Drummell. Second row, Gary Hadwen, Stan Brown and Ron Clement. Rear row, Roger McAdams, Dan Wannamaker, Henry Sonneveld and Larry Wannamaker. Other member of the championship team are Rob Robertson, Dana Veilleitz and Jim Clement.

Brighton School Repeats

East Northumberland Secondary School (ENSS) Brighton made it two wins in a row in the eighth annual Belleville to Brighton run, Monday, and set a course record in the process.

Sparked by Dave Peckham's sizzling pace in the third leg of the 12 and one-half mile joint, ENSS finished in a time of one hour, six minutes and 30 seconds.

Peckham's bitrut of speed wiped out a Trenton High School lead and put the Brighton team in front to stay.

Trenton had to be content with second place, 16 seconds behind the winners.

Oshawa Catholic High School was third; Perth High School, fourth and Belleville Collegiate Institute's A team, fifth.

Thirty-three schools, eight up from last year, were represented in the event.

Wayne Williams ran the first leg for ENSS, followed by Ron Fellster, Peckham and Bill O'Sullivan.

Trenton's B entry took sixth place; Thomas A. Stewart of Peterborough was seventh; ENSS B, eighth; Centennial Secondary School, ninth, and Perth B, 10th.

JOHNSON RECALLED

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Baltimore Orioles of the American League recalled relief pitcher Dave Johnson from their Rochester farm club in the Triple A International League Monday. The Orioles had two vacancies on their roster with catcher Andy Etchebarren going on the disabled list and catcher-first baseman Earl Williams being traded to Atlanta Braves.

Papineau Lake Provincial Park Postponed but Foes Are Wary

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Plans to establish a provincial park on Papineau Lake have been suspended — but opponents still will keep a wary eye on any future development.

Belleville spokesman for Papineau's cottagers said today his group was not "being lulled" by postponement of the plan to create a 600-acre provincial park on the lake in northeast Hastings County.

Deferral of the controversial development was announced Tuesday by Resources Minister Leo Bernier.

The minister said budget restraints on his department's land acquisition and development program had caused an "indefinite postponement" of plans for Papineau.

Harold Carruthers, Belleville antique dealer who has been a spokesman for the Papineau cottagers, combatting the proposal for more than a year, said the government also was "getting rid of a political hot potato".

"Politicians have a habit of pigeon-holing things when they're hot and bringing them out when they're cooled off," he said.

The cottagers' group — which earlier this year retained a lawyer — has raised a "substantial sum" to fight the scheme, Mr. Carruthers said.

"And we will be prepared to use that if it comes up again."

While happy with the postponement, cottagers would have been more satisfied if the minister had announced reconsideration of the site, he said.

The cottagers have proposed the province leave Papineau undisturbed and, instead, develop a park on Crown-owned land on Bark Lake further north. Mr. Carruthers said a ministry representative who was shown the Bark Lake site last fall agreed it "had a lot more to commend it" than the Papineau area.

Land acquisition alone, claimed Mr. Carruthers, would have cost the government about $1-million on Papineau.

The council of the local Bangor-Wicklow-McClure township—also voted 33-2 to ask for an alternative site for the development. But Hastings County council had no opposition to the move.

When he announced approval of the development last August, Mr. Bernier said opposition from cottagers to the park proposal was "untenable" and not in "the best interests of the citizens of the province as a whole".

PM Orders Inquiry Into Big Business

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau announced Tuesday a wide-ranging federal inquiry to check the growing power of business corporations.

The royal commission is to inquire into corporate growth, mergers and acquisitions and will report back to the government in about a year, Mr. Trudeau said.

The commission is to recommend legal measures for protecting the public against abuses by big business, Mr. Trudeau said.

Its chairman will be Robert Bryce, a veteran civil servant and former deputy finance minister. He now is an adviser on federal-provincial relations in the prime minister's office. Two other commissioners are to be appointed later.

Mr. Trudeau said the decision to appoint a royal commission resulted partly from the Lakeview bid made late last month by Power Corp. of Canada Ltd. based in Montreal, for Argus Corp. Ltd. of Toronto. Both have extensive shareholdings in varied industries and together they would form a business empire with interests ranging from food retailing to publishing, insurance and transportation.

The government already regulates corporate activities through the Combines Investigation Act. It makes it an offence for companies to combine to restrict trade, but is generally ineffective against large conglomerates and has widely spread holdings in several industries.

In a telephone interview, Mr. Bryce said the the main thing, will be to look at the conglomerates because they mainly fall outside the regulation of the Combines Act.

Mr. Trudeau said the government will not ask for a suspension of the Lakeview takeover bid while the inquiry is conducted. He said he is neutral about the proposed deal, which is being opposed by Argus shareholders.

Carruthers, part one of a two-part bill to amend the Combines Investigation Act is before a Commons finance committee. It is intended to strengthen existing prohibitions against misleading advertising. But a second stage, dealing with mergers, monopolies and interlocking directorships, is to be introduced later.

Former corporate affairs minister Herb Gray, who introduced the current version of the first-stage amendments in Parliament in late 1973, said the commission may become a delaying tactic, preventing the second stage from being introduced. He fears the government will have to consider the commission's report and that will set the bill back.

But Corporate Affairs Minister Andre Ouellet said the government will proceed with the current proposals.

If the commission report recommends further amendments, they can be introduced into the stage two amendments at any time during parliamentary consideration, he said.

Ed Broadbent, New Democratic parliamentary leader, was told by Mr. Trudeau that the banking industry will be included in the inquiry.

A spokesman for the Canadian Manufacturers Association said in a telephone interview from Toronto that the commission terms of reference contradict views expressed by federal and provincial government representatives that business should maintain production and industrial operations, combining for efficiency.

Safety Techniques Explained

BP Oils Ltd. staged a fire-fighting demonstration at its South Front Street bulk station Tuesday night, giving tank truck drivers first-hand opportunity to learn extinguisher operation. The demonstration was handled by Levitt Safety of Toronto. The show — sponsored locally by Harvey Murray, manager of the bulk station — attracted BP representatives from as far away as Picton and Kingston.

Demolition Nears End At Century Place Site

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Demolition work at the site for the proposed Century Place building at the corner of Front and Bridge Sts. should be complete by the end of the month.

Ray Finkle, principal of United Rigging — demolition crew on the job — said Tuesday breaking arrangements with one building tenant had delayed demolition for two weeks. He said with the two-week delay the original completion date of mid-April is now extended to the end of April.

Attention was drawn to the site this past week with demolition apparently slowed.

Mr. Finkle explained crews had to be taken off the Century Place project to work at Union Carbide in a heavy machinery re-location project. With this job completed, crews were back at full strength on the downtown project Tuesday.

"We'll get it down in time," said Mr. Finkle. "There's no problem."

Large sections of brick wall fell the wrong way Tuesday night during demolition, flattening protective pedestrian walkways on Front and Bridge Streets.

Mr. Finkle said Tuesday night "I wasn't sure the brick would fall to the sidewalk side rather than to the building's gutted interior but I had more than a good bunch I would happen and I had the area cleared just in case. Shops were closed at the time.

At the time, city police were stationed at the demolition site, controlling traffic and the occasional bystander.

In the meantime, Century Place owners are backing for tenants to fill the five-floor commercial-office complex expected to cost approximately $5-million for construction.

Bill Wills, a principal in the development company, told The Intelligencer Tuesday, "until the building is full, there is always a worry about getting tenants".

The floor plan layout is flexible and can be tailor's to individual tenant needs to some extent, the complex as expected to house about 20 retail outlets on the first two floors. The third floor is already spoken for by Bell Telephone, with the upper two floors open for office space.

Mr. Wills said "a number of interesting prospects are negotiating with Century Place".

July of 1976 is the expected completion date of the project.

Judge Named to Probe Air Canada Finances

OTTAWA (CP) — An inquiry into a $100,000 Air Canada payment to a Montreal travel agent likely will not be limited to that irregular deal, Transport Minister Jean Marchand said Tuesday.

Ben Wicks

"Get me the Prime Minister, and hurry!"

Mr. Justice Willard Estey of the Ontario Supreme Court appeal division was named to conduct the one-man inquiry that Mr. Marchand said likely will be open to the public.

Mr. Marchand told the Commons the inquiry also might examine a possible conflict of interest involving purchase of a Barbados villa by former Air Canada vice-president Yves Menard.

Mr. Menard, who authorized the $100,000 deal with travel agent B. Y. McGregor, recently resigned after allegations that he bought the villa with secret commissions made later by the airline to use it as a tourist resort.

Outside the House, Mr. Marchand said Mr. Justice Estey may look at "the whole financial structure of the organization to see if we have all the control we need" over Air Canada spending.

Congress Considers Evacuation Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — As Congress nears decisions on whether additional aid can be used to help evacuate Americans from South Vietnam, officials say U.S. diplomatic efforts in that country have begun from the ravages of war.

If a ceasefire and a political settlement can be achieved before Hanoi's troops enter Saigon, U.S. officials say they are confident that many thousands of South Vietnamese can be evacuated.

Up to 131,000 Indochina refugees could be permitted to enter the U.S. under emergency steps approved by Attorney-General Edward Levi.

The total includes up to 75,000 Vietnamese who are close relatives of U.S. citizens or permanent U.S. residents, up to 50,000 Vietnamese who would be endangered as a Communist takeover of South Vietnam, i.e. 800 Cambodian refugees now in Thailand and 5,000 Cambodian diplomats and their dependents now in third countries.

In addition, there are another 2,000 Vietnamese who are relatives of U.S. citizens and who already have filed their petitions for American visas. They would be permitted to enter under existing procedures.

Officials in the Los Angeles area were making plans for the possible arrival of thousands of refugees.

Meanwhile, the Senate and House of representatives were expected to vote later today on separate bills authorizing U.S. troops to be used, if necessary, in the evacuation and for humanitarian aid to the Saigon government.

Saigon's Truce Bid Is Scorned

SAIGON (AP) — President Tran Van Huong's peace plea of five two days ago by the resignation of Nguyen Van Thieu, made a bid for negotiated peace today. The Communists scorned his offer as their forces completed their conquest of another province, and the government appeared to be abandoning another one.

Huong renewed a proposal made by Thieu for an immediate ceasefire and the resumption of negotiations for formation of the coalition National Council for Reconciliation called for in the Paris peace agreement.

"The proposal fools no one and will hardly help the Americans out of their defeat," said the Viet Cong delegation in Saigon. It said Huong was "only a puppet and part of a game manipulated by the Americans to keep the Thieu clique without Thieu, continue a policy of neocolonialism, sabotage the Paris agreement, and interfere with the right to self-determination of the South Vietnamese people."

The Communists made no proposals.

The Saigon command said the South Vietnamese army had withdrawn from Tuy Hoa, capital of Binh Tuy province on the coast 75 miles east of Saigon.

Heavy fighting also was reported south of Tay Ninh, and field reports indicated the government was preparing to move from that provincial capital 55 miles northwest of Saigon to a new defence line at Go Dau Ha, 35 miles from Saigon.

Binh Tuy was the 21st of South Vietnam's 44 provinces lost this year to the Communists. The government now is left with Saigon; Bien Hoa, Binh Duong and Tay Ninh to the north of the capital, and the Mekong Delta to the south.

But in the delta fighting was raging in Long An province, and field reports said government positions had been overrun along Highway 4, the main highway through the region.

Letter Carriers Work Today As Sign of Their Good Faith

OTTAWA (CP) — Letter carriers will be back on the job today as a "sign of good faith in bargaining" Roger Decarie, president of the Letter Carriers' Union, said Tuesday night.

Mr. Decarie said the selective strike action of the union, which began Monday, would be called off "for one day only" while post office and union negotiators held a "very important meeting."

While Mr. Decarie did not elaborate on what he expected to happen at the meeting, Postmaster-General Bryce Mackasey Tuesday asked the union president to appeal to his workers to return to their jobs rather than hinder a possible settlement with further strike action.

Mr. Mackasey said the two sides were very close to agreement on the major issues of length of agreement and a cost-of-living formula.

The union has asked for a cost-of-living clause to protect wages from inflation and Mr. Mackasey has said the government team accepts the concept in principle.

But the government has resisted such clauses in previous contract talks. The only cost-of-living clause given so far to federal employees was to information service officers in an arbitration award.

About 4,000 of the 18,000 union members were on strike Tuesday, halting mail delivery and pickup in many regions with the Atlantic area the hardest hit.

Letter carriers were on strike in St. John's, Saint Pearl and Stephenville, Nfld.; Halifax, Sydney and Dartmouth, N.S.; Saint John, Moncton, Fr'n riston and Bathurst, N.B.; Summerside P.E.I. and parts of Quebec.

The selective strike action also hit Edmonton and Vancouver in the west while mail men in London and Thunder Bay, Ont., were also off the job.

Volunteers Wanted

STIRLING — Fred Brandt, who is overseeing construction of a house in Stirling to be sold to raise funds for a new arena, can use some help from young people for installing such things as insulation, plywood, and windows.

Doug Patterson, of Patterson Men's Wear, will act as a clearing house for volunteers. The idea is that Mr. Brandt will let Mr. Patterson know his requirements, and when he needs the help in the evening, Mr. Patterson will have it arranged for him so time will not be lost trying to round up assistance.

Aircraft's Return Ends 10-year Peacekeeping Role

By AL ZARAS
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — A 10-year Canadian air contribution to the United Nations Military Observer Group in India-Pakistan officially ended Tuesday with the arrival at CFB Trenton of a twin-engine Otter which until March 31 had been stationed at Rawalpindi, Pakistan.

After a 14-stop, 76-hour flight half way around the world, the three - man crew stepped from the plane to be welcomed home by base commander Col. Jack Henry and Air Transport Command commander Brig.-Gen. Robert Husch.

The 434 Squadron Otter is being replaced in the Far East by a Caribou aircraft supplied by Australia. The five other members of the Canadian Otter crew returned to Canada by commercial aircraft.

Other commander Maj. Tom Copeland said Tuesday during his stay with the UN observer group, the aircraft was used to shuttle military observers from station to station to oversee the ceasefire between India and Pakistan. Flights were made into the foothills of the Himalayan Mountains and into New Delhi, India.

Still along the Kashmir border are 51 military observers, nine of which are Canadian.

Maj. Copeland said the people in the area are pleased and the situation is not warlike. The fact that, when another twin-engine Otter was destroyed on the ground in a strafing attack at Islamabad airport, was in fact.

Now there is no indication of aggression on either side, said Maj. Copeland, at the end of with the observer group nine months past the nine month tour of duty.

Eleven countries oversee the ceasefire between India and Pakistan.

During the flight home, said Maj. Copeland, the aircraft experienced no trouble and only a minor mechanical difficulty when a stop-over in Lahr, West Germany.

The aircraft, painted yellow with United Nations colored in large blue letters along the fuselage, will be flown to Edmonton for use in a search and rescue squadron.
